STEER, Inc., Missionary Roundup Dates Scheduled

Utilizing a Western round-up theme, STEER, Inc., will hold a six-day missionary festival September 7-12 at the National Guard armory in Thief River Falls. More than a dozen missionaries, representing various mission boards and local denominational church missionary organizations, will attend the sessions to tell the story of their work.

Dr. Don Hillis, associate director of the Evangelical Alliance mission, a missionary veteran with 25 years of service centered largely in India, will bring a missionary and deeper life message each week-day evening. Featured musicians will be the Singing Sheppards of Kentucky.

On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, September 8, 9 and 10, an informal morning meditation hour will be held at 10:15 a.m. Afternoon coffee fellowship hours will be held in farm and town homes within a 50-mile radius of the city and children's missionary meetings will be held at 4 p. m. each afternoon at the armory.

A farm focus missionary barbecue will be held at 6 p.m. Saturday, September 11, featuring local and visiting farmers and ranchers. Dr. Bob Finley, president of International Students, Inc., a missionary organization headquartered in Washington, D.C., will be the speaker. Participating farmers and ranchers in the STEER program are expected from all the midwest states.

Dr. Finley, who has made two trips around the world and witnessed communist revolutions, the Arab-Jewish war in Palestine and Hindu-Moslem riots in India, will speak at the finale of the roundup at 3 p.m. Sunday, September 12. At this session the missionaries at the roundup will appear in native costumes of the countries where they serve.

STEER, Inc., is a unique missionary enterprise, founded in 1956 as a non-profit organization by Rev. E. V. Folden, the director, with headquarters in Thief River Falls. It is dedicated to (1) helping supply funds for missionary organizations through a cattle-raising program, (2) symbolizing God's interest in daily occupation and activities of individuals, and (3) demonstrating unity among all Christians.

Starting with five missionary societies receiving benefits from 14 steer units the first year, STEER, Inc., is now associated with over 75 societies with 880 donated units for placement with farmers. Over $156,500 has been channeled to missions, with approximately 2,500 animals having been handled by farmers and ranchers in 30 states.

Similar organizations have been established in Canada, South America, Australia and India. Rodney Brodin of Thief River Falls is chairman of the board of directors.

The public is invited to all meetings of the roundup, which will begin at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, as well as to the afternoon and weekend activities. Visiting missionaries will be speaking in various local and surrounding community churches Sunday morning and evening.

Farmers May Get Payment Without Seeding Acreage

Pennington County ASCS office announced today that producers who participated in the 1965 wheat and or the 1965 feed grain programs will be entitled to certificate payments and or price support payments if climatic conditions prevented them from carrying out their intended seeding operations.

The office manager, Patrick W. Culkins, said that there were certain requirements that must exist on the farm in order to be eligible for payments. Some of these are: (1) Has the normal conserving acreage been maintained on the farm? (2) Have the diverted acreage requirements been met? (3) Has the intended wheat or feed grain acreage been used for other than a price-supported crop?

Culkins said that producers who have signed up in either or both programs in 1965 but were unable to seed their intended acreage should visit the county committee as soon as possible.

Viking School To Open Tuesday

School will open for the 1965-66 term at Viking Tuesday at 9 a.m., according to David Lunde, principal. No hot lunch will be served the first day as classes will close at 11 a.m. and pupils returned to their homes. Wednesday will be the first full day of school with lunch served. Bus routes will be similar to those of last year.

Hot lunch fees remain the same —$3 for a ticket of 20 meals or 15 cents per meal. Returning teachers are David Lunde, principal and teacher of grades 7 and 8; Arvid Wallestad, grades 5 and 6; and Mrs. Gloria Ness, music. Three new teachers added this year are Mrs. Vernon Scholin, grade 1; Mrs. Wallace Boman, grade 2; and Mrs. Norman Voldness, grades 3 and 4. Mrs. Mable Tostrup will serve as cook. Bus drivers are Ernest Melvie, Jr., James Tostrup and Arnold Skjerven. Robert Anderson is Custodian.

Saddle Stolen At Fairgrounds

Larceny of a brown leather saddle from the fairgrounds horse barn was reported Monday to the Thief River Falls police department by Mrs. Roy Lee. The saddle is valued at $85.

Curfew Siren Is Again Activated

Beginning Monday evening the fire siren in Thief River Falls will again sound the 10 p. m. curfew for city youngsters under 17 years of age, according to Capt. Alan Noreen of the local police department. The curfew siren will be sounded every evening and children are to be in their homes or in the company of their parents or guardians by that hour.

Thief River Falls city council has instructed the police department to provide more strict enforcement of the city's curfew ordinance. Emphasis on the curfew will be further provided by the starting of school on Tuesday. For special events the Mayor may extend the curfew to midnight, but only those persons attending the events will be granted the extension.

Children apprehended by the police department for curfew violation will be brought to the police department. Their parents or guardians will then be notified and asked to call for them.

City ordinance 27.119 provides that, "It shall be unlawful for any minor under the age of 17 years to loiter, idle, wander, stroll or play in or upon the public streets, highways, roads, alleys, parks, playgrounds or other public grounds, public places and public buildings, places of amusement and entertainment, or vacant lots between the hours of ten o'clock (10:00) p. m. of any day and five o'clock (5:00) a.m. of the following day...."

Exceptions are when the child is in the company of his parent or guardian or on an emergency errand or legitimate business directed by his or her parent or guardian. Parents themselves are responsible under the ordinance, since section 27.120 provides it is unlawful for the parents or guardians to permit the violations of curfew mentioned above.

Violation of curfew is a misdemeanor. Children violating the curfew, and parents permitting their children to violate the curfew, may be subject to a maximum penalty of a $100 fine or 90 days in jail. Since children violating the curfew would be juveniles, their cases would be handled in juvenile court.

Arrangements have been made with the fire department for sounding the curfew siren, as provided in the ordinance, "...to fully warn the children upon the streets, alleys or public places in said city to depart to their respective homes."

Newfolden Pupils Register Friday, Report Tuesday

School will begin for the 1965-66 academic year Tuesday at the Newfolden community school. Classes will begin at 8:45 a.m. for secondary students and 9 a.m. for elementary pupils. Bus transportation and lunch service will be provided as of the opening day.

Wayne A. Ulferts, a member of the Newfolden school faculty for the past 10 years, has been named school principal for the coming year, succeeding Charles O. Fisher who resigned to accept a similar position at Clarkfield.

Ulferts announced that registration for students in grades 9 through 12 will be held Friday from 9 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1 to 4 p.m. in the school cafeteria. Students in grade 8 and below will register Tuesday morning. Faculty advisors will be on hand to counsel students on elective courses.

Prices for individual meals this year have been set at 25 cents. A ticket good for 20 meals will cost $4.50. The second member of a family purchasing a meal ticket will pay $4, and the third member $3.50. It is desired that all meal tickets purchased within a family be bought at the same time. Meal tickets will be available for purchase at registration and in the principal's office on school days.

Faculty workshop will be held for all teachers at 2 p.m. Monday in the school cafeteria.

Wichter Firm Gets Viking School Addition Contract

Bids were received at a special August 25 meeting of the Viking school board for construction of additions to the Viking elementary school. After considering bids from five firms, the board awarded the contract to the Dean L. Wichter construction firm of Minneapolis, which was low bidder with a bid amounting to $52,236.

Construction of the two new classrooms, library, kitchen and lunchroom facilities is expected to be completed about December 15.

Times Open House Slated Saturday In New Location

To acquaint the public with the new location and operation of the printing plant, the Thief River Falls Times will conduct an open house Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., according to Clarence and Robert Mattson, publishers. Free coffee and cookies will be served during the open house hours.

Times personnel will conduct tours of the office and printing plant. Most of the shop equipment will be in operation, including the newspaper press which will be printing the Monday edition early due to the Labor Day holiday on Monday. To avoid conflict with news stand sales, however, no copies of the Times will be sold at the Times office until 3 p.m. on Saturday.

The Times has requested that news and advertising sources submit copy early for the Monday edition so that an advanced printing schedule may be met on Saturday. News and advertising copy must be written, set in type and placed in page forms to permit staff members to conduct tours on Saturday.

One of the oldest businesses in Thief River Falls, the Times has made very few moves during its history. The latest move to the building purchased from C. D. Gustafson at Main avenue and Fourth street was accomplished during the latter part of the week of June 21. The building has been completely remodeled to accomodate the printing and publishing operation.

A full-page advertisement in today's issue of the Times invites the public to attend the open house and pictures the 21 employees of the Times at work in their various departments.

Sun To Displace Cloudy Weather, Forecast Notes

Chilly, damp, fall-like weather of the past several days will give way to sunshine and slightly more seasonal temperatures today, according to the forecast received at the Thief River Falls municipal airport. Skies will be clear to partly cloudy with highs today ranging from 62 to 72 and lows tonight in the 40's. The barometer is on the rise, indicating the advance of a high-pressure area which accounts for the pleasant weather.

Temperature and precipitation readings recorded at the airport during the past couple of days are as follows: 65, 52 and .09 inch on Monday; 62, 44 and .01 inch on Tuesday; and a low this morning of 40.

All Schools in City To Open Tuesday Morning

Junior College Orientation Week Set Sept. 13-17

Elementary and secondary school students in Thief River Falls public schools and St. Bernard's parochial school will return to the classroom routine beginning Tuesday morning. A full day of classes will be held at all schools the first day with noon lunch program to be in operation at the public schools, according to Supt. M. R. Hankerson. Five classes in the area vocational technical school will also begin on Monday.

Registration for the new junior college opening here this fall will be held during the week of September 13-17 with classes to begin at 8 a. m. on Monday, September 20, according to Dean Charles White. Applications for enrollment will be accepted through Setember 13.

Elementary and secondary teachers as well as the vocational school staff have been attending workshop sessions this week. Speaking to the teachers on Tuesday were Rev. Paul Biegner, representing the ministerial association; Mayor Orin Green, representing the city of Thief River Falls; and Dr. George Martin, representing the board of education. A welcome session for school personnel, sponsored by the education committee of the Chamber of Commerce, will be held later this year.

Remodeling of several departments in Lincoln senior high school has not yet been completed, Supt. Hankerson said, and classes normally using these departments will be compelled to improvise for a couple of weeks until work is completed and equipment installed. Elementary and high school classes will begin at 9 a. m. with bus routes basically the same as last year. Classes at St. Bernard's school will begin at 8:15 a. m. according to Sister Caroline, principal.

Vocational School

Classes which will open in the vocational-technical school Tuesday are electronics, aircraft mechanics, carpentry, auto mechanics and marketing. Other classes have been continuing through the summer months. Classes start at 8:30 a. m. with full session the first day, according to Arnt Aune, director of the vocational school.

Enrollment is expected to total a record 275 students—an increase of about 20 from a year ago. There are openings for about four or five students in electronics and five in the second section of aircraft mechanics which will begin in October when an addition to the shop at the airport is completed, Aune said. All other courses are filled.

New faculty members include Mrs. Ila Flesche, practical nursing; Mrs. Dolores Bakke, cosmetology; and Miss Bonnie Stebleton, business. Miss Stebleton is an addition to the vocational school faculty while. Mrs. Flesch and Mrs. Bakke are replacements for teachers who resigned.

Junior College

To date a total of 120 students has firmed applications for attendance at the new junior college which will open in the Lincoln

SCHOLARSHIPS for training in the nursing profession were presented to Judy Iverson, daughter of Mrs. Pearl Iverson, and Susan Owen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Owen, by the Thief River Falls 40 et 8 voiture at a pomenade Tuesday night. The promenade was to have been an outdoor picnic, but inclement weather forced the gathering indoors. Pictured left to right are Ike Hoglin, sous grande conducteur; Miss Iverson; Clair Larson, nurses' training director; Miss Owen; and Ormond Johnson, chef de guerre. Miss Iverson will enter her third year of training at Fairview hospital in Minneapolis and Miss Owen will begin her first year at St. Luke's hospital in Fargo.

Dr. Daniel Green, Dies in Warren

Dr. Daniel E. Green, 50, of Warren and formerly associated with the Falls-Sturekow Clinic in this city, died Tuesday morning at his home at Warren.

Funeral services for Dr. Green will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. at the Grace Methodist church, Warren, and interment will be in Greenwood cemetery at Warren. The body will lie in state at the Quanrud Funeral home Warren, Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Daniel E. Green was born Feb. 13, 1915, at Pharr, Tex. A graduate of the school of medicine at the University of Nebraska in 1944, he served as a surgeon on a troop transport in the South Pacific during World War II. Following the war, he practiced medicine in David City, Neb., for two years before coming in 1949 to Thief River Falls where he was associated with the Falls-Sturekow clinic for 12 years. Since that time he has been in Warren.

He was united in marriage to Eunice Kelly on Aug. 9, 1941. Survivors include his wife, Eunice; one son, Gordon; two daughters, Carol and Susan; and a sister, Mrs. Elsie Ball of Mount Pleasant, Tex.

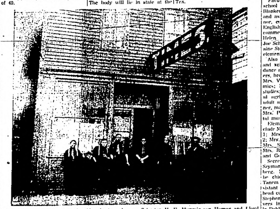
Band Will Play At Football Game

John Moum, Lincoln high school band director, has announced that the Prowler band will play for the season's first Prowler football game Friday night. Band members are asked to meet in the school band room at 7 p.m. Friday.



THE TIMES isn't the oldest business in Thief River Falls but it is one of the oldest still surviving. It's record of survival is a record of mergers and consolidations by purchase. The above picture was taken in the year 1912 and the building pictured here was located at 217 North Main Ave. It survived as a part of the Jung Bakery property until razed recently to make room for the new Woolworth building. The publisher of the Times when this picture was taken was it's founder, H. E. Muzzy, pictured at the right above, who later became the publisher of the Grygla Eagle. Others in the picture, from left to right, are Frank Vorlicky, Leland Schuster, Harry Schuster, H. E. Muzzy's son Homer and Lloyd Zeh. The best guess as to the identity of the woman in the picture is that she was Mrs. Leonard Hanson, a sister of Leland Schuster. Mr. Muzzy had been associated with J. P. Mattson of Warren who was the grandfather of the present owners of the Times, Clarence and Robert Mattson. In the early history of Thief River Falls newspapers came and went and it was not unusual in active small towns to have three or more papers competing with each other. The acquisition of the Tri-County Forum by the Times ended this cycle and we have been a one-newspaper community since that time. In recent years the Times has provided a twice-a-week news service.

Ellefson-Glen Vows Exchanged At Badger

Miss Helen Joan Ellefson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Ellefson of Strathcona, and Russell Allen Glen, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Glen of Badger, exchanged vows Saturday, August 7, at 10:30 a.m. in the St. Mary's Catholic church, Badger. The Rev. John Stearns performed the ceremony and said the nuptial Mass. Vocalists were Mrs. Joe Gust, Dorothy Gust and Arlette Gust with Mrs. Joe Gust as organist. For the holy sacrament, the church was adorned with vases of red and white dahlias.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length, empire styled gown of nylon over taffeta. Embroidered appliques accented the front of the gown and outlined the gently scooped neckline. The full skirt, swept back, formed a train and a band accenting the waistline, enhanced the back with a bow. A crown secured the veil of silk illusion and she carried a cascade bouquet of garnet roses and white feathered carnations on a white Prayer book. Her only jewelry was a dainty pendant, a gift from the groom.

Rose Ellefson, attended her sister as maid of honor with Shirley Thompson as bridesmaid. They wore identical street-length gowns of blue cream puff with net overskirts and headpieces of blue illusion veiling. Both wore long white gloves, gifts from the bride, and carried long stemmed red roses. The attendants' dresses were designed and fashioned by Miss Thompson.

Best man was Bob Glen, brother of the groom and Butch Shara served as groomsman. Ushers were Leo Gust of Greenbush, a cousin of the bride, and Martin Bittner of Grand Forks Air Base, friend of the groom. The groom and the then of the wedding party wore dark suits and white boutonnieres. The attendants also wore tie-tacs, gifts from the groom.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Ellefson wore a copenhagen blue cotton knit dress with white accessories and the mother of the groom wore a three-piece navy blue suit, with white accessories. Also attending the wedding as honor guest was Grandmother Rachel. She wore a brown figured dress. All wore identical corsages of garnet roses and feathered white carnations..

The reception held in the North Star Pavilion, following the ceremony, was attended by approximately 300 guests. Members of the Ladies aid of the St. Josehp's guild were in charge of serving the noon dinner.

The wedding cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. Jerry Svir, cousin of the bride was cut and served by Mrs. Clement Gust, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Manuel Rud, aunt of the groom. Mrs. Johnny Forst and Mrs. Earl Bessler, aunt of the bride and groom, respectively, poured while Linda Ellefson, sister of the bride, attended the guest book. Waitresses were Alice Kruta, Cheryl Gulseth, Judy Bernat, Beverly Forst, Marlene Thompson, Angeline Burda, Barbara Ellefson and Rosalie Forst, while Mrs. Art Summer, Arla Rud and Kathy Connely attended the bridal table. Linda Beckhold, Karen Lee and Audry Rinde arranged the gifts. All wore corsages of white carnations, gifts from the bride.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were from Illinois, Grand Forks, N. D.; Bemidji, Roseau, Middle River, Greenbush, Thief River Falls, Badger, Warroad, Wannaska, Gilbert, Newfolden and Strathcona.

Following a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Glen will be at home at 409 East Mill, Santa Maria, Calif. The groom is stationed at the Vandenburg Air Force base in California.

Mrs. R. Gladbeck Honored Recently At Bridal Shower

Mrs. Richard Gladback, the former Sandra Sannes of Holt, was guest of honor at a bridal shower Thursday evening at the Nazareth Lutheran church parlors at Holt.

A short program was given with Mrs. Clarence Ness in charge of devotions. Also included in the program were a piano solo, "O Perfect Love", by Christine Wilson and readings by Karen Sannes and Mrs. Clarence Ness. The group participated by singing "Children of the Heavenly Father" and "Blest Be the Tie That Binds".

Following the presentation and the opening of the gifts, the honored guest responded with words of appreciation.

Lois Knutson, Once of Grygla, Marries In Wis.

St. Paul's Lutheran church, Franklin, Wis., was the setting July 17, for the marriage of Lois Lorraine Knutson and John Kruczkowski with the Rev. Edwin Biebert officiating at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fromm of 8456 South 51st Street, Franklin, Wis., and the late Otto Knutson, formerly of Grygla. Mr. Knutson operated the Carmel store east of Grygla for eight years, until 1951. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kruczkowski Sr., 1521 South 16th Place, Milwaukee, Wis.

The bride and her mother designed and fashioned the slim wedding gown of satin finished taffeta in an empire style with a mandarin collar and a long train. They also fashioned a four tiered elbow-length veil held by a double of pearls and crystal teardrops. For her bouquet, the bride carried mums, carnations and orchids.

Miss Darlene Mike was maid of honor, while Mrs. Milton Knutson and Mrs. Donald Knutson were bridesmatrons and Mary Kruczkowski, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. Their pale orchid gowns were styled with lace bodices and voile skirts and were worn with veiled rose headpieces.

Myrtle Beth Fromm attended her sister as miniature bride and Milton Knutson served as miniature groom for his uncle.

Edwin Sidello was best man while the groomsmen were Milton and Donald Knutson, brothers of the bride, and Charles Cain. Ushers were Tom Kruczkowski, brother of the groom and Lloyd Martin.

Following the ceremony, a 4 p.m. buffet was served at Bonk's hall, Milwaukee, Wis., The evening reception was attended by about 300 guests. Attending from this area were Mrs. Byron Dirks of Grygla and her son Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. Kruczkowski are presently residing at South 51st street. Mr. Kruczkowski is an employee of Acme Galvanizing company and his wife is employed at Manpower, Inc.

Olaf Greens Of Newfolden Mark 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Olaf C. Green of Newfolden observed their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday afternoon, August 15, at a celebration held at the Bethlehem Lutheran church, Newfolden. Attended by 250 relatives and friends, the event was hotsed by their daughters, and sons-in-law, Major General and Mrs. Harry J. (Lelah) Sands Jr., of San Bernardino, Calif.; Avis Green of Minneapolis; Major and Mrs. Robert V. (Phyllis) Anderson (U.S.M.C. Retired) of Santa Ann, Calif. Mr. and Mrs. Lowell (Lois) Anderson, Park Rapids and Mr. and Mrs. Willis (Joan) Wright of Brockton, Mass.

Orin Green, Mayor of Thief River Falls and nephew of the honored couple, was in charge of the program given at 2:30 p.m. The Rev. Nielson was in charge of the devotions, presentation of the gifts, benediction and table prayer. A long-time friend and neighbor, Mrs. Agnes Olson of Warren reminisced about the life of the Greens, closing her remarks with a poem written by Mrs. Patsy Peterson of Warren.

Also included in the program were a song, "When the Bluebirds Sing In May," requested by the honored couple and sung by Mrs. Floyd Bakke, another neighbor and close friend; a poem by Mrs. Verne Green; readings by Kristin Anderson and Raymond Sands, grandchildren of the couple, and a short talk by Emil Dyrud.

Following the presentation of the gifts Mr. and Mrs. Green responded with thanks and a daughter Lelah, expressed the appreciation of the family. The program concluded with Mrs. Floyd Bakke singing "The Lord's Prayer".

Preceding the reception, Mr. and Mrs Green greeted everyone present. Lending a festive atmosphere to the reception were tables decorated in the gold and white motif. A four-tiered wedding anniversary cake, baked and decorated with gold colored leaves and golden bells by Mrs. Oscar Amundson of Newfolden, graced the serving table.

Daughters of the couple, Phyllis and Lois cut and served the cake, Lelah and Avis poured and Joan served at the punch bowl. Mrs. Agnes Raymond, a sister of Mr. Green, and Mrs. Peter Tanberg attended the guest book while granddaughters, Connie Anderson of Park Rapids and Karyn Anderson of California attended the gift table. Serving as ushers were grandsons Robert Anderson Jr., Michael and Pat Sands and Jeffrey Anderson.

Immediate relatives attending included Mrs. Agnes Raymond of Tumwater, Wash., sister of Mr. Green; Olger Green and family of Thief River Falls, brother of Mr. Green, Martin and Ingvald Saugen of Newfolden, twin brothers of Mrs. Green and Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Anderson and family of River Falls, Wis.

Safe Driving Is Adult Duty Says Police Captain

Last year 74 children 14 years old and under were killed and 5,758 were injured in Minnesota traffic accidents. Of those killed, 43 were pedestrians. Of those injured, many were crippled or disfigured for life.

"What is so shocking about there figures is that the children—simply because of their age—had depended upon adults for their safety," states Capt. Alan Noreen of the Thief River Falls police department. "Too young and too busy and ignorant of danger, they were struck down darting into streets, leaping out from between parked cars; and sometimes while following safe rules of walking and biking and while riding in cars.

"Even when the children themselves were at fault — as they were in many cases — what excuse can the driver make for striking one? That the child ran right into his car? With a child dead, any excuse must be hollow, even though the driver was legally absolved from any guilt. Perhaps some extra caution would have avoided the death of that child, Capt. Noreen said.

"School is beginning now. Children will be exposed to the dangers of traffic more than during summer vacation. They'll be crossing more busy streets in the mornings and afternoons; and they'll be concentrating their play outdoors immediately before and just after the evening meal — all when traffic is at its heaviest. So the greatest of care is needed while driving.

"Every driver has a special responsibility where children are concerned. He must expect them to make mistakes and to ignore rules and laws of traffic safety. He must make allowances for this and drive accordingly — drive with extra care in areas where cars are parked solls on both sides of the street, near schools and playgrounds and wherever children are seen walking, playing or biking.

"He must show the same care for them whenever they ride with him, including providing seat belts or safety harnesses for their use. He must drive as if something very valuable and very breakable were resting on the seat beside him."

Local Delegates Attend Institute

Mrs. C. M. Isaacson of Trinity Lutheran church and Neil Hendrickson of Zion Lutheran church in Thief River Falls recently received special training at a national parish education institute at Concordia college, Moorhead. Approximately 800 selected persons from across the nation attended this and two similar institutes, conducted by the division of parish education of the American Lutheran church.

Those attending the national institutes will conduct 250 local institutes in the United States and Canada in order to provide training for the more than 100,000 church leaders and church school teachers of the American Lutheran church. A trained staff of seven, including Mrs. Isaacson and Hendrickson, will conduct area institutes at Stephen, on September 19, and at Roseau on September 26.

A major emphasis of the 1965 institutes is "Strengthening Family Life." This theme will be studied in four separate courses, intended to help strengthen families in and through the local church.

Three other courses at the institutes are intended to help teachers use the newly-developed curriculum materials of the church. Teachers of the junior high, senior high and adult departments will have experiences designed to give them new insights and skills in teaching.

Langen Says Wages Not Fair to Farmers

"Either the American consumer is going to be stuck with a substantially higher food bill or a good share of rural American will beshare of rural America will become unemployed if farm labor is included under the minimum wage Committee on Education and Labor," declared Congressman Odin Langen after attending an informal meeting of rural House Members.

"The provisions of this bill can do nothing except further add to the already high cost of farm operation. This meeting also indicated that the chairman of the house of agriculture committee shares the concern I registered early this month when I noted that this proposal was another bureaucratic attack on rural America."

"The only person who is strangly silent on the subject is the Secretary of Agriculture," said Langen. "As the farmers' spokesman in Washington, he should be leading the fight to protect those he supposedly serves."

Langen said there was general agreement at the meeting that putting farm laborers under minumum wage classifications would result in the loss of thousands of farm jobs and a further merchanization of farm work. "It would mean hardship for these workers, and it would mean hardship for the farmer who works on such a thin margin now that he can ill afford to either pay higher wages or convert to further mechanization. His prices are fixed by the same government that now wants to increase his cost of operation. It can only result in bankruptcy for many."

"The only other alternative," said Langen, "would be to let food prices rise to pay for the increased labor cost, as is done in the industrialized areas of our economy when wages are raised. However, present farm programs keep a tight ceiling on how much the farmer can get for his crops."

Langen noted that the minimum wage proposal would create new problems for far more of rural America than the full-time farm worker and the farmer who hires him, moving into the affairs of the seasonal worker, country grain elevators, agricultural processing concerns, logging crews, fruit and vegetable processors, share croppers and others. "And the effect of higher wages in the stores along Main street would result in higher price tags on the merchandise sold to the farmer. In other words, the farmer loses all the way around and the small businessmen faces the problem of going out of business if the farmer can't pay the higher price."

Langen said he agreed with the consensus of his colleagues at the meeting that the objectives of legislation should be to help rural America out of its economic plight rather than add to its troubls. "But the provisions of this minimum wage proposal will saddle such areas as northwestern Minnesota with crippling restrictions," he concluded. "The members of Congress from rural districts will work together closely in opposing such hastily-drawn-up and unthinkable legislation."

2 Auto Mishaps Damage 3 Cars, Cause Injuries

Two auto accidents occuring recently in Pennington county were reported today by Deputy Sheriff Eugene Prestegaard. The first happened Saturday at 1:30 p.m. four miles northwest of Thief River Falls on CAR 73. A car driven by Kendall Ose, 16, and owned by Kenneth K. Ose of Thief River Falls, was traveling south on CAR 73, which was in rough condition at the time. At a point 1½ miles north of the intersection of Highway 1 and CAR 73 the vehicle struck a hole and Ose lost control of the car as it careened to the left and then to the right, proceeding into the ditch and overturning. The machine came to rest on its wheels facing east.

One passenger, Jerry Casavan, city, was ejected from the car but was not injured. Another passenger, Charles Olson, was treated at Northwestern hospital and released. Extensive damage was done to the car.

A two-car mishap occurred in St. Hilaire Tuesday at the intersection of Second street and Red Lake avenue. A car driven by Donna Sweet of St. Hilaire was traveling west on Second street and prepared to make a slight left turn into a residential driveway. The vehicle collided with a pickup driven by Walter J. Honns of St. Hilaire which was traveling north on Red Lake avenue, and preparing to turn right onto Second street. Wendy Sweet, a passenger in the Sweet vehicle, struck her head against the windshield, cracking the glass and causing the car to be damaged to the extent of about $125. The pickup was not damaged and no one was injured.

"School's Open" Drive Launched By Police, AAA

As thousands of Minnesota boys and girls trek back to school this week, it marks the launching again of the traditional "School's Open" campaign, a safety drvie sponsored by police departments all over the state and the Minnesota AAA.

Designed to make streets and highways as safe as possible for school children, the crusade is being sparked by colorful posters entitled, "School's Open—Drive Carefully," which have been posted throughout the state reminding motorists that a record number of children will be crossing the streets and highways on their way to school.

As he announced the campaign, Dr. William G. Sauer, Rochester, president of Minnesota AAA, said "We'd like to remind drivers that many kindergarten and primary school children are on their own in traffic for the first time—many of whom have not had any previous traffic safety education. Not all school pedestrains have access to streets that are protected by traffic aids—signs, signals, police, patrols, crossing guards and pedestrian sidewalks. In addition, many of them will have to walk in or along a roadway. The youngsters must be taught to WALK ON LEFT FACING TRAFFIC."

Parents are urged to prepare their children to be safe pedestrians by making certain they know and use a safe route to and from school. Dr. Sauer also cautioned motorists by saying, "You as drivers have a major responsibility in the safety of all our shcool children."

Land Bank Gives Stock Dividend Of $19,961.15

Board of directors of the Federal Land Bank association of Warren has declared a dividend on capital stock outstanding May 30, 1965. The dividend to be paid to 901 members of the association totals $19,961.15, according to Harold Sorensen, manager of the FLBA. This payment brings the dividends paid to members since 1948 to a total of $122,754.65.

The Federal Land Bank association initiates and services loans for the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul in Marshall, Kittson, Roseau, Pennington and Red Lake counties and now has more than $8 million in long-term real estate loans outstanding. Money used for making Land Bank loans is obtained by the sale of bonds on the investment markets of the United States.

Mrs. Israelson Named To Head DFL Fund Drive

Mrs. Emmett Israelson of Thief River Falls has been appointed by Henry Panek, Pennington county DFL chairman, as chairman of the county Friends and Neighbors fund drive.

"The drive's purpose is to raisq money for the DFL party organization in the state and locally. We also hope that as we contact DFL members in the county, we'll have the opportunity to renew many old friendships," Panek said.

Pennington county will hold its "FAN" drive during the week of September 13-18. Funds collected will be used for the coming legislative campaigns.

Clarissa Girl Named State's Princess Kay

Slender, brown-haired Marry Ann Titrud, 18, Clarissa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Titrud, received the state dairy princess crown from Karen Bracken of Verdi, on the Minnesota state fair's grandstand stage Saturday night.

Named attendants to Miss Titrud were Donna Johnson, 18, Pine City, a home economics sophomore at Stout State university, (Menomonie, Wis.), and Lee Ann Kohnen, 18, Loretto, a nursing trainee at Bethesda Lutheran hospital, St. Paul. Janice Swanson of Mentor, Northwest Dairy Princess crowned in Thief River Falls, participated in the event.

The new Princess Kay, who will reign for the coming year as the official goodwill representative for some 70,000 Minnesota dairy farm families and hundreds of dairy producers, stands 5 feet, 7 inches and weighs 125 pounds.

Marry Ann, who has one married brother, and her parents live on a 170-acre Todd county farm where they produce milk from a herd of purebred Holstein dairy cattle. Mary Ann owns a dozen Holsteins, herself—all descendants of her first 4-H club dairy heifer project animal. She was active in 4-H for seven years and won three state fair trips with her dairy projects.

Other interests of the new Princess Kay include reading (poetry and mysteries), dress design and sewing, cooking, bowling, roller skating and spectator sports.

Mary Ann won awards as the most outstanding home economics student in both her junior and senior years at Clarissa high school. She also was a school cheerleader and majorette, a member of her school and church choir and a Sunday school teacher at Our Savior's Lutheran church at Clarissa.

She was sponsored by Clarissa Co-op creamery in the Todd County Dairy Princess contest last May and went on to win the American Dairy Association Region III title and crown at Lake Region Dairy Day held in Wadena, June 17. She represented Becker, Cass, Clay, Douglas, Grant, Hubbard, Otter Tail, Todd, Wadena and Wilkin counties in the state contest. Mary Ann is the first girl from her region to win the state Princess Kay crown.

Marshall Co. NFO Meets in Drayton

Membership instructional meeting for Marshall county members of the National Farmers organization (NFO) will be held Thursday at 8:30 p.m. in Drayton, N. D. The session is being arranged for a five-county area to bring members up to date on progress of the organization in its bargaining efforts.

Orlin Dahl, president of the Marshall county chapter, urges all members to attend the meeting. Erhard Pfingsten, NFO vice president, will conduct the meeting and a question-and-answer session will be held.

"NFO meat marketing arrangements, whereby NFO members can sell together, have been a major factor in the price rise of hogs and cattle," Dahl said, "because the volume sales made by NFO members have brought new and keen competion to livestock buying."

Membership instructions meeting will include a discussion on meat marketing arrangements, their effect on livestock prices, their potential, and the next steps to be taken by NFO. A new NFO grain program will be announced and discussed and plans to use the dairy bargaining power developed by the organization to raise the price of milk at the farm level will also be disclosed, Dahl said.

4-H Leaders Talk Of Livestock Show

Pennington county 4-H leader's council reviewed a full agenda at its meeting Monday night. Among major topics discussed was a county 4-H market livestock show and sale similar to those held in previous years. The council is exploring possibilities to hold the show and sale in mid-September.

Horse project members were reminded that a district 4-H horse show will be held at Barnesville on September 18. Club members participating must have received blue ribbons at the county fair. Entries will be accepted at the county extension office for the remainder of this week.

Attention of council members was called to 4-H club week to be observed September 25 through October 2. The week is designed to acquaint the public with the 4-H club program. Members of the council voted to purchase a banner to be displayed across the street during club week.

A three-member committee consisting of Mrs. George Breznay, Mrs. Vernon Wold and Mrs. Lynn Hanson was named to study changes suggested for county fair exhibiting. Among changes discussed were new displays for dresses in the sewing project and enlargement of booths to regulation size.

Also mentioned and to be discussed further by the council after individual club discussion was a proposal to have exhibits judged as they are entered at the fair. This would necessitate clubs bringing exhibits during certain specified hours on entry day, but is considered to be more educational for the members.

The council also adopted a change in the county 4-H scholarship plan to permit two boys or two girls to be granted the scholarships if there are not qualified candidates in one division or the other.

Clubs are to hold elections in September, it was announced, and are to send names of adult leaders to the county office by September 30 so that the nominating committee can select a slate of officers for the October 4 annual meeting of the council. Nominating committee members are Dale Svendsgaard, Mrs. Bert Kron and Mrs. Silas Hanson.

Supply packets including enrollment cards, secretary book, report cards, treasurer book, reporter sheets, officers sheet and project meeting report cards were distributed to the clubs. National 4-H club week posters were also distributed.

building. A total of 192 applications for enrollment had been made initially, with about 20 cancelations received by the junior college office. Others who had indicated they will attend are asked to send in their $10 deposits immediately in compliance with letters sent to them from the junior college office.

Students who have firm applications will receive a letter next week in regard to orientation week. A schedule of classes will be available during that week, Dean White said. Firm applications have been received from students in about 25 area communities.

The junior college book store will conduct the sale of books to be used in colleg classes and also handle supplies not normally stocked by downtown retail stores, Dean White added. Books may be purchased during orientation week.

Staff for the college is complete except for a librarian. Anyone with library experience and interested in the junior college librarian position is invited to contact Dean White at the junior-college office for an interview. Telephone number at the office is 681-2181.

Several scholarships for junior college attendance have been made available by local firms and organizations. Students interested may make application for these with selections to be made later by a selection committee.

Minnesotans Pay Most Income Tax at $10,000

Minnesotans now pay the highest state income tax in the nation at the $10,000 a year income level and second highest at the $5,000 a year level, according to Charles P. Stone, executive director of the Minnesota Taxpayers association.

Citing a recent study made by the taxpayers association, compiled from figures supplied by the tax officials of each of the income tax states, Stone pointed out that a married individual with two children who earns $10,000 a year will pay a 1965 Minnesota income tax of $400.38.

The next highest states are Vermont, with a tax of $370, Wisconsin with $367.50 and Oregon with $319.02. The comparable tax in Iowa is only $203.85; in New York, $215; and in California only $48.

At the $5,000 a year income level Minnesota now has the second highest state income tax in the nation — the 1965 Minnesota income tax of $99.18 for a married individual with two children is topped only by Wisconsin's tax of $105. The comparable tax in Iowa is $47.70; in New York, $28; in California, nothing.

"Minnesota certainly does not project a favorable tax image to the rest of the country," Stone said. "The high individual income tax is only a part of the picture. Our general property tax is fifth highest per $1,000 of personal income. Our corporation income tax is eleventh highest. The load of all state and local taxes combined is sixth heaviest in the nation on a per-person basis, and second highest per $1,000 of personal income.

"Tax reform was long overdue even before the 1963 amendment increasing the individual income tax rates to their present levels," he added.

On August 24th 1965 the New Maine 4-H club went on a trip to Bemidji. The 4-H members had raised money for this trip by selling aprons and by having a car wash. We all met in Newfolden at 7 a.m. We used one of the school busses and Helmer Lind was our bus driver. There were 29 on the bus including the bus driver. Those who were able to go on the trip were; Mrs. Arnold Larson, Mrs. Ray Chapman, Mrs. Wallace Roppe, Mrs. Eldort Engen, Mrs. Melvin Mattson, Barbara Roppe, Gerald and Barry Nelson, James, Donald, Sybil, and Susan Larson, Leola and Deanna Chapman, Pamala Sweitzer, Shelly Lindbeck, Sharon and Diane Moen, Caroline, Bradley, Mark and Bill Engen, Beverly, Marlys, Marlin and LaVonne Mattson, Jean Ann Anderson and Bruce Ueland. We left about 7:30. When we got to Trapper Hunt's nursery at Bagley we took the one mile drive through the nursery. They gave our club a blue spruce tree and also a Coleus house plant to each member. We got to Bemidji about 10:30 We toured the historical and wildlife museum took pictues by Paul Bunyan and his blue ox. We had our picnic dinner in the Diamond Head park by the lake. We toured the radio station in Bemidji, where they explained how everything was operated. We also toured the Land O'Lakes creamery, then we went back the the amusement park. The younger members went on rides while the older members went uptown shopping for a while. We took a different road on the way home so we could go through the Red Lake Indian reservation we had our picnic supper by Red Lake. We also met Mr. Tatter who was living here he used to be the principal in the Newfolden school. We stopped in Thief River Falls for Dairy Queens and got to Newfolden around 9 p.m. after an enjoyable trip.

In Memory

In loving memory of our beloved father and grandfather, Olaf Nordhagen who passed away 3 years ago Aug. 26.
Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
The world's weary toubles and trials are past.
In silence he suffered, in patience he bore,
Till God called him home to suffer no more.
Sadly missed by his children and grandchildren. 1t70p

Prowler Grid Season To Open Here Friday

Coach Bill Herzog's varsity Prowler football squad will open play on its nine-game 1965 schedule on Friday night, Sept. 3, when they meet coach Jim Gotta's highly-ranked Moorhead Spuds on the Lincoln high school athletic field. The kickoff is slated for 8 p.m. The Prowler band will play during halftime and members are asked to meet at 7 p.m. in the school band room.

Coach Herzog has not definitely named a starting lineup for Friday night's opener, but judging by the practice sessions, and the informal scrimmage held against the Warren Ponies, it is probable that the following players will see action on offense: ends—Rod Carlson and Jon Bile; tackles—Luke Kauthagen and Arlo Rud; guards—captain Gary Olson and Glen Porter; centers—Wayne Smith and Ken Ose; quarterback — Tommy Cummings; left halfback — Billy Dicken or Dave Halvorson; right halfback, John Olson; and fullback, Monte LeMoine.

And certain to see early action in the game are such sophomores as Paul Ihle and Nick Drees, backfielders, and Jerry Droppo, a guard. Karl Poppenhagen, a letterman from last season, will move into the defensive alignment. Ross Hanson, a veteran guard, will not see action in the opener as he will be attending the Minnesota state fair.

Last season, against top-notch competition, the Prowlers posted a three wins and six losses mark. The Spuds, one of the athletic "Prowers" in Region Six, had a six wins and three losses record. Coach Gotta is reported to have some fine juniors on this season's varsity squad, with the group being headed by Greg Lokken, the Region Six sprint champion.

The Prowlers, a member of the five-team Northwest conference, will have three conferene geames on the home schedule. The Roseau Rams, the defending champion Bemidji Lumberjacks, and the Crookston Pirates will play on Lincoln field on October 15, October 22, and October 29.

Archery Tourney Winners Listed

Winners in the archery shoot conducted by the Thief River Falls archery club on Sunday have been announced by the club.

In the women's division, Mrs. Pat Krystosek won a trophy by shooting 150 in the 101 to 400 class while Mrs. Marge Dunham won a bow quiver with 114 points for second place.

In the 0 to 100 class, Mrs. Yvonne Green won a barbecue grill by shooting 94 while Mrs. Darlene DuChamp won a bow string by shooting 86 for second place.

In the men's division, Tony Noel won a trophy in the 251 to 400 class by shooting 384 while Herb Monson shot a 374 for second place and a vacuum bottle prize. Bill Desrocher won the 151 to 250 class with 236 and won a bow string while Arden DuChamp placed second with 228 and won a bow cover. Steven Lappegaard scored 130 in the 0 to 150 class to win a bow string and Wayne Meisner shot 118 to place second and win a quiver.

Membership in the archery club is still being accepted and information may be received from any of the club members.

Farm Reporter Says Surplus May Soon Be Ended

"The next 10 or 15 years may well bring the solutions to many of our present farm problems," a prominent farm editor has told the House Republican Task Force on Agriculture. "A leveling off of the farm production explosion, in combination with increasing world food needs may bring an end to troublesome surplusses," he said.

The speaker was Wayne Darrow, agricultural writer, who is marking his 22nd year as editor of the agricultural publication, the "Washington Farmletter." The occasion was the fourth in a series of Agriculture Task Force luncheon meeting scheduled to enable members of congress to meet for discussion with individuals who are making significant contributions in the field of agriculture.

"Farm price support programs", Darrow told the group, "may become, in the next 10 years or so, a pro-forma affaire—a standby, little used. In the interim, however, I think it would be disastrous to agriculture and a bad wrench to the national economy to yank out price supports."

Darrow referred to farm legislation over the past 15 years as a series of "patchwork farm programs," and observed, "I think that's likely the best we can hope for in the next 10 or 15 years.

"The choice for agriculture in the future is between the substantial commercial family farm and mass production by 100,000 or more giant farms," Darrow told the Task Force. "If legislation is needed to keep the family farm, I'm for it without quarreling about details."

"The fact that you Republicans have a Task Force on Agriculture is encouraging to me, a Democrat, who believes deeply in the need for a strong two-party system," Darrow included.

Task Force Chairman Odin Langen stated that Darrow's comments were stimulating and thought - provoking. "The task force," said Langen, "welcomes the opportunity for such a frank exchange of ideas with individuals so knowledgeable and well versed. Mr. Darrow's observations will be most helpful to the task force in its study of the agricultural situation in this nation today."

CHIPPING to the green for a birdie four on the par-five fifth hole is Bobby Stordahl, winner of the Thief River Falls city golf championship Sunday. Playing in a drizzle on a gloomy afternoon, Stordahl defeated Larry Perkins for championship honors. Stordahl, a 1965 graduate of Lincoln high school, was a member of Jack Boyer's Prowler golf squad last spring.

Currently, the Federal Unemployment Tax Act applies only to employers who have at least four workers in at least 20 weeks during a calendar year. In Minnesota, employers of one or more workers are covered by law; except in towns under 10,000 population, wher having less than four employees are not covered.

Traffic Safety Design Shown on New 5-cent Stamp

A new five-cent traffic safety commemorative stamp will be first placed on sale at Baltimore, Md., on Friday. It will be available at the local post office the following day.

The design by Richard Hurd of New York City emphasizes the traffic safety goals which can be achieved through enforcement, education and engineering. The background of the stamp is green, with the traffic signal in red and black. The lettering "U. S. Postage 5 cents" is green; all other lettering is black. The stamp will be issued in panes of 50, with an initial printing of 115 million.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations may send addressed envelope together with remittance to cover the cost of stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Baltimore, Md. 21233. Postage stamps and personal checks will not be accepted in payment of the new issue. The envelope to the postmaster should be endorsed, "First Day Covers 5 cents Traffic Safety Stamp". Requests must be postmarked no later than September 3.

Unemployment insurance is an automatic response to economic conditions. The "high velocity" dollars paid in unemployment benefits are immediately transformed into rent, groceries, clothes and other basic needs, boosting the economy of the business community.

State Duck Season To Open October 9

Wayne H. Olson, Minnesota commissioner of conservation, today announced a duck season restricted somewhat from the maximum allowed by federal regulations.

The restrictions include the placing of a special limit on redheads, rejection of a two-bird scaup bonus after November 1, and a delay in the opening until noon on the first day of the season. The maximum of 40 days, beginning October 9, and the overall bag limit of four ducks daily and eight in possession, was accepted with reluctance. In addition, Commissioner Olson sharply criticized the liberal framework adopted by federal officials.

In placing special restrictions on redheads, Olson said that worthwhile benefits can be obtained. He pointed out that redheads decreased again this year but that federal regulations had failed to provide them with special protection as in past years. Last year, Minnesota hunters accounted for two-thirds of the entire Mississippi Flyway kill of this species. Thus, a reduced limit here will have a pronounced effect on next year's breeding population. Therefore, Olson combined them with canvasbacks so that neither the daily limit of four ducks nor the possession limit of eight ducks may include more than two redheads or two canvasbacks or one of each.

Olson also rejected a bonus bag of two scaup (bluebills) daily and four in possession after November 1, even though Minnesota had requested the bonus earlier. He said the request had been made along with recommendations for a more restrictive general hunting season. Furthermore, the scaup bonus is veiwed as an experimnet since the effects are not totally predictable.

"With ducks in such short supply," Olson said, "it is impossible to undertake an experiment which would provide an overall bag limit of six daily and twelve in possession for nearly one-half of the season."

Olson expressed grave concern over the genral liberalism of the federal framework and predicted that it will result in a further decline in ducks and a closed or severely restricted season next year.

"Only "bluebird" weather and unusually poor hunting conditions throughout the flyway can reverse this prediction," he said.

The commissioner quoted federal waterfowl statistics which show that all major species of ducks were down in number this spring and mallards and pintails were at an all-time low. Latest information from the Canadian breeding grounds is that production will not be as good as was hopefully predicted a few weeks ago.

Federal waterfowl experts had recommended a daily bag limit of two ducks if the season length was 40 days. This regulation would have allowed a 20 per cent increase However, this recommendation was rejected by Department of Interior officials.

Olson said that division of game and fish personnel had explored every conceivable way in which Minnesota could avert a continued decline of the major species of ducks. However, with a one mallard limit in effect this year and since the other Mississippi Flyway states already have indicated acceptance of the maximum season length and bag limits, any restrictions in Minnesota short of a closed season would have only a limited effect and would not solve the basic problems.

"Thus", Olson said, "we are forced to participate in an overly liberal season unless Minnesota hunters are to shoulder the entire burden from the 14 states in the Mississippi Flyway."

Including the special restrictions Minnesota's season will open at noon October 9 and end November 17. Sunrise to sunset shooting will prevail except for the noon opening. Limits will be four ducks daily and eight in possession. The daily limit may include not more than two canvasbacks or two redheads or one each, two wood ducks, one mallard and one pintail. The possession limit may include not more than two canvasbacks or two redheads or one of each, two wood ducks, two mallards and two pintails. In addition to the ducks, hunters may have 10 coots and 20 in possession.

Olson said he was satisfied with the overall federal framework for the goose season. Minnesota will accept the maximum of 70 days beginning on October 2 and running through December 10. Shooting hours will be from sunrise until sunset every day except for a noon opening on October 9 when duck season begins. Bag limits are the same as last year with five daily and five in possession. The limits may include not more than two Canada geese or subspecies, or two white-fronted geese, or one of each.

Olson concluded his waterfowl season announcement with a plea that Minnesota duck hunters comply with all of the regulations. With strict adherence to the regulations and with a special effort to shoot only the drakes, the hunter can make his personal contribution to returning more ducks to returning more ducks to next year. He emphasized that waterfowl numbers, unlike those of upland game birds such as grouse and pheasants, are largely controlled by hunters.

Olson also pledged continued and intensified effort to convince top officials in the Department of Interior that we must allow our duck populations to recover if future generations are to enjoy the heritage of duck hunting.

PUBLIC OPINION

To duck hunters:

I would like to urge that all holders of a teal license, seriously consider not using their license to shoot teal this year in the preseason.

Certainly, it is each hunters prerogative to use same and it is legal, and where a hunter feels strongly that he is entitled to shoot some of the locally-raised teal, I have no quarrel.

My reasons for urging non-use are readily apparent, I am sure, to all duck hunters. We now have good water supplies in breeding areas in Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota and Canada, and we are going to need as much as possible of the existing breeding stock to re-populate all of the breeding areas.

Unquestionably, a considerable percentage of other ducks will be shot during the teal season, and quite possibly combined with that, is the large possibility of driving out the other species before the regular opening.

I do not believe that the fun hunters will have going after teal in the pre-season warrants the risks attendant to this season. For what it is worth to you, this is one man's opinion.

Farm Girls Are Shown Least Likely to Reach Goals in Occupations

Minnesota farm girls are less likely to attain their ocupational aspirations than either girls from the city or rural non-farm areas. This fact was brought out in a paper presented by George A. Donohue, professor of sociology at the University of Minnesota, to members of the Rural Sociological society meeting at the Edgewater Beach hotel in Chicago.

The paper reported some of the findings of a study made by Clarice Ollen, extension specialist in rural sociology at the University of Minnesota, and Donohue, of the high school occupational expectations, of Minnesota girls and their actual attainment.

The current study was actually a follow-up of one made by University of Minnesota sociologists in 1956 when 1,780 graduating seniors from 20 Minnesota high schools filled out questionnaires regarding their expectations as to education and occupational aspirations. In 1963 the 1956 women graduates in the previous study were questioned regarding the attainment of their original goals.

Those who indicated they aspired to clerical jobs were most successful in attaining their goals, while those who had expected to go into the professions had the least fulfillment. In 84 per cent of the cases, those with clerical expectations attained the desired occupational status compared with slighty less than half of those with professional aspirations and 56 per cent of those with expectations of goint into the skilled, semi-skilled and unskilled or "blue-collar" occupations.

Residence had a definite effect on the degree to which these high school graduates realized their goals. Only about a third of the women from the farm had aspirations of a professional career realized them compared to about half of the non-farm women.

Occupation of the father also influenced the degree of attainment. Daughters of professional men realized professional or managerial positions in 69 per cent of the cases compared to 17 per cent of the daughters of farmers. Daughters of "white collar" workers realized higher levels of attainment in occupations than the daughters of "blue collar" workers and farmers.

Almost half of the women in the study received no education beyond high school. Of the high school graduates in the study who expected to attend college, only 14 per cent failed to attend. 10 per cent went to a vocational school instead but 76 per cent went to college. Half of those who originally planned to go to a vocational school did not go—in fact, obtained no further schooling.

Of those who went to college, 43 per cent completed four-year degrees, eight per cent finished three-year degree programs and five per cent, two-year degree programs. The remainder did not complete degree programs but attended from one to four years.

Lowest percentage of college attendance was found among the farm girls. Forty-two per cent of the town girls went to college compared to 33 per cent from the open country (those living in the country but not on farms) and 26 per cent from the farm. A larger proportion of farm and town girls attend vocational schools than did girls from the open country.

Educational attainment of the high school graduates was also significantly related to the education of both parents. Daughters of parents who had gone to college usually went beyond high school. For example, daughters of fathers with college degrees went to college in 88 per cent of the cases compared to 26 per cent of those whose fathers had less than eight years of education.

"The difference in attendance at the college level among farm girls compared to both open country and town girls may be the factor which accounts for their low occupational attainment in the higher status occupations for which college is an entrance requirement," according to Miss Ollen and Donohue. "It appears that failure to place emphasis upon educational attainment for farm girls and daughters of 'blue collar' workers establishes a barrier to occupational attainment and a failure to realize shared expectations," the sociologists say.

Potato Field Day Set September 9 Near Grand Forks

Annual Potato Field Day will be held on Thursday, September 9, at 1 p.m., Central Standard Time, according to Martin Kasperson executive secretary of the Red River Valley Potato Growers association.

The Potato research farm is located four miles south of Grand Forks on Highway 80 and one mile west, or one mile south of Shannahan's corner on old Highway 81.

Purpose of the field day is to give potato producers of the Valley, and any other interested persons, an opportunity to visit the association's farm and to observe the wide variety of research that is being conducted there. Researchers from North Dakota State University, University of Minnesota and the U. S. Department of Agriculture all have research projects at the farm and will be on hand to discuss these projects.

Of special interest at this year's field day will be a report on cultural practices with emphasis on methods of Norgold production. Other projects viewed will be performance of new varieties resulting from extensive breeding programs, locally and across the country; fertilizer studies, including the minor element Zinc; disease control, including seed treatment; evaluation of various methods of vine killing; demonstrations on measurements of varietal responses to harvesting and handling damage; plus several other topics of general interest.

Those attending the Field Day will be taken through the plots in small groups, with each group starting at a different plot so all will complete the tour about the same time.

NW Bell Report Shows Industrial Values of Area

Wide range of products manufactured in the Upper Midwest — everything from buttons to buses—is featured in a 24-page photographic report now being distributed by Northwestern Bell Telephone company as a special supplement to the July - August issue of "NW-B", its employee magazine.

J. M. Wilson, local manager, said Northwestern Bell is showing that the Midwest has much to be proud of — that in this area there are factories as well as farms, industrial plants as well as horticultural plants and that the area has a great potential for growth and diversification.

A statement on the introductory page points out that while farming is still the single biggest industry in these five states, manufacturing has now surpassed agriculture as the chief source of wealth. The statement continues:

"There are now 10,000 industrial plants in the area and 47 of the nation's 150 largest industrial corporations (in terms of sales) have manufacturing operations in the five states.

"An amazing array of products pour from these 10,000 plants: from automobiles to wooden nickels, from computers to portable radios, from motor oil to gold bullion. In short, the area has become much more than the nation's breadbasket. The last U. S. census showed, for the first time, that over half the five-state population lived in urban areas."

2,815 Enrolled In Fall Quarter Classes at BSC

Bemidji State college will open for fall quarter September 12 with an anticipated enrollment of 2,815 full-time students, according to Dr. Harry F. Bangsberg, BSC president. A full-time student is one enrolled for 12 or more credit hours in on-campus courses. Last year students in this category at the opening of fall quarter, numbered 2,390.

This increase of 500 full-time students will be largely in the freshman class where Jack Melby, registrar, reported that 1,000 to 1,100 first year students are expected. Last year 789 freshmen enrolled at BSC during fall quarter.

Melby expects that a pre-registration program carried out under the college counseling office headed by Dr. Robert Naegler under the direction of Dr. Raymond Carlson, dean of students, will aid 80 per cent of these first year students.

Faculty at the college will increase from 138 to 183. Three people will be added to the faculty of the division of education, five to the division of fine and applied arts, eight to languages and literature, four to science and math, eight to social studies, one to student personnel and one to administration.

Dormitories will open September 12 and the freshmen will hold their first meeting that evening at 7 p.m. The first meal to be served in the dormitory will be breakfast September 13. Freshmen will hold orientation meetings and convocations during the week, and the college social committee has planned social events for the evenings of that week.

Upperclassmen will start returning to the campus Wednesday with registration for sophomores Thursday and for juniors and seniors on Friday. All people who have pre-registered must claim their materials by 10 a.m. on September 17. Classes begin September 20.

Chaplain Service At VA Hospital Has Anniversary

Veterans Administration hospital in Minneapolis is observing the 20th anniversary of the VA chaplain service in August.

Dr. Edward Mandell, hospital director, said the 752 chaplains of 32 religious faiths who minister to the religious needs of sick and disabled veterans in VA hospitals and domiciliaries across the nation are being honored. A highlight of the anniversary is a special message from William J. Driver, administrator of Veterans affairs, which says in part:

"An effective therapeutic climate demands that hospitals treat the whole man. There is no doubt in my mind that many, many veterans owe their recovery to the spiritual support given through the dedicated men of God who compose our chaplain service."

Currently headed by its fourth director, Rabbi Morris A. Sandhaus, Washington, D.C., the VA chaplain service has a tradition of wartime service to men and women of the armed forces and dedicated service to the sick and disabled veterans, said Dr. Mandell.

The first full-time chaplain to be assigned to the Minneapolis VA hospital was the Rev. M. B. Tollefsrud who arrived Dec. 11, 1945. He is a veteran of both World War I and II, and was a Major in the army chaplains corps. He recently retired.

Father W. T. Seefeldt reported for duty on March 9, 1946. He is a veteran of World War II, and was a Major in the army chaplain corps.

Rev. C. H. Hook served at the hospital from Dec. 30, 1946 until his death Oct. 18, 1962. He was a veteran of World War I and had the rank of Lieutenant Colonel in the army chaplain corps.

Chaplains at the Minneapolis hospital besides Rev. Seefeldt, include the Rev. L. K. Combs, who has served as a military chaplain at the rank of Captain, the Rabbi Milton Kopstein.

"We surrender something of ourselves ethically when we blink at corruption and are apathetic about wrong-doing, whether at a distance or at our very doorsteps. We read with indignation of witnesses of crimes of violence who have failed to lift a hand, but we are all witnesses of violence and wrong-doing and injustice in many quarters of our land, and too often, like the Levite, we pass by on the other side of the road. Sometimes, it almost seems, that we have become a nation of passers-by, and much of the popular ethic is highly atomistic. Yet, there can really be no doubt that acquiescence in wrong-doing, though a passive thing in itself, results in a deprivation, a loss, in ourselves of something very precious. Not to exercise one's ability to oppose that which is unjust or corrupt or plainly wrong is slowly but surely to undergo a paralysis. A man in such a condition can scarcely be said to be in full possession of himself."—Robert F. Goheen, President, Princeton University

Get Your Shots

It must be disheartening to scientists who have devoted much of their lives to research in conquering disease to find that the public doesn't avail itself if the vaccine developed for that purpose. As a result, diseases which could be practically eliminated are still causing health problems across the nation.

J. D. Ratcliff, writing in the Family Weekly, notes that diseases are changing patterns. "In times past, the very prevalence of diphtheria kept adult immunity at a high level. But as diphtheria has declined among children, it becomes more important as an adult disease. The same is true of whooping cough and measles," Ratcliff says.

Tetnaus, too, is changing. It was once confined almost entirely to men and children. They lived more active lives in fields and streets where the spores of lockjaw lurk. Today more and more women are victims, the result of auto accidents or more active outdoor life.

An effective measles vaccine has now been developed. In the United States, however, no more than seven million children have received this protection. Twenty million under the age of six have not. This is primarily due to neglect on the part of parents and must be discouraging to the developers of the vaccine.

Adults are also being stricken with diseases thought of as part of childhood, such as measles, whooping cough, diphtheria and tetanus, because levels of immunity have fallen so low. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" is as true today as ever when it comes to problems of health.

A Good Offense . . .

Just as true in the field of politics as on the football field is the statement that a good offense is the best defense. Witness, for instance, the case of Sen. John J. Williams of Delaware who initiated the investigation of Bobby Baker. Baker, it will be recalled, was the secretary of the Democratic majority in the senate who managed to accumulate $2.1 million while on a top salary of $19,600.

Harrassment of the senator included interception of his mail, questioning his income tax returns for two years, silencing of his sources of information, false leads, smearing his character and even involving his family.

Indicative of this is the announcement by the late Carole Tyler, formerly Baker's confidential secretary, that she had seen "the principal instigator of the senate investigation" of Baker at 6:30 one morning with a young lady not his wife. The young lady in question was actually the senator's granddaughter.

Baker repeatedly refused to answer questions on how he managed to accumulate his $2.1 million fortune and received only a relatively mild rebuke from the Senate Rules committee. Today he is a prosperous and confident man, according to an article by John Barron in the Reader's Digest.

Meanwhile, Senator Williams finds himself subjected to an ordeal which caused Sen. Frank Lausche, a Democrat, to accuse fellow senators of trying to make Williams the culprit while letting the true culprit go free.

President Johnson's political team found its back against the goal line in the Baker case, but claimed a personal foul and hoped for a fumble on every play. They succeeded in confusing the crowd to the extent that nobody really knew who had the ball and who was on defense.

The ability to use whitewash liberally without soiling their clothes bears testimony to the experience gained by the Johnson faction over the years.

An Inch Is an Inch

No matter how it's measured, the length of an inch is the same. Our nation now faces the question of whether the inch, pound and gallon system which we have always used should be changed to the metric system based on the meter, gram and liter. If the change is made, the length of an inch will remain unchanged but the inch measurement itself will disappear. We quote discussion on the problem from the Industrial News Review.

"Our system of measurement came to us from the English—who in turn got it from the Egyptians, Romans and others—and now the English have announced that they plan to convert to the metric over the next 10 years. The system grew in a haphazard fashion. For example, the original inch was the distance of three barleycorns placed end to end, and the yard was the distance from the tip of the nose to the end of the thumb. By way of contrast, the metric system was rationally developed, the result being that the units of length, mass and fluid capacity are all related to each other, and smaller or larger units of these basic measures are computed in units of ten, or on the decimal basis.

The practical meaning of this is found in the metric system's simplicity. For instance, to change 3.7 kilograms to grams, the decimal point is moved to three places to the right, and the answer, 3,700 grams, is immediately found. By way of contrast, to solve a similar problem by the English system is much more complicated. To convert 3 and seven-eighth pounds to ounces requires multiplication of 3 and seven-eighths by 16.

The big problem is the cost that would be involved in a changeover. Estimates vary widely, but it is certain that the bill would be extremely high. It is said, for example, that just to make the necessary changes in the drawings alone used by the machine tool industry would cost $18 million. The head of the engineering staff of a major auto company has said, "We would dissipate something between one-sixth and one-fifth of the total value of the company in the conversion to the metric system, and we would have accomplished nothing at the end of it."

It is argued that adoption of the system would offer great advantages to our producers in increasing world trade, inasmuch as most of the other advanced nations use it. This is disputed. Some think that the economic advantages would accrue mainly to European producers, who now use the system and have lower labor costs, instead of to us.

In any event, much more will be heard of this matter in the relatively near future, as the cases for and against are developed. As of now, we are a long way from anything resembling a general agreement.

Protect Our Children

Schools throughout the area are opening this week and a flood of youngsters will inundate the traffic areas in response to the classroom call. Many of these children will be encountering traffic for the first time—others will be too excited about their new experiences to take a proper awareness of vehicle traffic.

Careful driving—particularly in areas near schools and playgrounds—should be required of every person who lets out a clutch and presses an accelerator. Children walking, children riding bicycles, children at play are all potential hazards for the drivers who must be constantly on the alert.

Thief River Falls has several areas which are devoid of sidewalks for school children to use. These are especially dangerous. Children who must travel these routes should be taught to walk on the left side of the street facing traffic. Importance of stopping and looking both ways before crossing at intersections should also be stressed for young pedestrains.

A second of carelessness can bring countless hours of sorrow, regret and suffering. Don't let it happen to you. We like the slogan: "Cars can't think; children don't think; YOU think."

The Curfew Call

Beginning Monday evening, the city fire siren will sound the curfew call at 10 p.m. every day. By the time its piercing wail fills the air, all city children under 17 years of age are to be in their homes or they will be in violation of the city's curfew law.

Little attention has been paid to the city's curfew ordinance over the past months. Perhaps it is because too little attention has been given that the city council has instructed the police department to increase stricter enforcement. Making the curfew call coincide with the opening of school should serve to increase its effectiveness.

Only for functions approved by the Mayor may the curfew be extended to midnight, and then only those people attending the functions will be exempt from the 10 p.m. call. In virtually all cases, the approved activities for curfew extension will be held on Friday night when there will be no school the next day.

Children violating the curfew and observed by the police department will be brought to the police station. Parents of the children will be called and advised to come and get them. Children not home at 10 p.m. must be in the company of their parents to be exempt from the curfew; those in company of adults other parents or guardians will not be exempt, according to the police department.

We believe that behavior and conduct of children are the responsibility of the parents, but the curfew should not preclude help the parents fulfill their obligations. that responsibility. If anything, it should rids

gasoline of impurities
(before they rob you of the power you pay for!)

Most gasolines are clean when they leave the refinery. But on the way to your car—in transit and in storage—they pick up impurities that could choke off power, reduce engine efficiency . . . could even stop you cold. Automotive engineers asked for an answer to this problem—American Oil Research developed the American FINAL/FILTER. It rids gasoline of tiny impurities right at the pump nozzle. If you depend on your car for your livelihood (and even if you don't) it pays to "fill 'er up filtered" with American, Regular or American, Super-Premium.

You expect more from Standard and you get it!

Pastor and Mrs. Jackson and Linda arrived home safely last week after a trip to Boston, Mass., New York, the Worlds Fair, Niagara Falls and traveling also in Canada. They were accompanied by her mother and sister. They visitde with relatives and friends and also his parents in Iowa. It was quite a coincidence to meet an old school friend of theirs, who is a missionary, in the Seamen's Club or hotel in New York. They had reserved rooms there.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Stennes took a rain check this weekend and left Thursday morning for the Twin Cities to see the Twins play ball. Thursday they were over night guests at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Hersing and son in Osseo. Friday evening Ed and his brother Curtis, went to the ball game. Saturday afternoon Mrs. Curtis Stennes, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Stennes attended the game. An Old inebriated grandpa sat behind Mrs. Stennes. Finally he wasn't able to hold his bottle any longer as he dropped it, splashing the wiskey on our legs as it broke. Luckily no glass hit us and he finally went to sleep. Why did he come in the first place? When I left I had an orange sign advertizing the Minnesota Knothole Gang pasted upside down on my back, which showed up very nicely on my black coat! Saturday evening we accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Stennes to visit Stenne's niece and family, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Dice of Richfield, where we also met Mrs. Harold Hope, sister of Stephen, who had just arrived by plane from Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. John Berggren an John Johnson visited with Mrs. Johnson in Fergus Falls on Sunday.

Those that visited with Martin Peterson last week were Torkel Koland, Eddie Johnson and Joe Smith, all of Stephen and Peteh Either of Argyle.

While returning from Massachusetts where Mr. Osmundson attended classes on a scholarship this summer, Mr. and Mrs. John Osmundson decided on stopping in New York to see the World's Fair. Stopping in New York they parked their car on a street and then locked it. Retuning shortly afterwards some one had broken into it and took all their luggage and clothing typewriter, valued at appromimately $100 as they hadn't left as much as a sweater. Mrs. Osmundson is Curtiss Stenne's daughter and they were returning to Rochester where he will teach again this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Koland of Minneapolis arrived at the Ted Kimbrough home Saturday. Then Kimbroughs and Kolands left foo a sight-seeing trip and intend to be gone about a week.

Questions Answered By Internal Revenue

These questions and answers on federal tax matters are provided by the U.S. Internal Revenue service and published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—My wife is expecting and the doctor says the baby will arrive either in late November or early December. Since the baby will be born this year we will be entitled to the $600 exemption this year. Can we start taking this exemption now for income tax withholding purposes?

A—No, you cannot. It is true that the baby can be claimed for the full $600 exemption regardless of the birth date, but the exemption cannot be claimed for withholding purposes until the birth occurs.

The law on income tax withholding specifies the minimum amount that must be withheld based on income, exemptions and frequence of pay period. A taxpayer can not add an exemption to which he is not entitled for withholding purposes.

Q—I have been told that income tax refunds will be automatically forwarded by the post office. Is this so, or should I let you know my new address?

A—If you have filed a change of address form with the postmaster at your old address, then your mail should be forwarded to your new address. However, you also should notify your District Director of Internal Revenue in St. Paul of your new address.

Q—I graduated from college in June. Several companies paid my expenses to visit their offices in connection with job interviews. Is this expense money taxable&

A—This reimbursement should be included as income only to the extent that it exceeds your actual expenses. If the expense money was all spent on interview costs, then nothing need be included as income.

Q—I have moved my barber shop and the address shown on my Form 941 is no longer correct. How can I get it changed?

A—Write to the district director giving both your new and old business address, along with your employer identification number.

Q—I filed my 1964 tax return before I moved here from out of state. Now I find I should file an amended return. Where should it be sent—to the office here, or to the office where I sent my original return.

A—File your amended return with the district office serving your new address, with the words "amended return" plainly written across the top. However, be sure to let them know where the original return was filed and what your old address was.

Q—I just got a letter that my return is being audited. Specifically, I'm being asked about my mother who I claim as a dependent. What sort of records should I bring in?

A—To show that you are entitled to claim your mother as a dependent, you should be able to substantiate that you provided more than one-half her total support for the year; that her gross income was under $600; and that she did not file a joint return with another taxpayer for the year in question.

If you claimed a deduction for any of your mother's medical expenses, then records of these expenses should be brought along.

Q—I bought some stock recently and was surprised to learn that I had to supply my Social Security number to the corporation. Why is that?

A—Payers of dividends and interest are required by law to report all such payments when they amount to $10 or more during a year. These reports to the Internal Revenue service are identified by tax account numbers. This is the Social Security number for most individuals.

Q—I have a second job that I work at several hours a day. This employer also withholds Social Security. Is there any way to get him to stop, since my first employer takes out enough to meet my maximum each year?

A—No, each employer is required by law to withhold a certain amount on the first $4,800 of wages paid to every employee. If more than $174 in Social Security is withheld from you during the year, the excess may be taken as a credit against your income tax when you file your return next year.

Q—I just got a substantial raise and believe I may have to amend my declaration of estimated tax. Is there a deadline for doing this?

A—If the raise was received after June 1 and before September 2, then an amended declaration must be filed by September 15.

Stain Removal Advice Given by Home Economists

Perspiration stains on Dad's shirt grass stains on Junior's trousers, spots from fresh fruit on the tablecloth—these are problems that confront Mom on a typical wash day in summer.

Summer brings special problems from clothing stains, but these stains are not likely to be permanent on clothing if they're treated promptly and properly, says extension clothing specialists at the University of Minnesota.

The specialists give these suggestions for treating special stains:

Perspiration—Wash or sponge the stain thoroughly with warm water if the fabric is washable. If perspiration has changed the color, try to restore it by applying ammonia to fresh stains or vinegar to old stains. Follow with a rinse of clear water. Remove any yellow discoloration with a chlorine or peroxygen bleach.

Grass—If the fabric is washable, work detergent into the stain and rinse, or sponge with alcohol if the article is colorfast, diluting the alcohol with two parts of water for acetate fabrics. If the stain is stubborn, try hydrogen peroxide or a chlorine or sodium perborate bleach, but never use chlorine on wool, silk, spandex or on a wash-and-wear cotton with resin finish.

Fruit—Sponge the spot immediately with cool water or soak the stain in cool water for half an hour or overnight. If a stain remains, pour boiling water through it from a height of one to three feet. If necessary after that, work a detergent into it and then rinse. A chlorine or peroxygen bleach may still be necessary.

Ice cream and milk drinks—Sponge with cool or lukewarm water if the fabric is washable or soak for half an hour or longer. Then wash in warm, soapy water. If a greasy stain remains, sponge with grease solvent.

Grapes, frozen orange juice, turkeys and peanut butter are on the U. S. Department of Agriculture's list of plentiful foods for September.

NIGHT and DAY

In mills and factories across the country, they never stop working. By night as well as by day, the wheels of commerce grind out the goods we need as a nation.

It's a twenty-four hour job, this business of production, and it's a vital job — to you, your family, your town, our whole country. Like most vital jobs, it can't be stopped.

Faith is a vital job, too. It isn't simply something that God gives you, free of charge, on Christmas and at Easter. You have to work for real faith. You have to earn it. You have to keep at it.

Fortunately, to help you gain and sustain this vital faith, you have the Church to guide you. Start attending every Sunday and there absorb the wonders of God's teachings.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL - ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Sunday	Monday	Tuesday	Wednesday	Thursday	Friday	Saturday
Nehemiah 4:15-23	Psalms 104:24-35	Matthew 24:36-44	Luke 13:10-17	John 6:26-34	I Corinthians 3:10-15	Ephesians 2:1-10

Those Religious Messages contributed to the CAUSE of the CHURCH and COMMUNITY by the FOLLOWING LOYAL CITIZENS and BUSINESSES . . . THEY DESERVE YOUR CONTINUED SUPPORT!

SKETCH of the new library to be built in Thief River Falls at an estimated cost of $171,000 has been prepared by the architectural firm of Hammel, Green and Abrahamson of St. Paul. Completed plans are expected early this week when the city council will call for bids to be opened at 2 p.m. on September 28. The 94x115 building will have its entrance on the north and will include, in addition to the main library area, a multi-purpose room, work room, staff room, librarian's office, cloak room area and public and staff rest rooms. A bookmobile garage has been provided with the future possibilities of a regional library The building will have a brick exterior, will be heated with natural gas and provided with air conditioning. City's share of the cost will be about $60,000.

Supreme Court Orders New Trial in Wangberg Case

Minnesota Supreme Court has over-ruled a district court decision and ordered a new trial in the case of Paul Wangberg, Thief River Falls youth, convicted of second degree murder in 1962. The trial was held in Warren with the conviction returned by the jury on December 22. The shooting on which Wangberg was tried occurred in February of the same year.

In announcing reversal of the lower court and granting of a new trial in the case, the supreme court decision stated the following:

"1. In the prosecution of a clergyman's son for murder in the second degree, it was reversible error to permit the state to suggest in its final argument that because of defendant's familiarity with Scriptures he should be held to a higher standard of conduct than others differently situated or to invite the jury to disregard the defense of insanity because it is not one which is recognized under Divine Law."

"2. Where an expert witness is permitted to testify without the use of a hypothetical question, it is error for him to base his opinion on disputed facts or on facts not revealed to the jury or on the opinions of other experts."

In his opinion on the case, Justice Otis said, "Defendant appeals from a conviction for murder in the second degree and from an order denying his motion for a new trial. The issues concern the propriety of the prosecutor's final argument and the foundation for opinion testimony dealing with the defense of insanity."

The case evolved from incidents on Feb. 17, 1962, when Wangberg left the family home with a rifle after a dispute with his father, was pursued by two Thief River Falls policemen in the city's squad car and, after the Wangberg car was stopped, the fatal shooting of Sgt. Donald Myers in an exchange of gunfire in which Wangberg was himself wounded.

The district court appointed a commission consisting of a doctor and a psychologist to examine the defendant for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not he was competent to stand trial. On the basis of their report, the court found "the defendant is dangerous to the public, insane and has homicidal tendencies." He was committed to the state security hospital at St. Peter on April 19, 1962, and remained there until Dec. 2, 1962, when he was returned to Marshall county for trial.

Hearing on Milk Producers Case Scheduled Friday

Hearing on the validity of marketing agreements between three Pennington county milk producers and Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., will be held Friday, September 10, at 2 p.m. in the courtroom of the Pennington county courthouse in Thief River Falls. The hearing was originally set for Crookston, where temporary injunctions against the three producers were issued, but was changed to Thief River Falls on a request for venue change by attorneys for the producers.

The producers, members of the Red River Valley Milk Marketing pool, sought to divert the milk produced on their farms to other markets. Their present agreements with Land O'Lakes call for them to continue delivery to Land O'Lakes for 180 days following notification of the cooperative that they intend to cancel their agreements.

According to Wallace Jordet, manager of the Land O'Lakes milk and ice cream department in Thief River Falls, the producers have complied with the restraining order and milk has been picked up regularly from their farms. Land O'Lakes has refused to sign a contract with the pool which would guarantee a price to producers.

The cooperative has stated that it is a marketing organization and returns to producers the receipts of its sales less cost of sales and operating expense. Producers who were issued restraining orders include Darrow and Merle Lundeen of rural Trail and Olaf and Orlin Siolans, rural Oklee.

Posting of Mail One Hour Earlier

Due to the change of standard time this week, mail for delivery in the Twin Cities must be posted by 8:30 p.m. at the local post office, according to R. J. Dryden, postmaster. Air mail must be posted by 2:30 p.m. The change will be in effect until the entire country returns to standard time in October.

DST Ends Early Tuesday Morning

Minnesotans will gain back the hour of sleep they lost three months ago when daylight saving time officially comes to an end at 2 a.m. Tuesday. Clocks should be set back one hour by area residents before they retire on Monday night. It will be apparent, of course, that darkness will descend on the area an hour earlier than while daylight saving time was in effect during the summer months.

Republicans Plan District Meet in Moorhead, Sept. 25

Republicans in the 7th Congressional district have scheduled a district meeting in Moorhead on September 25 as the result of action at a recent party executive committee meeting in Detroit Lakes.

The executive committee called a special meeting of the district party's central committee to hear mid-year progress reports from district's 23 counties on various party organizational programs including the GOP's annual Neighbor-to-Neighbor fund drive, scheduled for September 21-25. The district central committee includes county chairmen and chairwomen on their alternates as well as members of the executive committee.

Robert Bigwood, Fergus Falls, district party chairman, is urging all county finance chairmen, Neighbor-to-Neighbor workers and all other Republicans and their spouses in the district to attend and acquaint themselves with current party problems and goals.

Among other matters the central committee will take up are the election of a new vice-chairman to replace Dr. Lloyd Kielstad, Greenbush, as head of Area I which includes Kittson, Roseau, Lake-of-the-Woods, Marshall, Beltrami, Polk, Pennington, Red Lake and Clearwater counties.

Named to committees for the 1965 GOP Convention set for October in Rochester were James Wilson, Thief River Falls, and Mrs. V. D. Bredemeier, Staples, credentials committee; and Lyle McManus, Fergus Falls, and Mrs. Helen Halme, Wadena, rules committee.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Wigness and family of Minot, N.D., and Mrs. Walter Lambert of Hazel spent last Thursday evening with Mrs. Anita Tyner.

United Fund Has Annual Meeting

Election of directors and officers and distribution of funds was accomplished at the annual meeting of the Pennington County United Fund held Wednesday evening in the Rex cafe in Thief River Falls. Total receipts of the fund were $13,414.54 or 74 per cent of the $17,635 quota.

L. B. Hartz was elected chairman of the fund for the coming year with Dr. Donald Goodrich as vice chairman and Vernon E. Nelson as secretary-treasurer. The fiscal year for the organization ended August 1.

Directors elected include the following: Business—L. B. Hartz, Arnold Narverud and Vernon E. Nelson; Rural—Edgar Naplin, Silas Hanson and Donald Knutson; Labor—Anthony Kozojed, S. A. Honebrink and Lloyd Veven; and Professional—Kenneth Swenson, Dr. Donald Goodrich and Dr. Arnold Berg. Hartz, Knutson, Kozojed, Veven and Dr. Berg are new members of the board.

Distribution of funds was made on the basis of 74 per cent of amount budgeted for each at the start of the drive. This included the following: USO, $144.30; Minnesota Association for Retarded Children, $1,276.50; Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, $299.70; Children's Home Society, $407; Sister Kenny Foundation, $740; Minnesota Society for Crippled Children and Adults, $932.40; Red Cross, $1,480; Boy Scouts, $2,960; Girl Scouts, $1,480; Salvation Army, $2,960; and Camp Courage (Special Request), $75.

Total disbursement to participating organizations was $12,754.90 with $659.64 used for administrative expense in conducting the drive.

Brooks To Stage Fall Festival All Day Saturday

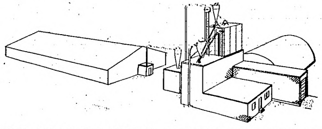
Brooks will hold its first fall festival celebration Saturday with a number of events planned for the day. Featured entertainers will be the North Star Cycle Patrol from Grand Rapids—a 21 member motorcycle unit which will perform precision maneuvers in Brooks at 1:30 p.m.

Foot and sack races for children up to 15 years of age will be held at 10 a.m. with a pie-eating contest scheduled for 11:45 a.m. At noon a community auction will be held (items donated may be listed with Aurel Parenteau at Brooks) and at 1 p.m. a doll buggy parade for children up to age 10 will be conducted. A tug-of-war will follow the community auction and there will be games.

Men's and ladies races will also be held, a dunking tank will be in operation and a bake sale and hobby shop for sale of home-made items will be arranged. St. Joseph's Guild No. 1 will serve lunch during the day and free drawings will be held for several items.

Concluding event of the festival will be a street dance at 9 p.m. with music by the Perreault Rhythm band.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hayes received the announcement of a birth of a daughter, Elizabeth Claire, to Captain and Mrs. John (Cleo) Busbee of Okinawa. The little Miss was born Tuesday, August 31.



ALFALFA from farms within 100 miles of Thief River Falls will be processed at this pelletizing plant to be built by Northwest Pellet association, a local cooperative. The plant will be located one mile north of the Thief River Falls city limits between highway 32 and the Great Northern railroad tracks. The cooperative plans to build the main plant 50x50 in size, a 40x80 building for storage of pellets and a 60x200 pole building for hay storage prior to processing. The plant will process sun-cured alfalfa hay delivered to the plant in bales form.

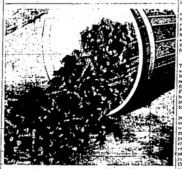
Plans Move Forward for Alfalfa Pelletizing Plant

Adventist School Opened Wednesday

Classes begin Wednesday for children of the Seventh-day Adventist elementary school in Thief River Falls. Rev. Gary Schwartz will again be in charge of the school. Teachers are Mrs. Maynard Molskness and William A. Stebbins. Mrs. Molskness is teaching for the second consecutive year. She came to this city in 1946 and taught for two years at the old church school. She returned to the profession last year after having married and raised her family.

Stebbins will be conducting classes at the school for the first time. He is a native of Minneapolis, where he received his elementary and secondary education. He has attended Emmanuel Missionary college at Berrien Springs, Mich., the University of Minnesota at St. Paul and Moorhead State college. He is married and the father of four children.

BLUEPRINTS for the alfalfa pelletizing plant to be constructed by Northwest Pellet association are studied in the above photo by Art S. Stenberg, Thief River Falls, left, and Roy Wiseth, Goodridge, respective president and secretary-treasurer of the board of directors of the cooperative. The association recently was granted a loan of $150,000 by the Farmers Home administration for construction of the plant which is expected to be in operation next year.



PELLETS to be produced at the Northwest Pellet association alfalfa pelletizing plant to be built at Thief River Falls will be similar to those pictured above. The container above is one-half gallon in size and the pellets are about the thickness of a standard pencil. These pellets were obtained from one of the plants visited by local association representatives while studying various aspects of plant construction and operation.

Faculty Members Will Be Hosted On September 27

Teachers in the Thief River Falls school system will be welcomed on Monday, September 27, by the Thief River Falls community, according to Dr. Herbert Achenbach, chairman of the event for the education committee of the local Chamber of Commerce.

A program will be held at 8 p.m. in the Lincoln senior high school auditorium with Dr. Rodney Briggs, president of the University of Minnesota at Morris, as the guest speaker. A buffet luncheon will be served in the school cafeteria following the program.

All Chamber of Commerce members and their wives are urged to attend the event with luncheon tickets being sold for one dollar per couple. Faculty members will be guests of the Chamber of Commerce. Assisting Dr. Achenbach with arrangements for the event are Sid Lieberman, Dr. A. E. Jacobson and Supt. M. R. Hankerson.

With authorization of a loan for $150,000 from the Farmers Home administration now granted, Northwest Pellet association is moving forward rapidly to assure having an alfalfa pelletizing plant in operation at Thief River Falls next year, according to Art S. Stenberg, chairman of the association's board of directors.

Arrangements are being made to secure equipment for the plant which is to be located one mile north of the Thief River Falls city limits between highway 32 and the Great Northern railroad tracks. An eight-acre site has been optioned for purchase from Merle Dagen. Site selection was based on dust problems which might arise from processing sun-cured hay and odor which would result if drying of hay is necessary to bring it to the proper moisture content.

The processing plant itself will include a 50 x 50 building of concrete block, part of which will be two stories high, designed to be made as fireproof as possible. This building will have overhead storage for about 100 tons of pellets. An additional storage area, 40 x 80 and 19 feet high, will be used to store pellets prior to shipment. Current plans are to erect a pole-type building 60 x 200 for storage of baled hay which is to be pelletized.

The pelletizing plant equipment will include a shredder, hammermill and two pelletizing machines, each having a capacity of about four tons of processed pellets per hour. Hay will be moved from the shredder through the remainder of the operation to pellet storage by forced air.

To Use Sun-Cured Hay

It is to be emphasized that the Thief River Falls plant will use sun-cured hay for pelletizing, Stenberg said. The operation here will not be a dehydrating plant where field-chopped hay is processed. Farmers may use their regular haying equipment for cutting, raking, conditioning and baling hay for delivery to the plant.

Officers of the association expect that the plant will serve an area with a 100-mile radius. There will be no contracts for productions and hay will be purchased from producers much as grain is purchased by elevators. Using an average of two tons of hay produced per acre, association officers calculate that the production from 15,000 to 18,000 acres of alfalfa could be handled by the plant. Plant capacity is to be approximately 100 tons per day.

At the present time the association estimates that it will pay approximately $15 per ton for hay delivered to the plant. Price will vary according to the quality and protein of hay delivered, Stenberg said.

Pellets produced by the plant will weigh about 44 pounds per bushel and can be marketed anywhere in the United States or shipped to foreign markets. It will take about 2,200 pounds of hay to produce a ton of pellets. After processing, pellets must be cooled for storage at 10 per cent or less moisture content.

Hay quality will be important to farmers selling to the plant, Stenberg said. Hay containing more than 20 per cent of grasses other than alfalfa will cause problems in the shredding and hammering

Elizabeth Droppo And Donald D. Ekeberg Wed

Miss Elizabeth Jane Droppo and Donald Dean Ekeberg of Minneapolis were married recently at the Salem Lutheran church, Minneapolis, with the Rev. Doctor Paul Witzler officiating at the double ring ceremony.

The parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Droppo of Thief River Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ekeberg of Blue Earth.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a floor-length gown of white delustered satin fashioned with a figure molding bodice, long sleeves and a scooped neckline accented with Alencon lace appliques and trimed with seed pearls. The wind swept skirt featured lace flowers appliqued on the front panel, a bow at the natural waistline and a chapel-length train. She wore a lace mantilla headpiece and carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and stephanotis on a white Bible, a gift from her great uncle. The 'something old' was a pressed rose from her grandmother's bridal bouquet and her jewelry included a single pearl pendant and pearl button earrings.

Miss Christilla Schermerhorn attended the bride as maid of honor and Barbara Benson was bridesmaid. They wore identical floor-length gowns of silk organza over taffeta, shading from pale pink to a deep rose, styled with an empire 'waist-line outlined with a deep rose velvet ribbon forming a bow in front with long streamers. To complement their attire, they wore large pink bow headpieces, pink gloves, rose pumps and carried cascading bouquets of pink and red roses. Their jewels were pearl pendants and pearl button earrings.

The groom was attended by Mike Romas of Minneapolis as best man and Gerold Sharp, also of Minneapolis, as groomsman. The men of the wedding party wore semi-formal daytime tuxedos morning trousers, gray vests and charcoal gray coats with pink rose boutonnieres. The groom's boutonniere was a red rose. Ushers were Earl Droppo, Minneapolis, brother of the bride, and Reuben Henke, Blue Earth, uncle of the groom.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Droppo wore a beige lace dress with beige and brown accessories. The mother of the groom wore a blue dacron dress with white accessories. Both wore identical corsages of pink roses with white carnations and white rose buds.

At the reception given in Luther Hall, Mrs. Joe Poole, sister of the bride, served as hostess. The three-tiered wedding cake, decorated in pale pink and white and topped by white wedding bells, was cut and served by Mrs. Richard Underdahl, cousin of the bride. Mrs. Lorraine Henke, aunt of the groom, poured and the waitresses were Nancy Swanson, Pat Malachowski, Mrs. Larry Anderson and Mrs. Larry Ellingson.

Mrs. Lyle Geshe, sister of the groom, registered the guests who came from Minneapolis, St. Paul, Anoka, Blue Earth and Thief River Falls.

In the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Poole hosted a dinner at their home in Anoka for the immediate members of the families and close friends. At that time, the bridal couple opened their gifts. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ekeberg of Blue Earth, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Droppo, Mr. and Mrs. Erling Olson and Richard and Muriel Poole, all of Thief River Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Underdahl of Mentor, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Henke of Blue Earth and Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Geshe, Jay, Sherry and Todd and Earl Droppo, all of Minneapolis.

The bride, a graduate of Lincoln high school, attended Bemidji State college and is employed at Northwestern Bell telephone company. The groom is a graduate of Blue Earth high school and the University of Minnesota and is employed as an industrial engineer for Brown and Bigelow.

Mr. and Mrs. Ekeberg are at home at 2804 Portland Avenue, South Minneapolis.

Barbara Nelson And Roger Baker Betrothed

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Nelson of Badger announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Ann, to Roger Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Baker of Thief River Falls.

Miss Nelson is a 1963 graduate of Badger high school and also a graduate of the Thief River Falls Area Vocational-technical school and is employed at the Roseau Count Extension Office in Roseau.

M. Baker is a graduate of Concordia College at Moorhead and is teaching in Roseau.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Vern Holmstroms, Oklee, Feted On 25th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Holmstrom of Oklee were honored Sunday, August 29, when approximately 60 relatives gathered at the Clifford Johnson home at Newfolden in observance of their 25th wedding anniversary. Hosting the event were their sons, Barry and Craig Holmstrom.

With them for the occasion were their attendants at their wedding 25 years ago, Mrs. Glendon Hanson of Center City, a sister of Mr. Holmstrom, and Berton Johnson of Thief River Falls, a brother of Mrs. Holmstrom. Also attending were the parents of Mr. Holmstrom, Mr. and Mrs. August Holmstrom of Newfolden. Mrs. Vernon Holmstrom is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Nels Johnson of Thief River Falls.

Mrs. Magnus Bakke, aunt of Mrs. Holmstrom, was in charge of the short program which included an original reading by Mrs. Glendon Hanson of Center City, a sister of Mr. Holmstrom, and a poem by Craig Holmstrom. Musical numbers were a solo by Norris Trochmann and a duet by Janice Wold and Linda Trochmann.

Gracing the serving table was an anniversary cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. Gil Sannes, a close friend of the family, while bouquets of roses and gladioli, gifts from the August Holmstroms added a festive touch to the room.

Mrs. Wallace Holmstrom of St. Paul, sister-in-law of Mr. Holmstrom and Mrs. Norris Trochmann, sister of Mrs. Holmstrom, cut and served the cake; Mrs. John Do'a of Detroit Lakes, aunt of Mrs. Holmstrom, poured; JoAnn Doran of Brainard and Barbara Johnson of Newfolden served the punch and Linda Trochmann registered the guests. Mrs. Berton Johnson of Thief River Falls, sister-in-law of Mrs. Holmstrom, assisted in opening the many gifts.

Guests attending were from New York, Drayton, N. D.; Center City, St. Paul, Circle Pines, Brainerd, Detroit Lakes and surrounding areas.

A telephone call extending congratulations and best wishes was also received from an uncle and aunt of Mrs. Holmstrom, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Bottom of Superior, Wis.

Leo Horiens, Holt, Honored On Their 45th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Horien of Holt marked their 45th wedding anniversary on Sunday, August 27. To begin the memorable day, the honored couple, their children and grandchildren attended morning worship services at Nazareth Lutheran church at Holt. In the afternoon they returned to the church where an open house was held in their honor. For the occasion, Mrs. Horien was presented with a corsage of white feathered carnations centered with yellow roses. Mr. Horein was given a white feathered carnation boutonniere.

Hosting the event were their nine children, Mrs. Lawrence (Lucille) Hams of International Falls, Donald of Holt, Howard of San Diego, Calif.; Jerome of Minneapolis, Robert of Thief River Falls; Mrs. Clifford (Norma) Dahle of Holt, Leon of St. Paul, Mrs. Donald (Bonny) Peterson of Middle River and Mrs. James (Mary) Swan of Eveleth. They were assisted by members of their families. Unable to attend were Donald and Howard.

A short program was presented at 2 p.m. with Mrs. Hans Ness in charge of devotions. Mrs. Johnny Nelson gave a reading and Mrs. John Ness spoke in behalf of the members of Circle Three. Musical numbers included "Silver Threads Among the Gold" and "Just a Closer Walk with Thee" by Bob and Arlene Skoglund. The Rev. Milton Wilson closed the program with greetings and prayer. Following the presentation of the cards and gifts from the group by Mrs. Johnny Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Horien responded with words of appreciation.

In charge of serving the reception that followed were members of Circle Three. The tables were decorated with blue candles and arrangements of flowers brought by friends of the couple. Gracing the serving table and flanked by blue candles was a two-tiered anniversary cake decorated with blue roses and topped with white wedding bells. Sisters of Mrs. Horien, Mrs. Mabel Brattell, Holt, cut and served the wedding cake and Mrs. John Reed of Thief River Falls, poured, LuAnn Lillevold, assisted by four grandchildren of the honored couple, Christe and Lori Dahle, Susan Hams and Francis Horien attended the gift table.

Ivanelle Horien, another grandchild, was in charge of registering the 150 guests that attended from Pontiac Mich.; St. Hilaire, Middle River, Newfolden, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Eveleth, International Falls, Thief River Falls, Grygla and surrounding areas.

George Schulkes And Carl Hovies Feted At Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. George Schulke and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hovie were honored guests Monday, August 30, at a 7 p.m. dinner at the Rex Cafe. Hosting the affair were the Rural Letter Carriers of Thief River Falls. Mr. Schulke and Mr. Hovie retired recently as rural letter carriers.

Those attending besides the honored guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bischel, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nabben and Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Nabben.

This was also in the form of a farewell party as Mr. and Mrs. Schulke will be making their home in St. Paul.

Sow And Hoe Garden Club To Meet Tuesday

Sow and Hoe Garden club of Thief River Falls will meet Tuesday, September 7, at 8 p.m. in the meeting room of the Pennington County court house with Mrs. Marie Cernousek as program chairman.

Roll call will be answered by members bringing a new flower or plant raised this year. Slides on Mums will be shown. Before attending the meeting, members are reminded to stop at the home of Mrs. Inga Geving to see the mums. Host and hostess will be Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Gunderson.

Catherine Lindenmeyer Weds Robert Gaugler

Bolling Air Force base chapel at Washington, D. C., was the scene of the marriage of Miss Catherine Rosine Lindenmeyer to Robert Walter Gaugler on Saturday, Sept 4, at 4 p.m. with Chaplain Earl Minor, Lt. Col. of the United States Air Force, officiating.

The parents of the bride are Lt. Col. and Mrs. John H. Lindenmeyer, USAF, Ret. of 4423 Culbreath Avenue, Tampa, Fla. and formerly of Thief River Falls. Her parents both taught at Lincoln high school. Col. Lindenmeyer was the football coach. He is now a professor of political science at the University of Tampa. The maternal grandmother of the bride is Mrs. H. S. Dahlen of Thief River Falls. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland C. Gaugler of 30 Dorothy Drive, North Haledon, Paterson, N. J.

Given in marriage by her father, Lt. Col. John H. Lindenmeyer, the bride wore a gown of silk organza over taffeta fashioned with a scoop neckline, elbow length sleeves and a fitted bodice. The full skirt was accented with clusters of seed pearls and extended into a full length court train. Her elbow length, bouffant, silk illusion veil was attached to a small lace covered pillbox headpiece. She wore a pearl drop necklace worn by both the groom's mother and maternal grandmother at their wedding and carried a Brussels lace handkerchief carried by her mother and maternal grandmother at their weddings. Her bouquet was an arrangement of white roses and ivy.

Gretchen Ann Lindenmeyer of Tampa, Fla., attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Carolyn Gaugler of North Haledon, N. J., sister of the groom and Virginia Louise Lineman of Verona, N. J.

The groom was attended by Leonard Rennick of Philadelphia, Pa., as best man. Ushers were Robert Kirchman of Herald Harbor, Md., and Harvey Kriloff of Chicago, Ill.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the Bolling Air Force Base Officers' Club.

The bride was graduated from the Pennsylvania State university in 1963 and remained at that university for a year of graduate work. She is now employed by the United States office of Education, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare at Washington, D. C.

The groom is a 1964 graduate of Hope College, Holland, Mich. He attended graduate school at Penn State, received an M. S. degree in 1965. This month he will begin work for his Ph.D. from Catholic University, Washington, D. C. He is a member of the American chemical society.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

MRS. DARYL LEWIS

With the chilly weather comes fall and then winter and the return of a healthy appetite for your husband and a bunch of happy, hungry children. And you, the homemaker, must decide what to feed them. Normally this is a problem, but with this recipe for hot dish, you can't go wrong. It is a hearty taste-tempting dish that makes a meal in one. As an extra special oriental touch, you may sprinkle chow mein noodles on top or, if you prefer, potato chips or corn flakes may be sprinkled on for a crunchy topping.

HOT DISH

Boil one cup of rice in three cups of water and one teaspoon of salt. Chop one cup of celery and cook until tender saving the juice. Brown and season one pound of ground beef with as much onion as desired. Add cooked rice and celery; then add one can cream of chicken soup; one can cream of mushroom soup, two tablespoons soy sauce and celery juice. Place in buttered casserole and sprinkle topping on if desired. Bake 30 to 45 minutes in a 375 degree oven.

Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Lewis own a 240 acre farm seven miles west of Thief River Falls. A dairy and grain farmer, Mr. Lewis is also a truck driver and mechanic for Bill Hoglo.

Mrs. Lewis helps her husband with the farm chores in addition to a project of her own—raising turkeys. She enjoys baking cooking, vegetable and flower gardening, embroidering, crocheting and she especially likes music.

The Lewis' have one son, Timothy Scott, who is six years old. He will be in the first grade at Washington Elementary school, Thief River Falls.

The Lewis family belongs to the Oak Ridge Lutheran church where Mrs. Lewis is a member of the Ladies Aid and teaches Sunday school. She is also a member of the Good Cheer club which is a club for spreading good cheer to needy people in that their projects consist of making things for the unfortunate people of the community.

Red River Pollution Is Subject of Area Hearing

Pollution of the interstate waters of the Red River of the North and its tributaries involving Minnesota and North Dakota will be the subject of a conference to be held September 14 at 9:30 (C.S.T.) in the Civic Memorial auditorium, 201 Fourth st. N., Fargo, N. D.

The conference was called by Wilbur J. Cohen, acting secretary of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, on the basis of reports, surveys or studies. Under the Federal Water Pollution Control Act (Public Law 660), the secretary is empowered to call such conferences where interstate pollution is believed to occur.

Purpose of the conference is to give representatives of the federal government as well as state and local public agencies, industries, conservation groups, and all other interested groups and individuals in Minnesota and North Dakota the opportunity to discuss present and future uses of the river for such purposes as water supply, industry, irrigation and recreation; how such uses are being or will be affected by pollution; and what action has been taken should be taken relative to the pollution of the river.

Representatives of both the Minnesota Water Pollution Control commission and the comparable agency or agencies in North Dakota will participate as conferees in the meeting as will representatives of the U. S. Public Health service. Serving as conferees for the Minnesota Water Pollution Control commission are George C. Scott, commission vice-chairman, Le Sueur; Russel G. Schwandt, member of commission; Lyle H. Smith, chief of the Minnesota Department of Health's section of water pollution control and executive engineer to the commission. Murray Stein, chief of the enforcement branch of the division of water supply and pollution control, U. S. Public Health service, will serve as conference chairman.

Following presentations by representatives of the U. S. Public Health service and the Minnesota and North Dakota water pollution control agencies, the conference will be open for oral and written statements from municipalities, industries and other interested groups All groups planning to attend and present statements are asked to notify the commission in advance who their representatives will be.

To save time and avoid repetition it is suggested that groups with similar interests select a single spokesman to present a combined statement in their behalf. Minnesota groups or individuals unable to attend may send written statements to the Minnesota Water Pollution Control commission prior to the conference for submission to the conferees.

Following the conference, the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, shall prepare and forward to all the water pollution control agencies attending the conference a summary of conference discussions including: (1) occurrence of pollution of interstate and navigable waters subject to abatement under the Federal Water Pollution Control Act; (2) adequacy of measures taken toward abatement of the pollution; and (3) nature of delays, if any, being encountered in abating the pollution.

If the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare believes, upon the conclusion of the conference or thereafter, that effective progress toward abatement of such pollution is not being made and the health or welfare of any person is being endangered, he will recommend to the appropriate state water pollution control agency that it take necessary remedial action.

Plans Move Forward For Pelletizing Plant

process. Careful haying to preserve protein content will also be of advantage to farmers in the price they receive for their product.

In addition to a manager, buyer and salesman, it is expected the plant will require a crew of four to five men for operating each shift. If the hay supply is sufficient, the plant can operate on a 24-hour basis, using three shifts of workers. The plant will also be equipped to blend barley and corn with hay to be pelletized on a custom basis.

Background and Organization

Alfalfa pelletizing in this area has been a subject of discussion for a number of years Stenberg noted. Reactivation of the area came through the Pennington county Rural Areas Development (RAD) group. Tours were made by interested farmers and local businessmen into southern Minnesota and the University of Minnesota, and to Fargo and Scranton, N.D., to study pelletizing potential and operations.

An area meeting was called early this year in the Thief River Falls city audiotrium, at which time a temporary board of directors was elected. This board now is conducting affairs of the association and includes Stenberg, chairman; Henry Panek, Goodridge, vice chairman; Roy Wiseth, Goodridge, secretary-treasurer; Albert Kotrba, Goodridge; Otto Rupprecht and Curtis Swanson, Thief River Falls; and Leonard Melin, Red Lake Falls.

Articles of incorporation were adopted by the board and the association is organized as a cooperative which is capitalized for non-voting common stock is offered for sale in the cooperative. Only producers may purchase common stock which carries voting privileges. The stock is non-assessable as stated in the articles of incorporation.

"After lengthy study of the pelletizing operations of other plants and careful consideration of supply and market prospects, the board is both enthusiastic and optimistic about plant operations at Thief River Falls," Stenberg said. "We have had requests from people in North Dakota who are interested in seeing a plant started here as a market for their hay.

"We feel that the plant will be of advantage to livestock producers in the area, particularly sheep and beef cattle raisers, by providing a feed which is easy to handle and high in food value. It is our hope that progress on the project can be made to the extent that footings for the plant can be completed before freeze-up this fall."

Services Held For Accident Victim, Mrs. Bill Carlson

Mrs. Bill Carlson, 71, of Mora and formerly of the Thief Lake refuge, died Friday, August 27, shortly after being involved in a two car collision at Mora. Her husband is in critical condition in a Mora hospital.

The accident occured as the Carlson car pulled away from the curb in front of a restaurant where the couple had eaten dinner and was rammed by a car on the highway.

Funeral services for Mrs. Bill Carlson were held Tuesday, August 31, at 1 p.m. at Mora with interment in Lakewood cemetery at Minneapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Carlson were well known in this area where Mr. Carlson was Refuge manager from 1939-49 at Thief Lake Refuge. Prior to coming to this area, Mr. and Mrs. Carlson lived for a number of years at Waskish where he was manager of the Red Lake Refuge area.

Mrs. Carlson, the former Helen Wilder, was actively intered in area activities while the Carlson's lived at Thief Lake and shared her husband's interest in Wild Life Conservation.

She is survived by her husband, two sons, one daughter and one brother.

SNEEZING IN RESPONSE TO LIGHT

Q. I have a tendency to sneeze when suddenly exposed to bright light. Is there a medical explanation for this "allergy" to light?

A. This reaction to bright light is by no means an allergy. Sneezing in response to light is a type of reflex action which is more common than might be expected. Among hospital patients questioned, better than 15 per cent of white patients had observed the reaction in themselves. In contrast, the reaction was not observed by colored persons. The attitude of persons being questioned about the photic (response to light) sneeze is of interest. Many who have never experienced the reflex reacted to questioning in a surprised way, as much as to say, "Are you crazy or something?" Conversely, one woman who was questioned said, "Why, I thought everyone did."

FLAT FEET AND HEREDITY

Q. Is the tendency toward flat feet passed along from one generation to another?

A. It seems to be. The majority of children with flat feet have the deformity as a result of generalized laxity of ligaments which normally support the arch. It is not unusual to find that one or both parents of such children also have this condition.

Rites Held For Norden Farmer, William Bradley

William Bradley, 81, a resident of the Thief River Falls community since 1942, died unexpectedly Tuesday morning at Northwestern hospital.

Funeral services for William Bradley were held Friday at 1:30 p.m. in the Green Funeral chapel. The Rev. Merrill Harris officiated and interment was in the Oakdale cemetery at Crookston.

William Bradley was born Nov. 3, 1880 to John and Aley Bradley at Mason City, Ill., where he attended school and grew to manhood. He was united in marriage to Bertha Elmore at Mason City, Ill., on Dec. 28, 1902 and she preceded him in death in 1911. In 1907 he and his family moved to a farm near Warren.

He was married in 1914 to Josephine Svabada at Warren. He farmed at Fisher and Crookston before moving in 1912 to a farm in Norden township, Pennington county where he had since resided. His second wife, Josephine, preceded him in death on Oct. 17, 1919.

He is survived by five daughters: Mrs. Morris (Alma) Anderson of Fisher, Mrs. James (Florence) Wood of Osseo, Mrs. Herbert (Irene) Werre of Lodi, Calif., and Mrs. Lazier (Grace) Bonawitz and Mrs. James (Fern) Helfort both of Moorhead.

Also six sons: Donald, Harry and Jack Bradley, all of Crookston, Pete and Raymond Bradley, both of Thief River Falls; and Howard of St. Paul; one sister, Mrs. Andrew Anderson of Warren; one brother, John Bradley of Grand Forks, N. D.; 18 grandchildren, 31 great-grandchildren and four great-great-grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by both wives, one daughter, three rs,two sisters, one grandson and a great-grandson.

Ernest Trochman, Dies At Delano Rites Held Sat.

Ernest J. Trochman, 57, a resident of Rosewood, died Tuesday at Delano where he was visiting his sons.

Funeral services for Ernest J. Trochman were held Saturday at 2 p.m., at Bethlehem Lutheran church with the Rev. Marius Haakenstad officiating. Interment was in the church cemetery. Sindings Funeral chapel was in charge of arrangements.

Ernest J. Trochman was born Dec. 21, 1907 to Victor and Annie Wold Trochman in Marshall county. There he was baptized, confirmed, attended school and grew to manhood. Prior to his marriage April 22, 1936 to Emma Otman at Pisek, N. D., he was employed for ten years on various farms near Fordville, N. D. From 1937 until 1963, the Trochmans farmed in Marshall county. Besides farming, Mr. Trochman was self employed for many years as a carpenter. For the past two years, they had made their home in Rosewood.

Mr. Trochman was a member of the Bethlehem Lutheran church.

He is survived by his wife, Emma; three sons, John and David, both of Delano and Richard of St. Cloud; two grandchildren and his mother, Mrs. Anna Trochman of Thief River Falls;

Also four sisters, Mrs. Walfred (Verna) Carlson of St. Hilaire, Mrs. Nels (Mabel) Holle, Mrs. Olaf (Julia) Holle and Mrs. Guy (Margaret) Overland, all of Fertile; three brothers, Ansel, Fergus Falls; Raymond, Borup and Norris of Thief River Falls; and a number of neices and nephews.

INSTALLING underground pipe for a storm sewer connection calls for the digging of a deep hole. This is a job for a long-handled, high-power shovel like the one pictured above, employed by Kasson Sewer & Water of Kasson, which is excavating at the intersection of Crocker avenue and Annie street. This area is receiving the bulk of the earth-moving now being conducted in the city's street improvement and sewer project.

Morris P. Hahner Rites Held Sat., At Red Lake Falls

Morris P. Hahner, 55, of Red Lake Falls, died Tuesday morning at the St. John's Hospital following a lengthy illness.

Requiem High Mass was offered for Morris Hahner on Saturday, September 4, at 9 a.m. from St. Joseph's Catholic church, Red Lake Falls, with the Rev. Wm. Keefe as celebrant. Interment was in St. Mary's Catholic cemetery at Red Lake Falls. Petterson Funeral Home, Red Lake Falls was in charge of arrangements.

Morris P. Hahner was born July 26, 1910 in Sanders township, Pennington county, the son of the late Wilhelm and Hilda Yonke Hahner. On June 3, 1911 he was united in marriage to Clara Schmitz at Red Lake Falls. The Hahners farmed in Marshall county until the death of Mrs. Hahner in 1914 when Mr. Hahner moved to a farm northwest of Red Lake Falls. In 1962 he sold his farm and moved to California, returning in 1964 because of failing health.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Daniel (Judy) Clement of Grand Forks, N.D., and Beverly Hahner of Moorhead; two grandchildren and six brothers, Carl Hahner, Yakima, Wash.; Avold of Gallatin Gateway, Mont.; Ernest of Fresno, Calif., William of Santa Barbara, Calif., Donald of Woodland Hills, Calif., and Raymond Hahner of Port Angeles, Wash.

He was preceded in death by his wife and an infant daughter.

Rites Held Mon. For Grygla Farmer Jesse Ballou, 74

Jesse Ballou, 74, a resident of the Grygla community for over 50 years, died Wednesday at Northwestern hospital.

Funeral services for Jesse Ballou will be held today (Monday) at 2 p.m. in the Grygla Gospel tabernacle at Grygla. The Rev. Gordon Fox will officiate and interment will be in the Espelie cemetery. Green Funeral home is in charge of arrangements.

Jesse Leland Ballou was born May 24, 1891 at Buckingham, Ill., a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James E. Ballou. When he was 15 years old, he moved with his parents to Shelby, Ind., where they lived for eight years. In 1915, the family moved to the Grygla community where they were engaged in farming.

A veteran of World War I, Mr. Ballou returned after his discharge, to the Grygla area where he was engaged in farming. He never married. Since its beginning he had been a member of the Eklund-Holmstrom American Legion post of Thief River Falls.

Survivors include four brothers, Fred Ballou of Thief River Falls, Basil, Forrest, and Elsworth, all of Grygla; one sister, Mrs. Clyde (Melva) Owens, also of Grygla, and several nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by three sisters and three brothers.

Rites Held Sat., At Trinity For Steinar Bergland

Steinar Bergland, 81, a resident of Thief River Falls since 1916, died Tuesday at Northwestern hospital.

Funeral services for Steinar Bergland were held Saturday at 1 p.m. in the Trinity Lutheran church. The Rev. Harold Peterson officiated and interment was in Greenwood cemetery. Arrangements were made by the Green Funeral home.

Steinar Halvor Bergland was born March 3, 1884 in Telemarken, Norway. At the age of 12 years, he came to America with his parents and brothers and settled near Grygla where he grew to manhood. For several years, he was employed by the Minneapolis Bridge company.

In 1916 he was united in marriage to Ida Aasen in Grand Forks, N. D. Following their marriage, they settled in Thief River Falls where they had since resided.

Mr. Bergland started working as a service man for Western Oil and Fuel company in 1926 and at the time of his retirement he had been with the company for over 30 years.

He is survived by one son, Clarence of Thief River Falls; one brother, Ole Bergland, of Portland, Ore.; two grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his wife on Dec. 29, 1964, two brothers and two sisters.

8 Deer Hunting Zones Open in State Nov. 13

Minnesota Division of Game and Fish today released a map showing eight differnet firearms hunting zones established for the 1965 deer season.

The firearms deer season will start on November 13 when hunting will open throughout the state. One, two, three, five or nine days of hunting will be allowed, depending upon the zone being hunted. Four zones are open to all legal firearms while four are limited to shotguns with single slugs. There will be no closed zones this year.

Game and fish director Ted Shields said that the firearms zones were adjusted slightly this year to provide for an adequate harvest and still preserve a good breeding population.

The nine-day season in the north is the maximum allowed by law. The November 13 opening date is the latest possible whereby two full weekends may be included within the existing legal season framework. The 1965 Legislature made no changes in the law pertaining to the deer season. The conservation to set a season lasting not more than nine days during the period November 1-21.

A state-wide archery season will run from October 2 through October 31. Bow hunters also will be able to hunt in all eight zones established for the November firearms season. A late season archery hunt will permit hunters to take deer by bow and arrow from December 4 through December 19 south of U.S. highways 10 and 210 and state highway 39.

Shooting hours are from sunrise to sunset each day for both firearms hunters and bow hunters. A hunter is allowed only one deer for the entire fall season whether he hunts with firearms, bow and arrow, or both. The deer may be of either sex and any age.

deer generally came through in

Zone 1 in the northeastern part of the state will have the maximum firearms season of nine days. This area consistently produces the most deer, attracts the most hunters and has the highest success ratio. Last year 122,225 deer were taken by legel firearms. Eighty-two per cent of these, or about 100,000 deer, were shot in the nine-day zone.

Shields said that the 278,032 resident big game firearms licenses sold in 1964 was an all time record and that the 122,225 deer harvested was a record kill. Hunting sucess averaged 44 per cent state-wide—the same as in 1963.

Last year 13,665 archers were in the field and took 780 deer for a hunting success ratio of nearly six per cent.

Archery hunters will be allowed to wear camouflage clothing during the October and December bow seasons, but all hunters, trappers and those assisting them must wear blaze orange or red clothing during the season open for firearms deer hunting. This regulation also includes small game hunters afield during the firearms deer season.

Last year marked the first winter in the past nine in which snow was heavy and caused some deer starvation in parts of east central Minnesota and along the North Shore. In other parts of the range deer generally came through in good condition.

Starvation was not widespread nor generally severe enough to require special regulations, Shields said. Observations on adult deer, fawns and the larger number of road kills indicate a good deer population in the state.

Shields said that with favorable weather during the hunting season the kill could again exceed the 100,000 mark.

Sportsmen Club Sets Work Meet

Pennington County Sportsmen's club has scheduled a work meeting at its new recreation area Wednesday evening. Members should bring tools for cutting brush. A regular club meeting is scheduled September 15 in the city auditorium basement. This meeting will be especially important as it takes place just before the annual Minnesota Conservation federation convention in Detroit Lakes.

Newfolden Class Of 1959 Holds First Reunion

Twenty-two of the 32 members of the Newfolden high school class of 1959 attended the sixth anniversary class reunion banquet held at the Elks club Saturday evening, August 7.

A social hour preceded the banquet. Gordon Everson, class vice president, gave the welcome to the class, followed by greetings by Wayne Ulferts, class advisor, and Charles Fisher, principal. Entertainment was proved by a local folk singing duo.

After the banquet Wayne Ulferts, master of ceremonies, read the class prophecy. Prizes were awarded by Mrs. Barbara Sinn and Mrs. Jeanette Nygaard to the following class members: Bonnie Alafouzous, Wausau, Wis., greatest distance; Dennis Bakke, Thief River Falls, most recently married; Mrs. Erwin Melvie, Viking, newest baby; and LuAnn Peterson, Middle River, most children (5). It was decided to hold another reunion in five years.

Attending the reunion were Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Bakke, Thief River Falls; Wesley Bring, Strandquist; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Dahl, Maple Plain; Mr. and Mrs. Duane Haukelo (Anette Davidson), Detroit Lakes; Faythe Dyrud, Green River, Wyo.; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Everson, Grand Forks, N. D.; Mr. and Mrs. Willis Bjorgaard, (Shirley Garfve), Viking; Mr. and Mrs. Ward Sinn (Barbara Grandstrand), Thief River Falls; Mr. and Mrs. David Hanson, Osseo; John Haglund, Newfolden; Patty Langlie, Newfolden; and Mr. and Mrs. Del Loftstrom, Thief River Falls.

Also Mrs. John Erickson (Renee Martin), Browns Valley; Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Melvie, Viking; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hjelle (Gwen Moen), Newfolden; Mr. and Mrs. George Alafouzous (Bonnie Peters), Wausau, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Gray (Marilyn Rokke), Minneapolis; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Nygaard (Jeanette Sebaile), Thief River Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Nelson (Rose Skyberg), Thief River Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Peterson (LuAnn Smith), Middle River; Mrs. Dolores Perry (Dolores Swenson), St. Paul; and Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Wegge, Thief River Falls. James Jacobson of Bethal, Kan., telephoned during the banquet.

IN THE VIKING HUDDLE
By Coach
Norm Van Brocklin

Among our more pressing problems when we opened training camp at Bemidji was that of depth at our two running back positions.

Now, facing our last pre-season game this Saturday (New York Giants at Omaha) and then the regular season schedule, we look as if we've strengthened ourselves with the addition of the new men.

Phil King came in here raring to go. He had had some good years with the Giants—in fact, I believe he was their top rusher a couple of seasons ago—and has plenty of football left in him.

He may be just what the doctor ordered for us, since he can catch the ball, and is a good blocker in addition to his running ability. As you know, we like to throw to our backs a little more than most clubs, so his versatility fits into our pattern perfectly.

I'm familiar personally with Billy Ray Barnes, who came to us last week in a trade with the Eagles, and think he can help us, too. He played a very important part on the 1960 championship team at Philadelphia when I was there. He came up with two big third-down plays in the championship game, in fact.

He's 30 years of age, but a back with his experience can be a big help.

At the other side of the ledger age-wise, we have young backs like Dave Osborn, who really runs hard; Jim Young, the Canadian-born halfback who can do a lot of things, but hasn't had too much experience with our American game yet; and Bill McWatters and Darrell Lester, who were with us all of last year.

Bill Brown and Tommy Mason are our first-string backs, of course. We're willing to match them and Francis Tarkenton with any backfield in the West, but with a 14-game schedule as tough as the one coming up, you need a lot of depth, and that's what we're counting on from our other backs.

All we have to do is open against the defending champs, Baltimore, before their 60,000 rabid fans next Sunday (Sept. 19) and then play Detroit, the toughest defensive team in the league, in our home opener on the 26th. Unfortunately, they don't get easier after that, either.

Litter Pick-up For Six Months Costs $114,000

Litter pick-up on Minnesota's highways cost road users a total of $114,000, according to the Minnesota Highway department.

Although this is an encouraging drop of $45,000 under the costs for the corresponding period of last year, department officials are withholding congratulations to motorists until the entire year's cost figures are compiled.

"We are hopeful that the six-month figures are indicative of a trend," said Commissioner John R. Jamieson, "but we want to see our costs develop during the remainder of this year before we start issuing bouquets to motorists."

He pointed out that this type of clean-up activity by the department is one that is required to keep roadsides and roadways safe and presentable, but it is money for which there is no lasting benefit to motorists who foot the bill through the payment of gasoline and motor vehicle registration taxes.

"We would much rather have spent this $114,000 needed maintenance work on our highways to make them more rideable and safe," he said, "but the thoughtless littering by motorists required this expenditure. We would certainly appreciate the cooperation of everyone who uses our highways in keeping this nuisance to a minimum."

He endorsed the work of Keep Minnesota Clean & Scenic, Inc., the state-wide group of which Governor Rolvaag is the honorary chairman, in its efforts to secure compliance with anti-littering laws through the use of litter bags and by disposing of travel litter in appropriate receptacles.

MAN-MADE mountains have appeared during the past week in the Kendall avenue swamp at the extreme south end of Thief River Falls. The earth has been hauled to this location from street excavation, to be used for fill behind the new curbs. The swamp itself has been covered with about a four-foot layer of earth, and any left-over dirt will be leveled over the area.

STREET excavation in preparation for surfacing and installation of curb and gutter and storm sewers is in full swing in the south end of Thief River Falls. The heavy earth-moving equipment pictured above is scooping dirt from Annie street and hauling it a short distance to the Kendall avenue swamp, which is being filled. Curb and gutter phase of the project should be completed by the end of this month, according to City Engineer D. H. Stewart. Completion of bituminous surfacing is dependent on favorable weather conditions in weeks ahead.

Pennington 4-H Members Win at Minnesota Fair

Blue ribbons were awarded to Lynnell Sande, Thief River Falls, clothing; Renae Pineck, 16, Goodridge, canned foods; and Regene Radniecki, Oklee, Photography.

Lions Club Hears Talk on Eye Bank

Thief River Falls Lions club met at the Elks clubroom Wednesday for their regular noon luncheon with president Phil Kays in charge. The meeting opened with president Kays calling for the introduction of guests.

James Parkins, local pharmacist and director of the Minnesota Lions eye bank spoke on the need for eyes for the eye bank and said that plans were to carry the message and appeal to other than Lion club members. Parkins reiterated his past experiences with the eye bank and said "the gift of sight was one of the best gifts God gave, to man and to see a person whose sight has been restored is worth all the effort and money I have put into it."

A short board meeting followed the regular meeting.

Hunter Caution Urged During Teal Season

Hunters participating in the special experimental teal season in the Mississippi and Central Flyways should be on their best behavior, state and federal wildlife agencies warned today. Only teal ducks will be legal game during the experimental season in most states of the two flyways, and all other species of ducks will be rigidly protected.

Persons who shoot ducks other than teal during the season, either accidently or intentionally, will be prosecuted, the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife has announced.

The burden of identifying legal species before shooting will be on the hunter, the bureau said, and the overall success of hunters in properly identifying flying ducks will largely determine whether teal seasons will be held in the future.

The wildlife agencies reminded hunters that they must have special permits from the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, distributed by the states, to take part in the teal season, as well as proper state hunting licenses. All hunters 16 years of age or over must also have a current migratory bird hunting stamp, available at all U. S. post offices.

Permit holders will be allowed four teal per day during the special short seasons. In the two flyways, the blue-winged teal is the most common of the three teal species. The green-winged teal is a later migrant than the blue-winged, and only occasionally does the cinamon teal venture east into the north central states.

The best way to "bone up" on teal identification is to spend a couple of days afield before the season opens observing ducks in flight.

Also helpful are several excellent bird identification books available in most libraries, and the U. S. Department of the Interior's booklet, "Ducks at a Distance". The latter is available for 25 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C.

Blue-winged teal in fall lack the white facial crescent of spring plumage but do have a noticeable light blue patch near the forward part of the upper wing. This can be confused only with those of the cinnamon teal and the shoveller, the latter being a slightly larger duck having a pronounced spatulate bill.

Hunters should exercise special caution in hunting the wooded river bottoms where wood ducks are common. Light conditions and flight habits of ducks in this type habitat often prevent hunters from getting a good look at ducks in gun range.

A good motto for teal hunters to adopt is, "If in doubt, don't." Hunters should check both state and federal waterfowl regulations for full details of the season.

Side Line Observations
BY BILL DAHLQUIST

Former Postmaster General Gronouski had informed a Congressional Committee that the names of the thousands of employees given summer jobs recently will not be revealed unless requested by Congressional committees having jurisdiction over the Post Office Department. It isn't likely that any such a committee at this time will vote to make public the names of the young people who receive this special favor, or the names of the members of Congress who recommended them.

As a means of discouraging such corrupt practices every effort should be made to secure the facts and to make them public. The boondoggle has not been denied by those who speak for the Democratic majority, and that in itself is an admission of guilt. The people have a right to know the details and who of the Deomocratic leaders were directly involved. It is reasonable to assume that the orders came down from the top level of party command.

Another administration program involving grants of federal aid is in serious trouble at this time too. The program that is under pressure is President Johnson's anti poverty plan which, according to an Associated Press report, "—is in deep trouble with some of its best friends in Congress." And says the report:

"Leading Democrats on the House Education and Labor Committee, at a heated meeting with program director Sargent Shriver, have told him they don't like the way things are going.

"And they are seeking an appointment with Mr. Johnson to urge that Shriver, who also heads the Peace Corps, be replaced in one of his jobs so the poverty program will have a full-time director.

"And the comittee is launching its own nation-wide scrutiny of the program."

Deomcrats are still for the anti-poverty plan which the administration sponsored, but many of them are unhappy about the way it is being administered by program director Sargent Shriver, and especially his community action idea which puts money in the hands of local groups to carry out plans of their own design, which could lead to another party boondoggle. The Associated Press report states:

"It was the intention of Congress, the Deomocrats insist, that such plans could be purely of a neighborhood character, worked out and run by the people living there. But Shriver, they say, has chosen to work primarily with organizations requesting entire city, which means they are dominated by the city's public officials."

It is encouraging to know that in this instance the Democrats in Congress are themselves putting on the brakes. Maybe they are beginning to realize that things in Washington have been getting out of hand and that the party is headed for trouble.

Barry Goldwater is fronting for a Free Society Association that presumably will try to unite conservative support for the Republican party in the coming election. According to a four-page newsletter, the association will promote political education and would neither endorse candidates nor engage in political action. It stated:

"OUR POLITICAL parties do not currently represent alternative political philosophies. They offer, generally, the same special appeals to the same special interests. At election time they offer candidates who compete largely on the basis of personal appeal and escalating promises of material gain

Denying that it is a potential third party, it's members were told that it hoped that it's work would persuade more and more Americans, within the two-party system, "to demand a real political choice." The letter carried quotations by prominent leaders of both parties, past and present.

That is a sensible approach to our political problems if we are to retain an effective two-party system. One of the two parties, certainly, should be conservative, speaking for those who still believe that real progress can be achieved only as we manage our public affairs soundly and, as a nation, live within our means. That is the way to build lasting progress.

"They that can give essential liberty to obtain a little temporary safety deserve neither libery nor safey."
—Benjamin Franklin

The scheduled eight-day flight of Gemini 5 came close enough to it's mark to be registered as a success. Certainly it was a remarkable performance, of which we have every reason to be proud.

Now preparations are under way for the launching of Gemini 6 some time in the near future.

It is nice to know that we are out in front in these adventures in space. It is reasonable, however, to wonder whether these flights are actually worth in material gains what they cost.

Or could the billions of dollars we are spending to lead in the space race be spent for more worth-while things? Let's keep in mind that these are borrowed dollars, that following generations will have to repay.

James Reston, writing for the New York Times Service, predicts a long war ahead for us in Asia. All the available information, he says, indicates that both sides are planning for a long struggle.

I don't know how true that is of those who do our planning for us. Our leaders may be planning a long war but our nation is not being prepared for one. National preparation for a war involves national sacrifice, and preparation for a great war involves great sacrifice. So far our people have not been asked to make a moderate sacrifice for a small war or a great sacrifice for a great war. We are tossing our billions around reckelessly for other purposes, some of them just as wasteful as a small war.

It has been guessed by some fairly responsible guessers that our war in Viet Nam next year will cost us in the neighborhood of ten billion dollars. That isn't a possible expense item to be taken lightly, and, more important, it doesn't take into consideration the sacrifices of the wounded and killed.

Which brings up the question as to why did we, alone, become involved in a shooting war on the other side of the world, fighting against powers that outnumbered us a hundred to one. Let's back up and start over agan.

It is encouraging to learn that some of the Communist countries are starting to hold elections that at least resemble real elections. In Poland the voters now have a choice between candidates for office, and the Soviet Union has experimented with the idea. Now even East Germany is doing this and in the coming elections to be held Octobr 10, the names of more legslative candidates than deputies to be elected will crowd the East German ballot.

All of these candidates of course will be nominated by the National or People's Front, which is ruled by the Communist party, but the fact that voters can choose between several candidates—even of the same party—marks a concession to democracy, it is pointed out by the Christian Science Monitor.

Early guesses as to the total property damages resulting from the race riot in Los Angeles put the probable loss up around the $200 million mark. The Los Angeles County Assessor, after a more calm survey of the destruction, estimated the damages at $46.6 million, according to the Wall Street Journal.

The wild guesses that were attributed to excited reporters are understandable, as is the more conservative guess of the county assessor, who had the taxable valuation records of the damaged and destroyed property available to him. But $46.6 million is a lot of money too, and considering the total losses in terms not only of dollars but also in terms of deaths and human suffering, the Los Angeles explosion was a deplorable experience.

The forecasters predict more of the same in other large cities, but my guess is that there will not be many more. The Los Angeles uprising came as a complete surprise—evidently it was not planned. Other large cities will be better prepared than was Los Angeles to deal with such explosive uprisings, and will be prepared to deal with them before they get too far out of hand.

It is encouraging to know that President Johnson is beginning to suspect that he is on the losing side in Viet Nam. Now he is starting to blame the Republicans, charging that Ike Eisenhower started the trouble many, many years ago when he was president.

Ike recalls that something was said about our responsibilities in the Far East some eleven years ago. But Ike didn't involve us in a war and never did pledge aid to South Viet Nam, so says Ike.

Langen Welcomes Leadership Switch In Postal Dep't.

Congressman Odin Langen has announced he hopes the switch in leadership in the Post Office department will "eliminate the climate that has permitted the postal service to sink into a state of confusion. I personally welcome the change, and I assume the postal workers across the nation welcome it as well."

Langen, in a letter of congratulations to Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien, asked the new postal chief to review the problems and reverse the past decisions that have led to drastically curtailed mail service in rural areas of the nation.

I am sure you are aware of the many criticisms recently leveled against the department," said Langen. "You will note that the files in your office contain may inquiries and observations from me relative to changes in the postal service in rural America," he said, referring to complaints that the recent conversion to Star routes across the nation has resulted in curtailed postal service to many areas.

Langen, who has met with postal officials to discuss the problems on numerous occasions this past year, asked the new postmaster general to direct his attention to rural America at the earliest possible moment. "A reduction in service that offers less than these people had before and threatens the economic well-being of rural communities can hardly be termed what your department in the past has called 'better service at lower cost'," said Langen. "I trust that you, when the facts have been analyzed, will agree."

Waseca To Host Plowing Contest September 17-18

Educational demonstrations and displays will be an important feature at the national and state plowing contest and conservation field days to be held on the Powell farms, three miles north of Waseca, September 17-18. Popularly known as "Plowville", this annual event has been expanded to allow Minnesota to host the national plowing contests for 1965.

The educational features are being planned by local agricultural agencies and by several units of the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture. Dr. Edward Frederick, superintendent of the University's Southern school and of the Northwest school of Agriculture in Crookston.

Tractor tipping demonstration, emphasizing tractor safety.

Soils testing demonstration, showing soil-sampling procedures and testing methods and emphasizing fertilizer recommendations based on soil tests.

Educational exhibits on watersheds, windbreaks, pump drainage, soil profiles, historical aspects of conservation, minimum tillage, forestry, University educational opportunities and many other topics.

Special soil conservation practices, established on the site. Conservation leaders will be on hand to discuss the various terraces, farm ponds, tile drainage and other conservation practices with visitors.

Editorials . . .

"The day returns and brings us the petty round of irritating concerns and duties. Help us to play the man, help us to perform them with laughter and kind faces; let cheerfulness abound with industry. Give us to go blithely on our business all this day, bring us to our resting beds weary and content and undishonored, and grant us in the end the gift of sleep."
—Robert Louis Stevenson

A Timely Week

September 8-15 is being observed as National Child Safety Week. It is a timely observance, and one that should impress on adults their responsibilities. Practical purpose of the week is to instill in the minds of our school children sound and proven safety practices.

The toll of injuries and deaths that accidents take from our youngsters is appalling. It is true, of course, that children are naturally adventurous. They look to try new and fascinating things—some of which are filled with hazards. Being immature, they are freqeuently thoughtless—as grim news items which tell of children running out from between parked cars into traffic-heavy streets and there being run down attest. The rules of safety must be everlastingly emphasized to them if tragedy is to be averted.

Adults must do the teaching. And adults must also advance the cause of safety by example. We read of children who drown because their parents allow them to swim alone or in dangerous waters. We read also of parents, with their children, venturing out in overloaded boats and swamping, often with loss of life. And, in innumerable instances, motorists callously fail to take the proper precautions when passing schools and playgrounds.

So the story goes. It is a story which can be brought to an end if we all will participate in National Child Safety Week—and then apply the lessons for all the weeks that are to come.

It's Open House

Printed on Saturday because of the Labor Day holiday Monday, this issue of the Times will be on the press when the management and staff of the paper host the public to an open house in our new office and printing plant. We express a welcome to those attending and invite those unable to attend to pay us a visit at some time in the future.

Purchase of the present building and subsequent remodeling and occupancy is not a small financial step, nor was it a step taken without considerable thought and deliberation. The move was made with faith in the Thief River Falls community and in the people that make this community what it is.

We believe it is with pardonable pride that we welcome visitors to our building for it is one of the best newspaper shops in the state. Our equipment can handle a wide variety of printing requirements and our staff members are experienced in handling the various departments in which they work. Efficiency is gained by having the entire operation on one floor.

We would like to thank those who joined us for the open house and we hope that the conducted tours help them to better understand the operation of our newspaper and commercial printing department. Our appreciation is also extended to those who sent flowers to add color to the event.

Just In Fun

Migratory Waterfowl Regulations for 1970 . . If the present trends continues!

THE SEASON

Opening September 2 at 10:14 a.m.
Closing September 16 at 8:14 a.m.

Shooting will be allowed from 10:14 until noon on every other day during the season, providing the wind velocity does not exceed four miles per hour.

LIMITS

Bag limits are simplified this year. Three female coots may be taken or one male coot and one female sawbill. Hunters who have not taken one day's limit as explained above and after making a sworn statement to that effect in Federal Court may apply for the Audubon permit to kill one Spoonbill. Hunters will be notified when the Spoonbill quota is reached in each principal flyway.

Due to the increase in Mallard ducks, one may be killed during the season, as 37 million were counted in Saskatchewan, compared to a mere 31 million in Ontario. The hunters must not kill an Ontario Mallard. All Ontario mallards have slightly jaundiced eyeballs, which will be readily observed by watchful hunters. When a legal Mallard is killed it must be taken immediately to the capital of the State in which you live for proper identification by the State Conservation Corps, who will also provide the picking and cleaning permit ($2).

As hunters have observed, there are many Canadian geese. However, Negro geese are in short supply. In the interests of civil rights no Canadian geese will be approved until an equal number of colored geese may be approved.

BLINDS AND CLOTHING

A blind will consist of three branches from local trees or bushes, and the butt end may be no larger than the hunter's thumb. Club blinds, wherein members rotate between blinds, must use a thumb of the smallest member for measurement of all blinds. Blinds must be a minimum of 41 yards from any vegetation.

As in recent years, all wearing apparel (boots, pants, coat, gloves) may be either highway yellow, Hawaiian blue or spotlight red. The official Government "Keep 'em Flying" cap with the battery-operated blinker light on the bill is mandatory and may be purchased at any post office.

Wardens have been instructed to search hunters for the three square batteries which are also mandatory since the "dead-battery" excuses of last year.

GUNS AND AMMUNITION

All gauges up to and including 28 gauge. Any length barrel. Stocks, however, may not exceed three inches in length.

CALLING REGULATIONS

Manufactured duck-calls, mouth actuated, are illegal again this year. Due to the high degree of proficiency attained by a number of hunters in imitating ducks by voice alone, it is necessary to place some minor restrictions on this activity. Any hunter or guide or poacher who shall endeavor to attract wildfowl by emitting misleading sounds by mouth must hold in his oral cavity not less than two halfinch ball bearings while so doing. To avoid hardship, should either or both balls be spit out or swallowed during the shoot, continued calling by mouth will be considered legal if each imitated utterance is interspersed with the cry "Powder River" uttered in the same degree of sound intensity.

HUNTER-WARDEN RELATIONSHIPS

Remember that the warden is your friend! This year, to promote further this act, you need not call wardens of the State "Sir". Only federal wardens are thus addressed (PL1093). You will, of course, share your refreshments with these jolly fellows so that they may, in a more informal atmosphere, check your license, your citizenship papers, Wasserman rating, certified net worth, fingerprints, church affiliation, racial extraction, political donations and I.Q.

IN CONCLUSION

We hope that all more fortunate citizens who have been lucky enough to provide themselves with a place to shoot will cooperate with the department's program, "Open Your Club to the Public." Remember, the number of strangers you allow to shoot on your marsh may well determine how long we let you keep it!

Inconsistencies

If they weren't so pathetic, the inconsistencies of the federal government would be extremely humorous. We will cite just two cases, both related to civil rights, which should serve to illustrate the point.

The civil rights act of 1964 outlawed discrimination in employment because of color, race, religion and sex. This is supposed to mean that a person enters the job market for a certain position on his or her abilities alone—nothing more than a personification of the job to be done.

Now, at the bidding of President Johnson, it seems that Congress is about to repeal Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley act, popularly known as the rightto-work law. This section permits states to enact right to-work laws, allowing persons who want to work to do so without holding union membership. The House of Representatives has already approved repeal and the issue is now before the Senate.

It is ironic that the civil rights law prevents discrimination in employment because of color, race, religion and sex while repeal of 14(b) would require discrimination because of non-union membership.

We also read recently of a project in Alabama, sponsored by the federal government and financed with federal tax money, wherein some 5,000 underprivileged Negro children are being given special tutoring. The schooling was not for underprivileged Alabama children in general, but Negro children alone. The project is undoubtedly worthy, but it is inconsistent with the equal treatment theory being shouted from the White House.

Even if similar programs are offered for children other than Negroes in Southern states—and none were mentioned—the segregated tutoring of Negroes is inconsistent in itself.

Federal government is a many-sided phenomenon. What else could pat you on the back, shake your hand, offer you the moon, ask for your vote, pick your pocket and pull the rug out from under you all in the same motion?

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

In the Soviet zone of Berlin a German worked in a plant which manufactured a variety of small parts which, when shipped back to Russia, were supposed to be assembled into baby carriages. He decided to steal enough parts to make his own baby a carriage.

A few weeks later a friend who was aware of his purpose inquired how the project had progressed.

"I got all the parts," the worker replied "but you know no matter how I put them together they always come out a machine gun."

Mr. Driver PLEASE... Drive With Care

Now That School Is Open

NO PARKING THIS SIDE OF STREET DURING SCHOOL HOURS
SCHOOL STOP PATROL

Tuesday hundreds of Thief River Falls boys and girls return to their respective schools, some for the very first time. In an effort to avoid accidents and serious injury, the Parent-Teacher Association and the Thief River Falls Police Department are co-operating in a Back-To-School Safety Campaign . . . They are asking each driver and each student to adopt separate sets of RULES known as the Drivers' and Students' Codes . . . Public Officials firmly believe if these rules are followed the danger of accidents of all types will be greatly reduced . . . The rules are are for the DRIVER, the PEDESTRIAN and the BIKE RIDER . . .

BACK-TO-SCHOOL DRIVER'S CODE:

1. Instill CHILD SAFETY in your own mind and in the minds of others.
2. Obey ALL traffic lights and signs.
3. Be prepared to STOP when driving near schools and playgrounds.
4. Look for the unexpected where children are congregated.
5. Drive to suit conditions and situations.
6. Use good judgment when picking up children in school areas.
7. Exercise EXTREME care on stormy and bad days.
8. Cooperate with the School Patrol at all times.

STUDENTS' CODE:

1. Cross only at corners.
2. Look ALL WAYS before you cross.
3. Stay from BETWEEN parked cars.
4. Watch for TURNING cars.
5. Walk on LEFT facing traffic (where there are no walks).
6. Be Extra ALERT on stormy days.
7. Play AWAY from traffic.
8. Wear WHITE at night.
9. Obey the School Patrol.

SAFETY CODE FOR BIKE RIDERS:

1. Always use hand signals.
2. Always stop for STOP SIGNS.
3. Never ride at night without a light.
4. Always ride in straight lines.
5. Always keep close to curb.
6. Always ride single file.
7. Never ride double on your bike.
8. Never trick or stunt ride.
9. Never hitch rides.
10. Always give pedestrians the right of way.

Remember that automobiles are bigger, faster and heavier than bicycles. TAKE IT EASY!

4 Pennington 4-H Members Are State Fair Champions

Pennington county 4-H'ers swept four championship awards at the Minnesota state fair and won other high placings, according to County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk. Named champions were Kim Brandt, City View; Donald Dean Knutson, Smiley; Tom Melin, Black River; and Cathy Wysoski, City View.

Kim Brandt showed breed champion White Rock chickens which went on to win Grand Championship over all other chickens at the state fair. Donald Dean Knutson showed a Shropshire ewe lamb which was breed champion and which was reserve champion over all breeds of sheep shown at the fair. Tom Melin topped the wheat exhibits with Chris wheat which weighed 64.7 pounds. Cathy Wysoski won her purple ribbon in the home improvement — family living project for a picture she entered in the state fair.

Other 4-H'ers who placed high in state fair competition were: Tim Duke who placed fourth out of 50 commercial sheep; Ross Hanson who had a third place Hereford junior yearling; Gary Skibicki who had the seventh place in type in a Holstein cow class of 72; also Mark Bruggeman and Jerry Muzzy who showed blue ribbon Holstein. Laura Lea Yonke showed a second place Brown Swiss calf.

Blue ribbon placings also were won by: Lynnell Sande, City View, clothing; Renae Ptacek, Silverton, food preservation; and Regene Radniecki, Deer Park, Photography.

The following won white ribbon awards: Randy Lian, Rocksbury, garden; Beattie Mickelson, Kratka, food science.

A total of four champions; eight blue ribbons; 14 red; and two white ribbons were won by Pennington county 4-H'ers.

Information on demonstrators at the state fair will be released when received from the state 4-H office. 4-H'ers who presented demonstrations were Alan Swanson, Highlanding; Chester Yonke, Steiner; Michael Radniecki, Deer Park; Lennae Yonke, Steiner; Paulette Phillipp and Judy Oski, Mavie; Kermit Solem, Steiner; and Eddie Furuseth, City View.

Boy campers were Darryl Weigel, Mavie; Duane Lindblom, Kratka; and Dennis Passa, Steiner. Lindblom was selected as an honor camper. Girl camper was Pam Torkelson, Smiley.

Mrs. Walter Krug who has been here visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anton Jensen, returned Thursday to Washington, D. C. where she is an instructor at Galladuet college.

Make It Yourself . . .

Sewing Contest Here November 26

Northern Minnesota district directors and county leaders of the Make-It-Yourself-with-wool contest met at the Graystone hotel, Detroit Lakes, the latter part of June with the state leader, Mrs. Harrington, and Lloyd Elchem of the Minnesota Wool-bureau. From district I, Mrs. John Taus, Angus, Mrs. Willard Purath, Red Lake Falls and Mrs. Andy Hagen attended with their director, Mrs. G. Milford Peterson. New materials were given out and discussed for the 1965 contest.

The district I contest will be held at Thief River Falls on Friday, November 26. Counties included in district I are Beltrami, Clearwater, Kittson, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau.

Entry blanks may be obtained from home economics departments of area schools, county extension offices or the district director, Mrs. G. Milford Peterson, 216 South Minnesota Street, Crookston.

The 1965 contest is open to anyone 10 years of age and over. The divisions are:

Sub-deb—10-13 inclusive. May make skirts and jumpers. Blouses in sub-deb need not be wool. Junior—14 to 16 inclusive. Senior—17 to 21 inclusive. Adult—Age 22 and over.

The three classes may make dresses, coats, suits or coats and dresses or coats and suits (called ensembles or costumes).

Workmanship on the garment must all be done by the contestant. It must be completed after Feb. 1, 1965.

Mark Twain PTA To Meet Monday

Mark Twain elementary school Parent and Teacher association will meet Monday at 8 p.m. in the Franklin junior high school cafeteria. A report will be given by the local swimming pool committee and a model of the pool will be on display.

Ronald Pitzer, extension family life specialist from the University of Minnesota, will attend the meeting in connection with his survey in a family life poll being conducted by the university. Lunch will be served and all parents of youngsters attending Mark Twain school are encouraged to attend.

City Council Takes Step for Renewal Plan

Bid Accepted Tuesday For Shop Addition At Municipal Airport

Meeting in special session, Tuesday evening, the Thief River Falls city council accepted a bid for an addition to the aircraft mechanics shop at the municipal airport and took initial action toward establishment of an urban renewal program in the city.

Prichard Brothers Construction company was awarded the contract for expansion of the aircraft mechanics shop with a low bid of $30,490. Cost of the project will be repaid through rental to School District 564 which uses the building in its vocational-technical school program. Repayment is based on a 15-year lease amounting to about six per cent of the total cost per year.

The city fathers, after meeting with the city planning commission and planning consultant Thomas Hodne, voted to establish a Thief River Falls Housing and Redevelopment authority. Application to the federal Housing and Home Finance agency was authorized to establish a workable program for the city.

In addition, the council members authorized Hodne to submit to them an amendment to phase two of the planning commission grant from the Minnesota Department of Business development. This will coincide with the federal requirements for participation in the urban renewal program, according to William Fahey, city clerk.

Application to the Housing and Home Finance agency is expected to result in certification of the city as being eligible to participate in urban renewal projects. It does not obligate the city to participate nor does it entail a request for funds from the federal agency. Further developments will be announced as progress is made in program participation.

More Than 3,000 Pupils Enroll in City Schools

Public School First Day Total Is Set at 2,623

Opening day enrollment in Thief River Falls public schools totaled 2,623 Tuesday, according to initial enrollment figures obtained by the Times from principals of the respective schools. Total enrollment, including St. Bernard's parochial school, the Seventh Day Adventist elementary school and the area vocational-technical school, is 3,074. There are an additional 23 students enrolled in the vocational school's manpower training class which meets from 3 to 9:30 p. m. daily.

School officials noted that opening day enrollment figures are far from complete, since a number of enrollments are expected within the next week or two. Late summer vacations, state fair activity, harvest operations, illness and other factors combine to keep a number of students away from school the first several days. More complete enrollment figures and comparisons will be announced later.

Lincoln senior high school had a total of 634 students registered on opening day, according to Richard Edlund, principal. This total includes 210 sophomores, 213 juniors and 211 seniors. Franklin junior high school has 588 students enrolled, reports Francis Hamerlinck, principal. These include 180 in grade seven, 184 in grade 8 and 224 in grade 9. Total junior and senior high school enrollment on Tuesday was 1,222.

Elementary school enrollment totaled 1,401, according to Kenneth Swenson, principal at Knox and Mark Twain schools, and William Desrocher, principal at Washington and Northrop schools. This includes 218 in kindergarten, 196 in first grade, 200 in second grade, 197 in third grade, 183 in fourth grade, 179 in fifth grade and 204 in sixth grade plus 23 in three special education classes.

Individual elementary school enrollments on opening day were as follows:

Washington — Kindergarten, 50; grade one, 55; grade two, 55; grade three, 54; grade four, 51; grade five, 47; and grade six, 58. Total is 370.

Northrop — Kindergarten, 63; grade one, 52; grade two, 59; grade three, 63; grade four, 51; grade five, 54; and grade six, 60. Total is 403.

LHS Violinists Take Part in All State Orchestra

Two Lincoln high school orchestra violinists, Sue Bugge and David Swenson, participated in the all-state orchestra concerts at the Minnesota state fair on September 2, 3 and 4. They are members of the school orchestra directed by James Solsten.

The two students became members of the orchestra by competing in tryouts held at Bemidji State college earlier this summr. They were successful among the 85 violinists competing for 35 violin chairs available.

The all-state orchestra is composed of students from all over Minnesota, all of whom are chosen on an audition-competition basis. The orchestra is under the direction of Herman Hertz, who directs the Duluth symphony orchestra.

While at the state fair the students were billeted at Bethel college. During the three days they were kept extremely busy with rehearsals and a schedule of six concerts, two of which were rained out. They did, however, play concerts at the grandstand, 4-H

The orchestra will again perform during the MEA recess when it will tour the cities of Mankato, Rochester and Worthington October 22 through 24.

Tamarac River Watershed Given Early Approval

Word was received by the Times from Congressman Odin Langen that the watershed development sub-committee of the House committee on public works approved the proposed Tamarac River Watershed protection and flood prevention project. Approval came shortly after Congressman Langen personally appeared before the sub-committee urging favorable action. Rep. Langen explained that the project comes up for appoval by the full public works committee on Thursday and then goes to the full House for final approval. He said that approval by the full committee and the House is usually automatic for projects of this type, once the sub-committee has recommended it.

VISITING with editor Marvin Lundin at the Times open house Saturday was John Benitt, Holt, who has been a continuous subscriber to the Thief River Falls newspaper since 1914. Benitt visited this area while a resident of Goodhue county in 1914, became a subscriber to keep posted on news of the area, and later bought his farm from Oscar Sponheim in 1917. He has continued to be a subscriber until the present time although his son now operates the farm located two miles east and one mile north of Holt.

District Bankers Meet Here Today

Thanks, Friends

Management and staff of the Thief River Falls Times express sincere thanks to the many people who attended our open house on Saturday. More than 500 people toured the office and shop, watched the equipment in operation and received a better understanding of the various steps involved in producing the Times and commercial printing.

The publishers also deeply appreciates the many floral displays and other remembrances which were received for the occasion. Public response to the open house invitation and the kind remembrances from friends and business associates are indicative of the reasons the Times is happy to be part of the Thief River Falls progressive business community.

Final arrangements have been made for the 1965 Minnesota Bankers association District 9 meeting to be held today at the American Legion clubrooms in Thief River Falls, according to G. A. Belto Jr., president of Northern State bank and arrangements chairman. The meeting starts at 4 p. m.

Donald H. Gregerson, president of the First National bank, Anoka, will lead the delegation of speakers who will conduct the district meeting program.

The annual district meeting is conducted each fall to bring information on developments in banking to the bankers of this area and to hold annual business meetings and elect officers.

Featured speaker for the evening program is Dr. Charles Irvin, nationally prominent speaker from Daytona Beach, Fla., addressing the bankers on "Am I Big Enough To Keep?" For the past decade Dr. Irvin has been a full-time lecturer and consultant and also conducts a Florida real estate business.

Speakers on the afternoon business program will include Hugh Galusha, recently-elected president of the Ninth Federal Reserve bank of Minneapolis; John D. Chisholm, commissioner of banks for the state of Minnesota; Douglas Bushman, regional comptroller of the ger West, supervising examiner for the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, Minneapolis.

Speaking on "The Dual Banking System" will be Willis W. Alexander Jr., president of the Trenton Trust company of Trenton, Mo.

Purebred Ram Sale Is Scheduled On Monday

27 Rams of Four Breeds Consigned To Annual Event

Twenty-seven rams of four breeds will be offered for sale at the 17th annual sale of purebred rams to be held Monday at the livestock pavilion on the fairgrounds at Thief River Falls. The sale is sponsored by Northern Minnesota purebred sheep breeders under the auspices of the Northern Breeders Ass'n., Inc. Peter Probasco is sale manager.

All consignors to the sale and their wives have been invited to be guests of the Chamber of Commerce agriculture committee Sunday at 7:30 p. m. in the Rex cafe when a consignor's banquet will be held. Fred Sorensen, chairman of the agriculture committee, will give the welcome and Dr. O. D. Belch will serve as master of ceremonies.

Guest speaker at the banquet will be Charles White, dean of the new junior college opening this fall in Thief River Falls. Chamber of Commerce members and their wives and serve as official hosts and hostesses for the consignors.

All sheep breeders are invited to view the ram show beginning at 9 a. m. Monday when all rams consigned to the sale will be weighed and judged. Rams will be sold in the order that they are placed in each class, and rams that are not judged to be of superior quality are not sold.

Minimum weight of all rams consigned to the sale is 175 pounds. Judges for the show again this year are Carl Spong of Central Livestock association and Oscar Nelson, Mahnomen county agricultural agent. Sale of the rams will start at 1 p. m. with Johnny Clow as auctioneer.

In view of sheep and lamb prices which have been good in the past year, sale officials are optimistic for a good sale this year. Purpose of the sale is to provide area sheep men with top quality breeding stock to upgrade the quality of their flocks. In recent years sheep have proved to be among the most profitable forms of livestock in the area when managed properly.

Terms of the sale are cash and all purchases must be settled with the clerk of the sale prior to removal of the animal from the sales arena. All sheep on the grounds are held at the consignor's risk until sold. Ownership changes when the sheep are sold in the ring, and sheep are held at the purchaser's risk from that time on.

Purchasers are requested to watch rams purchased at the sale. If they are found to be non-breeders after six weeks, the purchaser should make a written complaint to the consignor. Any adjustments are between the buyer and seller. Certificates or registry and transfers will be furnished by the consignor.

Suffolks are consigned to the sale by Paul Billberg and Sons, Wannaska; Sandra and Michael Bratlien, Clearbrook; Harden Stock Farm, Hawley; and Oliver A. Lien, Oklee. A total of eight Suffolks has been consigned for sale.

Shropshires are consigned by Raymond Aandal and Sons of Goodridge and Kermit Maidment of Goodridge.

Lutherans Plan Education Meets

Thief River Falls conference of the American Lutheran church will conduct two parish education institutes for its church workers this month, the first to be held at Roseau September 19 from 2 to 7 p. m., and the second to be held at Stephen September 26.

Purpose of the institutes is to provide materials and training for selected, key persons in each congregation in order to strengthen the teaching ministry of the church through an ongoing program of local leadership training.

Earlier this fall approximately 800 selected persons from across the nation atended national institutes for special training to conduct the institutes within their local conferences.

Those conducting the identical institutes in the Thief River Falls conference will be Rev. Vernon Rice, Ross, Maurice Skar, Baudette; Miss Orpha Overlid, Oslo; Mrs. C. M. Isaacson and Nell Hendrickson, Thief River Falls; Mrs. Peter Sinclair, Stephen; and Mrs. Bertha Turnwall, Karlstad.

Adults May Take Courses at New Junior College

Adults interested in taking one or more courses for credit or audit at the new Thief River Falls junior college are requested to contact the college office in person or by calling 681-2181, according to Dean Charles White.

Fee for the courses will be $5 per credit hour. For example, a three-credit history course may be taken for $15. Adults may select from any of the courses offered, including history, English, mathematics, chemistry, political science and others.

The junior college office is now located on the third floor of the old Lincoln building. Courses taken for credit could be applied to a two-year degree or transferred toward a four-year degree, Dean White said.

Requests from students for part-time employment are also being received by the college. Businessmen who who have part-time work during any hours and who would be interested in employing junior college students may contact the college office. The college will attemp to screne applicants for experience and aptitude and refer several for interviews with the employer.

Any students planning to register next week for attendance at the opening session on September 20 are requested to contact the college office this week. Students with firm applications have been notified when to report for registration.

Faye Fuller Is Bride Of Robert M. Thompson

St. John Lutheran church of this city was the scene of the marriage of Miss Faye Marilyn Fuller and Robert M. Thompson on Sunday, August 29, at 3 p.m. The Rev. Paul R. Biegner officiated at the ceremony and gave the pastoral meditation, "Bonuses for Life Together in Christ".

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Fuller of 502 South Markley and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thompson Jr., of Vinton, Iowa.

Mrs. Sherman Idso, organist, provided a program of organ music as the guests were seated and she played "The Trumpet Air" by Purcell for the processional and "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" by Bach as the recessional. Soloist Timothy Zimmerman of St. Paul sang "Our Wedding Prayer" and the audience participated by singing the Invocation Hymn by Crueger. Two large baskets of white gladioli graced the chancel for the double ring ceremony attended by 200 guests.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of heavy white satin styled with a fitted bodice, gently scooped neckline, long tapered sleeves and a slim skirt. To complement her gown, she wore a white satin cloak secured at the neckline with a yolk and flowing back to form a chapel length train. Alencon lace edged the sides of the cloak and matching lace was appliqued on the front of the gown. A pillbox headpiece secured the tiered, elbow-length veil and she carried a bridal bouquet of tangerine colored roses.

Miss Patricia Brown, student at St. Cloud State college attended the bride as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Martha Thompson of Venton, Iowa, sister of the groom, Arlys Schultz of Truman and Peggy Fuller, sister of the bride. They wore identical floor-length gowns of tangerine colored satin, styled along slim lines and fashioned with watteau trains, a shade darker than the gowns, secured at the neckline with a large bow. Their tangerine veiled headpieces were held by a matching bows and they carried bouquets of cream colored roses, carnations and daisies.

Theodore Wuerffel of St. Paul served as best man. Groomsmen were Joel Fuller of Thief River Falls, brother of the bride, Clay Thompson, brother of the groom, and Timothy Zimmerman of St. Paul.

Ushers were Roger Fuller of Grand Forks, N. D., brother of the bride; L. P. Anton Jr., of Doyles Town, Pa., cousin of the bride; John Schultz of St. Paul and Larry Olson and Marc Pream, both of this city. Lindon Pream served as acolyte. The men of the wedding party wore dark coats, striped trousers and carnation boutonnieres.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Fuller chose a green brocade suit with brown accessories. The mother of the groom wore a beige knit suit, also with brown accessories. Both mothers wore identical corsages of tangerine colored roses and white carnations. Attending the wedding as honor guest was the grandfather of the groom, Robert Thompson Sr. of Vinton, Iowa.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was given in the church parlors by the parents of the bride with Mrs. Max Jensen as hostess. Centering the serving table was a square-four-tiered and pillared wedding cake, baked and decorated by the mother of the bride. The cake, decorated with tangerine colored roses, was topped by four satin wedding bells and a bouquet of fresh mums.

Cutting and serving the cake was Mrs. Herbert Kruger, aunt of the bride, while Mrs. Roger Fuller, sister-in-law of the bride, and Miss Shirley Fuller, cousin of the bride, poured. Mrs. Larry Hall and Mrs. Wendell Olson served the punch. Waitresses were June Krueger, Lynda Anton and Donna Fuller, all cousins of the bride, and Nancy Olson of Thief River Falls. Susan Kvikstad and Becky Ferber arranged the gifts while the sister of the groom, Miss Mary Thompson, registered the guests.

Guests attending were from Vinton and Van Horn, Iowa; Seward, Neb.; Petersberg, Niagara and Grand Forks, N. D.; St. Paul, Worthington, Truman and surrounding areas.

For travel on the wedding trip along the North Shore Drive, the bride wore an olive green woolen suit.

The bride and groom, both attended Concordia College at St. Paul and will be seniors at the University of Minnesota. This past summer, the bride has been employed as life-guard at the local swimming pool. The groom is employed by Pepsi-Cola company in St. Paul.

The newly weds will live at 700-10th Avenue South East, Minneapolis.

SLOW DOWN AND LIVE

Mr. & Mrs. Bush, Grygla, Feted On 50th Anniversary

In observance of their 50th wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bush of Grygla were feted at an open house celebration Sunday afternoon, August 15, at the Grygla school auditorium. Hosting the affair were their four children, Mrs. Art (Vivienne) Ortlepp of Chicago, Ill., and Gordon Bush; Mrs. Hal (Marjorie) Mosher and Mrs. Wade (Marion) Krause, all of El Cajon, Calif.

For the short program given, Mr. and Mrs. Bush and the Rev. and Mrs. Gordon Fox were escorted to the front of the auditorium by Lee Ortlepp and Randy Krause, grandsons of the honored couple. Gordon Bush served as master of ceremonies and the Rev. Gordon Fox was in charge of the devotions and prayer. Included in the program were a duet, "Bless This House," by Paula and Paulette Thompson with Mary Sue Sorenson playing the piano accompaniment; a duet, "Will There be any Stars in My Crown?" by the Rev. and Mrs. Fox and dedicated to the honored couple was an original poem composed by Dale Bartusch and read by his wife, Nell, a granddaughter. The group participated by singing several songs suitable for the occasion.

A buffet-style reception was served following the program with the honored guests and the Rev. and Mrs. Fox at the head table. Gracing the table were a yellow chrysanthemum plant and yellow roses in a golden goblet, gifts from the children. Centering the table was an allwhite, four-tiered anniversary cake, decorated with white flowers and topped with two doves and a golden 50th anniversary emblem.

Sisters-in-law of the honored couple, Mrs. Carl Holbrook of Thief River Falls, and Mrs. W. R. Holbrook of Hutchinson, cut and served the cake and Mrs. Donald Holbrook of International Falls, poured. Granddaughters Linda Mosher and Christine Bush, served as waitresses, and Janet Mosher and Roberta Krause, registered the guests.

Guests attending were from El Cajon and Sacramento, Calif., Chicago, Ill., Hutchinson, Minnetonka, Minneapolis, South St. Paul, Gatzke, International Falls, Thief River Falls and surrounding areas.

Following the festivities at the school auditorium, members of the family and other relatives gathered at the home of the honored couple for a social evening.

Geneva Overum To Show Slides At Viking On Fri.

Viking Town and Country garden club met for its regular monthly meeting on Thursday at the Victor Ranstrom home with President Mrs. Frank Anderson in charge of the program and Mrs. Ranstrom as hostess. Members responded to roll call by naming a new garden tool used this past season. A review of the past month's activities was conducted. They included the evening members touring the lovely gardens of Mrs. Florence Anderson at Newfolden; the afternoon tour to Fosston to see the landscape work and flowers of Mr. A. O. Reierson and the 13th District Flower show held at Roseau.

Exhibiting and receiving placings in different lots at the District Flower show were Mrs. Arne Samuelson, Mrs. Carl Krohn and Mrs. Harold Kagg. Also attending the program and touring some of the outstanding Roseau gardens were Mrs. John Thompson, Mrs. Victor Ramstrom and Mrs. Bert Kron. Reports by those attending were also given on different phases of the flower show.

Mrs. Bert Kron read the garden quiz and Mrs. Frank Anderson presented the monthly topic, "Peonies" and emphasized that now is the time to plant peonies or move old plants.

Announcement was made of a special program planned for Friday, September 10, at 8 p.m. at the Viking school auditorium where Geneva Overum of Thief River Falls will speak and show slides of the European trip she made last spring. Special guests for the evening will be the Campanula, Sow and Hoe and Newfolden garden clubs. Others interested in gardening or flowers are cordially invited to attend. Hostesses will be Mrs. John Thompson, Mrs. Axel Gustafson and Mrs. Harold Kogg.

Mrs. Emil Anderson returned recently from visiting her step-daughter, Mae Anderson at Detroit, Mich., a step-son and family, Morris Anderson at Adrian, Mich., and a step-daughter and family, the Rev. and Mrs. Roy Willett at South Bend, Ind. She also visited relatives at Rockford, Ill., friends in Richland Center, Wis., and relatives and friends in Minneapolis and Zumbrota.

Mr. & Mrs. Vigness Honored On Their 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Vigness of Thief River Falls, who were married in this city in the Zion Lutheran parsonage, (which today is still being used as the parsonage,) on Oct. 14, 1915 by the Rev. Anton Larson, observed their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday August 29. To mark the event, their sons and daughters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Vigness and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Vigness, hosted an open house in their honor at the Zion Lutheran church. For the occasion, Mrs. Vigness was presented with a corsage of gold gladioli and Mr. Vignes was given a boutonniere of gold colored mums. Others participating in the program or reception were also presented with corsages made of various colored gladioli by Mr. and Mrs. Lester Vigness.

As the honored couple was ushered into the church by their grandsons, Jon and Charles Vignes, their oldest granddaughter, Sharon Vigness, presided at the piano and played "Lohengrin's Wedding March". Clifford Vigness was in charge of the program with Sharon Vigness leading in devotions and prayer. During the reminiscing of the honored couple's courting days by Lester Vigness, the grandchildren participated by singing, "Bicycle Built For Two" and "School Days" and ending with a few short choruses which had been taught to them in Sunday school by their grandmother. The program concluded with Lois Vigness singing "In The Garden". Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Vigness responded with thanks after which the Rev. Leland Steen, pastor of the congregation, extended his congratulations and led in prayer and the table grace.

For the reception following the program, arrangements of gladioli centered all the tables and two baskets of gladioli were placed on either side of the serving table. A large anniversary cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. Gilfred Sannes in the form of a cross, graced the serving table. The cake, a gift from the sons's families, was decorated with gold colored leaves and white roses gilded in gold, was inscribed with the family tree of the honored couple and was topped with a golden Christogram.

Daughters-in-law, Lois and Catherine Vigness, cut and served the cake while Mrs. Bessie Richards of Moorhead, sister of Oscar Vigness and Mrs. Arlie Peterson, sister of Mrs. Vigness, poured. Mrs. Myrtle Marks of Thief River Falls and Mrs. Melvin Peterson of St. Cloud attended the guest book and gift table while granddaughters, Nancy and Cathy, served at the punch bowl. Mrs. Sylvia Thorson was hostess while members of the Zion Lutheran Church Women provided many fancy cookies and served as waitresses and kitchen help.

Later in the afternoon, many friends and relatives continued their visiting with the honored couple at the Clifford Vigness home where a buffet supper was served by the Lester and Clifford Vigness families.

The Library Corner

by Virginia Gjernes

A drawing of the new library building is now at Carnegie public library for you to see! Architects Hammel, Green and Abrahamson delivered it along with the completed plans. Now the next step will be the call for bids; then comes the opening of the bids. . . and before you can say "library" three times over. . .work will begin! Members of the board of trustees and the city council have been holding joint meetings for quite some time. All you 'sidewalk' superintendents better begin to get ready, for ground-breaking day isn't far off!

Fall hours start Tuesday, September 7, coinciding with the opening of the school term. Your library will be open from 11:30 a.m. until 9 p.m. Monday through Friday and until 6 p.m. on Saturday.

The same 'rules and regulations' will apply this year as in time past. Students will be using the library for reference work after school hours and throughout the evening. Now, with Junior College students in addition, it is important parents remember that children attending 6 grade and below are not permitted in the library after 6 p.m. unless accompanied by a parent. Students may not use the library as a study room unless research material is being used.

Research being what it is. . . the Chicago Tribune's "Books Today" section of August 29 names the following among the best-sellers:

Fiction includes "The Source", Michener; "The Look Glass War" by Le Carre; "Night of Camp David" by Knebel; "Hotel" by Hailey; "The Gren Berets" by Moore; West's "The Ambassador" Kaufman's "Up the Down Staircase"; "The Man with the Golden Gun", the last James Bond thriller by Fleming; and Wouk's "Don't Stop the Carnival".

"Journal of a Soul", Pope John XXIII; McGinley's "Sixpence in Her Shoe"; "The Making of the President 1964" by White; "Intern" by Doctor X; "Markings" the journal of the late secretary-general of the United Nations Hammarskjold; "Is Paris Burning?" by Collins and Lapierre; "The Oxford History of the American People" by Morison and Joseph P. Kennedy's biography by Whalen, "The Founding Father".

Your very own public library has each and everyone of these volumes, so be sure and read them soon. If you can't find them on the shelf, inquire. If they're not available, the librarian serving you will place your name on the waiting list.

Mystery readers, and there are many, many among our borrowers, will want to read Genevieve Holden's "Don't Go In Alone". Vina Delmar's "The Enchanted" will captivate every borrower; Andrew Sinclair's "The Better Half" tells of the emancipation of the American woman! (Nothing more to be said about that one. . .for the book tells all, from the Pilgrim women and what they strived for to today's women and her objectives (if she has any!)

Another for those who like to delve into the past and are interested in the history of our country is "The Long Death" by Ralph K. Andrist. This volume is magnificent. As you read of the last days of the plains Indian, a sadness will crawl into your heart, and tears will slip down your cheek. This book is about the past that seemingly had to be in order to make today. The author has the ability to make the reader live each trying, fightening, unbelievable-but-true moment!

"Strength to Love" by Martin Luther King Jr., is also on the new non-fiction shelf. His inspirational words will give strength to all as they read this volume of Dr. King's sermons. He writes of "A Tough Mind and a Tender Heart" and "On Being a Good Neighbor" about "Love in Action" and "Shattered Dreams" and many other topics. Whatever the denomination of your choice, Dr. King's words bring joy to your heart.

So. . .no matter your interests, you'll undoubtedly be able to find a volume or two at your library. Make it a habit to come in and browse before you borrow!

DFL Fund Drive Begins Next Week

Pennington county DFL party workers will be contacting residents of the county during the coming week as part of the annual Friends and Neighbors fund drive, according to Henry Panek, county DFL chairman. Funds raised are to be used in next year's legislative campaign.

"It is hoped," Panek said, "that contributors will also take an active part in the state and local DFL party organization. Goal for the drive is to contact every known party member in Pennington county." Dates for the drive are September 13-18.

Mr. and Mrs. Tron Fonnest and Larry left Wednesday for Phoenix, Ariz. to make their home.

SWEDISH Sunshine Singers, Mr. and Mrs. Bertil Gotrich, will be presenting an evening of Gospel music on Sunday at the Evangelical Free church in Thief River Falls. Mr. and Mrs. Gotrich came from Sweden in 1960 and have been traveling as singing evangelists. Mr. Gotrich is a composer of many pieces of music. Music will be both in English and Swedish. The couple will be playing the piano, cornet, accordion, guitar and musical saw. Mr. Gotrich will also speak.

September Enters Weather Picture

September, the first month of fall, made its entrance a week ago with characteristic fall weather. Violent weather entered the picture Saturday, when the second damaging electrical storm of the summer struck the city, setting fire to a home in the north end of the city and to a haystack east of town. The storm droped 1.59 inches of rain at the airport. Those who like to celebrate Labor Day outdoors found weather conditions extremely unfavorable, with a general rain dampening the occasion.

The weather picture brightened yesterday and today, but will be clouded again shortly. The forecast calls for fair skies today with increasing cloudiness tonight and considerable cloudiness tomorrow. Showers and thunderstorms will occur in 20 to 40 per cent of the area tonight, spreading over the entire state tomorrow. Temperatures will be slightly warmer today and tonight with little temperature change expeced tomorrow. Highs today will be in the 60's; lows tonight from 45 to 55.

Temperature and precipitation readings recorded during the past week at the airport are as follows: 67 and 40 on Wednesday; 72 and Friday; 65, 54 and 1.59 inch on Saturday; 65, 35 and a trace on Sunday; 52, 43 and .36 inch on Monday; 66, 40 and a trace on Tuesday; and a low this morning of 37.

More Than 3,000 Students Enroll At TRF Schools

Knox — Kindergarten, 52; grade one, 60; grade two, 60; grade three, 52; grade four, 56; grade five, 52; and grade six, 56. Total is 388.

Mark Twain — Kindergarten, 53; grade one, 29; grade two, 26; grade three, 28; grade four, 25; grade five, 26; grade six, 30; and special education, 23. Total is 240.

St. Bernard's parochial school had 161 students enrolled on opening day Tuesday. The Seventh Day Adventist school, which opened last week, has 23 pupils enrolled in grades one through eight.

Enrollment in the area vocational-technical school now stands at 267, according to Arnt Aune, director. There are 23 adults enrolled in the manpower development class which will conclude in December and an additional 18 students enrolled in an aircraft mechanics class which will be started when an addition to the facilities at the municipal airport is completed. Thief River Falls city council gave approval to an addition to the building at a special meeting last night.

Registration for the new junior college will begin next week. Dean Charles White told the Times today that 142 firm applications have now been received for the first class and it is expected that about 150 will register.

School Board Has Meet With State Education Head

Members of the Thief River Falls board of education met in special session last week to discuss vocational school future and development with S. H. Wick of the Minnesota Department of Education. Primary consideration was given to extension of the aircraft mechanics course at the municipal airport, requiring expansion of the existing building.

Wick also discussed long-range plans for the vocational department which now has approximately 275 students enrolled. He noted that matching funds are now available for vocational school construction, and encouraged the board to consider construction of a building for vocational facilities in a location where further expansion is possible. The present site, he said, leaves little opportunity for future growth of the school.

Reviewing policies and attitudes of the state department of education, Wick gave board members an insight into the thinking of state officials.

Prolonged Dry Period Was August Weather Feature

by Jim Wills
Times Reporter

Weathrr conditions during August of 1965, up to the last week, were of the type people generally think of when they speak of the "good old summertime." Pleasantly warm temperatures and an almost complete lack of rainfall made the first two-thirds of the month ideal for such popular summertime activities as picnicking, camping, baseball and fishing. The dry weather was a boon to farmers, who had been plagued by wet weathe throughout the spring and early summer.

The period of pleasant weather was marred, however, by a brief hot spell duing the second week of the month, when the temperature reached the 90's on four consecutive days. The heat reached its peak on August 13, when a high of 97 degrees was recorded at the airpot.

Temperatures cooled considerably towad the end of the month, reaching a low point of 33 on August 28. Mean temperature for the month was 65.3 or 1.5 degees below the average August mean of 66.8. Average high was 78.2; average low 52.3. Tempenture valed 64 degrees from the high of 97 on Friday the 13th to the low of 33 on August 28.

Total precipitation fo August amounted to 1.31 inches—1.96 inches below the August average of 3.27 the last eight days of the month. The dry spell was boken on August 24 when .08 inch of rain fell in the form of light showers, and a cool, wet, fall-like pelod followed in which showers occurred on all days except the 28th. Greatest precipitation figure for a single day was .58 inch on the 29th.

Federal Income Tax Estimates Installment Due

Taxpayers who filed an estimated federal income tax return for 1965 are reminded by George O. Letherty, district director of Internal Revenue, that the third installment of the tax due must be paid by September 15.

Those who first met the requirements for filing a declaration of estimated tax after June 2 and before September 1 should file their 1965 return on Form 1040ES, Lethert said. At that time, at least one-half the estimated tax should be paid with the return.

If he amount of income previously expected during 1965 has changed, an amended declaration may be filed using the blank form on the back of the bill showing the amount of the installment owing on September 15.

Jaycees Approve Major Projects Tuesday Night

Two major projects were approved by the Thief River Falls Jaycees at their regular meeting Tuesday night. In an effort to raise funds, the Jaycees will offer to Thief River Falls residents the service of painting house numbers on the curbs or front steps in front of the houses in glowing orange paint, for easy identification from the street. The service will be rendered on September 22 and 23 at a cost of 50 cents for each house, the proceeds to be used for a scholarship to the Thief River Falls junior college.

Also approved was construction of a steel building at the Pennington county fairgrounds for use as a concession stand and a storage housing for the Jaycee float, nativity scene and dunking stand. The building, measuring 36 feet long, 12 feet wide and 10 feet high, and will be donated to the county fair board for primary use by the Jaycees.

The Jaycees heard a final report on the 1965 Aquacade by Roger Person and a report on the rabies clinic from Jim Wills. Wills reported that 225 dogs and cats had been vaccinated at a cost to the Jaycees of $80. Al Torkelson, swimming pool promotion chairman, reported that about half of the committee's goal of $500 has been reached, and urged concentrated action on the part of Jaycees to raise the additional funds needed.

Duane Glass and Jon Larson kicked off the annual fall membership drive with an invitation to all interested young men to attend a special membership meeting, or "smoker", in Noper's Fireside Room on September 28.

The local Jaycee chapter will host a regional slow-pitch softball tournament Sunday, September 26, at the fairgrounds ball diamond. All Jaycees are invited to participate.

Among the guests at the meeting was Phil Kays of the Boyd-Holcomb accounting office, who presented the Jaycee of the Month award to his employee, Roger Person. Person was chosen as the recipient of the award on the basis of meritorious service as secretary and treasurer of the 1965 Aquacade.

Tent Caterpillar Infestation To Move Southward

Minnesota forestry division reported today that the forest tent caterpillar infestation in northern Minnesota is expected to move southward in 1966, affecting a much larger area than this year.

Personnel of the forestry division operated 50 light traps throughout northern and central Minnesota this summer to determine the abundance of egg-laying moths. It is the caterpillar stage of the insect which defoliates broadleaf trees, creating a costly nuisance for resorts and private cabin owners who are compelled to spray the immediate vicinity to control the pest.

Insects trapped are analyzed by the state division of plant industry and Dr. Alexander Hodson, professor of entomology at the University of Minnesota. Predictions for a spread in the infestation next year will be verified this fall after a study of egg masses laid on the branches of trees.

Worst infestations to date have occurred in northern Koochiching and St. Louis counties. Other counties affected to a lesser degree are Roseau, Lake of the Woods, Cook and Lake.

State Tractor Pulling Contest Set in St. James

Minnesota's 1965 tractor pulling contest, which pits 50 powerful tractors against one another in a contest to see which can pull a steel sled weighted with a predetermined weight the farthest distance, is to be held at St. James at 2 p. m. Saturday.

This is the culmination of 36 record crowd-setting county and four region contests, bringing champions and runners-up from six weight divisions of the region contests plus state champions and runners-up from last year. Although Pennington county staged a contest this year, there will be no local entries in the state event.

Bleacher seating for 4,500 spectators, the largest crowd to ever watch the state finals, is to be provided at Watonwan county fairgrounds.

Building Permits For TRF in July Down from 1964

Seven permits, having a valuation of $19,500, were issued in Thief River Falls during July of 1965 for new buildings and repairs and alterations. According to the Federal Reserve bank of Minneapolis, this was a decrease from $23,900 for five permits issued in July of 1964. The cumulative total for the first seven months of 1965 shows that 37 permits valued at $289,500 were issued compared with 30 permits valued at $155,032 last year.

For Minnesota the July valuation decreased from $72,579,877 in 1964 to $49,962,739 in 1965. The cumulative total for the first seven months of this year was $291,013,714 compared with $328,000,311 recorded during 1964.

Throughout the Ninth district, the total valuation of building permits issued during July of 1965 in 294 permit-issuing centers was $65,865,807 for 5,508 permits. In July of 1964 there were 5,229 permits issued with a valuation of $92,800,981. The report also stated that the cumulative total for the year showed a decrease from $422,585,831 for 27,997 permits in 1964 to $390,093,731 for 27,831 permits in 1965.

Welfare Center Of Adventists Is Open on Monday

Seventh-day Adventist health and welfare center located on the second floor of the Thief River clinic will be open from 9 a. m. to 12 noon Monday. The center will be open the second and fourth Monday of each month from September through May for those who wish to donate clothing to the needy.

Particularly needed is "back to school" clothing for youngsters of elementary school age. Donors may bring clothing to the south entrance of the building. Should the donor be unable to bring the clothing to the center, he may call 681-4227 and the donation will be picked up. Mrs. Floyd Borgan is the center director.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q—My son is leaving for military service and there is the possibility he might be sent where there is actual fighting. Can he purchase a government life insurance policy?

A—No. No government life insurance is available as such. However, in the event of his death, his survivors have the protection of the dependency and indemnity compensation program. Should he live, if he establishes after separation from service that he has a disability incurred in or aggravated by military service, he may be eligible to apply for the insurance policy which is available to certain disabled veterans.

Q—I am a World War II veteran with no service-connected disabilities. Would I be eligible for the new "J" insurance?

A—You would not be eligible unless you have a non service-connected disability which is uninsurable by commerical companies at their highest rates; also you must show that such disability existed on Oct. 13, 1964, the date the new "J" insurance law was signed.

Q—I have a skin cancer on my lip and expect to enter a VA hospital [illegible]

A—Dependents of veterans are [illegible]

MOVING a structure as large and ponderous as the St. Bernard's parish house is no easy proposition, as the crew of Leonard Thompson of Karlstad can attest. The crew jacked the huge building onto the semi-trailer Tuesday morning, intending to move it to the property of Frank Passa on Dewey avenue north of the roundhouse. Passa has purchased the house, intending to dwell in it and rent his other house. The house on wheels was towed down Main avenue where, as shown in the above photo, it dwarfed some of the downtown business places. Its great weight caused difficulties, and it now rests just across the railroad tracks north of town, where it must wait for dryer ground before being moved to the Passa residence. The 10-room, two-story house, which contains two bathrooms and five bedrooms, was constructed in 1914. A new parish house will be built in its place.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, William James Marquis, who passed away one year ago, September 11, 1964.

One year has passed since that sad day,
When the one we loved was called away.
Sad and sudden was the call,
A bitter grief, a shock severe,
It was to part with one so dear.
He bid no one a last farewell,
He said goodbye to none.
His loving heart had ceased to beat,
Before we knew that he had gone.
For all of us he did his best,
His heart was true and tender,
And will always be remembered,

Card of Thanks

We express sincere thanks and appreciation to our many friends and relatives shown during the illness and death of our wife, mother, and grandmother. A special thanks to Neil Hendrickson and Pastor Steen for their comforting words. Mrs. Neil Hendrickson for words in song. Thanks to the doctors and nurses, the pallbearers, Green Funeral home and the Ladies Aid for serving lunch. A special thanks for the memorials and flowers. The kindness will never be forgotten. May God bless each and everyone of you richly. Family of Mrs. Albert J. Johnson. 1t72p

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our appreciation to all the friends, neighbors and relatives for the kindly acts extended during illness and death of our father and grandfather, Steinar Bergland. Special thanks to Rev. Harold Peterson for his many home and hospital visits. Also to the Clifford M. Jorde family for numerous favors extended. Thank you also for the flowers, cards and memorials. Clarence, Dale and Dean Bergland. 1t72p

Card of Thanks

I wish to take this means to thank the nurses, doctors and all who visited me and sent flowers and cards during my stay in the hospital; Father Patnode and Father Ditzler for their prayers. It was deeply appreciated. Joe Reopelle. 1t72p

Card of Thanks

We wish to take this means of extending our thanks to friends and relatives who helped make our 50th wedding anniversary a most pleasant and memorable one. God Bless you all. Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Vigness. 1t72c

Spuds Beat Prowlers 27-0 in Grid Opener

Led by speedster Greg Lokken, who scampered for three touchdowns and added a conversion point, the Moorhead Spuds defeated the Prowlers, 27 to 0, in a schedule-opening football game played on the Lincoln field here Friday night.

On Friday, September 10, with the kickoff slated for 6:30 p. m., (standard time) the Prowlers will meet coach Frank Larson's International Falls Broncos at International Falls. In last seasons's encounter between the two teams, and which was played at International Falls, the Broncos won by a 12 to 0 score.

In Friday night's opener here the Moorhead Spuds, with a starting lineup that contained six seniors and five juniors, tallied a pair of touchdowns in the first period. The Prowlers, defending the south goal, accepted the game-opening kickoff, but gained only five yards in three plays were forced to kick, with the Spuds taking over from the Moorhead 32-yard line. With fullback Charles Daley and left halfback Lokken running the ball, the Spuds moved to the Prowlers' 16-yard line in seven plays. Lokken then slanted off left tackle for a touchdown. Daley drove over right guard for the conversion point.

Moments later a blocked Prowler punt gave Moorhead possession on the Prowlers' 17-yard line. A recovered fumble cost the Spuds a couple of yards, but then Lokken, on a sweep of right end, sprinted 19 yards for a touchdown, and when Daley's plunge over the line was good for the extra point, coach Jim Gotta's squad held a 14 to 0 lead.

The Prowlers had difficulty in gaining yardage through the bigger and more experienced Moorhead line, and in the second period Tommy Cummings began tossing aerials with Monte LeMoine, Rod Carlson and John Olson being his prime targets. The Prowlers picked up three first downs in the second period on pass completions.

The Spuds, taking the second-half kickoff, moved from their 32-yard line to the Prowlers' 11-yard line, on 13 plays from scrimmage. Lokken turned right end to the Prowler's 1-yard line for a first down and goal to go. The Prowlers held fullback Daley for no gain on a pair of plunges, but quarterback Mike Knauf, on a sweep around Lokken drove through the line for the extra point and the Spuds held a 21 to 0 lead.

The Spuds, after holding for downs and gaining possession of the ball, moved downfield to tally their final touchdown. Lokken, taking a turn at quarterback when Mike Knauf was shaken up on a defensive play, completed a pair of passes to Ricky Seim and then, from the Prowlers' 19-yard line, circled right for a touchdown. The conversion point, an attempted placekick by Dale Hertel, was wide of the uprights.

For the game the Spuds had a total yardage of 279, gaining 224 yards by rushing, while the Prowlers had 129 yards from scrimmage with 91 yards by rushing and 38 yards by passing.

Permits to hunt migratory waterfowl on the Red Lake Indian reservation will be available for the early teal season as well as the regular duck season in Minnesota, according to Dan Needham, secretary of the Red Lake Tribal council.

Permits for the season are available at $3.50 each fom the council office at Red Lake. Hunters must have an Indian guide while hunting waterfowl on the reservation. Teal season will be held September 11, 12, and 13 while the regular duck season opens October 9.

Hunters Urged To Return Bands From Ducks Shot

Minnesota Conservation department today urged duck hunters to send in all bands on waterfowl—especially mallards—taken during the 1965 waterfowl hunting season.

Department game officials said band reports are needed in order to evaluate the distribution, mortality and home instincts of mallards released by the Future Farmers of America. A total of 3,200 ducklings were banded in a cooperative effort by the Department of Conservation and the U. S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife.

The five-week old mallards were banded and released in more than 100 waterfowl areas in 26 counties scattered throughout the state. The banded mallards were some of more than 10,000 mallards raised from day-old ducklings by approximately 60 FFA chapters in a special conservation project.

Between 85 and 90 per cent of the ducklings received by the FFA boys were successfully raised and released in state and federal wetlands and on private marshes.

Langen Testifies On Tamarac River Watershed Plan

Congressman Odin Langen appeared Tuesday before the watershed development subcommittee of the House committee on public works in support of the proposed Tamarac River Watershed protection and flood prevention plan.

Langen, who raced the long history of flooding and other water problems in the area, told the committee that "the plan developed by the people in the Tamarac watershed would not only prevent much of the disastrous flooding of cropland, but would serve to conserve the precious water for use in dry seasons, and would provide needed recreational and wildlife facilities."

Congressman Langen noted that much of the cost of the project and the land treatment measures would be financed by the local participants, and said that "the federal government should meet these people half way by approving the work planned submitted. We have only to look back to this past spring to realize that the problem needs a solution now."

Langen said he was hopeful that the project would gain approval this year.

Prairie Grouse Council To Meet Soon in Warroad

Game technicians from 20 states and Canadian provinces will meet at Warroad September 14-16 to study possible ways of halting the steady decline of prairie grouse in the United States and southern Canada. The meeting will be the sixth conference of the Prairie Grouse Technical council and the first to be held in Minnesota. The conference is sponsored by the National Wildlife Federation.

Over ninety delegates in the field of prairie grouse research and management are expected to attend the conference.

James L. Ruos, grouse research biologist for the Minnesota Conservation department, is chairman of the council. He said that 23 scientific papers by some of the foremost authorities on prairie grouse will be presented during the conference.

A guided tour of the Minnesota sharp-tailed grouse research areas near Warroad will be conducted to allow visiting delegates to observe studies in progress.

Of primary concern to the technical council, game officials and conservationists generally is the steadily deminishing numbers of prairie gouse. Prairie chickens in Indiana, Illinois and Michigan are in immediate danger of extinction.

Sharp-tailed grouse, especially in the states adjacent to the Great Lakes, have also declined to a fraction of their former abundance.

Ron Kvikstad Is Champion of RRV Golf Tournament

Ron Kvikstad, former Prowler golfer and local club champion in 1960 and 1962, won the annual Red River Valley golf tournament at Crookston on Monday when, in the championship finals match against Jim Haugstul of Fosston, he scored a 1-up victory.

Kvikstad, who will be a junior at the University of Minnesota this season, defeated Gary Sanders of Crookston 3-2, in a first-round match on Sunday. In his second round match, Ron edged out Gene Radeke of Red Lake Falls 1-up.

In a semi-finals match on Monday morning, Ron scored a decisive 6-5 win over Crookston's veteran Ernotte Hiller. Hiller has won the Red River Valley title a number of times, and he was the medalist this year, shooting a 73 during qualifying play on Saturday.

Roseau Wildlife Management Area Closed For Teal

The portion of the Roseau River Wildlife Management area lying north of the Roseau river, within the Roseau River unit, which includes all three pool areas, is closed to teal hunting during the special 2½-day teal season.

This area is posted with warning signs at all main access points. This area is closed because of the special feeding program carried on to control waterfowl depredations to surrounding farming areas. So far over 5,000 bushels of small grain has been fed to waterfowl on the 11 feeding lots within the Roseau River unit, according to Jack R. Jensen, manager.

California Man Hits Hole-in-One At Local Course

Third hole-in-one of the season was scored at the Thief River Golf club recently when Ed Bergeron, visiting in this area but residing in Fullerton, Calif. aced the fourth hole. Playing with Bergeron at the time were Lloyd Bergeron of Argyle, Jack Rousseau of Greenbush and Les Hibbs of Coon Rapids. Bergeron used a five-iron in scoring his first hole-in-one.

Earlier in the year Dick Williams and Wally DuChamp, both local club members, scored holes-in-one, both on the 143-yard four hole. This was the second ace on this hole for DuChamp.

The only other Thief River Golf club member known to have scored a hole-in-one so far this year was Fran Womack, who made his in a tournament at Roseau a few weeks ago.

Farr Says DFL Likes Rolvaag, But Has Not Won 'Public Approval'

"Minnesota DFL party admires and respects the man it helped elect Governor in 1962, Karl Rolvaag," reports George Farr, state DFL chairman. Rolvaag has been a candidate for public office carrying the DFL banner in every election for more than 15 years. DFL'ers from every corner of the state have a warm personal affection for the man whom they have come to know so well. This is, and will continue to be the case.

"It's important, however, that a political party be alert to public attitudes and make available to its elected officials the most acurate political evaluation possible. Governor Rolvaag, himself has asked on a number of occasions that he be kept fully appraised of developments in Minnesota.

"Those who participated in the DFL party conference at Grand Rapids were discharging this responsibility. They were not expressing their own personal likes or dislikes, nor were they discussing their individual observations. They were reporting, in good faith, the comments, reactions and concerns of groups and organizations with which they are associated," Farr said.

"The discussions were serious and thoughtful. Warm personal regard for Governor Rolvaag rather than animosity formed the background. Approval for his legislative accomplishments was expressed as well as admiration for his performance as governor particularly in the face of crisis. But the reports consistently indicated this had not resulted in winning public approval which in turn would mean votes in sufficient number to win in 1966.

"No formal decisions were reached although it was considered imperative that the Governor be informed directly and in detail of the seriousness of the political situation in the best judgement of party officials representing a board cross section of the DFL.

"The conference could not and did not select any candidates to run in the 1966 campaign. No individual or group of individuals has that authority. The endorsement of DFL candidates is properly the function of the state convention. The delegates to the convention next year will make that decision," he concluded.

Farm Vehicles Require Lighting

Operators of slow moving farm vehicles should make certain the vehicles are properly lighted before taking them out on the road during darkness and other periods when visibility is limited, advises the Minnesota highway department.

Slow moving farm vehicles are now appearing on state roads with greater frequency, and because they move at slow speeds they can create a conflict with vehicles that are traveling at high speeds. When visibility is limited by darkness or weather, these vehicles become doubly hazardous if not properly lighted.

State law requires that every farm tractor and self-propelled farm vehicle must have at least one white or amber light on the front of the vehicle and a red light at the rear. It must also have two red reflectors at the rear, each at least 15 square inches in area.

On every combination of a self-propelled vehicle towing another unit, there must be at least one light to indicate the extreme left projection of the combination. In addition, the last unit of any combination must have a red light at the rear and also two red reflectors, each at least 15 square inches in area.

Langen Deplores GSA Selection in Baudette Hiring

"The federal government has lost another chance to help a rural community," said Congressman Odin Langen today in commenting on the decision by the General Services administration in filling the head custodian job at the new federal building at Baudette.

"There were a number of qualified applicants from that local community," said Langen, "and there were a number of persons who recommended that a local man be hired, including my own recommendation to that effect. But what did they do? They brought in a man from Duluth, hundreds of miles away and the Duluth man was already employed."

Langen noted that Baudette, in Lake of the Woods County, is in what the government calls a depressed area. "Department of Labor statistics indicate that there curently is greater unemployment in the Baudette area than in Duluth. Lake of the Woods county ranked in the bottom one-third of all counties in the nation in per capita income when the last census was taken, while St. Louis county, which contains Duluth, ranked in the top third.

Langen today sent a letter to the General Services administration protesting the decision to hire outside of the area. In asking that the decision be reversed, Langen said that "here is a chance to provide at least one job in a distressed area, but as it now stands rural America has again been shortchanged by the bureaucrats."

VA Benefit Forms Must Be Filled Out Completely

Proper execution of required forms speeds up applications for veterans' benefits, according to John Murphy, manager, Veterans Administration center, St. Paul. Every blank on the application form must be filled out legibly before the claim may be adjudicated.

Failure to provide the necessary information delays the decision on a claim, Murhpy said. Applicant may get information and assistance at the contact office of the VA center at Ft. Snelling.

"Many of the delusions of the world, or to speak more boldly, all the delusions of the world, are begotten of our being taught to be afraid of professing our ignorance, and thinking ourselves bound to accept everything we cannot refute." —Montaigne

The Socialist Viewpoint

This nation's movement toward socialism is not carried entirely on the wings of accidental chance. There are active organizations seeking to replace our free enterprise system—the system which has allowed America to grow and flourish—with a socialist system. Among these is the Socialist Labor Party, founded in 1890.

In a pulp pamphlet which was recently received at our office, the party makes no attempt to disguise its intentions to eliminate free enterprise. The party claims that competition is the cause of war—that in spite of other claimed causes, only competition for world markets causes war. Profits and progress have no place in the socialist theory. The pamphlet states:

"Peace is possible. But it requires that the working class—all the people who perform the useful functions of society and who have no property interests to bind their judgment—unite politically to outlaw private ownership of the tools of production at the ballot box. And it requires also that the workers consolidate their economic power in one integral Socialist Industrial Union to back up their socialist ballot and take and hold the industries. Peace is possible—but not until production for sale and private profit is supplanted by production for use."

In another pamphlet, commenting on the war in Vietnam, the party talks of controlling the contested countries of the world. "U.S. capitalism desperatly needs this control because the capitalist economy, based on the exploitation of wage labor, requires ever expanding markets abroad to absorb the surplus product that would otherwise pile up and choke the economy at home."

The peddlers of socialism are selling gilded lies. Socialism will not bring a guarantee of peace to the United States—unless socialism would meekly give way to communism. Peace under those conditions would scarcely be acceptable. Socialism is a first cousin of communism but the lesser of the two evils. Neither has a place in America.

Rising Costs

That state government is costly and that the costs are rising rapidly may be easily seen by a comparison of costs for last year and just three years ago. Figures are taken from reports of Stafford King, state auditor.

In fiscal 1962, for instance, King reported that the state handled $935 million in all its transactions. By fiscal 1965, which ended this last June, the figure had risen to $1,556 million, a $600 million increase. Actual operating expenses in 1962 amounted to $618 million, but by 1965 this had risen to $778 million—a $160 million increase.

Payrolls for state employees at all levels, university and state colleges included, went from $120 million in 1962 to $157 million in 1965, a $37 million increase. Materials and supplies used by state employees totaled $16½ million in 1962 and rose to $20 million in 1965.

The state always seems to be buying property for highways, parks, recreation areas, etc. In 1962, it spent $118.7 million for this purpose, and $148 million in 1965. It turned $330.8 million in state grants over to school districts and other subdivisions of government in 1962, but by 1965 this had risen to $428.4 million.

In 1962, the state took in $462.7 million in taxes of all kinds. By 1965, this figure had gone to $548.4 million—an $85 million increase. The federal government returned $177 million from taxes it collected within the state in 1962. By 1965, the figure had risen to $257.6 million. For every man, women and child in Minnesota during 1962, the cost of government, state and local, was $362.81, which was regarded as pretty high throughout the country. Most states showed much lower per capita costs for government. Since taxes usually are paid by one member of a family, the breadwinner, and an average family consists of four individuals, we multiply the per capita cost by four to see what the one who earns the family's living has to pay.

In 1962, this process produced a figure of $1,451.24 that had to come out of the breadwinner's annual pay check to pay these taxes. By 1964, the last year the Minnesota Tax payers association has figures for, the per capita cost had risen to $406.23, requiring $1,624.92 out of the breadwinner's pay. The figures aren't available for this year yet, but they'll be in the vicinity of $500 per capita—taking $2,000 out of the breadwinner's pay.

Add to this what the federal government took last year on a per capita basis, $338.55 or $1,354.20 per breadwinner in a family of four, and the size of what is required from each of us comes closer to understanding. Frightening, isn't it?

A Fairy Tale

United States Chamber of Commerce relates the following fairy tale:

"The federal government decided there were too many autos. So it paid auto makers to take some old, obsolete plants out of production. The federal government paid the car makers the equivalent of $9,000 for every $3,000 in autos the plant could have produced.

"The auto makers cheerfully closed down the old plants, accepted the money and reinvested it in new machinery for the plants which they were allowed to continue to operate. Auto production soared to record levels.

"Government planners called the program a success. They said that had the closed down plants been operating, production would have been even higher.

"The economic absurdities of this fairy tale are clear. None but a lunatic would apply this scheme to autos. But take agriculture, that's a different tale. All you have to do in the above story is substitute "feed grain" for autos and "farmers" for auto makers and you have a true story."

Success of the feed grain program is questionable. In four years it has cost more than $5 billion in tax money while feed grain production has risen. Corn yield is up 17 per cent, grain sorghum production is up three bushels per acre and barley yields have risen one sixth. This is a tribute to the enterprise of the farmer, but leaves room for question as to the wisdom of the department of agriculture.

We could see some justification for the program if it truly helped farmers in their financial situations, but net farm profits dropped $1.3 billion between 1954 and 1964. The government is fibbing when it claims success for such farm programs. Some may have given temporary assistance but none have really solved any proglems. Perhaps farmers would be able to help themselves more if they were given the chance to earn profits by producing for people rather than for government programs.

Turn-About Is Foul Play

"Turn-about is fair play" is an old adage which has been used on many occasions. It is the reverse of the Golden Rule—"do unto others as you would have them do unto you". Basically it means that if you get a bad deal from someone you are right to give him a bad deal in return; he knows he wronged you and should expect you to wrong him.

Turnabout in the meaning intended here, however, is considerably different. It is a case of political opposition to certain things until they happen, and then taking credit for making them happen. This is the case of Governor Rolvaag and the DFL party in Minnesota. (For the sake of our DFL readers, we hasten to mention that this tactic is not at all foreign to the Republican party, by any means).

The DFL is now distributing a report on the 1965 legislative session, boldly taking credit for the accomplishments of the session and laying the blame for things not accomplished at the feet of the conservatives (the DFL likes to call them Republicans) who controlled both the House and Senate. In so doing, the DFL is attempting a sleight-of-hand performance that would make Houdini look like a bungling amateur.

There is good reason for the Governor and his party to try and resurrect something from the last legislative session. Gubernatorial leadership was virtually nil during the session; most legislators contend the Governor didn't know what was going on in the legislature; and the heavy stamp of veto power on significant legislation was not accepted too kindly by many of the voters in the state.

To put it bluntly, the Governor has been having his problems. His prestige in the state's top post has taken a nose-dive, whatever popularity he might have enjoyed has similarly declined, and a large percentage of members in his own party don't expect him to be even nominated for another term, much less elected. The party must do something to woo voters or it has a bleak future for the next state elections.

The point which the DFL attempts to make in its report is that it was the Governor's leadership which resulted in passage of bills on education, welfare, government efficiency, conservation, help for the elderly, mental health, civil rights and others. The Governor claims credit for advance in the taconite industry, particularly its 9.1 per cent gain in employment, although he bitterly fought the taconite amendment for a long time.

Main contention, however, is that "Republicans blocked tax reform". After lengthy deliberation on tax reform, including a replacement sales tax which would have provided considerable tax relief in many instances, legislators were quite unhappy with the Governor's announcement that he would veto any sales tax plan of tax reform.

It will be quite a turn-about for the liberals to conduct the next election of a basis of tax reform—something the liberals have fought against for years. In this case, turnabout will be foul play.

1905—SIXTY YEARS AGO

Rumor has it that the Great Northern will abandon its line running through Red Lake Falls.—According to the Duluth Herald, no doubt now exists that the Soo Line will build an extension from Thief River Falls to Duluth.—A number of wealthy Iowa and Illinois farmers are expected to invest in northern Minnesota land this fall.—C. J. Knox found a small fish in a bundle of wheat. His farm lies near the river, and much of his wheat land was underwater this year.

1915—FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fire destroyed the A. A. Thoreson second-hand store.—The city council set Sept. 30 as the date of a special election on the question of purchasing the Kretzschmar dam.—Mrs. Ruth Chamberlain Miller, music instructor, returned from a trip to the west coast.—Fred Protz of the post office staff is attending the state fair.

1925—FORTY YEARS AGO

Threshing in this area was halted by a two-inch downpour of rain.—John Leines, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jens Leines of Silverton Twp was awarded the state championship in the Ayrshire division at the Minnesota state fair.—An elaborate moonshining enterprise was discovered by local authorities in an east side residence. Stills were found in the woodshed, chicken coop, house and buried in the poultry yard.

1935—THIRTY YEARS AGO

The St. Hilaire band and 13 Pennington county 4-H club members will attend the state fair.—Joseph Fabrick succeeded Paul A. Lundgren as high priest of the local chapter of the Royal Arch Masons.

1945—TWENTY YEARS AGO

With only 525 votes being cast, a 20 to 1 margin in favor of issuing $310,000 bonds to finance a new water treatment plant and rebuilding the power dam was registered in a special election.—Enrollment in the local schools rose from 1,487 on the first day in 1944 to 1,623 in 1945.—Mrs. Carroll Hinderlie, sister of Mrs. H. O. Chommie, told a capacity audience in Trinity church of her experiences while intered with her husband for three years by the Japapese in the Philippines.—A. F. Berge was elected president of the library board, succeeding Mrs. W. W. Prichard.

1955—TEN YEARS AGO

Articles of incorporation for Thief River Falls Jobs, Inc., a booster organization for local industry, were submitted by Robert Wurst and signed by Dr. Orion Belch, Bill LaFave, A. F. Berge, James Winjum, W. E. Dahlquist, L. B. Hartz, E. O. Peterson, George Werstlein, Ralph Luhman and Les Ihle at a meeting in the council chamber.—Construction of a drive-in theatre is getting under way.—Wayne Field, Minnesota Jaycee president, will speak at the Jaycee Boss-Employee banquet here Oct. 3.—Bart Wangenstein was elected ninth district director of the Minnesota Retail Jewelers' association.

Like A Letter From Home

Dear Son,

Just a note to let you know that Dad and I bought you a subscription to The Times.

They have a special rate for college students and it's very reasonable. More parents should take advantage of it.

With the subscription you will get all the news from home including what I've forgotten to mention.

Love
Mother

Few parents have time to write twice a week and when they do write, it's hard to remember every little thing that has happened. Receiving The Times will help keep your college student up-to-date.

News from home is an important subject on any college campus, and one sure way of getting the news to your son or daughter is by taking THE TIMES

Parents . . . take advantage of this back-to-school offer of The Times. Give the student in your family the news from home.

Pheasant Population Down Half from 1964

Ted Shields, state game and fish the August roadside pheasant census made by game wardens, biologists and game managers indicates that the 1965 fall pheasant population will be about 50 per cent below last year and 70 per cent below the average for the past ten years. Shields said that this is the lowest August pheasant count since the census began in 1939.

This low count was expected since the annual spring roadside counts had indicated that this year's breeding population was down 57 per cent from last year. Shields pointed out that this drop in the number of breeding birds is a direct result of the heavy pheasant mortality during the Mar. 17-18 blizzard.

Even with fewer breeders the pheasant population could have shown a very good increase if weather during the nesting season had late, wet spring resulted in only an average or below average hatch.

Shields further pointed out that the only cultivated land that provided tall enough nesting cover to attract nesting hens was alfalfa. Therefore, most pheasants nested in hay fields and many hens and nests were destroyed by hay mowers.

Many of the oat fields throughout the pheasant range were not planted early enough this year to attract nesting hens. This situation eliminated much of the safe nesting cover and lowered nesting success since small grain fields usually produce about 40 per cent of the pheasant hatch.

Minnesota will have a 23-day pheasant season this year with limits of two roosters daily and four in possession. Last year's 38-day season with limits of three daily and six in possession resulted in taking about 758,000 roosters.

Shields urged hunters to be especially careful this year so as not to accidently kill hens. "The number of hens we have next spring, along with weather during the nesting season, will determine next fall's pheasant population" he said.

He said the bag limit has been reduced to help distribute the kill among as many hunters as possible. The shorter season is in recognition of the fact that shooting is apt to be extremely poor after three weeks of hunting. Shields said that the number of roosters shot in the fall has little or no effect on the number of birds available for the next year's hunting seasons. He explained, "In Minnesota we have one rooster for every two or three hens during the nesting season. This is an ample supply of roosters to insure maximum reproduction."

Hunters should look for hunting spots near good winter pheasant cover like heavy brush, cane and large cattail areas. Pheasant survival during the March blizzard was much better in areas of this type and more hens survived to produce broods in these locations. state's wildlife management areas provided good winter cover and will have better pheasant hunting this fall than much of the remaining pheasant range.

Death Payments In State Rise by 18 Per Cent in '65

Minnesota families received $38,200,000 in death payments on their life insurance during the first half of 1965, according to the Institute of Life Insurance. This was an increase of $5,800,000 or 18 per cent over the same period last year. The total has climbed 117 per cent since 10 years ago.

Blake T. Newton Jr., president of the institute, explained that the rise in death benefit payments reflects the great increase in life insurance protection owned by American families. Death payments throughout the United States ran 115 per cent higher during the first half of 1965 than in the same period 10 years ago, even though the mortality rate among policyholders generally has shown little change. Life insurance in force in the United States has risen 140 per cent during the past decade.

Death payments were made a total of 16,500 policies in Minnesota during the first half of 1965, compared with 14,500 in the same period last year. The 1965 death payments included $22,200,000 under 7,200 ordinary policies; $14,700,000 under 5,800 group certificates and $1,300,000 under 3,500 industrial policies.

For the nation as a whole, death payments totaled $2,393,400,000 under 1,281,500 policies during the first half of 1965, compared with $2,283,600,000 under 1,234,600 policies in the same period last year. The 1965 figures include $1,293,400,000 under 398,500 ordinary policies; $892,200,000 under 320,900 group certificates; and 207,800,00 under 562,1 industrial policies.

E. E. Kelly Visits Site of Driving The Golden Spike

E. E. Kelly of Thief River Falls, a Soo Line railroad employee who retired as yardmaster in 1955 after 42 years of service at Thief River Falls, recently visited the site where the legendary "Golden Spike" was driven to join the railroads uniting the east and the west in the United States.

Kelly, with his wife, son Harold and Mrs. Nels Fontaine, visited the site at Pomontory Point, Utah, while on a two-week trip to the West Coast. The spike was driven to join the Union Pacific railroad and the old Central Pacific railroad, now part of the Southern Pacific railroad.

Among the souvenirs which he acquied at the historic site were a section of the oiginal narrow gauge rail which was given to him by a service station attendant and a well-rusted bur and part of a bolt which he found near the site. The burr and bolt were used to join sections of rail together. Driving of the golden spike marked completion of the first transcontenental railroad on May 10, 1869.

The Kellys found the "small world" theory applies to them; for they met Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wendel of Thief River Falls while in the famous space needle built for the world's fair in Seattle.

During the trip, which coveed Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon, Utah, Wyoming and South Dakota, the Kellys visited relatives including Mrs. Albet Soblik, Sidney, Mont.; Mr. and Ms. Marvin Coss, Merce Island, Wash.; and Joe and Miss Sarah Hennessey, Seattle.

Other items of interest were Namu, the killer whale recently subject of national publicity when towed to the West Coast in a floating pen; the railroad museum at Corinne, Utah; Mormon Squsre at Salt Lake City, Utah; Yellowstone National pak; Buffalo Bill museum at Cody, Wyo.; and the Black Hills of South Dakota. Pat of the return trip followed the old Oregon Tail.

HIGH POINT of a trip to the West Coast recently for E. E. Kelly of Thief River Falls was a visit to the site of the driving of the golden spike at Promontory Point, Utah. The spike symbolized completion of the first transcontinental railroad on May 10, 1869. Kelly was a Soo Line railroad employee for 42 years, retiring as yardmaster in 1955. He is holding a rusted bolt and burr, used to join rails, which he found near the site.

Seek Applicants For Minnesota Forester Posts

Minnesota Conservation department's forestry division today announced job openings in forester positions. Qualifications are successful completion of the division's forester training program and college graduation with a degree in forestry or considerable expelence in forest management work.

A forester directs forest management activities in a forestry district. These activities include tree planting, timber stand improvement, timbe sales, enforcement of timber laws and regulations, fire prevention and private and auxiliary forest management services. Applicants will be judged entirely on the basis of experience and training.

Applications for the forester trainee examination will be accepted until further notice and should be mailed to Minnesota Civil Service Department, 180 State Office Building, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101.

USDA To Include Turkey in School Lunch Programs

Congressman Odin Langen today expressed his pleasure with the department of agriculture's decision to purchase turkeys for the nation's school lunch program.

"This will go a long way toward stabilizing skidding turkey prices and will provide 17 million youngsters with a tasty and nutritious change of diet," said Langen, who last week had personally urged the department to make such purchases.

Langen noted that details ofthe program were to be announced within a few days and that inquiries about the buying program should be directed to the poultry division of the department of agriculture's consumer and marketing service in Washington, D. C.

Congressman Langen also noted that the department has announced plans to buy packed, federally inspected, U. S. Grade A fresh frozen cut-up young chickens, also for distribution to schools under the national school lunch program.

Pvt. Curtis E. Efteland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl E. Efteland of Thief River Falls, was honor graduate of the construction machine operators course that ended at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., August 19. He received the training under the Reserve Enlistment program. Efteland graduated first in his class of 60 trainees. During the eight-week course, he was trained to cut and fill ditches and received instruction in the proper method of forming drainage systems. He also received training in the operation and maintenance of heavy construction equipment. The 20-year-old soldier is a 1962 graduate of Lincoln high school.

PUBLIC OPINION

I have been rather amused at your finger slapping of the Minnesota Federation of Teachers in recent editorials. It seems to me you take them to task for not being concerned enough about educating our children. This is a rather strange when you consider some of the positions your paper has taken in regards to the best education for children in the past.

You state that teachers who are discontented with their salaries, etc., get out. This kind of thinking I am sure is going to do a great deal for education. The sad fact of the matter is, too many good teachers are getting out. And, if you think that the discontented teacher is confined to the Union, you are badly mistaken. Discontentment does breed revolution. And that is exactly what is taking place in the teachers ranks. Calling oneself a professional doesn't put shoes on my children's feet or food in their mouths. Dedicated teachers are tired of living on dedication. Witness the situation brought about by the NEW in the state of Oklahoma or the pressure being applied by the Union in New York City and many other large cities. It won't be very long before the good old rural areas (which you are so found of) will feel this type of change and begin to do something about it.

As sad as it may be for some, the good old days are gone. There is so much more for that boy or girl in today's schools to cope with. This is a frightening prospect, but think of the opportunities. Those opportunities won't come with a second rate education. Maybe you better give some consideration to coddling teachers.

By the way, your implication that good-teachers don't join teachers unions might come as a surprise to some rather eminent Americans who are either in education or were at one time. This includes your old friend H. H. Humphrey, Vice Pres. of the United States.

Sincerely,
—John O. Muldoon

Annual Meeting Of Conservation Federation Set

Judge Louis D. McGregor president of the National Wildlife Federation, and Durward L. Allen, professor of wildlife management at Purdue university, will headline a list of speakers at the 13th annual general assembly of the Minnesota Conservation federation to be held at the Edgewater Inn at Detroit Lakes on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, September 17, 18 and 19.

Opening day will be devoted to a meeting of the resolutions committee, a wildlife field trip and a big fish fry Friday evening.

Business sessions will get under way on Saturday morning with various committee reports. Judge McGregor will speak at the Saturday noon luncheon. Election of officers for the coming year will be the first order of business Saturday afternoon.

Professor Allen will be the headline speaker at the Saturday evening banquet at which Judge McGregor will act as master of ceremonies. Awards will be made and officers for the coming hear will be installed.

A business session on Sunday morning will close the annual meeting. In excess of 250 delegates, guests and visitors are expected.

Emil Wiese of Lakefield is president of this 154-club, 20,000 member conservation organization.

The average American is eating 50 to 300 per cent more frozen fruits and vegetables than 15 years ago, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Diets contain more chicken, beef, cheese and canned fruits but less veal, fresh fruits, eggs, potatoes, wheat products and pork.

A Change In View

There's nothing like a new perspective to change your attitude toward life.

When Junior is bored, he simply stands on his head for a new slant at things. The floor flips to the ceiling, with tables and chairs hanging from it, and people walk upside-down. At least that's the way it looks to him.

It is a good idea to gain a different perspective — to step back and get a new slant on things around you. But you don't have to stand on your head to do it.

Instead identify yourself with a church. Take your family and go regularly to worship. You will find a new perspective. Genuine values will keep their importance; unimportant things will diminish.

Today's life will be happier; tomorrow's full of hope. Nothing is upside-down, but everything claims its rightful place when you view life with the faith of a Christian.

Quality of many vegetables depends on the time and stage at which they're harvested. Some vegetables like sweet corn, peas, beans, cauliflower and broccoli deteriorate quickly once they are mature, so they must be picked at just the right stage and used immediately.

A good way to tell the ideal time for sweet corn harvest is to use the thumb nail test. If the kernels are fully filled out and in the milk stage, the watery substance will squirt out freely when the kernels are pressed with the nail. Corn silk should be brown and dry.

Harvest peas before the pods are tightly filled and before the color turns from bright green to a yellowish green.

Cut broccoli when the flower bud clusters are well formed but before the buds start to open into yellow flowers. Cut 4 to 5 inches of stem with each head.

If cucumbers are allowed to remain too long on the vine, the seeds will become hard and further production will be reduced. Pick the fruit so a small portion of stem adheres to each cucumber. Harvest cucumbers often for best quality.

Pick beans when they are in the best snapping stage, when the pods are still straight and smooth before the presence of the seeds in the pod can actually be felt and seen. When beans are allowed to get ripe and overmature, they cease to produce new flowers and pods.

Muskmelon is ripe when the stem slips easily from the fruit, leaving a clean scar. Watermelon is ripe when the underside of the fruit turns yellow or when snapping the melon with a finger produces a dull, hollow sound. Watermelons have to be cut off the vine.

Harvest summer squash when the fruits are six to nine inches long, when the rind is still soft and before seeds are hard. Winter squash, though, should ripen on the vine. Winter squash is mature when the skin near the stem and is difficult to puncture with the thumb nail.

Scientists trying to get around the chemical residue problem in insect control are now testing an approach that would mean catching the pest during his weakest moments.

Quite likely, research is showing, many insects are physiologically most active—and most susceptible to a chemical—at predictable times during a 24-hour period.

Implications of such periodicity would be clear: time the treatment to get the greatest kill with the lowest dose and without leaving a residue.

Entomologist L. K. Cutkomp at the University of Minnesota is experimenting with three insect species—mosquito larve, cockroaches and flour beetles—to learn whether such weak periods occur and if they might be useful to man.

A major reason for the popularity of DDT was its persistence. Its residue deteriorates slowly, compared with many chemicals, and it is this residue that often accounts for effective insect control.

But the public health problems resulting from residues and high dosages have long stimulated research on ways to avoid both. In his research, Cutkomp is studying such chemicals as dichlorvas (DDVP), naled (Dibrom), mevinphos (Phosdrin), and Bomyl. All have far less persistence than, for example, DDT.

A less persistent chemical, however, must make its kill when it is applied or shortly thereafter. Without a residue, the chemical doesn't wait around for the insect to show up later, or for a time when the pest is more susceptible.

Thus, scientists hope to establish whether these periods occur and if they can be capitalized upon for control.

Cutkomp measures physiological activity of the three insect species by measuring oxygen consumption. When an insect is more active, it consumes more oxygen.

Most evidence so far points to light as the major factor affecting these cycles. Preliminary indications from Cutkomp's research suggest that mosquito larvae are more active in the evening, and the same is true with roaches.

A major question for the research is whether the metabolic activity at peak level is far enough above the lowest level to be useful to control programs. Others are whether cycles are similar at different ages and for different insects.

If the activity cycle idea works out, it might help man overcome moderate resistance which some insects develop toward chemicals.

Research in other states has indicated greater susceptibility to chemicals at certain times of day. In one study, spider mites showed maximum sensitivity two hours after dawn.

As part of this research, Cutkomp and his colleagues are testing sublethal dosages—those below levels needed for outright kill—to see whether the activity cycle can be upset. Such an effect might interfere with the insect's whole behavior pattern, including feeding, mating and reproduction. This interference could be a form of control itself.

Use of the activity cycle would be limited to control situations where the insect population is fairly well confined and, of course, where spraying schedules can be adjusted according to the clock. Insect control in greenhouses is one example, and control of certain field and orchard insects is another.

Larch trees once found only in the mountains of Japan's Honshu island are adding a touch of the exotic to a long-term research project of the University of Minnesota.

Japanese larch trees planted in 1960, now 10 to 12 feet tall, may hold some future promise for the forested areas of this state.

The final verdict won't be heard for many years. But regardless of the outcome on Japanese larch, the overall project has real meaning for the forest industry.

Larch is one of more than a dozen tree species, originally from outside Minnesota's forested area, being tested by the School of Forestry. The project, under geneticist Scott Pauley, involves testing in plots more than 600 seed sources of various species—some from the far corners of the earth, but most from the Great Lakes region, surrounding states and Canadian provinces.

The long range intent: to find naturally occurring seed sources that may be better adapted to Minnesota conditions than those native to this state.

After about 15 years of screening tests the best 10 to 15 percent of the seed sources will be tree plots.

Major emphasis is on the native evergreens and the aspens and birches. Included in the studies are:

About 55 seed sources of the red pine, from nearby areas of Canada and the lake states, and about 150 seed sources of jack pine.

About 64 seed sources of Douglas fir, 16 of white fir, 32 of northern white cedar and 63 of tamarack.

Sixty sources of eastern Cottonwood.

About 150 different seed sources of Scotch pine from throughout its natural range, including Europe, Asia and Siberia.

About 50 sources of white spruce, 55 of Norway spruce and 14 of red spruce.

Six sources of the Japanese larch.

All trees are put through a rigorous screening test in replicated small plots throughout central and northeastern Minnesota.

The principal test is general adaptability to climatic conditions. Among trees that survive, further checks are made for growth in height and diameter, stem straightness, and resistance to forest pests.

This initial screening process does not always take 15 years. In some cases, certain sources may be killed off in the first couple of years, especially when the trees are not winter hardy.

After seed sources with better potential have been screened out, Pauley and his colleagues say, there may be other research possibilities, such as hybridization.

Furthermore, the rather intensive culture of some of these trees may produce new information on forest management.

Locations of out plantings include Rosemount, North Branch, Rice, Grand Rapids, Cloquet, and Orr. The plantings are on both public and private lands.

The seed sources have been gathered in a variety of ways. Some, such as the Japanese larch and cottonwood, have been supplied through a north central regional cooperative project. Others are located through direct contact with public officials and individuals in other states and nations.

Some 3,600 acres of waterfowl developments are planned by watershed sponsoring organizations throughout Minnesota as part of the small watershed program.

The Soil Conservation service is working closely with the Minnesota Department of Conservation in planning these watershed projects where structural measures for waterfowl developments will be included.

Seven pools, ranging from 47 acres to 1,720 acres, will provide additional waterfowl production areas, resting areas for migrating ducks and hunting areas for Minnesota sportsmen.

Furbearers, upland game birds, and, on one area, even moose should benefit.

These developments will be located on:

Tamarac River watershed in Marshall county; North Branch of Two Rivers watershed in Kittson and Roseau counties; Joe River watershed in Kittson county; Cooks Valley watershed in Wabasha county; Crane Creek watershed in Waseca and Steele counties; and Lakes Okabena-Ocheda watershed in Nobles county.

Several trout stream improvements are planned for the Crooked Creek watershed in Houston county. These consist of nearly a mile of bank stabilization, sodding and seeding of bank slopes, crib type shelters, combination deflectors and shelters, fencing and tree planting.

Although the planning agencies provide the technical know-how for these developments, the small watershed program is a self-help program. Local people initiate and help plan and build the projects. In some instances, state agencies such as Minnesota Department of Conservation assist in the financing and maintenance.

Federal cost sharing is also available under the Public Law 566 small watershed program. Minnesota watershed projects will provide new recreation opportunities as well as fulfilling their primary purpose of flood prevention, family farm improvement, soil and water conservation projects will provide new recreation opportunities as well as fulfilling their primary purpose of flood preevntion, family farm improvement, soil and water conservation and agricultural water management.

Wherever there is a need, a suitable site and the proposal qualifies under the law, recreation [illegible] developments are being given prime consideration in the PL-566 small watershed projects in Minnesota. It is through this kind of planning that such diversified land uses are brought about.

How's Your Health?

(Prepared in the public interest by the Minnesota Medical Ass'n)

Most persons will exercise every possible precaution to protect themselves and their families from a tornado or an automobile accident because they easily recognize the dangers of these potential killers, says the Minnesota State Medical association. Proper precaution against these threats is automatic because they can be seen and heard.

The most dangerous killers of all lurk unseen posing as a silent, constant threat to parents and children alike. They are the microscopic organisms which cause such dread diseases as smallpox, diphtheria and polio and often dangerous whooping cough, tetanus (lockjaw) and measles.

Unfortunately, many people living in a day and age where science drugs and physicians have produced so many medical miracles no longer fear these killers. Nevertheless, they're still at large and as dangerous as ever.

Here's a roll call of the killers which can be thwarted through immunization: First there is smallpox, still a much-feared disease which is deadly, disabling or disfiguring. Although a vaccine for small-pox was developed more than 165 years ago, epidemics still strike in many parts of the world. In the United States, there still are many people of all ages who either are unvaccinated or need revaccination. Until about 40 years ago diphtheria was a major killer. Within a 30-year period the disease almost disappeared. Since diphtheria is little more than a name to younger generations and since its danger no longer is so apparent, people have grown careless. Consequently, diphtheria is beginning to sneak back.

Whooping cough used to be a serious threat to young children. Today there is an excellent vaccine for it. But it has to be used and that's up to parents.

Tetanus or lockjaw is a danger whenever cuts, scratches, wounds or other injuries are contaminated with street dust, garden soil or any earthy substances. Immunization gives complete and lasting protection, providing a booster shot is taken when such an injury occurs. Basic tetanus immunization is essential for people of all ages.

Today, diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus immunizations are given to children in one convenient triple vaccine.

One of the newer immunizations is that against polio. Introduction of this protection has practically wiped out this once heavy killer and crippler within only a few years. Immunization is available either by injection or oral vaccine.

Fall is a good time to begin the planting of your landscape. Shrubs and trees for landscaping purposes can be successfully planted during the fall season. Container-grown nursery stock and materials that go dormant early can be started at this time too, as well as the balled and burlap plants. This is also a good time to rejuvenate the landscape planting.

Often it's possible to rejuvenate deciduous shrubs by pruning them. Overgrown plant materials may be replaced now. In fact, fall is a good time to make these replacements to take advantage of the winter effect the new plant materials will give to your landscaping.

Where construction is to be accomplished in the landscape design, it is a good idea to start the footings and get the foundations or fill established this fall. Where change of grades for patio or for leveling of the lawn is necessary the fill will settle during the winter season and landscaping can continue the following spring.

For new homes where the foundation has just been completed it's best to wait until spring to put in the foundation planting.

Permanent trees can be planted at this time of the year just as soon as the leaves have fallen. Consult with your landscape nurseryman first of all on the development of the landscape plan, then on appropriate species and transplanting information. Often during the fall season there is more time available to devote to site planning and development.

FURNITURE representing about one-third increase in stock from the previous building is shown to advantage in the new Poppler Furniture company store which will hold its grand opening in Thief River Falls Wednesday through Saturday. This view shows part of the main floor of the 50x110 building. The basement has also been remodeled and provides space for room arrangements. Area of the store, formerly the F. W. Woolworth store at Second street and LaBree av. N., provides about twice the space of Poppler's former location in the same block. It is the first move for the store in 25 years. New services will also be provided in the new store, including a free interior decorator consulting service.

Expect Decision This Week On Milk Market Agreement

District court decision regarding the validity of marketing agreements between Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., and milk prdoucers in this area is expected later this week, following a hearing held Friday at the courthouse in Thief River Falls. Hon. H. O. Chommie, district judge, told the Times this morning that he will hand down his decision sometime this week.

Friday's hearing, attended by more than 100 interested persons in the courtroom of the county courthouse, permitted the judge to hear quotations from law by attorneys representing the producers and the Land O'Lakes organization. Principal defendants were Merle and Darrow Lundeen of Trail and Olaf and Orlin Stolnas of Oklee. They are seeking to divert their milk production to another processor.

Prior to the hearing a caravan of about 25 cars, several of them bearing signs, was given police escort for a brief trip through the business area of the city. The caravan terminated at Knight avenue where cars were parked and occupants left to attend the hearing.

The controversy resulted from an effort being made by the Red River Valley Milk Producers pool to gain an increase in milk prices paid to producers. Several processors have signed agreements with the pool. Land O'Lakes has not signed a contract and its management has indicated that it cannot sign due to restrictions in its bylaws.

In the Fargo area, Cass Clay Creameries announced an increase in wholesale milk prices of three cents per half gallon. Cass Clay milk was listed at 47 cents per half gallon at the retail level in most stores in the Fargo-Moorhead area. Retail grocers were almost unanimous in noting that they could not absorb the wholsale price increase and would be forced to raise the retail price. Cass Clay was one of the processors to sign a contract with the milk producers pool.

Seated is Ginny Kruse, receptionist at Union State Bank, who assisted with registration for the meeting.

Natural Disaster Crop Payments Applications Due

A deadline date of Sept. 20, 1965, has been established for filing applications under the Natural Disaster Act, according to A. E. Strandquist, office manager of the Marshall County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee. Applications for adjustment must be filed in the county office not later than the deadline date.

The act provides that farmers in the natural disaster area can be paid barley or corn price support payments or wheat certificate payment on land which could not be seeded into wheat, barley or corn, due to natural disaster. For further information, contact the county office.

Ram Sale Will Be Held Today At Fairgrounds

Sheep producers consigning rams to the 17th annual purebred ram show and sale being held today in Thief River Falls were guests of the agriculture committee of the Chamber of Commerce Sunday evening at a banquet served in the Rex cafe. Main speaker was Charles White, dean of the Thief River Falls junior college which will open for classes Sept. 20.

Judging in the ram show was held this morning and the sale will begin at 1 p.m. in the livestock pavilion on the Pennington county fairgrounds. Approximately 25 rams of four major breeds, will be offered for sale at the annual event, according to Peter Probasco, sale manager.

Dr. O. D. Belch served as master of ceremonies for the event with Fred Sorensen, chairman of the agriculture committee of the Chamber of Commerce, giving the welcome. Dean White reviewed the origin of the junior college program in Minnesota and explained the operation of the program in Thief River Falls and area. Local businessmen and their wives served as hosts and hostesses for the consignors and wives attending.

Moonlight Madness Slated Wednesday

Following a three-hour closing Wednesday to rearrange and discount merchandise, Thief River Falls merchants will stage a Moonlight from 7 to 10 p.m., according to Jon Larson, chairman of the committee for the retail committee of the local Chamber of Commerce.

All store owners and clerks have been urged to dress in night attire for the event and pajamas, nightgowns, robes, bedroom slippers and night caps will be prominent among store personnel. Retail stores will close at 4 p.m. to prepare for the sale and open at 7 p.m. for the big sales promotion.

Exceptions to the closing hours will be grocery stores which will close at 5 p.m. and reopen at 7 p.m. and services stations and drug stores which will remain open all day to 10 p.m.

With only three hours to shop during the promotion, shoppers are invited to save time by shopping the advertising in today's issue of the Times. Many Moonlight Madness items are advertised in today's issue.

Police Report Auto Mishaps And 2 Thefts

Six accidents and two larcenies were reported today by the Thief River Falls police department. In addition, police reported that the case of vandalism of the vacant house in Thief River Falls owned by Elvin Bommerud of Goodridge had been cleared. Six juvenile boys have admitted the damage.

On Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. a car driven by Leonard Boyum, city, was traveling north on Highway 32. Slightly north of the Greenwood blvd. intersection, the car struck by a vehicle driven by Carl Wennberg, city, which had been traveling south on Highway 32 and was attempting a left turn onto Greenwood. Damage was estimated at $75 to the Boyum car and $100 to the Wennberg vehicle. Mrs. Leonard Boyum, a passenger in the Boyum car, was treated at Northwestern hospital for lacerations, contusions and abrasions. Wennberg was cited for making an improper left turn.

At 7:25 p.m. Thursday a car driven by David Swenson, city, was going west on Eighth street. In attempting a left turn into the alley between Horace and Atlantic avenues, the car stopped to yield to oncoming traffic and was struck from the rear by one driven by Nancy Dimmen, rt. 2, Thief River Falls. Each car was damaged to the extent of about $75.

On Friday at 10:50 a.m. a car driven by Mrs. Ralph Hunt, city, was stopped in the right lane on Third facing the Main avenue intersection and was struck in the left front fender by a semi-trailer driven by Gary Hatfield, Darwin, who was attempting a right turn onto Main avenue from the left-hand lane. The Hunt car was damaged to the extent of about $55.

Three accidents occurred on Saturday. At 2:40 p.m. a car driven by Elmer Adolphson, city, was attempting to back out of a parked position in front of Inga's cafe on Atlantic avenue and collided with one driven by Robert Hoard, city, which was attempting a left turn into the parking area. The Hoard car was damaged to the extent of about $60.

At 2:52 p.m. a car driven by Harvey Thune, city, had parked on the east side of Horace av. and was struck by one driven by Helmer Melhouse, city, who was attempting a left turn into the Hartz parking lot. Damage was estimated at $35 to the Thune car and $55 o the Melhouse vehicle. The accident is under investigation.

At 4:03 p.m. a car driven by Myron Hanson, Brooks, was traveling west on Second street and was struck in the right rear by one driven by Cy Thompson, city, which had been going south in the alley between Horace and LaBree and was about to enter Second street. The Hanson car was damaged to the extent of about $90.

On Saturday Glenn Anderson, city, reported the larceny of two dozen goose decoys, a half-dozen duck decoys and some hunting clothing from his garage. Police are investigating the theft.

Peter Sullivan reported at 1:30 p.m. Thursday that his boat was missing from its mooring below the railroad bridge. The boat was recovered at 3:52 the same day tied at the bank north of the Third street bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Myrom of Glenwood spent Labor Day weekend visiting with Mr. Myrom's mother, Mrs. Annie Myrom and with other relatives and friends.

City To Receive State Pedestrian Safety Citation

Thirty-nine Minnesota cities, including Thief River Falls, are being honored this year by the American Automobile association (AAA) for outstanding pedestrian safety achievements.

Gov. Karl F. Rolvaag, in a recent letter to Mayor Orin Green, congratulated Thief River Falls for its pedestrian program and declared, "On behalf of all the citizens of Minnesota I am happy to announce that the city of Thief River Falls has been awarded honors for four years without a pedestrian traffic death and its excellent program in pedestrian accident prevention for 1964.

"I have requested the Minnesota Safety council to undertake the responsibility of planning the arrangements and to make the presentation of this important award to your community. As you know, the safety council and the Minnesota AAA work in close cooperation in carrying on the state-wide pedestrian accident prevention program."

In announcing the winners Dr. William Sauer, AAA president, said, "A total of 8,900 pedestrians lost their lives in traffic in 1964 as contrasted with 8,300 the preceding year. In spite of the rise, however, the total represents a more than 40 per cent drop from the 15,500 fatalities recorded in 1937 the year the AAA program was launched.

The program in Minnesota is sponsored jointly by the Minnesota Safety council and the AAA in cooperation with local chiefs of police.

To Grind Flour At Old Mill Park

Old Case steam engine 359 will be stoked up to power early day mill stones Sunday at Old Mill State Park 18 miles northeast of Warren. Operation of the old restored mill is scheduled only once or twice a year and those desiring stone-ground flour can secure some if they bring their own grain in not less than bushel amounts. A small fee is charged for the grinding.

Glen L. Jensen, superintendent of the park, will start operations about noon and continue throughout the afternoon. The Case engine, built in 1878, was restored to use in 1958, Minnesota's Centennial Year, after it had been unused since 1897 because of defective flues.

The restored mill is the descendant of a mill built near the present site on Middle River in 1886. The stones used in the restored mill are French burrstones which came from Grand Forks in 1896.

Many times when the mill operates people numbering in the thousands have watched its operation, coming from a wide area of the Red River Valley from Moorhead and Fargo to Winnipeg. The mill was operated by the Lars Larson family and his heirs from 1886 until 1937 when the mill and the site was sold to the state for a state park.

CORRECTION

A recent Times edition carried an early picture of the Times office and identified the staff members pictured in front of the building. The women on the photo was incorrectly identified, according to Mrs. George Holbrook of Highland, Mich. Mrs. Holbrook, the former Lillian Mussey, identifies the woman as her mother, Mrs. H. E. Mussey. The Musseys lived in Thief River Falls until they sold the paper and purchased the Grygla Eagle, living in Grygla until their deaths.

County Adopts Budget With Drop in Mill Levy

CHAMPION—wheat exhibitor in the 4-H division of the Minnesota state fair was Tommy Melin, 14, member of the Black River 4-H club and son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Melin of rural St. Hilaire. Tommy's entry of Chris wheat, a new variety topped the show. It's test weight was over 64 pounds per bushel. Tommy has been in club work for six years and carried the agronomy project for three years, winning a state fair trip a year ago but placing in the red ribbon group. Last year he was exhibitor of the grand champion wheat entry at the Red River Valley Winter shows in Crookston. A junior leader, he is secretary of his club and has carried such projects as safety, shop, lamb, garden, entomology and junior leadership.

Pennington county board of commissioners approved the 1965 budget Thursday, permitting a reduction of more than $3,000 in the total budget and a drop in the mill levy of .59 mill. An increase of about $6,700 in the revenue fund was more than offset by a decrease of about $9,500 in the welfare fund.

In other county business, the board authorized the chairman and county auditor to enter into an agreement with Marshall county to operate Oakland Park Nursing home as a two-county project. The home had previously been operated as a four-county unit. Provisions accepted by the boards of both counties, however, state that the home is to be operated in such a manner that there is no actual expense to the counties supervising its operation.

Decline in the total county budget was acomplished although the total welfare department budget had a whopping increase of nearly $158,000 from the previous year. Budgeted expenditures of the department, as announced earlier in a Times story and approved by the county board of commissioners Thursday, total $1,000,224.50 this year. Last year the total was $842,598. Most of the increase is in the transition to federal health care for the needy, and federal financial participation is greatly increased.

Total county levy this year is $486,995.19 or 95.26 mills while last year's budget was $490,035.15 or 95.85 mills. The welfare levy increased from $241,055.37 (47.15 mill) to $231,606 (45.30 mills.) The budget by funds includes the following:

Road and Bridge Fund—Unchanged from $102,250.42 or 20 mills;

Welfare Fund—Decrease from $241,055.37 (47.15 mills) to $231,606.16 (45.30 mills);

Sanatorium Fund—Virtually unchanged from $8,998.04 to $9,000, both 1.76 mills;

Sinking Fund—Increase from $13,036.93 (2.55 mills) to $15,313.57 (3 mills);

County Fair Fund—Unchanged at $5,112.52 or one mill;

The sinking fund, from which obligations on courthouse construction bonds are paid, is nearly its final phases, according to C. W. Rodekuhr, county auditor. The county has two payments yet to be made, each for $20,000 plus interest in May of 1966 and May of 1967.

On Thursday morning the board heard several delegations discuss their desires for drainage matters but no definite action was taken. Viewers appointed for a new ditch approved east of Thief River Falls were Gust A. Iverson, Goodridge; Elmer F. Erickson, Plum-

Grand Opening Set . . .

Larson Music Co. In New Location

Preparing for its grand opening in a new location Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Larson Music company in Thief River Falls came into being 45 years ago when L. H. Larson purchased the former Thief River Music company business. His son Justus became active in the company in 1938 and his grandson Jon entered the business in 1961.

The firm has purchased and completely remodeled the building that formerly housed Poppler Furniture company in the 200 block of LaBree av. N., moving from its former location on Second st. E. The new location will provide a better and more convenient shopping location and will more than double the display and sales area, according to Justus Larson.

Pianos, organs and stereo sets can now be displayed in a more home-like setting, Larson said. A garage loading area within the building makes possible safer and easier handling of the finer furniture pieces.

The company deals in music and music-related items exclusively, and is said by the owners to be the largest and most modern music store in northwestern Minnesota.

Among the franchises handled by the store are Magnavox stereo, Story and Clark pianos, Gibson guitars, Fender guitars and amplifiers, Lowrey organs, Cordovox, Decca portable phonographs, RCA Victor, Columbia, Capitol, Decca and other records, and Selmer, Olds and Roth band and orchestra instruments as well as leading percussion pieces.

Heart Fund memorials in the name of the late Ida M. Rulstad of Thief River Falls were recently received by the Minnesota Heart association, according to David Drotts, Pennington county memorial chairman. The gifts will be used to further heart research.

Rev. Tungseth To Conduct Series At Zion Church

Rev. Erling M. Tungseth, who is now serving Bethel Lutheran church in Rochester will be a guest speaker at Zion Lutheran church in Thief River Falls and will hold special meetings at 8 p.m. each evening September 19-23.

Rev. Tungseth graduated from Augsburg College Theological seminary in Minneapolis and served in parishes at Spring Lake Park and Roseville prior to his present parish at Rochester. Rev. Tungseth is the son of Rev. E. L. Tungseth who served at Zion from 1925 to 1942 and who now resides in Seattle, Wash.

County Assessed Valuation Down From 1964 Mark

Total assessed valuation for personal property in Pennington county in 1965 is down $22,353 from last year, consituting a two per cent loss in revenue for the county, according to Clarence Weckworth, county assessor. Assessed valuation is up $1,123 in the urban area of the county but down $23,476 in the rural area. Total assessed valuation in 1965 is $1,204,099 as compared with $1,226,452 in 1964.

The rural loss is due to a decrease in the number of livestock and lower assessed value in 1965 in comparison with 1964. Only the townships of Bray, North and Rocksbury showed small gains; all other townships accounted for the loss.

The 1965 county assessor's report shows a loss in Pennington county of 1,705 head of cattle, 289 head of sheep and 389 head of hogs. The head loss, plus an eight per cent decrease in assessed value per head, accounts for the decrease in assessed value in the county.

The urban gain is in Class 2 (household goods) and Class 4 (structures on railroad right-of-ways and public utilities) with a small loss in Class 3 (retailers' and wholesalers' inventories).

Colleen Eide Is Bride Of Douglas Anderson

Miss Colleen Marie Eide, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert O. Eide of Oslo and Douglas Arthur Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Anderson of Thief River Falls, were married Saturday September 4, in the Zion Lutheran church at Oslo. The Rev. Loren G. Fevig officiated at the candlelite services. Mrs. Alvin Dahlstrom of Thief River Falls presided at the organ and as the guests were seated played "Love Divine", "Praise My Soul" and "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring". For the processional and recessional she played "The Bridal Chorus" and "The Wedding March", respectively.

Forming a background for the wedding were spiral candelabra and baskets of white gladioli with bows of burgundy colored ribbon, while baskets of pink gladioli flanked the candlelite altar.

Sandra Nelson of Oslo attended the bride as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Paulette Parr and Gail Anderson of Thief River Falls, sister of the groom. They wore identical empire-styled floor length gowns of burgundy brocade, fashioned with flowing trains, and matching petal headpieces enhanced with sequins. They carried arm bouquets of white mums.

Juel Stenberg of rural Thief River Falls was chosen by the groom to serve as his best man. Groomsmen were Ronald Eide of Minot, N.D., brother of the bride, and Irvin Engen of Crookston, cousin of the groom. Seating the guests were Terry and Donn Eide, brothers of the bride, Richard Veralrud and Dwight Engen of Viking, cousin of the groom.

The mother of the bride wore a three-piece turquoise suit with matching hat, black accessories and a corsage of red roses. Mrs. Anderson wore a dark brown dress with beige accessories and a corsage of pink roses. Grandmother of the groom, Mrs. Hartvik Engen of Thief River Falls, attending the wedding as honor guest, was also presented with a corsage.

Following the ceremony, Mrs. Luella Haugom, godmother of the bride, and Mrs. Arthur Nelson were hostesses at a reception in the church parlors. The wedding cake centering the serving table was a tiered and pillared fruit cake, iced in white, decorated with burgundy colored flowers and topped with a miniature bride and groom. Cutting and serving the cake were Mrs. Ronald Eide, aunt of the bride and Mrs. Elmer Anderson of Viking, aunt of the groom. Pouring were Mrs. Albert Hendrickson, Aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Carl Christianson of Thief River Falls, aunt of the groom. Jane Anvinson registered the guests. Lind Brodahl and Marilee Hendrickson served the punch and those in charge of arranging the gifts were Rebecca Martin, Diane Tillett, Peggy Duff, Susan Hoff and Laura Johnson. Waitresses were Roberta Carlson, Gerd Haugom, Cindy Holter and Kaye Parr.

Following a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Anderson are at home at Oslo. The bride is a graduate of the Oslo high school and the groom, a graduate of the Lincoln high school and the Thief River Falls-area vocational-technical school, will be employed in Grand Forks, N.D.

Trinity Will Use New Confirmation Class Materials

Trinity Lutheran church in Thief River Falls is one of more than 3,000 congregations of the American Lutheran church which will begin using new materials for confirmation instruction this fall. Five years in the making, the course respresents an "in-depth" approach to confirmation training.

The new junior high confirmation curriculum covers a three-year period of instruction—grades 7, 8 and 9. Specially-trained lay catechists will assist the pastor in instructional program. The course is designed to integrate the church and home as a more dominant influence in the confirmand's total life.

Rev. Herbert F. Brokering, director of junior high-confirmation education for the American Lutheran church, estimates in the thousands the number of people involved in writing, testing, editing, producing and distributing the new curriculum.

"The aim of the three-year program," says Rev. Brokering, "is to teach that it is by God's grace, faith, the Word and the Sacraments that we live in Christ."

To promote this purpose, the course aims to lead confirmands toward greater skills in handling the Bible, to a more challenging use of the Catechism, and toward greater familiarity with prayers and hymns.

GRAND OPENING SALE

will be at the new Poppler Self Service Store all day on Thursday, Sept. 16, and extends a personal invitation to all customers who wish interior decorating counsel. There is no charge for this service.

Future appointments for interior decorating advice from Mrs. Klein can be made through the new Popplers Self Service Furniture. This new arrangement makes it possible for customers in the Thief River Falls area to get greater access to fine furniture, draperies and advice on the planning of home furnishings and interiors.

Salvation Army Advisory Board To Meet Tonight

Salvation Army advisory board will meet at 8 p.m. Monday in the basement of the Thief River Falls citadel. Lt. Harold Shelby told the Times that he plans to reorganize the board and schedule monthly meetings in order for the board to be of better service to the community.

Lt. Shelby recently sent a letter to each of the service clubs in the city requesting representation on the board, and requested an early reply. Neil Fox is chairman of the board.

United Parcel Service To Move Office to City

United Parcel Service will move its district office from Warren to Thief River Falls by November after operating in the former community for about half a year. Since the office was not granted ICC permission to serve North Dakota, most of its business has been developing east of Warren, and made the move to this city more desirable.

Sunshine Singers At Citadel Sun.

Lissy and Bertil Gotrich, a team of evangelistic musicians known as "The Swedish Sunshine Singers", will present an English-Swedish performance in the Salvation Army citadel, 115 Horace av. N., at 2:30 p.m. Sunday. The two singing evangelists came from Sweden in 1960 and since then have traveled through the United States. Both have served as officers in the Salvation Army in Sweden.

Brunsberg Resigns As MR Creamery Manager

Ervin Brunsberg, manager of the Middle River Cooperative creamery for the past 15 months, resigned effective September 4. He was succeeded by Vernon Stardig, who for the past year has been employed by the Land O' Lakes corporation as a promotion director and salesman in the bulk tank field.

Meet in Warren

Fall meeting of District One of the Minnesota Nurses association will be held on Thursday at Grace Methodist church in Warren. Dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m. All members from the Thief River Falls area are urged to be present.

Medical Mirror

WOULD LINCOLN HAVE SURVIVED?

Q. Could modern medical methods have made it possible for President Lincoln to have survived had he been shot in 1964 instead of 1865?

A. No. Detailed descriptions of the head wound inflicted by the assassin's shot are available, and these conclusively show that Mr. Lincoln would have died even with modern surgical skill. The bullet, fired from a distance of about two feet, drove a one-inch disc of bone several inches into the brain. The bullet itself ploughed 7½ inches through the brain. A young doctor who examined Mr. Lincoln minutes after he was shot made this accurate diagnosis: "His wound is mortal; it is impossible for him to recover."

CESAREANS

Q. If cesarean section is harmless, why aren't all babies delivered this way?

A. Who said cesarean section is harmless? The operation (which is "major surgery") involves increased hazards to the mother, to the child, and to future child-bearing. There are medical indications for cesarean section. When these do not exist, normal vaginal delivery is best by far.

Not having a prescription filled to save money is like stopping the clock to save time. The unfilled prescription is the costliest one in relation to fast recovery from illness.

Rev. J. Erickson, Former Pastor At Grygla, Dies

Rev. J. M. Erickson, 70, of 1314 Sixth Street South, Moorhead and a former pastor of the Grygla area, died of a heart attack Sunday, August 15, in Carman, Man., Canada, where he was serving as interim pastor.

Funeral services for the Rev. J. M. Erickson were held Wednesday, August 18, in the Lutheran church of the Good Shepherd with the Rev. Sanford Sorgen officiating.

He was born Jan. 8, 1895 in River Falls, Minn. A World War I veteran, he was a graduate of St. Olaf College at Northfield and Luther Theological Seminary at St. Paul.

He was ordained into the ministry in 1925. He had served parishes in Hazard, Neb., Sherwood, N.D., Grygla and Bear River prior to retiring and moving to Moorhead in 1960.

He was united in marriage to Mabel Torgersen on Oct. 24, 1925 in St. Paul.

Survivors include his wife, Mabel; one son, Marvin, St. Paul; one daughter, Mrs. Dale (Evangeline) Sederstrom, Claremont, Calif.; five grandchildren and two sisters.

Mrs. Joseph Dahl Services Held At Trail Sept. 1

Funeral services for Mrs. Joseph A. Dahl, 79, who died Saturday, August 28, were held Wednesday, September 1, at the Sand Valley Church at Trail with the Rev. Earl Martell officiating.

Mrs. Dahl, the former Helga Stensland, was born Oct. 7, 1885 at Toronto, S.D., the youngest of nine children. In the spring of 1913 she was united in marriage to Joseph Dahl in Santa Ana, Calif. Following their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Dahl moved to Trail where they lived for many years. While living in Trail, they were members of the Sand Valley church. Although they moved to different localities from time to time, they always considered Trail their home.

Survivors include one daughter, Mrs. Lowell (Elizabeth) J. Satre of St. Paul; five grandchildren, Diane, daughter of Mrs. Reuben Dahl of Belgrade and Gloria, Lowell, Jr., Daniel and Gracia Satre; one sister, Nellie Stensland of Estelline, S.D., and one brother, Otto Stensland of Faith, S.D.

She was preceded in death by her husband in 1962 and two sons, Reuben and Orville.

Mrs. C. Heen, 56, Dies In Calif., Rites At Plummer

Mrs. Clifford (Angot) Heen, 56, of Santa Barbara, Calif., and formerly of Plummer and Thief River Falls, died unexpectedly Wednesday mroning at Santa Barbara.

Funeral services for Mrs. Clifford Heen will be held Tuesday at 11 a.m. at Immanuel Lutheran church, Plummer with the Rev. Robert Amundson officiating. Burial will be at 2:30 p.m. at Memorial Park cemetery at Grand Forks, N. D. The body will lie in state Monday afternoon and evening at the Grand Forks Hanson and Anderson Mortuary.

Mrs. Heen, the former Angot Hanson, was born Aug. 29, 1909 at Plummer. She received her elementary and high school education at Plummer and graduated from business college at LaCrosse, Wis. On Aug. 31, 1941 she was united in marriage to Clifford Heen at Thief River Falls where they lived for some time. For the past nine years they have made their home in California.

Survivors include her husband, Clifford Heen; her mother, Mrs. Julia Hanson, Red Lake Falls; one brother, Lloyd Hanson, Duluth; and three sisters, Mrs. Fred (Myrtle) Fredrickson, Devils Lake, N. D.; Mrs. Eng (Selma) Storvik, Pueblo, Colo., and Mrs. S. J. (Agnes) Bredeson of Red Lake Falls.

Mrs. Carl Rud, 80 Sister Of William Sponheim, Dies

Mrs. Carl O. Rud, 80, who resided in the Mayville, Portland and Hatton areas in North Dakota, and a sister of William Sponheim of Thief River Falls, died Wednesday at a hospital at Mayville, N.D., where she had been a patient since August 14.

Funeral services for Mrs. Carl Rud were held Friday at 2 p.m. in the Bang Lutheran church west of Portland, N.D. Egge Funeral home at Mayville was in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Rud, the former Marie Sponheim, was born Dec. 8, 1884 at Hatton, N.D. She was united in marriage to Carl O. Rud at Thief River Falls on Jan. 3, 1910. Mr. and Mrs. Rud farmed in the Portland and Finley, N.D., areas.

Survivors include one son, Orville Rud, Portland, N.D.; two daughters, Mrs. Robert E. (Margaret) Long, Walla Walla, Wash., and Mrs. Frithjof (Hedvig) Lunde, Hampden, N.D.; two brothers, William Sponheim, Thief River Falls and Oscar Sponheim, Long Beach, Calif.; two sisters, Miss Clara Sponheim, Long Beach, Calif., and Mrs. Hannah Knudsen, Seattle, Wash., 10 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her husband on Feb. 10, 1964.

Services Held At Strathcona For Frank Bendella

Funeral services for Frank Bendella, 65, a resident of Strathcona who died Monday, September 6, at a Greenbush hospital, were held Thursday at 2 p.m. at the Grace Evangelical Free church at Strathcona. Burial was made in the Bjorness cemetery near Newfolden. Collins Funeral home of Middle River was in charge of arrangements.

Frank Bendella was born April 2, 1900 in Germany and came to the United States as a child. He married Hilma Johnson in 1926 at Grand Forks, N.D. Mr. and Mrs. Bendella farmed near Strathcona and later in the Newfolden area. Following the death of his wife in 1914, Mr. Bendella returned to Strathcona in 1948 and had since farmed in that area.

There are no known survivors.

B. Armstrong, 83, Dies At Warren; Rites At Euclid

Mrs. Blanche Armstrong, 83, a resident of Thief Fiver Falls for many years and formerly of Euclid, died Sunday morning at the Warren hospital.

Funeral services for Mrs. Blanche Armstrong will be held Wednerday at 2 p.m. in the Euclid Presbyterian church. The Rev. Vern Maxa will officiate and interment will be in the Greenwood cemetery in Thief River Falls.

The body will lie in state at the Green Funeral Home from Monday evening until 11 a.m. Wednesday and at the church for one hour prior to the time of arrangements.

Rites Tuesday For Ernest Patnode, 73, Of Oklee

Ernest P. Patnode, 73, of Oklee, died Saturday morning at St. John's hospital at Red Lake Falls where hed had been a patient for the past several weeks.

Solemn Requiem High Mass for Ernest Patnode will be offered Tuesday at 11 a.m. in the St. Francis Xavior Catholic church at Oklee with the Rev. Keough Patnode as celebrant, the Rev. Paul Cardin as deacon and the Rev. Jerome Fellon as subdeacon. Interment will be in the St. Joseph's Catholic cemetery at Red Lake Falls.

Ernest Patnode was born July 31, 1892 near Red Lake Falls. He was united in marriage to Viola Longtin on June 22, 1914 at Red Lake Falls. He was employed as barber at Red Lake Falls, East Grand Forks, Mountain Iron and recently at Plummer until he retired because of failing health and moved to Oklee to reside at the Oklee Senior home.

He was a member of the Men's Holy Name Society and the St. Vincent de Paul Catholic church at Plummer.

Survivors include his wife, Viola; three daughters, Mrs. John (Eunice) Carpenter and Mrs. Edward (Elaine) Evanson, both of Hayward, Calif., and Mrs. Armand (Muriel) Dessutel of Cloquet; four four grandchildren; one brother, Edward Patnode, Plummer and two sisters, Miss Wilhilmina Patnode of Hallock and Mrs. Victor (Agnes) Thiesen of Anoka.

Card of Thanks

We express sincere thanks and appreciation to friends and relatives for their comfort and help during the illness and death of our beloved daughter and sister Margaret Myrum.

Special thanks to Pastor and Mrs. Amundson, Pastor and Mrs. Larson for their many visits and comforting words. Thanks to Mrs. Hanmer for the beautiful songs and Mrs. Nesland, Organist.

We also wish to thank Drs. Davidson and Herber for their help and consideration. The Green Funeral home for their help and service. The Ladies aid for serving lunch in church and all who brought food for lunch at home.

For the flowers and many memorials and cards. God Bless you all. The family of Margaret Myrum. 1t73c

Card of Thanks

I wish to thank Dr. Berg and all the hospital staff for all the care given me on my recent stay at the Northwestern hospital. Also thanks to Pastor Heline, the Ekeland A.L.C. and all who visited me and sent cards. Mrs. Marie Uglem. 1t73p

In Memorium

In memory of our beloved daughter and sister Violette La, who left us Sept. 12, 1947.

Sleep on, dear one, in eternal rest,
We miss you most, who loved you best.
When days are dark and friends are few,
Dear one, how we long for you.

Alumni of IFYE Program Met In Switzerland

Alumni of the International Farm Youth Exchange (IFYE) program from 30 countries renewed acquaintances and learned of the challenges facing rural youth leaders at their first World Conference during the week of August 21-29 at Munsingen, Switzerland.

Among the U. S. delegates was William Svendsgaard, a native of Goodridge and now of Montevideo, a 1961 IFYE delegate to Switzerland from Pennington county.

A number of speakers were featured at the conference, which also included visits to Swiss farms and villages, tours of the watchmaking, chemical and electrical industries and a reception given by U. S. Ambassador and Mrs. Ture Davis Jr.

Falls Broncos Defeat Prowler Eleven 21-13

Coach Frank (Butch) Larson's Broncos, with a squad that featured a strong and agressive line, defeated coach Bill Herzog's Prowlers, 21 to 13, in a football game played at International Falls on Friday night.

This week the Prowlers will engage in District 31 competition when they meet coach Oliver Czech's Red Lake Falls Eagles on the Riverside Park field in Red Lake Falls. The kickoff is slated for 8 p.m. In last season's encounter between the two teams, the Eagles, in a game played here, scored a 13 to 0 win.

The first half of play at the Falls on Friday night was marred by numerous fumbles, and it was the recovery of a fumble that set up the two touchdowns scored. The Broncos, on the margin of a successful placement kick, for the conversion point, held at 7-6 lead at the intermission.

Early in the first period the Prowlers, defending the south goal and kicking off to the Broncos, had forced coach Larson's team, after gaining one first down, to punt. With the ball on the Prowlers' 22-yard line, the Falls Dan Mahle recovered a Prowler fumble. A pass completion, from quarterback Spike Vold to right end Tim Sheehy, picking up 22-yards, tallied a touchdown. And when Mike Longergan's placekick try was good, the Broncos held a 7-0 lead.

Midway in the period the prowlers' Rod Carlson recovered a fumbled punt on the Broncos' 20-yard line. But the Prowlers, in two running plays and a pair of incompleted passes, were able to gain but five yards and the Broncos held for downs.

Late in the second period, with a pass interception and a pair of fumbles keeping the ball in Bronco territory, Ross Hanson recovered a fumble on the Falls' 20-yard line. Cummings and John Olson, in two running plays, carried to the 5-yard line and then Cummings on a cutback over left tackle went over the south goal for a touchdown. The conversion-point try, from a fake kick formation, found Cummings overshooting Rod Carlson on a pass.

The Broncos moved into a 14 to 6 lead when, following a clipping penalty that set the Falls back to the Prowlers' 40-yard line after two first downs had carried to the locals' 29-yard stripe, a completed pass, Vold to Henry Youso, was good for 40 yards and a touchdown. Lonergan again placekicked the conversion point.

Early in the fourth period, after strong defensive play had halted the Prowlers' attack deep in Prowler territory, a short punt gave the Broncos possession in midfield. A pair of first downs carried to the Prowler 6-yard line, and Lonergan, on a sweep of right end scored the touchdown. Wayne Horgaen booted the conversion point and the Falls held a 21 to 6 lead.

The Prowlers, taking a Bronco punt on the 24-yard line, drove for a touchdown in a nine plays from scrimmage. Monte LeMoine, John Olson and Cummings picked up yardage on running plays. And a pass, Cummings to John Ihle, gained a first down on the Falls' 10-yard line. Cummings drove through center for six yards, and then swept out around right end for a touchdown. Monte LeMoin placekicked the conversion point, paring the Falls' winning margin to 21 to 13.

The Prowlers had five first downs while the Broncos tallied 10 first downs. The Prowlers were charged with a pair of 15-yard clipping penalties that nullified a couple of long gains.

Touch Football Meeting Tonight

Four teams have been entered in a local touch football league, according to James Foley, director of parks and recreation for Thief River Falls. Other teams may be entered at a meeting to be held tonight (Monday) at 7 p.m. at the parks and recreation office in the basement of the city auditorium. This will be the deadline for entering teams in the league.

Three Vandalisms, Two Larcenies Are Noted by Police

Two larcenies, three vandalisms and an auto accident were reported today by the Thief River Falls police department. A fishing reel valued at $19.95 which had been shoplifted from a local store was recovered Wednesday. A juvenile boy was questioned and released to his parents. On Friday morning, Jon Larson reported that a GCA tachometer valued at about $30 had been taken from his car during the previous night.

Five juvenile boys were apprehended for vandalism at the fairgrounds early Wednesday evening. They had broken a number of windows in a barn with BB guns. It was reported Saturday morning by Northern Motors that someone had thrown a rock through the windshield of a truck parked behind the garage. On Tuesday morning Elvin Bammerud of Goodridge reported that his unoccupied house in Thief River Falls had been entered. Windows were broken by rocks and BB's and much damage had been done inside the house. The incident is under investigation.

A two-car accident happened Tuesday morning but was not reported until about three hours later. A car driven by Clarence Roese, St. Hilaire, was traveling west on Third street and attempting a left turn onto Atlantic waited for oncoming raffic to clear. His car was struck from the rear by a gravel truck driven by Moses Kolestrand, Oklee. The Roese car was damaged to the extent of about $155. The mishap is under investigation.

Expect Decision On Hearing for Milk Agreements

Wallace Jordet, manager of the Land O'Lakes milk and ice cream department in Thief River Falls, told the Times this morning that the local operation is functioning normally. Producers and processors alike are awaiting the district court decision on the validity of marketing agreements now in effect.

Defendants at the hearing Friday had been issued temporary restraining orders by district court in Crookston which require them to meet the obligations of their agreements until a definite court decision is made.

mer; and Carl R. Mosbeck, Red Lake Falls.

Appropriation of $10.90 was made to the Inter-county Community Council to pay obligations incurred which are not covered in the federal program. The council, with headquarters in Oklee, has been organized to coordinate the federal government's anti-poverty program in Pennington and other counties.

Adjustment in the salary of the probation agent, effective October 1, was made in accordance with an agreement signed two years ago and providing for annual increments over a two-year period.

FFA Fall Rally Here on Tuesday

Future Farmers of America annual fall leadership rally for chapter advisors and officers will be held Tuesday from 4 to 6 p.m. at Lincoln high school, according to Verne Spengler, vocational agriculture instructor at the school.

Purpose of the meeting is to provide leadership training for new chapter officers and to acquaint them with plans and program of ion. Training sessions will be conducted by state FFA officers. Erman Ueland of Fertile, regional advisor, is in charge of arrangements for the rally.

Cloudy and Cold Weather Prevails

Temperatures far below normal for early September, along with cloudy skies and frequent light showers, just about sum up the weather story for the past several days. Fortunately for farmers with late crops, however, frost has not yet occurred this fall. Despite the abnormally cool weather, the mercury did not drop below 36 during the period.

Considerable cloudiness later today and partly cloudy tonight and tomorrow with light drizzle or rain in a few portions of the area early today are forecast. Temperatures will continue to be cool, with highs today ranging from 50 to 58 and lows tonight from 40 to 46. Winds will be light and variable, mostly northerly. Outlook for Wednesday is partly cloudy and below normal temperatures.

Temperature and precipitation figures recorded by North Central Airlines at the municipal airport are as follows: 67 and 37 on Wednesday; 64, 47 and .06 inch on Thursday; 58 and 36 on Friday; 55, 36 and .21 inch on Saturday; 53, 44 and .20 inch on Sunday; and a low this morning of 39.

Rumble Strips Prove Promising in Studies

Robert D. Owens, presently with the Minnesota highway department as assistant traffic analysis engineer in the department's planning and programming section, conducted a series of tests with rumble strips to determine their effect as traffic control systems at trunk highway intersections. In these tests, field studies were conducted at seven approaches to rural trunk highway intersections. Traffic operation and behavior was measured in terms of passenger vehicle speeds at predetermined points on the approaches together with stop signs and center line observance studies.

The rumble strips consisted of a series of 25-foot areas of rough textured aggregate placed on the approach lane at 50-100 foot intervals.

The field studies were conducted on a "before" and "after" basis during average weekday conditions. Great effort was made to duplicate the exact conditions so a valid result might be obtained.

The prime purpose of this study was to analyze a traffic control device that was expected to additionally alert drivers to the necessity of deceleration at tural stop locations and thereby cause safer operations at these locations.

Several important results were obtained from the mathematical analysis of the data. The results together with the conclusions which might be drawn from them are as follows:

1. The three goals set forth (of affecting a reduction in average approach speeds, increasing the drivers observance of stop signs and decreasing the number of accidents) appear to have been achieved. Rumble strips were found to have a significant influence on traffic speed and stop sign observance.

2. An overall consistent reduction in average approach speed was found at each point of observation.

3. The amount of dispersion (variance) of the average speed was found to be slightly larger in some areas after the installation of the rumble strips. The reason for the dispersion was probably caused by some vehicles slowing down considerably more than others.

4. A highly significant increase in stop sign observance was found after the installation of the rumble strips. The use of audible stimuli tends to increase driver awareness of regulatory controls.

5. No appreciable change was found in the number of vehicles that drove to the left of the center line to avoid passing over the rough sections of the pavement. The theory that rumble strips would have an adverse effect in this respect is apparently unfounded.

6. A decreasing trend in accidents was found at two rural intersections where rumble strips had been installed for a reasonable length of time. Unfortunately rumble strips have been only recently installed at some of the other locations, thus no valid results can yet be obtained from these areas.

It appears that rumble strips have definite value in reducing accidents at rural trunk highway intersections, however, more detailed studies could reveal better application of the principle and possibly further development could be made of it in urban areas as well as in rural locations, Owens said.

Editorials . . .

"If you don't love flowers yourself, don't quarrel with those who do. It is a defect in your nature which you ought to be sorry for, rather than abuse those who are more gifted. Of what possible use is the rainbow, we should like to know? And yet a wiser than you did not think the heavens complete without it." —Anonymous comment from the Anoka Union's first edition, Aug. 31, 1865.

A Knock on the Door

Within the next few days both of the nation's major political parties will be up to their ears in fund-raising campaigns. For the DFL it will be the Friends and Neighbors drive and for the GOP it will be the Neighbor to Neighbor canvass. We heartily endorse both of these efforts and urge kind reception and generous financial support by the public.

While political parties differ in opinion, each is dedicated to the program which it believes is best for the nation. There are extremes in both parties and there are political heretics who bear party labels but speak and act far outside the party program. By and large, however, the parties themselves are acting in good faith.

Contributions to a political party are used to finance political campaigns, to recruit qualified candidates and to publicize the programs and beliefs of the particular parties. They are used to hire fulltime party workers who watch over the affairs of their own organization and keep close tabs on the operations of the opposing party. Criticism of an opposing party is what make a two-party system work.

Small contributions from a large number of contributors will assure a party that is responsible only to its members and its platform. They will eliminate the opportunity for small pressure groups with large financial backing to promote and elect candidates to do their bidding at the expense of the American public. They will assure continuance of the two-party system.

Because of our democracy, we need not fear a knock on the door during the next few days. Persons in nations with totalitarian rule live in dread of what such a knock may bring. When that knock comes soon, respond with a donation to the party of your choice. It will be a good investment in everyone's future.

Random Thoughts

In scanning the many and varied news releases and bits of information which are adressed to newspapers such as ours, we are exposed to a large amount of opinion on a wide assortment of problems. We are also provided with political comment on how these problems came into being, what they are doing to the United States' economy and how they can be solved.

Much of this political propaganda is aimed at convincing the American people that government regulation and federal interference are necessary and that tax money portioned out to various agencies will cure the ills of the nation. Much of this is speculative, some of it is pure nonsense and the remainder is absolute falsehood.

Unemployment, for instance, has been hailed as a major national problem in recent years. Solutions of many types have been offered, but the federal administration seems to believe that the only way to reduce unemployment is to provide jobs on the federal payroll—either administering federal programs or serving among enrollees in the numerous "corps" which have been born in Washington and are being nurtured by federal funds.

Another of the problems the nation is beginning to recognize is that of increasing crime rates and juvenile delinquency. Crimes committed by young people have grown entirely out of proportion to the growth of the age group. Everyone from sociologists to psychiatrists to political science advocates seems to have an opinion or two on the cause of this problem, but few constructive ideas have been advanced as solution possibilities.

We have an opinion of our own which is relative to both of these problems. It involves the advance of women in the labor force of the nation, a situation which is both allowed and encouraged—indeed, it is demanded—by the federal government.

Women certainly have a place in the nation's work force. Many of them are excellent managers, their abilities are particularly suited to secretarial and clerical duties and a number of sales positions. These are positions which few men desire, or for that matter, would be able to handle with any degree of capability which women have exhibited.

There are, however, in the cities which have "production line", industries, a large number of women in coveralls competing for jobs which men should fill. Many of these women have husbands who are also employed, and many of them have children who are denied many of the benefits of a family unit. As soon as they are physically able, these children are allowed—almost forced—to fare for themselves as best they can.

The result, as we see it, is that the situation is contributing directly to two of the nation's major problem areas—unemployment and juvenile crime and delinquency. Working women whose husbands are employed are holding jobs which an unemployed head of household would welcome. Families which are denied a full-time home-making mother drift apart and provide spawning grounds for delinquency.

Government manipulation which has contributed highly to inflation has been one cause of the dilemma. Women feel they must work to supplement the family income or to earn money for their own spending whims. In so doing, they are depressing wages by increasing the labor supply and stealing jobs from unemployed.

And now our all-knowing federal fiasco has decreed that women must be given entirely equal consideration for any employment. This is sure to foster an even greater "back to the factory" urge among the nation's female population. As we see it, the government is compounding its problems by legislating its people into a corner.

Sometimes a person would like to take Congress collectively by the scruff of the neck and shake it like a corrective parent would do to his children if they were guilty of carelessness and action before thought.

Feeling Sheepish

We hope that a number of area farmers are feeling sheepish today. By this we don't mean that we hope they are ashamed but rather that they feel like purchasing some of the registered, top quality rams offered for sale at the 17th annual purebred ram sale here.

It is our feeling that considerable credit is due to those breeders who raise certified sheep and supply the demand for breeding stock in area flocks. They are serving a worthwhile livestock area and providing an excellent service to farmers raising sheep for market and for wool.

Statistics have shown that sheep are among the most profitable livestock enterprises in this area. With proper management they can be highly profitable and they do not require the intensive care of some other livestock endeavors. Good rams are essential to good flocks, and some of the best rams in the area are consigned to today's show and sale.

Sheep producers will be doing themselves a favor if they purchase one of these rams for flock improvement.

More on Firearms

Regardless of whether or not the weekend weather suited their particular preference, hunters taking advantage of the early teal season undoubtedly appreciated the opportunity to take part in the sport. If there was disappointment about finding a favorite shooting spot already occupied on arrival, it must have been tempered by knowing that other hunters were enjoying themselves.

What we are saying in a round-about way is that sportsmen appreciate the privilege of possessing firearms and hunting, and that they like to see other people also enjoying the sport. There are a number of nonsportsmen who would like to severely restrict the use of firearms and, in entirely self-centered fashion, don't give two whoops in the wind if other people enjoy themselves or not.

Drew Pearson's syndicated column from Washington in Thursday's Grand Forks Herald commented on firearms and pending legislation. His opening statement is a classic example of the egg-head theory that seems to persist on Capitol Hill these days. He states: "Despite the assassination of the late President of the United States and despite the indiscriminate use of firearms in one of the worst recent race riots in history, Congress still has not passed the Dodd firearms bill aimed at regulating the sale of deadly weapons."

For so saying he will be loudly applauded by Senator Thomas Dodd of Connecticut, author of the infamous proposal, a number of urban and suburban housewives who wouldn't know a pistol from a shotgun, communist party officials would who love to see the U. S. citizenry disarmed and a handful of old maids who think guns are naughty things.

Pearson points to a Dodd subcommittee report that there was a 250 per cent increase in pistol sales during the first week of the Los Angeles riot recently. He said that, "Inside Watts itself, rioters looted sports stores, gun shops and pawn shops for weapons." He did not mention that they looted liquor stores for liquor, grocery stores for groceries, clothing stores for clothing, etc.

The subcommittee stated that 4,000 guns were sold in one day in the Los Angeles area, all but 37 of them purchased by whites to protect their homes against rioters. It does not note that any of them were actually used for that purpose, and if they were, it would be difficult to condemn such use.

The Dodd bill is no less repulsive because of President Kennedy's assassination and the Los Angeles riots. A single airline crash has been known to take twice the lives as the Los Angeles riot, but Congress has not acted to ground all aircraft because of potential danger. It would be stupid, just as Senator Dodd's bill is stupid, unnecessary, unworkable, arbitrary and subject to exploitation.

Pearson comments, "Ironically, a high percentage (of guns confiscated by police) were rifles and shotguns—which the National Rifle association contends are used for sport, seldom for crime."

This editor has rifles and shotguns purchased for sport. I would use them, if necessary, in defense of my home and family. If this is crime, our laws are turned inside out.

Interesting Opinions . . .

"Public welfare should be a vehicle for raising the standards of the recipient, not a reward for indolence and depravity. I have the deepest sympathy for the good mother struggling to bring up her children on a welfare grant. But I deplore a system that regards the handing out of checks as its prime function, that subsidizes the lazy and immoral home with the taxpayers' dollar."

In Minnesota, after a day's fishing beer's the one... for good taste, good fun

Wherever you fish for sport—on the ocean, by the booming surf, or on some quiet country pond, it's great at the end of the day to head for a rewarding glass of beer. While you're talking over the ones that got away, or pan-frying the ones that didn't, you enjoy the hearty taste and cool refreshment only a glass of beer can give you so well. Yes, whatever your sport—bowling or strolling, golfing or gardening—a frosty glass of beer makes a naturally great accompaniment.

Select Hamerlinck for New Position in School

Enrollment Now Totals 2,738 in Public Schools

Selection of Francis Hamerlinck as administrative assistant and discussion of [illegible]ol enrollment for the 1965-1966 school year were main items of business for the Thief River Falls ,board of education of other business m[illegible]s were also handled by the board.

Hamerlinck, junior high school principal in the local school syter being a classroom teacher here was named to the administrative assistant post at an annual salary of $10,500. He will assume the position, newly created by the board, as soon as a replacement can be found to take over his duties at Franklin junior high school.

Enrollment Report

Supt. M. R. Hankerson presented enrollment figures to the board, showing total enrollment of 2,738 students in elementary, secondary and special education classes in the district. This figure is 115 above the opening day enrollment announced earlier and two greater than the enrollment estimates made by the school administration in February of 1963. There are 1,226 students in the two high schools and 1,412 students in the four elementary schools.

Junior high school enrollment totals 587, including 178 seventh graders, 185 eighth graders and 224 ninth graders. Senior high school sophomores, 216 juniors and 212 seniors. The senior class is likely to be the first to graduate more than 200 students in the history of the school.

Mark Twain elementary school has 250 students including 55 in kindergarten, 29 in grade one, 27 in grade two, 30 in grade three, 26 in grade four, 27 in grade five and 31 in grade six with 25 in three special education classes.

Knox elementary school has 392 students including 52 in kindergarten, 60 in grade one, 61 in grade two, 53 in grade three, 56 in grade four, 53 in grade five and 57 in grade six.

Northrop elementary school has 400 students including 63 in kindergarten, 53 in grade one, 58 in grade two, 63 in grade three, 40 in grade four, 54 in grade five and 60 in grade six.

Washington elementary school has 370 students including 49 in kindergarten, 57 in grade one, 55 in grade two, 54 in grade three, 51 in grade four, 47 in grade five and 57 in grade six.

Teaching contracts were approved for Mrs. Hazel Iverson, grade 5, Washington; Mrs. Betty Walton, grade 4, Northrop; Mrs. Estelle and Mrs. Deloris Haugen, trainable. Resignation of Miss Louise Anderson in the cosmetology department of the vocational - technical school was officially accepted.

Contracts were also approved Thief River Falls and St. Mary's hospital in Detroit Lakes for participation in the licensed practical nurse program conducted by the vocational - technical school. A one-year lease for the Wennberg building used for vocational school purposes was also approved.

An additional two cents per hour was granted for bus driver salaries, making a total increase of five cents this year, substantially less than the union request.

In a five to two vote, with board members Robert Bredeson and D. H. Stewart voting against the resolution, the board approved purchase of milk from Valley Dairy for Northrop and Washington elementary schools and dividing the purchase of milk for the other schools between Bridgeman and Land O'Lakes creameries. Milk price from all three suppliers is 60 cents per gallon.

Discussion was held on possibility of building for the vocational school and it was noted that matching funds for construction would be available. Supt. Hankerson was instructed to arrange for a tour by the board of the new vocational school at Alexandria. The board also voted a $300 annual raise in salary for the superintendent.

SELECTED by the Thief River Falls board of education Monday evening as administrative assistant for the local school district was Francis Hamerlinck, junior high school principal in the local school system since 1959. The appointment will become effective as soon as a replacement can be found for the principal position at Franklin junior high school.

Cardiac Clinic Is Scheduled in TRF

Minnesota Cardiac clinic, sponsored locally by the Thief River Falls Federated clubs, will be held October 12 beginning at 8:30 a. m. at Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls. Mrs. G. H. Mayer Oakes is general club chairman with Mrs. Harold Buck as appointment chairman. Their respective telephone numbers are 681-3948 and 681-2052 and interested persons are invited to call for information.

Minnesota children under 21 years of age with heart lesions and many other suspected heart ailment may be examined at the clinic. Entrance will be through the north door of the rehabilitation unit where the registration desk will be located. Each child is asked to bring a bathrobe. A doctor from the Mayo clinic at Rochester will be in attendance to examine each child.

Results of each examination are sent to the family physician and a nurse helps the child's parents to follow the medical recommendations of the physician.

Mrs. Mayer Oakes emphasized that appointments for attendance at the clinic should be made at least two weeks before the clinic date. This would mean that appointments must be made by September 28.

Groups working with the cardiac clinic are the Northwestern Pediatric society, Minnesota Department of Health, public health nurses, Minnesota Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, county welfare agencies and voluntary groups including the Minnesota Heart association and Minnesota Association for Retarded Children.

2 Rural Schools In County Start Class Last Week

Two remaining rural schools of Pennington county started classes last Tuesday, September 8. Schools and the teachers are: District 1548, taught by Mrs. Mildred Howard of Goodridge and District 1553 taught by Mrs. Doris Rindahl of Goodridge.

Mrs. Rindahl has taught the last several years in District 1553. Mrs. Clara Voldness has taught in District 1548 last year, although Mrs. Howard had taught this school several years previously.

As a result of the closed school district law these are the only two rural school districts left in Pennington county. All other rural districts have been merged with operating districts either rural or high school, according to Dr. David Brown, Pennington county school administrator.

Bertha Hastad To Attend State Library Session

Miss Bertha Hastad, librarian at Carnegie Public library, will attend the Minnesota Library association annual fall conference Thursday and Friday, September 23-24 at the Lowry hotel in St. Paul. Speakers will address the membership on the role of librarians in the promotion of understanding among nations. Foreign exchange students will participate in an informal, conversational exchange of viewpoints with librarians at the Friday night banquet.

Other conference speakers will reflect the library profession's concern with national current events. A pre-conference workshop on September 22, will be dedicated to another important concern of librarians — how to best serve community groups, clubs and organizations.

$88.75 Is Average Price . . .

Top Average in Years At Purebred Ram Sale

Average price paid for rams took a substantial swing upward at the 17th annual purebred ram show and sale held Monday at the livestock pavilion on the Pennington county fairgrounds in Thief River Falls. The average of $88.75 per ram was more than $11 above the top average in the past four years, but was partially due to the small number of rams consigned to the sale.

At the 1964 sale, the poorest in the history of the event, 25 rams were sold for a total of $1,535 or a $61.40 average. In 1963 a total of 42 rams brought $3,144 for an average of $74.88 while in 1962 a total of 40 rams sold brought $3,088 for an average of $77.20. This year only 18 rams were sold for $1,597 and an average of $88.75.

Hampshires topped the sale this year with an average of $112.91. The highest selling ram of the sale was a Hampshire yearling consigned by Edgar and Orlen Olson of Fosston and sold to Lolyn Monsrud of Roseau for $145. Last year's sale topper was a Columbia which sold for $100.

Shropshires averaged $97.50 with the top ram consigned by Kermit Moldment of Goodridge and sold to Lloyd Symington of St. Vincent for $105. Columbias averaged $77.85 with the top selling ram consigned by Alvin Fjeld of Goodridge and sold to Lloyd Johnson of Warroad for $100.

Suffolk rams, although of fine quality, brought an average of only $60 with the top price of $85 paid by Lester Elseth of Newfolden, for a yearling ram consigned by Sandra and Michael Bratlien of Clearbrook. All of the top selling rams were also champions in their respective breeds.

Judging the morning show were Carl Spong of Central Livestock association and Oscar Nelson, Mahnomen county agricultural agent. Johnny Clow of Lancaster was the auctioneer, assisted by Spong and Donovan Bruggeman as ringmen.

Peter Probasco, sale manager, expressed satisfaction over the sale average, with the exception of low prices for Suffolk rams and the small number of rams sold. "If we could have sold another 25 rams for somewhere near the average we received for less than half that number it could have been a terrific sale," he said.

Consignors to the sale were hosted at a consignor's banquet Sunday evening in the Rex cafe. Local businessmen and their wives served as hosts and hostesses for consignors during the evening.

Poverty Council Steps Up Activity

Inter-County Community council, administrative agency for community action against poverty in the four-county area of Pennington, Red Lake, East Polk and Clearwater, is showing increased activity since staffing in August, according to Edwin J. Bilek, director.

Staff members are now engaged in extensive research work in an effort to pinpoint poverty as it exists within communities in this area. Data obtained from welfare agencies, employment agencies, census reports and the compilation of facts by individual counties under the Rural Area Development program are being studied and chartered for future use. Staff members will then be able to help communities design programs accurately aimed at alleviating poverty as it definitely exists within a given area, Bilek said.

Staff members at the Oklee office, directly responsible to the 32-member, four-county council, include Bilek, director; Roy Jorgenson and Charles "Harpo" Dexter, director's aides; and Miss Mary Lou Gervais, office secretary. The office is also the headquarters of James Turgeon, state OEO technical assistant, who serves 23 counties in northwestern Minnesota.

According to Bilek, to effect a more complete coverage of services to residents of the four-county area, the community agency he heads is attempting to establish a small business development center with offices in conjunction with the community council. This will enable residents of the area to take advantage of the small business loan provisions of the economic opportunity act with a clearer understanding of its proposed role in the over-all program against poverty.

Bilek said that any organization or community within the four-county area may contact the agency for further information. Address is Inter-County Community Council, Inc., P. O. Box 187, Oklee, Minn., or phone 796-2325.

Sharon Bruggeman Weds Clifford B. Schroeder

Miss Sharon Ann Bruggeman and Clifford Brent Schroeder, both of Grand Forks, N.D., exchanged marriage vows recently at a double-ring ceremony at St. Bernard's Catholic church, Thief River Falls, with the Rev. Keough Paixnoie officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Bruggeman of Thief River Falls and the groom parents are Jack Schroeder of Hecla, S.D., and Mrs. Nellie Schroeder of Miami, Fla.

Miss Rosemary Bruggeman, cousin of the bride, presided at the organ and the church choir provided the traditional nuptial music. Bouquets of pink peonies on the altar and baskets of gladioli and carnations in varying shades of pink graced the chancel for the ceremony attended by 200 guests.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white taffeta, floor-length, sheath styled gown with a floor-length button-to-the-waist coat of chantilly lace. Pearl buttons secured the scalloped front. A cap headpiece, adorned with a bow and stephanotis, held the elbow-length lace mantilla and she carried a shower bouquet of stephanotis and trailing ivy centered with a large white orchid.

Sandy Bruggeman of Detroit Lakes attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Joan Bruggeman of Thief River Falls, sister of the bride and Beverly Schroeder of Miami, Fla., sister of the groom. They were street-length gowns of white satin topped with lace epals, fashioned similar to the bridal gown. Their headpieces, also similiar to the bride's, secured shoulder-length lace mantillas and they carried colonial bouquets of pink roses and ivy.

Dressed like the bride were the flower girls, Becki Bruggeman, cousin of the bride, and Michelle Lasha, both of Thief River Falls. Brian Bruggeman of Thief River Falls, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer. Mrs. Al Jochim of Grand Forks, N.D., attended the bride as her personal attendant. The mother of the bride designed and fashioned the gowns worn by the bride and her attendants.

Allan Schroeder of Rapid City, S. D. attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Orin Lampart and Bill Stolle, both of Hecla, S. D. Ushers were Jerry Hastings and Don Krause, also of Hecla, S. D. The men of the wedding party wore white dinner jackets, dark trousers and pink carnation boutonnieres.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church basement with Gres Bruggeman, uncle of the bride as host. Aunts of the bride, Mrs. Hardie Nance Jr., of LaMarque, Texas served as hostess assisted by Mrs. Gres Bruggeman.

The all-white, three-tiered wedding cake, topped by two white doves holding entwined wedding rings, was cut and served by Mrs. Ken Bereau Jr., of Freer, Texas and Miss Elma Ollie of Plummer. Attending the punch bowl were Susan Carlson of Thief River Falls and Marianne Nance of LaMarque, Texas, cousin of the bride. Mrs. Bob Baumgart of Minneapolis registered the guests. Waitresses were Kaye Dorn, Vicki Bruggeman, Kathy Solsten, Bev Bredeson, Debbie Lasha and Mary Kraemer. Arranging the gifts were Shirley Lee, Donna Doyle and Alice Jockim.

Out-of-town guests came from Chicago, Ill.; LaMarque and Freer, Texas.; Park River and Grand Forks, N. D.; Rapid City and Hecla, S. D.; Minneapolis, Brooks, and Plummer.

The newly-weds will make their home at Grand Forks, N. D., where they are employed. The bride, a graduate of the Lincoln high school and the business department of the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school, is employed at the First National Bank and the groom, a graduate of Hecla high school and the school of technology at Rapid City, S. D., is employed by the American Bridge Company.

Services Held At Euclid Today For Mrs. Armstrong

Mrs. Blanche Armstrong, 83, a resident of Thief River Falls and a former long-time resident of Euclid, died Sunday morning at the Warren hospital.

Funeral services for Mrs. Blanche Armstrong were held today (Wednesday) at 2 p.m. in the Euclid Presbyterian church. The Rev. Vern Max officiated and interment was in the Greenwood cemetery, Thief River Falls. Green Funeral home was in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Armstrong was born Blanche Lamson on Dec. 18, 1881 at Salem, Ohio, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Lamson. When she was a young girl, she moved to Guthrie county, Iowa where she attended school, grew to womanhood and on Nov. 12, 1902 was united in marriage to Harry L. Armstrong. Following their marriage, they moved to Canada where they lived for a few years before settling in 1911 at Euclid. For the past few years, she had made her home in Thief River Falls.

Mrs. Armstrong was a member of the Euclid Presbyterian church.

She is survived by four sons: Leslie Armstrong, Anniston, Ala.; Raymond, Evansville, Ind.; Frank Thief River Falls and Jack of St. Hilaire; two daughters, Mrs. Frank (Pearl) Ballek of Shevlin and Miss Emma Armstrong of Fargo, N.D.; 25 grandchildren and 22 great-grandchildren.

Olga Redmond, Once of This City, Dies In Illinois

Mrs. Olga Ostmoe Redmond, 66, of 1415 West Erie Street, Chicago, Ill., a former resident of Thief River Falls and the sister of Mrs. Norman Voldness of this city, died Wednesday, August 25, at the Elmhurst Memorial hospital at Elmhurst, Ill.

Funeral services for Mrs. Olga Redmond were held at the Hurson chapel in Chicago and interment was in the Forest Hills cemetery at Glen Ellyn.

Mrs. Redmond, the former Olga Ostmoe, was born Dec. 4, 1898 at Northwood, N. D., the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Ostmoe. At the age of five, she moved with her parents to the Grygla community where she attended school and grew, to womanhood. Later they moved to Thief River Falls.

In 1923, she was united in marriage to Lyle Redmond of Chicago, Ill. Following their marriage, they have made their home in Chicago.

She is survived by her husband, Lyle; two sons, Clyde and Cecil, both of Lombard, Ill.; four daughters, Sylvia Downey and Bernice Yants, both of Colorado, June Neace and Lorraine Winters of Chicago, Ill., and 15 grandchildren.

Also one brother, Arthur Ostmoe, Glenwood and three sisters, Mrs. C. G. (Beatrice) Olson, Winnipeg, Man., Canada; Mrs. Tillie Andersen, Newfolden and Mrs. Norman (Clara) Voldness of this city.

She was preceded in death by one sister.

Juel Halvorson, Plummer Pioneer Resident, Dies

Tunberg's To Sponsor '65 Football Contest

Thief River Falls area boys from eight through 13 can pit their football skills against thousands of other boys throughout the nation in the fifth annual Punt, Pass & Kick competition which will culminate with a trip to Washington, D.C., and to an appearance at the National Football League Play-Off Bowl game for the top 12 winners.

Sponsored nationally by the Ford Dealers of America and the National Football league, the Punt, Pass & Kick competion (PP&K) will be staged in Thief River Falls by Tunberg Motor company.

Area boys will be tested for their ability to punt, pass and place-kick on the same day as legions of other boys all over the country. For eight, nine, and 10 year-olds warm-up jackets, helmets and footballs will be given as first, second and third prizes for each group. Boys 11, 12 and 13 will receive gold, silver and bronze trophies. There will be 18 prizes in all. Scores throughout the country then will be compared to determine the six top winners in each of the 362 Ford zones—a total of 2,172 zone winners.

Zone winners will meet in 37 district competitions at which 222 district champions will win trophies. The 222 runners-up also will receive trophies. District champions will compete for area championships to be held in the 14 NFL-city areas.

The 42 eastern NFL-area champions will compete in Dallas, Texas, on Saturday, December 11, to decide the six eastern division champions (one for each age group). The 42 western NFL-area champions will compete in Los Angeles, California on Saturday, December 18, to determine the six western division champions.

The eastern division champions and the western division champions accompanied by their mothers and fathers, will go on a "Tour of Champions" to Washington, D.C. They then will travel to Miami, Fla. site of the annual NFL Play-off Bowl game, for half-time competition to determine the six National PP&K champions.

Roger and Wally Tunberg of Tunberg Motor company point out that PP&K involves no body contact, there is no charge for entering and no special equipment is needed. Registration will be open from September 1 through October 8 at Tunberg's.

The Tunbergs said entrants will be judged on distance and accuracy of their punting, passing and kicking. Points will be awarded for each foot of distance the ball travels on the fly and points will be subtracted for each foot the ball lands to the right or left of a center line.

SEMINAR for maternity, pediatrics and emergency room nursing personnel was held Tuesday afternoon in Northwestern hospital. The session was conducted by Miss Lydia Dahlen (left), of Thief River Falls, seminar coordinator, and Marilyn K. Wilfong, R.N., maternal and child health nursing consultant for the section of maternal and child health, department of health, University of Minnesota, who was the lecturer. Subject matter for the session included "Supervision: Principles and Techniques," "The Emergency Room: Functions and Nursing Responsibilities," and "Pediatric Emergencies." The second session of the seminar will be held September 21 from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. at the hospital. Nurses from throughout the area attended the event.

Advertisement for Proposals

The city council of the City of Thief River Falls, Minnesota, will receive sealed proposals for 1965 water and sewer extension, Seaverson's Second Addition, City of Thief River Falls, Minnesota, P301.21, until 4:00 p.m., September 21st, 1965, at the office of the City Clerk, City of Thief River Falls, Minnesota, at which time all bids will be publicly opened and read aloud.

Form of the contract documents, including plans and specifications pursuant to which the work shall be done, are on file at the office of the City Clerk, Thief River Falls, Minnesota, and at the office of Stewart & Walker, Inc., Consulting Engineers, 324 East Second Street, Thief River Falls, Minnesota, by depositing ten dollars ($10.00) with the Engineer. The full amount of the deposit will be returned to those submitting a bona-fide bid and who return the documents in good condition within 7 days of the date set for the opening bids. Non-bidders returning documents within 2 days of the bid opening date will be refunded $3.00 of the $10.00 deposit.

Install 205 Linear Feet - 8" Clay pipe sewer, furnish & install 10 - Wye branches, construct 23 linear feet - Manholes and furnish and install 2 - casting assembly. Furnish & install 300 linear feet 8" & 6" asbestos cement water main, 310 pounds - cast iron fittings, 1-6" inch gate valve, 1 - valve box and 1 - hydrant, and other related items of work.

Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check, or bidder's bond acceptable to the city in an amount equal to at least five percent (5 per cent) of the total amount of the bid, payable without condition to the city clerk of the City of Thief River Falls, Minnesota. In case the successful bidder fails to enter into a contract or to provide a performance bond as required by law within the specified number of days after the award of the contract, such check or bond shall be forfeited to the City as liquidated damages.

The City Council reserves the right to hold all bids for a period of 15 calendar days after the date set for opening bids, and to waive any irregularities, and to reject any or all bids, as they deem to be in the best interest of the City.

ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS
THIEF RIVER FALLS PUBLIC LIBRARY, THIEF RIVER FALLS, MINNESOTA, BIDS CLOSE: 2:00 P.M., September 29, 1965

Notice is hereby given that sealed stipulated sum proposals will be received for the furnishing of all labor, materials, equipment and skill required for construction of Thief River Falls Public Library for Thief River Falls Public Library Board, City of Thief River Falls, Thief River Falls, Minnesota.

The work is to be done in accordance with drawings and specifications prepared by Hammel, Green and Abrahamson, Inc., Architects and Engineers, 2078 University Avenue, Saint Paul, Minnesota 55114 and 1210 Wesley Temple Building, Minneapolis Minnesota, 55403.

Separate proposals will be received for the following contract divisions:

1) General Construction (G)
2) Electrical Work (E)
3) Mechanical Work (M)

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the City Clerk, Thief River Falls City Hall, Box 300, Thief River Falls, Minnesota until 2:00 p.m., C.S.T. on September 29, 1965, after which proposals will be opened publicly and read aloud in the City Council Chambers. Oral, telegraphic or telephonic proposals and modifications will not be considered. Proposals shall not be withdrawn by bidder for a period of 30 calendar days after opening of bids. Proposals must be submitted in duplicate on form included in specifications.

Drawings, specifications and proposal forms may be examined in architect's offices, Builders Exchanges of Thief River Falls, Minneapolis, Saint Paul, Duluth and Fargo and F. W. Dodge office in Minneapolis.

Prime contractors may obtain set of drawings and specifications (complete for all contracts) from architect's Saint Paul office upon making a deposit of a check in favor of the architect in the amount of $20.00. The deposit will be returned to prime contract bidders who submit a bona-fide bid, and who return plans and specifications in good condition within ten days after bid date.

All bids shall be delivered to designated place before stated bid time and be accompanied by a bidder's bond or certified check made payable without recourse to owner, in an amount equal to 5 per cent of base bid price. A guaranty bond, as further described in the specifications, will be required of the succesful bidder, in full amount of the contract sum.

The owner reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to waive minor discrepancies in bidding procedure.

Play To Begin in Grid Conference

The five-member Northwest Football conference—Bemidji, Thief River Falls, Crookston, Roseau and East Grand Forks—will begin play on its 1965 schedule this week. In the lone conference game on the schedule, the defending champion Bemidji Lumberjacks will meet the Green Wave of East Grand Forks at East Grand Forks at 3 p. m. In non-conference games the Thief River Falls Prowlers will play the Red Lake Falls Eagles at Red Lake Falls; the Crookston Pirates will entertain Park Parida; and the Curly Gasperlin's Sacred Heart team at East Grand Forks.

The defending conference Bemidji Lumberjacks proved that they will make a strong defense of their title as they opened their 1965 schedule with a 21-18 win over Crosby-Ironton on Friday night. The Lumberjacks, although losing such such players as Dick and Bob Fortier, Bob Saeger and John Dow by graduation, will have a powerful line, and with burly Larry Schwartz at fullback, coach Red Wilson's team should have too much power for the Green Wave on Friday. Coach Ron Thompson's Green Wave squad has suffered a pair of losses, losing by a 13 to 7 score to the Warren Ponies in the season's opener; and then being defeated 20 to 6, by a strong Dilworth squad last Friday.

Bemidji won the title last season by posting a four wins and no losses record. The Jacks had an overall marke of nine wins and no losses the Prowlers gained second place in the conference standings with three wins and one loss; while Crookston Central had two wins and two losses and East Grand Forks had one win and three losses, The Roseau Rams did not win a onference game last season.

Public Hunting Areas Map Now Offered by State

Minnesota Conservation department's game and fish division announced today that a new map showing all state-owned wetlands and public hunting areas is available without charge from the department's information bureau.

Ted Shields, state game and fish director, said the new map shows 575 such areas including 35 added during the past 12 months. State-owned wildlife areas are managed by the game and fish division for the production of both waterfowl and upland game and to provide hunting opportunities for sportsmen.

The areas are posted with signs which read: Wildlife Management Area, Minnesota Conservation Department, Division of Game and Fish.

Funds to purchase the wildlife lands are derived from hunting license receipts including at $1 surcharge on the small game hunting license, from federal aid funds and from the Natural Resources program financed by a one cent per pack tax on cigarettes.

The map may be obtained by contacting the Minnesota Conservation Department, Bureau of Information, 350 Centennial Office Building, St. Paul.

Twin Valley at Warren.
Ada at Crookston Cathedral.

In the Viking Huddle

By Coach Norm Van Brocklin

Well, here we go. Sunday's the day that our players and coaches have been waiting for ever since we reported to Bemidji back in mid-July.

Going into a league opener is always a big thing. This year, it's a lot bigger than usual, because playing Baltimore at Baltimore is something like a guy walking into the Colisseum and facing the lions.

The Colts probably have the best home record of any NFL team in recent seasons—the only one to compare with it, I suppose, would be Green Bay.

And the fact that the Colts are the defending Western conference champions and off to a fast start in 1965 with a great pre-season record won't make it any easier.

We think we're ready, too, so it should be an old-fashioned goat-roping there at the municipal stadium. The 60,000 seats have long since been sold, I'm sure, and our own fans will get to see it over the CBS-TV network.

We had two great games last year with Don Shula's team. We kicked them around pretty good here at Met stadium in the league opener, winning 34-24 and making something close to 500 yards in doing it.

We ran into them again in November when they had an eight-game winning streak going, and despite a lot of penalties and missed opportunities in the first half, our men overcame a 10-0 deficit and almost beat them a second time. We went ahead 14-10 on touchdowns by Hal Bedsole and Tommy Mason before Johnny Unitas won it 17-14 with a pass to Alex Hawkins, who broke into the corner and made a diving catch.

Unitas, of course, has beaten a lot of clubs in the final minutes and it was a typical Colt finish. You might recall the way he brought his team down the field against us in 1961, just far enough and fast enough so that Steve Myrha could kick a 52-yard field goal to win 34-33. And in 1963 at home, he threw two TD passes in the last four minutes to win 37-34.

It'll take a 60-minute effort, not a minute less, for us to get by them Sunday—and with Detroit coming up next, we need an opening win.

I'm not afraid of the way our team will perform. This is still a young, agressive team, and we've got two fine leaders in Tarkenton and Hawkins. All they have to do is hit the way they always have, and you'll never be ashamed of them.

There really isn't anything more to say until 2 o'clock Sunday (12 noon, Minnesota time.)

Few Violations Noted Last Week In Teal Season

Last weekend's three-day teal season didn't bring many area hunters out into the field, according to Donald Fearn, state game warden for this area. Hunting pressure was light, he reported, although teal were plentiful in some areas, particularly the land west of the Agassiz refuge, the Thief River and the county ditches northeast of Thief River Falls.

Game-law violations were not as common as might have been expected. Fearn reported that he checked 45 hunters, and violations were negligible. A few ducks of various species were found in game bags, and a number of mallards were found where they had been discarded by hunters. Les Borning, area game warden, supervisor reported that of the first eight hunters he checked, four were found to have committed over-the-limit or mallard-shooting violations.

Sportsmen Meet Saturday Night At Badger Club

Area sportsmen will gather in Badger Saturday evening to hear Chuck Burroughs, research biologist for the Minnesota Conservation department, speak on the fish management program for Lake of the Woods.

The occasion is a banquet being served by the Roseau Area Conservation club, hosting the Western Roseau County Sportsmen's club whose members won the recent crow hunt contest between the two clubs by shooting 240 crows.

The supper will be served at the VFW club rooms in Badger at 7 p.m. at a cost of $1.25 per plate. All persons interested in attending must purchase advance-sale tickets from one of the officers of either club. A limited supply of tickets is available locally from James Wills, treasurer of the T.R.F Sportsmen's club. Area sportsmen and conservationists and their wives are invited to attend, whether or not they participated in the crow hunt.

Regulations for 1965 Hunting and Trapping Issued

Summary of the 1965 Minnesota hunting and trapping regulations were shipped out to county auditors September 3, the conservation department announced today. License agents should have a supply of the regulations this week, game officials said. Agents are found in most stores selling hunting and fishing equipment and copies of the synopsis can also be obtained from department field men.

The hunting synopsis is issued without charge. Game officials urged hunters to obtain a copy of the synopsis as soon as they become available in order to familiarize themselves with the 1965 laws and regulations.

Lancaster Whips Newfolden Team 34-0 in Opener

Lancaster Cardinals upended the visiting Newfolden Nordics 34-0 in the opening Top of the State Conference game for each team last Friday. Three of the Lancaster scores came on passes and Nordic fumbles helped contribute to the other two TD's. Lancaster also blocked a punt which went through the end zone for an automatic safety.

Monte Hoffman hauled in Randy Nordin and Peary Pearson passes for two TD's, while Larry Swenson caught a 25-yarder from Pearson for another. Greg Wilson and Pearson scored on 1-yard plunges in the second half for six pointers. Bill Yonke and Hoffman each scored an extra point.

Sheldon Elseth, Nordic coach, said the line is ahead of last year's opener, playing much better on both offense and defense. They opened holes for the backs and played good defensive ball. The backfield was off in its timing, fumbled and did not get back fast enough on pass defense.

The Nordics host Warroad on the home field at 1:45 p.m., Friday. The Warriors have an experienced squad back from last year's team that posted a 5-4 record.

TRF To Host Courses From U of M in Oct.

University of Minnesota's Institute of Agriculture, through its graduate-professional improvement program, will offer courses during the coming academic year in 23 Minnesota communities. Among these will be Thief River Falls with short intensive courses set for October 21 and 28 and November 4.

In addition to increasing the number of course locations this year, the Institute of Agriculture has added two new types of courses to its list of offerings.

The first, "Comprehensive Professional Improvement Courses" are designed especially to meet the specific and changing needs of professionals in agriculture and related fields, explains LaVern A. Freeh, chairman of the institutes graduate-professional improvement committee.

According to Freeh, professional improvement courses are offered for certificate credit, applicable to general extension division certificate programs. Such credits, however, may not be used in a degree program.

The university's office of admissions and records will record students' grades on a regular general extension division transcript. At the student's request, copies of the transcript will be sent to his employers to become a part of his professional record.

The other new courses being offered this year are short intensive professional improvement seminars. These are designed to meet specific technical needs of professional workers. They are discussion-oriented and meet for nine hours during a quarter, usually three three-hour sessions.

The other courses being offered again this year are the graduate level courses for advanced degree credit.

"These three types of courses are being offered to provide professional persons in the state with an opportunity to continue and extend their education so as to better cope with the complex challenges of a rapidly changing world," Freeh explains.

"The program is not designed to meet all of the continuing educational needs of professional persons," he says. "Rather, it presents a core of offerings around which professional workers and agencies can build a professional improvement program to meet their specific needs."

The courses are especially oriented to meet the needs of agricultural extension personnel, vocational agriculture, home economics and other high school instructors, forestry personnel and professional employees in agribusiness and industry.

There is an $11 charge per credit per quarter for the graduate degree and comprehensive professional improvement courses. There is no charge, however, for the short intensive professional improvement seminars.

September Among High Incidence Traffic Months

Over the past 10 years, September shows the third highest total number of traffic fatalities in Minnesota with 709 killed or an average of about 70 per year. (October has the highest, with 563, and August is next with 739.)

Last September there were more in the previous year but there were fewer deaths. September of were fewer deaths. September of 1964 had 6,127 traffic accidents, 66 deaths and 4,229 persons injured. September of 1963 had 5,291 accidents, 82 deaths and 3,422 persons injured.

Pedestrians: September 1964—8 killed, 190 injured; September 1963—10 killed, 160 injured.

As is normal, the leading causes of accidents for this and any month failure to yield right-of-way and following too closely.

The majority of accidents occur in urban areas. For September, 4,634 traffic collisions happened in cities of 2,500 or more population, and 1,493 happened in rural areas. But rural accidents generally are more serious because of higher speeds involved and result in a greater number of deaths. There were 45 killed in rural Minnesota and 21 in urban areas.

State Traffic Safety Record Among U.S. Best

Minnesota had one of the best traffic safety records in the nation for the first six months of the year, judging by number of fatalities, according to a report by the National Safety council.

Minneapolis had the best record of all major cities in the nation, the report showed. That city led with a reduction in fatalities of 46 per cent under the toll for the first six months of 1964. Fatalities were down from 37 deaths in 1964 to 20 in 1965.

While the traffic death toll for the nation was up three per cent at the end of June this year, Minnesota's toll was down by 18 per cent. The state had 304 deaths during the period, compared to 372 for the same period of last year.

Minnesota ranked fifth in the reduction of traffic deaths, behind Rhode Island, Colorado, North Dakota and Oklahoma.

According to the Minnesota highway department, fatal accidents in Minnesota since June have been increasing and whittling away at that 18 per cent reduction. Although the state is still behind the number killed year by this time, the record is not as good as it was in June.

By mid-August, Minnesota had counted 453 fatalities compared to 497 for the same period of 1964, for a reduction of nine per cent—just half of the 18 per cent reduction at the end of June.

Install Gunderson New Pastor at Oklee Lutheran

Rev. Charles L. Gunderson was installed as pastor of the Oklee Lutheran parish at services Sunday night in Zion Lutheran church in Oklee. He succeeded Rev. R. A. Saethre who moved to Comstock a year ago. In the intermim, the parish, which includes Zion, Salem and Valle congregations, has been served by Rev. B. L. Duckstad of Fertile and pastors from Concordia college, Moorhead.

Rev. Gunderson 35, was an Air Force chaplain from 1956 to 1959 and for the past six years has been pastor of the Larslon, Mont. parish. A native of Madison, Wis., he was educated in the Madison schools, St. Olaf college, Northfield; and Luther Theological seminary, St. Paul. He served his first pastoral internship at the First Lutheran church in Minot, N. D. He is married and the father of five children.

NWSA Will Open Monday, Oct. 4

Northwest school of agriculture, will open for the fall term on October 4, according to Supt. B. E. Youngquist.

Registration will begin at 8 a.m. on Monday, October 4, in the school library, Kiehle building. Any senior high school student in grades 10, 11, and 12 may enroll up until the opening date of school. Advance enrollment for the fall term has already exceeded 200.

Northwest school offers courses in technical agriculture including field crops, animal husbandry, soils, farm management and farm shop. Students who graduate may go on to college as the full slate of general education courses, at the high school level, are available at the school.

For information and reservation of room in the school dormitories, write to the Principal, Northwest school of Agriculture, Crookston.

Constitution Week

Promoted by the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, nationally-proclaimed Constitution Week is to be observed September 1723. September 17 is known as Constitution Day or Citizenship Day. It is entirely proper that attention should be called at least annually to the document which has been the guiding force in this nation's history.

In the past several years the supreme court of the land has liberalized the constitution through what many believe to be false interpretation. Perhaps the members of this body should spend Constitution Week reflecting on the past 178 years and what the constitution—in its original intent and form—has done for our great country.

We like Samuel Eliot Morison's statement in his "Oxford History of the American People". He writes as follows:

"The Federal Convention, which sat at Philadelphia from 25 May to 17 September, 1787, drafted the most successful constitution in history, now covering fifty instead of 1787, drafted the most successful constituing 200 million as compared with fewer than four million enrolled in the census of 1790."

This indicates the flexibility and yet the firmness of the document which forms the basis for our nation's government. The constitution created a strong central government but granted in limited powers specifically granted in the document. Unless the granted powers are found in the constitution, they do not exist.

The 10th Amendment states, "The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states respectively, or to the people." This should be clear enough to our federal officials who, upon taking office, swear to preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States. This should also be the desire and goal of every American citizen.

Pick Your Ducks

This is not to suggest that plucking feathers is the proper method of preparing waterfowl for table use. Rather it is to indicate that hunters must be selective in the species of ducks which they find in front of their shotgun barrels during the waterfowl season. This poses some problems.

Let us suppose that a beginning waterfowl hunter sincerely wants to comply with the regulations, to shoot only legal ducks and to preserve waterfowl by retrieving all that he shoots. He secures available material on identification of the various species—coloration, flight characteristics, markings, normal habitat and so forth. Armed with this memorized knowledge, he invades the marshland on opening day.

Let us further suppose that he is allowed one mallard in his limit and is encouraged to shoot only drakes. This is a fairly distinctive duck, rather easily recognized by size and markings. Our hunter spies a flock of ducks in a small pool of open water, makes a careful approach and rises to flush the birds. In the flutter of wings, he manages to select a mallard drake and fires. To his amazement, the drake and a crossing hen both fold their wings and plummet into the water.

Now, what to do? Face a potential fine for possessing an illegal duck, although accidentally taken, or waste one by failing to retrieve it? For most hunters, there is little hesitation—leave the duck and spare the fine. Mallards may be abundant but the other legal species are not around. The rest of the hunting day is wasted.

The next morning, with shooting to open at sunrise, our hunter is back in the field. The sky is heavily overcast, a light rain is falling and it is nearly dark at the sunrise shooting hour. As he crouches in his selected spot, our hunter hears the whisper of wings. Right over his head a trio of ducks is winging its way against the sky. Mallards? Maybe. Better not shoot. Wait for the next flock.

The next flock comes in low, silhouetted against the horizon where the sun has risen but is still obscured by clouds. Marking are not visible. Big birds, mallards, shoot. The first bird folds and tumbles to earth, bringing a smile to the lips of our hunter. The smile lasts until he reaches the downed bird to find that it is not a mallard but one of a protected species. Shall he keep it or waste it, face his conscience or face a possible fine? You guessed it—another duck tossed away. Protected by law, yes, but still a dead duck.

We speak here of a hunter who is sincerely attempting to obey the letter of the law while still getting some enjoyment from shooting. There are many others less discriminate. There are those who are not able to identify the ducks they shoot, there are those who identify them after they are shot and there is room for argument over the species of some ducks even after they are in the hand.

We suppose it is contrary to all principles of waterfowl management, but it would eliminate a lot of problems to lump ducks in a bag limit. A limit of three ducks, for example, might be all mallards, all teal, all redheads, all pintails, all bluebills, all gadwalls, all canvasbacks or other species, or any combination thereof. It is our contention that many protected species are killed and wasted by honest mistake or otherwise. This would salvage at least some of them.

Congratulations, Frank

Selection of Francis (Frank) Hamerlinck as administrative assistant for the Thief River Falls school district should be considered a wise move by the local board of education. Frank will assume his new position as soon as a replacement can be found to become principal at Franklin junior high school.

We feel that Frank's rise from classroom teacher in this school district to junior high school principal and now administrative assistant is well deserved. He has demonstrated administrative ability, a sincere interest in the best education for his students and a willingness to work on a particular problem until it is solved to the best degree possible.

Respect of other educators in northwestern Minnesota is evidenced by the fact that Frank is now vice president of the Northern Division of the Minnesota Education association and a candidate for the presidency of that organization. He did much in organizing and conducting details for the highly successful NMEA convention attended by about 1,000 teachers here a couple of years ago.

It is our opinion that he will do a commendable job in his new position, bringing further recognition to his school and to himself. He is familiar with many of the situations for which he will be responsible and well qualified to meet the demands of the position. We offer our congratulations to the board of education for a fine choice and to Frank upon his selection.

The Ram What Am

It was encouraging to note the interest shown by sheep producers in the 17th annual purebred ram sale in Thief River Falls Monday. The sale average was considerably higher than last year, indicating a revival of interest in sheep production and reflecting the higher prices received for lambs during the past year.

Somewhat discouraging, however, was the rather conspicuous absence of several former consignors from this year's sale. These men have become discouraged by the prices they can receive for registered rams on their farms and have either quit sheep production or gone to strictly commercial flocks. Other sheep producers, at least partly through their own failure to pay a proper price for rams, will likely suffer from this situation.

Cross-breeding of sheep to develop hybrid vigor and produce fast growing lambs for market from ewes which will shear a heavy fleece has become quite popular. Availability of rams to service these ewes has made the cross-breeding program easier in this area. With fewer growers of registered sheep, these high quality rams will be more difficult to obtain. Hopefully, for the registered breeders, the price for rams will increase.

Sheepmen well know the desirability of having quality rams in their flocks. Percentage of lamb crop can be attributed to quality rams, as can the type of lambs produced. High quality was exhibited at the show and sale Monday. Purchasers should find they made wise investments.

Crime and the Welfare State

Is there a distinct and recognizable connection between the soaring crime rate and the development of a welfare state? If that seems a strange and idle question, a paragraph written by Keats A. Pullen, Jr., that appeared in The Baltimore Sun may cause you to do a bit of thinking.

crime rises precipitously in a socialist welfare state. Under socialism, the state, in accord with its own arbitrary standards, rewards individuals for alleviation of poverty. Under crime the individual, in accord with his own standards, attempts to reward himself for a similar purpose. In both instances, old-fashioned standards of morality are buried in a morass of gimme."

This is a harsh judgement but there is much evidence to substantiate it. The welfare state, whatever else one may think of it, cannot help but undermine and even destroy the ancient values which have sustained civilization — independence, a sense of personal responsibility, individual pride, honesty and a determination to take care of oneself and one's family.

Crime — like all the other immoralities,- to use that word in the broadest possible sense — will flourish when these values are degraded.

Mrs. Bert L. Kron, Rt. 1, Newfolden, Minn. 625-2233

Sympathy is extended to the family of Allen Swenson of Red Lake Falls and the Art Swenson family of our community over the sudden death of Mrs. Allen Swenson. She passed away at the age of 19 years at St. Lukes hospital at Fargo, North Dakota, Sept. 3rd., after a short illness. She was married to Allen Swenson Aug. 24, 1963 at Red Lake Falls. She leaves 2 small sons, her husband, parents, sister and two brothers.

Mrs. Art Swenson is presently staying at the home of her son, Allen Swenson, at Red Lake Falls and caring for her little grandsons.

The community also expresses sympathy to the Ernest Trochman family over the recent passing of Mr. Trochman. They have made their home in Rosewood for the past two years.

Roger Haugen left Aug. 22nd, for Ft. Leonard Wood, Missouri, where he will begin 8 weeks of basic training. He enlisted in the Army Air Force. He will later attend a school for aviation mechanics in Ft. Eustis, Virginia.

A family gathering honoring Roger Haugen was held at the Harvey Haugen home on a recent Sunday afternoon with the following in attendance; Mr. and Mrs. Warren Kennedy of Hensel, N.D., Mr. and Mrs. Orin Dalve and Wallace Dalve of Detroit Lakes, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wallace and Daniel of Euclid, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Wallace and Jeanine of Crookston, Mrs. Harriet Wallace and James of Euclid, Mrs. William Stroot and family of Euclid, and Mr. Adolph Haugen of Rosewood. A pot luck luncheon was enjoyed together and Roger received gifts and best wishes.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Hellquist visited with Mr. and Mrs. Albin Langlie at their home near Newfolden on Tuesday evening. Mrs. Langlie had just arrived home from the hospital after recently breaking her leg.

On Monday of this week, Mrs. Olaf Hall and David moved into Newfolden where they will make their home. Mrs. Hall will be employed at a cafe and David will return to high school where he is a junior.

Mr. and Mrs. James Krohn and Ray returned Karen Kron and Susan Holmstrom to their homes Sunday afternoon. The girls have been employed in the Cities during the summer vacation. The James Krohns were house guests at Bert Krohns over Labor Day and returned to Minneapolis Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Johnson, Dwight, Neal and Lyle were Sunday afternoon and supper guests at the Warren Mosbecks of Polk Center.

Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Emil Hellquist and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hellquist visited with Lyle Johnson at the Oakland Park home.

Mrs. Irwin Johnson joined her sisters and others Tuesday afternoon at Silverton to help her mother, Mrs. Clarence Peterson, celebrate her birthday.

The Rindal Ladies Aid met Wednesday afternoon at the church. Bible study was given by Pastor Haukenstad and Mrs. Clarence Larson of Bethlehem church provided a solo. Guests present were Mrs. Ella Nelson and Mrs. Lynn Albough. Hostesses were Mrs. James Rooker, Mrs. Elmer Rooker and Mrs. Albert Walker.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Ranstrom spent the weekend visiting their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Denis Dudrey, of Bloomington and their son, Mr. and Mrs. Donavon Ranstrom of St. Paul.

Helping Merle Waldron of Thief River Falls celebrate his 10th birthday were his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Hellquist. His birthday had occurred on Wednesday the previous day, when he had a party with other young folks present.

Mrs. Victor Ranstrom was hostess to the Viking Town and Country Garden Club Thursday evening, Sept. 2nd. There were 9 members present who reviewed the activities of the past month and discussed the Flower Show and Garden Tour held in Roseau. Mrs. Frank Anderson presented the topic on "Peonies". Announcement was made of the garden club program to be presented in Viking Friday night, Sept. 10 with Miss Geneva Overum of Thief River Falls showing her slides and giving a talk on her trip to Europe last spring. Other garden clubs, as well as interested gardeners, are invited.

Mr. and Mrs. James Krohn and Ray of Minneapolis, Karen and Laura Kron visited Monday evening with the Elmer Krons.

The little folks of our community who started school for the first time this fall are: Gene Copeland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Copeland, who entered first grade at Viking; Ross Solney, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Solney; Paulette Bulger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bulger; Jeanine Rooker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Rooker; and Lyle Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Johnson. These children all attend kindergarten in Thief River Falls.

Janet Holmstrom, Joyce Sabo and Deanna Jarshaw are among the cheerleaders chosen at the Newfolden High School to lead their school and teams at sport events.

Mrs. L. A. Meyer of Steiner was a luncheon guest at the Bert Kron home Tuesday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Meyer had returned on Labor Day from a three week tour to Alaska.

Announcements

The New Solum 4-H club will meet at Rosebank School Thursday, September 16th at 8 o'clock for its final meeting of this club year. The enrollment cards will be sent home to all members this week and they should be filled out, signed and returned at the meeting. Young people between the ages of 9-19 are invited to join our 4-H. Contact junior leaders for enrollment cards and attend this meeting. Election of officers will be held. Leaders, project leaders, and other club helpers will be appointed. Any volunteers to these positions will be welcomed. Garret Reierson and Jimmy Jarshaw are on the program committee. Lunch will be served by the James Jarshaw and Ormand Johnson families.

Tax Queries Answered By Internal Revenue

These questions and answers on federal tax matters are provided by the U. S. Internal Revenue service and published as a public service to taxpayers. They include questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—I'm still being charged interest on last year's tax bill. I thought that when I agreed to the adult adjustments and I signed the waiver agreement that interest charges would be stopped.

A—Not quite. After the waiver is signed, the revenue service has 30 days in which to issue a bill. If it does not act within that time, interest is suspended on the additional tax due from a date 30 days after the waiver is filed until the date the bill is issued. After the bill is issued, the taxpayer has 10 days within which to make payment without the further accrual of interest. If payment is not made within the 10 day period, additional interest accrues from the date of the bill to the date of payment.

Q—I run a small truck farm. Do I have to pay the highway use tax on my trucks?

A—You will have to pay the tax on any truck required to be registered for highway use and coming within one of the taxable categories which you use to take produce to market, carry seed and fertilizer or otherwise operate on the public roads. Farm tractors and other equipment which do not normally operate on the roads are not subject to tax. For further details see IRS Publication No. 349, "Federal Use Tax on Trucks, Truck Tractors and Buses," which can be obtained from your local IRS office.

Q—I couldn't find a copy of the Form 1040-ES, "Declaration of Estimated Income Tax," at the local post office where I usually get tax forms. How can I get a copy?

A—Copies of this form along with the 1965 tax rates and tables are available at any local Internal Revenue Service office. Ask for Publication No. 465.

Q—A civic association is being formed in the new development I recently moved into. We've been talking about fund-raising events to give us the money we need to do some landscaping and put in more recreational facilities. How can we avoid paying taxes on this money?

A—The rules and procedures an organization should follow to obtain tax exempt status are described in IRS Document No. 5551, "How to Apply for Exemption for Your Organization."

The publication is written in nontechnical terms and is available at no charge from our local offices.

Q—I am organizing a corporate business and will use a fiscal year rather than a calendar year. What are my due dates for excise and withholding tax returns and the like?

A—A taxpayer using a fiscal year must observe the same due dates as the calendar year taxpayer for all returns except income tax returns and estimated income tax returns. Excise returns and estimated income tax returns. Excise returns, Social Security and withholding tax deposits and returns all must be made by the deadlines established for calendar year taxpayers.

The "Tax Calendar and Check List for 1965", Document No. 5046, lists the due dates for returns filed by fiscal and calendar year taxpayers. This publication is free from the district director's office.

Q—I'm cutting some of the timber off my land. If I sell it, how do I figure the profit?

A—Your profits may be either capital gains or ordinary income depending on how you decide to handle the sale. This is discussed in "Sales and Exchanges of Assets" Document No. 5048. "Depreciation, Investment Credit, Amortization, Depletion," Document No. 5050, explains how to figure depletion on the timber. These booklets are free at the District Director's office.

The Department of Agriculture also has a booklet on this subject. It is called "Federal Income Tax Tips for the Small Timber Owner" and is available on request from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Forest Service, Washington, D.C., 20250.

JOHN Solheim, stationed in Colorado Springs, Colo., recently won the Soldier of the Month award for his company and was first runner-up for the same award on the battalion level. The award was made on the basis of personal appearance and general excellence in performance of duty. Solheim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Solheim of Thief River Falls.

"A Friendly church with a Faithful Message".

It is often said that "there is no place like home". Almost everyone has a place they call home a place where they can rest and relax and renew their physical strength. Yet, there are many people that have no church home where they can strengthen their soul and lives before God. If you have no church home, we invite you to attend and worship with us.

Landmarks of a Great People

This is one of the snapshots from my vacation trip. Friends ask why I made this the frontispiece in my album rather than that shot of the bald crest of Mt. Marcy — or the telescopic close-up of the Old Man of the Mountains.

Sure, I know this scene is commonplace. I saw a hundred villages with their white steeples peering above the trees and their comfortable old houses nestled around the church. And each one had a pond with pines and birches guarding its shore.

But this picture says more than all the others. It speaks not just of beauty and natural wonder . . . it tells of a good land populated by a great people. It reminds me of God . . . and of my neighbor. It whispers that all I cherish can endure for generations.

The landmarks of a great people proudly point to Faith. The Church belongs at the center of our life. But only you and I can keep it there!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Strandquist . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Johnson and Charmaine returned Monday from their trip to Melfort, Sask., Cana., where they spent the Labor Day weekend at the Peter Wikstrom home. There they visited with Leroy Wikstrom of Beatty; Mr. and Mrs. Valdmar Melfort, Mrs. John Wikstrom and family, the John Dover family, the Hjelmer Holmgrens, Albert Hjelberg and the Louis Haugens, all of Kinistino and missed seeing the Lloyd Hills on account of bad roads. They reported that harvesting throughout Canada was almost as far advanced as it is around here and the crops were good but not as bountiful as here in Northern Minnesota this year. For more than 50 miles north of Tolstoi more than half the harvesting is done the old fashioned way. There were fields and fields of grain shocks. About 40 miles north of Melfort, they had snowfall on Wednesday night.

Cattle Feeders' Institute Set at Crookston Station

Cattlemen are invited to "take a good look" at the beef cattle industry during the Red River Valley Cattle Feeders' institute scheduled for Thursday, September 23, at Crookston. The institute will begin at 3 p.m. in the Red River Valley Winter Shows arena at Crookston. Paul Stelmaschuk, Pennington county agent, will moderate one of the panels.

A semi-truckload of live feeder cattle will be on display, and four information booths will be manned by experts—beginning promptly at 3 p.m.—where individual questions can be asked by cattle feeders. A number of staff members from the University of Minnesota, St. Paul, will be available at the information booths.

Robert Jacobs, extension animal husbandman, and Paul Hasbargen, extension marketing specialist, will handle feeding, management and outlook; Charles J. Christians, extension animal husbandman, will discuss carcass; Ray B. Solac, agricultural extension veterinarian, will be on hand for questions on feeder cattle diseases; and Donald W. Bates, extension agricultural engineer, will answer questions on buildings and equipment.

The afternoon speaking program will begin at 5 o'clock. Harvey F. Windels, animal husbandman at the Northwest Experiment station, Crookston, will report on "Sugarbeet Toplage for Fattening Cattle." Charles J. Christians, extension animal husbandman, will highlight new developments in beef herd improvement through breeding management. Harold Rosendahl, county agricultural agent of Norman county, will preside.

A barbecue dinner will be served at 6 p.m. and the institute will continue with a program and demonstration beginning at 7 p.m. The program will be finished at approximately 9:30 p.m. so those who are in attendance may reach home before midnight. Paul Hasbergen, extension marketing specialist, will discuss "Outlook for the Cattle Feeder." William Provance, agricultural agent of Roseau county, will present "Trends in Feeder Cattle Production in the Red River Valley Area." The program will also include a demonstration with live feeder cattle with a commentary on grade, cost of availability and outlook for profit. Moderator will be Paul Stelmaschuk, agricultural agent, Pennington county.

Cattle feeders and all other persons interested are invited to attend the institute according to B. E. Youngquist, superintendent of the Northwest Experiment station, this is one meeting where a cattleman can come once a year and bring himself up-to-date and refresh his memory on all aspects of the cattle business—whether it is raising a beef herd or handling cattle in the feed lot.

UND Homecoming Set October 8-9

University of North Dakota Homecoming celebration for 1965 is scheduled for October 8 and 9 in conjunction with reunions of the classes of 1940, 1954 and 1955, according to J. Lloyd Stone, UND Alumni association executive vice president. Alumni registration will begin at 2 p.m. October 8 in Twamley Hall and will run to 4 p.m. Also included in that time period will be the dedication of Leonard Hall geology building and tours of the campus.

A carillon concert will be given at 4 p.m. October 8. From 5 to 8 p.m. will be social hours and dinners for each of the reunited classes. From 6 to 9 p.m. the Alumni board of directors will hold a dinner meeting.

On October 9 the annual Homecoming parade will begin the day's activities at 10 a.m. From 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. will be the University Center smorgasbord. At 1:30 p.m. the UND Sioux will host the South Dakota State University Jackrabbits in the annual Homecoming football game. Also that afternoon, housing units will hold open house. Culminating alumni activities will be the annual all-alumni party at the city armory beginning at 7 p.m. including a buffet dinner and the alumni Homecoming dance. Reservations for alumni activities may be made with the UND Alumni office.

National Guard Will Hold Alert During September

Minnesota guardsmen of the 47th Infantry Division will test their ability to respond rapidly to an emergency call in support of city, state or nation. The practice alert involving 9,000 "Vikings" in 67 Minnesota communities will come some time between September 13 and 28 with the date and time selected by Major General Chester J. Moeglein, Adjutant General. The call will be made without prior announcement of the actual time or date.

Rapid assembly to an emergency in response to a call is traditional with the guard and has been a part of its operation for over 300 years.

The alert, primarily a test of the alert and rapid assembly plans of all organizations and units, also measures the readiness of the Guard for performance of emergency missions. The alert order will be issued by the Adjutant General to Major commanders, who will, in turn issue orders to subordinate organizations, and will be supplemented by spot announcements of a practice alert over the majority of radio and television stations in Minnesota.

Each company and battery-sized throughout Minnesota will take the following actions upon receipt of the order:

1. Assemble all members of the unit at their local armory as rapidly as possible.
2. Issue weapons to individuals.
3. Issue equipment and clothing necessary for the mission.
4. Notify next higher headquarters of the assembled strength and time unit will be ready to move out.
5. Commence special training as previously prescribed by the Commanding General, 47th Infantry Division.

Past alerts indicate that 64 per cent of all personnel report and are ready for mission within the first hour after the alert and 87 per cent within two hours.

Roseau Village Now Is Debt Free

Roseau village council, at a meeting Tuesday night, made the village debt free by voting to pay off the remaining $8,000 in electric revenue certificates. The village is in the black with aproximately $95,000 in treasury notes, $12,000 in certificates of deposit and $100,000 in checking funds at its disposal.

TOPPING the barrow show at the Pennington County 4-H Market Livestock show Wednesday evening was this animal shown by Julie Oen of the Rocksbury 4-H club. The hog will be entered in the state 4-H market livestock show in St. Paul and Julie will receive a county premium of $15 for winning the local event.

$259,562 Paid for Diversion Program

Farmers in Pennington county thus far have received program payments totaling $259,562 for participation in the 1965 feed grain and wheat stabilization programs, according to Winton Knutson, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and The payments included diversion and price-support payments totaling $146,332 under the feed grain program, and diversion payments of $30,133 and marketing certificates of $83,208 under the wheat stabilization program.

In the signup held last spring, a total of 442 county farms were enrolled in the 1965 feed grain program for an agreed diversion into approved conserving uses of 8,561 acres of corn and barley; 562 farms were signed up in the 1965 wheat program for an agreed diversion of 11,390 acres.

Benefits of the diversion programs, the chairman pointed out, are not limited to the payments farmers earn, which do result in a substantial improvement in farm income with accompanying benefits to the local economy. By participating in the programs, farmers also improve their own and the national welfare by bringing about a better balance between supplies and demand—thereby helping to protect farm prices. They help reduce government costs for storage of excess stocks and they improve their farms' natural resources through the conservation measures which are carried out on the cropland diverted from unneeded production.

Nationally, 1.5 million farms were signed up in the 1965 feed grain program for an agreed diversion of 34.6 million acres; 891,000 farms were signed up in the wheat program for a diversion of 7.5 million acres. As a result of the programs, carryover stocks of both feed grains and wheat have been reduced each year. The October 1, 1965, feed grain carryover is estimated at 55.2 million tons—35 per cent below the 84.7 million tons carried over on Oct. 1, 1961. The wheat carryover as of July 1, 1965, is estimated at 819 million bushels—42 per cent below the July 1, 1961, carryover of 1,411 million bushels.

Lowell Swenson Buys Interest in Arctic Enterprises

Lowell Swenson, associated with Dow Key company as general manager for six years, has purchased an interest in Arctic Enterprises, Inc. Swenson purchased controlling interest in the corporation from Edgar Hetteen and was recently elected chairman of the board and president of the company.

Hetteen, who moved to this area from Roseau several years ago and founded the Arctic Enterprises to be associated with the firm on a limited basis, primarily in development work. No other changes were made in administrative personnel.

Swenson is a member of the city council, member of the board of directors of the Thief River Golf club and has been active in church work, serving in the past as president of his congregation.

The company recently completed an expansion program which included the construction of a new steel building for the manufacture of its line of Arctic Cat snow and rough terrain vehicles. It is presently moving into its peak production period with about 60 employees and needs additional welders and assemblymen to meet demands for its 1966 line of vehicles.

In the relatively short history of the business, markets have been established for the vehicles throughout Canada and Alaska, states from coast to coast which have snow during the course of a normal winter, and in a number of foreign countries. Foreign sales are handled through a New York export firm with the United States and Canadian market supplied through dealers and distributors.

Remodeled Legion Club To Open Sat.

Grand opening of the extensively remodeled American Legion club rooms in Thief River Falls will be held Saturday and Sunday. Festivities will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday with a public open house to be held Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m.

Free snacks will be served all day Saturday with live music to be provided from 1 to 5:30 p.m. A smorgasbord will be served from 5:30 to 7 p.m. and presentation ceremonies will take place at 7:30 p.m. At 9 p.m. there will be dancing to the music of Jim and His J-Notes.

Free coffee and cookies will be served during the open house on Sunday and the bar will be closed. The club has been finished in Colonial decor and a special ventilation system has been installed to remove smoke from the rooms.

Post 117 of the American Legion in Thief River Falls was organized in 1919, with the application for charter dated August 8 of that year. Early meetings were held in the Commercial Club rooms in the city auditorium. Later the meeting place was changed to the Evelyn hotel (currently the Pennington hotel) and more recently to the basement of the Union State bank.

Present club rooms were purchased from the Hanson Motor company and several remodeling projects have been completed since post was J. J. McCann with G. Howard Smith as the first adjutant. Early members of the post included George Bakken, Bernard Burgraff, Hardy Bothun, Sam Cloutier, H. O. Chommie, James Farr, Ray Johnson, O. Guy Johnson, L. H. Lawrence, Martin Langseth, H. S. McMahon, Olaf Ness, L. C. Nielsen, Harold Provencher, Samuel Pope, Ted Scanlan, Alfred Steen, Theodore Tandberg, George Werstlein, John Brummund, Glenn A. Farr and James Smith.

First delegates to the state convention in St. Paul were Fred Scanlan and L. H. Hermanson with Hardy Bothun and Henry Froseth as alternates. Speaker at the state convention was Lt. Col. Theodore Roosevelt.

ARC Will Meet Tuesday Night

Pennington-Red Lake Association for Retarded Children will meet in the women's club room of the city auditorium in Thief River Falls Tuesday at 8 p.m. Gordon Dodge of the vocational rehabilitation division in Crookston will speak on training for the handicapped.

A question and answer period will follow the address. All interested persons are urged to attend. Coffee will be served by Mrs. Elgin Loeffler. All ARC meetings are open to the public.

Highway 59 Tour October 23 Is Chamber Project

Plans are taking shape for a "Highway 59 Tour" to Winnipeg to be held on Saturday, October 23, according to Richard Hamilton, executive secretary of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce. The tour will begin in Thief River Falls with a noon luncheon and conclude with attendance at a Winnipeg Blue Bomber football game that evening.

Following the noon luncheon here, a car caravan will travel to Lancaster for dedication ceremonies of the recently-completed section of Highway 59. Main speaker at the dedication ceremonies will be John R. Jamieson, Minnesota commissioner of highways.

From Lancaster the caravan will travel into Manitoba, adding participants at Tolstoi and St. Pierre, and is scheduled to be escorted into Winnipeg at 5 p.m. (CDST) A social hour and dinner with various dignitaries as speakers will be held at the International Inn, followed by the professional football game.

Making arrangements with the Winnipeg Chamber of Commerce last week were William LaFave, Russell Embury, Randall Noper, Dr. A. E. Jacobson and Richard Hamilton. Further details on the tour will be announced in later editions of the Times.

4 Auto Mishaps Result in $575 Damage in City

Four automobile accidents with damage totaling $575 were reported today by the Thief River Falls police department.

Two of the mishaps occurred on Wednesday. At 3:25 p.m. a car owned by Mrs. Birdeen Anderson and driven by Carmen Anderson of St. Hilaire was going north on Horace and stopped 150 feet north of the intersection of Second street to wait for traffic to clear. The vehicle was struck by Joseph Loeffler, rt. 3, Thief River Falls who was backing out of a parking stall on the east side of Horace. The Anderson car was damaged to the extent of about $60.

At 10:15 p.m. a car driven by Lyle Haagenson, rt. 2, Thief River Falls, was stopped on Horace facing south at the intersection with Third street. The vehicle proceeded onto Third and collided with one driven by Paul Hanson, Red Lake Falls, who had been traveling north and entered the intersection to make a left turn. Damage was estimated at $130 to the Haagenson car and $40 to the Hanson vehicle. The mishap is under investigation.

On Thursday at 7:25 p.m. a car driven y Agnes Kuindlog, city, was traveling south on LaBree and struck the parked car on the west side of the street in front of 715 N. LaBree, which was owned by Arthur Forsberg Jr. Damage was estimated at $150 to the Quindlog car and $125 to the Forsberg vehicle. Charges are pending.

At 12:40 p.m. Friday a car driven by Larry Nelson, city, was going north on Merriam avenue, stopped for the stop sign at the intersection with Third street and proceeded onto Third where he struck a vehicle driven by Raymond Anfinson, Warren, which was going west on Third. Damage was estimated at $30 to the Nelson car and $40 to the Anfinson vehicle.

Customs Station Changes Hours

Effective September 28 the customs station at Lancaster will be open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. Central Standard Time, according to word received here. The station has been observing Daylight Saving Time for the convenience of Canadian travelers. The station is open seven days a week, including Sundays and holidays.

Land O'Lakes, Producers Tangle Over Milk Price

Injunction Given By Judge Against Milk Producers

Preliminary injunctions against three Pennington county milk producers, requiring them to continue delivery of milk under marketing agreements with Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., were issued in Pennington county district court Wednesday by Judge H. O. Chommie. The order followed a hearing held at the district court room in Thief River Falls September 10.

Judge Chommie ordered, "That a preliminary injunction do hereby issue against said defendants enjoining each of them from delivering his milk to anyone other than Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., as provided for in his marketing agreement with said association until further order of the court."

Defendants in the case were Darrow and Merle Lundeen of Trail and Olaf and Orlen Stolnas, a partnership, of Oklee. As stated in Judge Chommie's memorandum, the situation regarding the case was as follows:

"The action is to restrain defendants, milk producers, from breaking marketing contracts by which they agree to deliver their milk production to the plaintiff cooperative. A restraining order was issued by the Honorable Harley G. Swenson on August 9, 1965, with an order to show cause why a temporary injunction should not be issued.

"On the return day defendants caused the venue of the action, originally laid in Polk county, to be changed to Pennington county, the place of their residence."

The memorandum prepared by Judge Chommie cites the testimony of the plaintiff, Land O'Lakes Creameries, and the defendants, together with references to Minnesota law. Judge Chommie noted that the injunction was of a temporary nature.

"With respect to the contentions that plaintiff has been guilty of reaches of contract of its own, practices," he said, "the conclusion is inescapable that these matters that go to justifying a repudiation of the contract by the defendants represent issues that must be left to a full-fledged trial."

In a final statement on the memorandum, Judge Chommie summarized the situation and some of question.

"There is oviously more here than meets the eye," he said. "The four defendants' production represents only a minimal part of the

County Receives $39,854 for Roads

Pennington county was notified last week by John R. Jamieson, Minnesota highway commissioner, that it is being allotted $39,854 in federal aid secondary funds for fiscal 1967. These funds will be matched with county road funds, accumulated through gasoline tax, for improvements on the county's federal aid secondary system. Polk county was allotted $127,211, Red Lake $30,635, Marshall $92,812, Roseau $67,210 and Clearwater $45,148.

The state's 87 counties will share $5,220,619 of federal aid secondary funds for fiscal 1967. This amounts to 65 per cent of the $8,031,722 in FAS construction funds available. The other $2,811,103 will be used for improvements on secondary highways in the trunk highway system.

Total FAS allotment to Minnesota for fiscal 1967 is $8,151,032 of which 1½ per cent is retained by the highway department for highway planning research.

This year's 65 per cent allotment of the total FAS funds is an in the requirement set by the federal governmnt that a minimum of 50 per cent be allotted to be counties.

FAS allotments in Pennington county have shown a down-and-up cycle in recet fiscal years. In 1960, the allotment was $43,440, $45,012 in 1961, $36,896 in 1962, $27,762 in 1963, $37,467 in 1964, $38,081 in 1965 and $30,048 in 1966.

Minnesota's share of the recently announced $4 billion in federal aid for highway construction for fiscal year 1967 will amount to $92,572,268, according to Jamieson. This is much more than any of the adjoining four states will receive, due largely to the greater expenditure Minnesota must make on its 900-plus-mile interstate highway system.

Greenbush School Enrollment Down From '64 Total

Figures released by the Greenbush school office after enrollment was completed indicated a slight decrease from last year's figures. Total figures last week showed an enrollment of 527 compared with a total of 536 last year. Late enrollments are expected to raise the total to last year's level.

Broken down into grades, the enrollment for academic year 1965-66 is as follows: 48 in grade one, 41 in grade two, 45 in grade three, 42 in grade four, 31 in grade five, 53 in grade six, 45 in grade seven, 42 in grade eight, 44 in grade nine, 48 in grade 10, 42 in grade 11 and 45 in grade 12.

Teachers To Be Welcomed At Reception on Monday

Dr. Rodney A. Briggs, dean of the University of Minnesota, Morris, will be the guest speaker at a Thief River Falls school program and reception Monday, September 27, at Lincoln high school. The event, representing a departure from the practice the past several years, is sponsored by the education committee of the local Chamber of Commerce.

In previous years the education committee has sponsored an afternoon reception during the preschool teachers' workshop session. The evening event following the start of school is expected to provide greater opportunity for more Chamber of Commerce members to attend, and to bring their husbands and wives.

Dr. Briggs will speak at a program to begin at 8 p.m. in the Lincoln senior high school auditorium. The program will follow a concert by the school orchestra under the direction of James Solsten. Dr. A. E. Jacobson will serve as master of ermonies for the event and the welcome will be given by J. J. Womack, president of the Chamber of Commerce. "The Educators" from East Grand Forks will entertain and talks will be given by M. R. Hankerson, superintendent of schools, and Charles White, dean of the new junior college.

"Crossroads 1965" will be the topic of Dr. Briggs' talk on educational prolems facing the state and nation at this time. He holds a Ph. D. in field crops and physiology from Rutgers university and, among other positions, has been associate professor and superintendent of the West Central school and experiment station at Morris.

Following the program, a buffet luncheon will be served in the school cafeteria with Mrs. R. J. Dryden serving as organizing hostess. Guests of the Chamber of Commerce at the event will be all public school faculty members and administrators, their spouses, faculty and administration of St. Bernard's parochial school, Seventh-day Adventist school, area vocational-technical school and junior college.

Dr. H. R. Achenbach is chairman of the sub-committee organizing the event with Sid Lieberman, Dr. A. E. Jacobson and Supt. M. R. Hankerson as committee members.

Dr. Rodney Briggs

Forms for requesting tickets have been mailed to all Chamber of Comerce members. These are to be returned immediately to prevent a personal call, according to Richard Hamilton, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. The $1 tickets will admit both husband wife to the program and luncheon.

Co-Op Proposes Marketing Order In Milk Problem

In an attempt to help settle what it termed the "chaotic milk price situation in the Red River Valley area", Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., announced Friday that it had sumitted a request to the Secretary of Agriculture for the estalishment of a federal milk marketing order. The order would regulate the handling of milk in eastern North Dakota and northwestern Minnesota marketing areas.

The area would include 18 Minnesota counties and 25 North Dakota counties with a total population of 660,000 people. Prinicpal cities in Minnesota would be Moorhead, Fergus Falls, Detroit Lakes, Crookston, Thief River Falls and East Grand Forks. Principal North Dakota cities would include Fargo, Grand Forks and Jamestown.

The Minnesota area is bounded by the Canadian boundary on the north, North and South Dakota borders on the west, southern borders of Traverse, Stevens, Pope and Todd counties and eastern borders of Pope, Todd, Wadena Becker, Mahnomen, Red Lake, Pennington, Marshall and Kittson counties. Roseau county is excluded from the area and Polk county is divided by a north-south line hrough Erskine from the southern Red Lake county border to the northern Mahnomen county border. The Polk county area east of this line is also excluded.

Under the Land O'Lakes proposal announced at an area news conference in Moorhead Friday, milk marketed in the area would be classified and priced according to its use. Class I would be all milk sold for fluid use (bottling) and Class II would apply to milk used in manufactured dairy products like ice cream, butter, cheese and powdered milk.

Class I prices would be 20 cents per hundredweight higher than those in the Minneapolis-St.

Sportsmen's Club Gives Boy Scouts Use of Property

Since the Pennington County Sportsmen's club purchased its 27-acre recreation area in July, local troops of the Boy Scouts of America have been granted access to the area. This access was made official at the first fall meeting of the club held Wednesday night when a resolution was passed, to be added to the club's by-laws, granting permission to the officers, directors, leaders and membership of the Boy Scouts of America to conduct their activities on the premises.

The resolution incorporated the Boy Scouts as junior members of the sportsmen's club and granted them permission to display their emblem at permanent locations within the area. No charge will be made against the Scouts for use of the area, but they will be held responsible for possible damage to the premi

Temporary rules and regulations for use of the property by civic and fraternal organizations were discussed and voted upon by the members present. Keys to the area's front gate were issued to officers and directors of the club and will be loaned out to organizations which request permission to use the area for outdoor activities.

In other business, the club voted to rescind a motion passed at the May meeting which was to send two delegates to the Minnesota Conservation federation meeting in Detroit Lakes last weekend. Due to the shortage of money in the club's treasury, a motion was passed by a majority vote against subsidizing club representatives at the meeting.

Membership drive for the coming year is now under way. Membership blanks for 1966 are available from club members.

Kathryn Johnson Weds A. Carriere At Brooks

Arrangements of ferns formed the setting at St. Joseph's Catholic church at Brooks for the marriage of Miss Kathryn Johnson and Arnold Carriere on Saturday, August 14, at 2:30 p.m. As the guests were seated Miss Judy Johnson, organist, provided a program of nuptial music. Soloist, Judy Iverson of Minneapolis and formerly of Thief River Falls, sang "The Wedding Prayer" and "O Perfect Love".

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Johnson, 721 East First Street, Thief River Falls, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Carriere of Brooks.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white floor-length sheath gown of heavy bridal satin. The gown, styled with a chapel length train attached at the empire waistline, featured chantilly lace appliqued on the bodice and repeated on the slim skirt. A double crown secured the tied elbow-length veil and she carried an arm bouquet of a dozen long-stemmed red roses. As her only jewelry, the bride wore small pearl errings, her gift from the groom.

Miss Linda Johnson attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Gloria Gunderson of Oklee, cousin of the bride and Judy Marrier of Hugo, niece of the groom. They wore identical floor-length gowns of mint green satin fashioned with trains attached at the empire waistline by large matching bows. Three net roses secured the veiled headpieces and their pearl earings were gifts from the bride. They also wore elbow length white gloves and carried bouquets of long steimmed roses. Linda Johnson designed and fashioned the gowns worn by the attendants of the bride.

Leroy Carriere of Brooks attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Clarence Gagner of Brooks and Bruce Bourque of Gonvick. Seating the guests were Alfred Carriere of Milwaukee, Wis., brother of the groom and Roy Gilbert of Thief River Falls, brother-in-law of the bride. The men of the wedding party wore black tuxedos with white carnation boutonnieres. The groom wore a red rose boutonniere.

For the wedding, the mother of the bride wore a navy blue dress while the mother of the groom wore a navy blue two-piece print dress. Both mothers wore white accessories and corsages of red roses and white carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was given in the church parlors with Mrs. Leroy Carriere of Brooks as hostess. Centering the serving table was a four-tiered wedding cake, baked and decorated by the aunt of the bride, Mrs. G. S. Gunderson of Oklee. Cutting and serving the cake were Mrs. G. S. Gunderson and Mrs. Louis Mercil of Brooks, aunt of the groom. Mrs. Harold Bruggeman of Wisconsin, sister of the groom and Mrs. Leonard Johnson of Oklee, aunt of the bride, poured. Attending the punch bowl were Mrs. Narcuse Marrier of White Bear Lake, sister of the groom and Mrs. Ole Austad of Oklee. The guests were registered by Mrs. Roy Gilbert of Thief River Falls, sister of the bride, while the gifts were arranged by Betty and Marlene Johnson of Oklee, cousins of the bride, and Mrs. Roger Forsberg of Thief River Falls.

Immediately following the reception, a ham supper was served in the church parlors to members of the imediate families by the parents of the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Carriere will make their home at Oklee where the groom is a member of the Oklee high school faculty.

Steven Paul Nelson Baptized September 5

Steven Paul Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry G. Nelson of Thief River Falls, was baptized Sunday, September 5, at the Community Methodist church with the Rev. Merrill Harris officiating. Sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. William Pederson of this city.

Following the baptismal services, an afternoon dinner was served at the L. G. Nelson home for Mr. and Mrs. William Pederson, Lori, Lynn and Tommy; the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Larson of Argyle; the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Nelson of Thief River Falls and the brother and sister of Steven, Kurt and Sandra Nelson.

Anderson and Jacobson Exchange Vows Sept. 4

Miss Corlenne Marie Anderson and Wayne Elwood Jacobson exchanged marriage vows Saturday, September 4, at 8 p.m. at the Bethesda Lutheran church, Strandquist, with the Rev. Harvey Jackson officiating. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Anderson of Strandquist and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Jacobson of Thief River Falls.

Lighted candelabra and baskets of white gladioli and pink carnations formed the chancel setting for the marriage while the pews were marked with candles, roses and greens accented by white satin bows. An arrangement of roses and carnations also graced the organ played by Ellen Renstrom of Karlstad. Mrs. Phillip Boen of Strandquist sang "The Wedding Prayer" and as the couple knelt at the altar, the Rev. Jackson sang "The Lord's Prayer".

For her wedding, the bride chose a floor-length gown of lace over satin styled with sabrina neckline and long sleeves that tapered to a point over the wrist. A crown of pearls held the fingertip veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of deep pink and white roses. Her jewels were rhinestone errings and pendant necklace, her gift from the groom.

Mrs. Richard Thompson attended the bride as bridesmatron while Grace and Carol Renstrom, cousins of the bride, were bridesmaids. They wore identical floor-length gowns of shocking pink chiffon over satin fashioned with three-quarter length sleeves, rounded necklines and satin cummerbunds. Their headpieces of roses enhanced with pearls secured their circlet veils and they carried bouquets of shocking pink roses and miniature carnations. They also wore white gloves and pearl pendants, their gifts from the bride.

Attending the groom as best man was David Olstad of Park Rapids and the groomsmen were Robert Dammann of Stephen, cousin of the groom and Mark Olstad. Ushers were Harold Anderson of Lake Bronson, uncle of the bride and Arvin Sunby of Karlstad. The men of the wedding party wore dark business suits and tie tacs, their gifts from the groom. The bride presented the groom with cuff links and a matching tie tac.

As host, Phillip Boen, greeted the guests while they were registered by the sister of the groom, Mrs. Ken Lund of Minneapolis.

For the wedding, the mother of the bride wore a teal blue woolen dress and Mrs. Jacobson wore a beige suit. Both mothers wore brown accessories and identical corsages of pink roses and miniature carnations. Attending the wedding as honor guests and presented with corsages were the grandparents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Anderson of Strandquist, and the grandparents of the groom Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ryden of Donaldson and Mr. and Mrs. Nordy Jacobson of Lake Bronson.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors with Mrs. Arvin Sundby as hostess. Approximately 300 guests were in attendance.

The wedding cake, baked, and decorated by Mrs. Hillary Peterson was cut and served by Mrs. Willard Renstrom of Strandquist, aunt of the bride and Mrs. Leonard Damann of Stephen, aunt of the groom. Mrs. Winifred Jacobson of Karlstad, aunt of the groom, poured. Serving at the punch bowl were Mrs. Harold Anderson of Lake Bronson, aunt of the bride and Mrs. Phyllis Ryden of Grand Forks, N.D., cousin of the groom. Lyle Jacobson, Karlstad, cousin of the groom and Tim Renstrom, Strandquist, cousin of the bride, carried the gifts to the gift table where they were displayed by Mrs. David Olstad of Park Rapids and Cheryl Thompson of Bloomington. Assisting by distributing the grooms cake were Linda Anderson of Karlstad and Sherrie Anderson of Lake Bronson.

Waitresses attending the bridal table were Nancy Cross of New England, N. D. and Rosalie Bring of Galesburg, N. D. Other waitresses included Mari Lynn Storeby and Susan Renstrom, both of Strandquist and Edith Jacobson and Marilyn Anderson, both of Karlstad.

For their wedding trip to Bemidji and International Falls, the bride wore a green sleeveless suit with black accessories.

The bride is a graduate of the Strandquist high school and attended the University of North Dakota. The groom, a graduate of the Karlstad high school, is employed as assistant manager of the Robertson Lumber company in Mayville, N.D. Upon their return from their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Jacobson will reside in Mayville.

Rev. & Mrs. Peterson Mark 40th Anniversary

Members of Trinity Lutheran church, Thief River Falls, and a large number of friends and relatives honored the Rev. and Mrs. Harold R. Peterson at an open house Sunday, September 5, at Trinity church in observance of their 40th wedding anniversary. For the event, sponsored by the congregation, the ladies aid presented corsages and boutonnieres to the honored couple and their attendants at their wedding 40 years ago, Miss Magna Peterson of Starbuck, sister of the Rev. Peterson, and Edner Rollen, also of Starbuck and a cousin of Mrs. Peterson.

Also present for the occasion were three of the Peterson's five children. They were their sons, David of Chicago, Ill. and Daniel and his wife and son, who is with the United States Air force stationed at March Air force base at Riverside, Calif.; and their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Paul (Theresa) Jacobson of Moorhead.

Unable to attend but calling their parents in the evening to extend their congratulations and best wishes were John of New York and Mrs. Carol Hirdler of Pomona, Calif.

At the program presented prior to the reception, members of various organizations of Trinity Lutheran church, where the Rev. Peterson is assistant pastor, participated. William Penning, chairman of the board of deacons, presided and the Rev. Reuben A. Wangberg, in charge of devotions, also expressed his personal appreciation in working with the Rev. and Mrs. Peterson. Musical numbers included a hymn by the audience, selections by a quartette composed of Bryant Ulseth, David Wefald, Justus Larson and William Herzog and the Golden Age choir. For the event, the choir was directed by Mrs. Carl Nordvall in place of its regular director, the honored Mrs. Peterson. A version of "This Is Your Life" written and narrated by Mrs. Stanton R. Dahlen, included pictures shown on the screen of the lives of the honored couple. In behalf of the congregation and those attending, Arnt Aune, chairman of the congregation, presented the honored couple with the gifts.

For the reception the church parlor was festively decorated in the blue and silver motif. The tables were centered with floral arrangements of mums and blue candles while the serving table had a blue floral arrangement flanked by matching candles. Highlighting the serving table was a five-tiered anniversary cake, decorated in white with a touch of blue and silver and topped by a 40th anniversary symbol. Cutting and serving the cake were Mrs. Emil Helgeren and Mrs. Arnt Aune while Mrs. Nels Flom and Mrs. Alfred Solem poured. Mrs. Sig Quam registered the guests and Mrs. Richard Edlund and Mrs. Gunder Legvold served the punch. Mrs. Hans Chommie, president of the Trinity Lutheran Church Women, served as hostess assisted by Mrs. Ben Frolland, vice president of the T.L.C.W.

Boys and girls from the Luther League assisting with the serving were John Matts, Mike Anderson, Howard Hirdler, Barry Frolland, Joayne Wangberg, Nancy Quam, Susan Bendickson and Linda Skay. One volunteer from each church circle assisted in the kitchen.

Among the relatives attending were Mrs. Victor Larson, only sister of Mrs. Peterson and Olivia Peterson of Starbuck, sister of the Rev. Peterson. Other relatives attending were from Glenwood and Starbuck. Several members of the former congregation served by the Rev. Peterson at Sauk Centre were also in attendance.

Preceding the open house, members of Trinity ladies aid were in charge of serving the noon meal to the honored guests; their relatives and out-of-town guests. Housing for those coming from a distance was also provided by members of Trinity.

The previous evening, the Petersons hosted their relatives and out-of-town guests at a dinner at their home.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the Kitchen of

MRS. GEORGE SCHLIEFF

School days are here again! Getting ready for the opening of the school season is nothing new at the George Schlieff home as Mr. Schlieff teaches social studies at the Franklin Junior high school. In addition to teaching, he also coaches football and hockey. However, this year something new was added. Their oldest son, Scott, entered kindergarten at Knox school. Like most boys, when he comes home, he's hungry. His favorite snack is chocolate chip bar, but his mother added, "I don't mind as they are so quick and easy to make."

CHOCOLATE CHIP BARS

One-third cup soft shortening
1¼ cup brown sugar, packed
2 eggs
1 cup sifted flour
1¼ teaspoon double-action baking Powder
¼ tsp. salt
½ cup chocolate chips
½ cup nuts

Method: Combine shortening, sugar and eggs; mix well. Add the sifted flour, baking powder and salt. Add chocolate chips and nuts and mix well. Bake in a greased 9 x 9 inch pan for 30 or 35 minutes in a 350 degree oven. This recipe may be doubled and if desired, the bars may be frosted.

At the time Mrs. Schlieff was contacted for a recipe, she was busy getting settled in their home at 417 St. Paul Avenue South. They purchased their home and moved in last spring, just a few days before they left for Winona where Mr. Schlieff attended summer sch- counselor.

Mrs. Schlieff enjoys any outdoor activity and is an avid football and hockey fan. She also enjoys knitting. In addition to Scott, the Schlieffs have another son, Brent, 10 months old. Members of St. John Lutheran church, Mr. Schlieff has served as treasurer of the Ladies Aid and her husband as youth

by Virginia Gjernes

"What do you have on the Ice Age?" "Where will I find something on the Peking Man?" "Isn't there anything in this library on the National Defense Education Act of 1958 . . Ilookedinthecatalogueanditisn'tinthere!" "We want something on Egyptian Art!" "Isn't there anything on the Glacial periods. . .the four of 'em?" "We're looking for some caveman art books." "What temperature should a sick-room be to be sure the patient is comfortable. . .it isn't in our text books?" "What's the reason for the Northwest Angle existing& I want to be able to tell my friends in Iowa."

So goes the life of a librarian . . .especially when school is in session. A librarian must be ready, able. . . and eager. . . to look for anything in the library collection from a receipe for wine to "Wheres the book just like this yellow one with the dog on it only it's red and has a Christmas tree on it . . .same size!"

Which brings to mind the following volumes. . .if you haven't read them come in, browse a bit and borrow! These are books about everything. . . including:

"The Kandy-Kolored Tangerine-Flake Streamline Baby" by Tom Wolfe. This best-seller is a grouping of Wolf's observations about life in general, and several phases of it in particular. You'll like what he has to say, maybe, about "The New Culture-Makers", "Heroes and Celebrities" "Old Faces, New Fashions", "The Zoo in Central Park," "Status Strife and the High Life" or maybe you'll prefer his views on "Love and Hate, New York Style" or "Woman Who Has Everything" or "Why Doormen Hate Volkswagens."

If you're planning a party, the shower kind of party, there's the "Abingdon Shower Parade" written by Bernice Hogan. The book is a life-saver for the party-giver because it does everything but address the invitations!

Alan Beck's "Those We Love" is one of those endearing volumes. You'll want to read "What Is A Boy?" and "What Is A Girl?" over and over again, just as you will other portions of the book. "Is There Really a Santa Claus?", one section, should be read by every man, woman and child, before Christmas. It should most especially be read by every "doubting Thomas" in the land.

6vhe practical borrowers will probably take home Jerome B. Wiesner's "Where Science and Politics Meet". M.I.T.'s Dean of the School of Science, and once John Kennedy's special assistant for science and technology, Dr. Wiesner has divided his book into three parts: (1) Where Science and Politics Meet, (2) Education for Modern Life and (3) Learning about Disarmament.

New to our shelves, though published first in 1954, is Harrison Brown's "The Challenge of Man's Future". The author, a geochemist, attempts to give answers to the perplexing questions posed by population growth, the world-wide rise in living standards and the threatening limitations of food, mineral and energy resources.

If you're musically inclined you'll enjoy the new "Folk Songs Hawaii Sings" by John M. Kelly, Jr. The collection of Polynesian and Asian music is combined with a short descriptive note of each of the selections. A glossary is also included so translation is relatively simple and there is a pronunciation guide.

"The Retirement Trap" by Leland and Lee Cooley is a candid tale of retirement living. Much of the book is told by victims of the 'retirement trap' and the authors traveled some 15,000 miles, interviewed hundreds of people and spent over a year doing research before collaborating on the book.

Be sure to pick up John Lennon's "A Spaniard in the Works". The author is one of the Beatle group, you know. The book is a motley collection of wit and wisdom!

Come into your library. Check the shelves, for there's a whole world full of adventure right at your finger tips. Come in anytime. . from half-past the-glacial-age to quarter-past the cookbooks! (Whoops, sorry, but school's in session again. . . the hours are actually 11:30 a.m. until 9 at night!)

If you haven't read Albert Schweitzer's "The Teaching of Reverence for Life" and other volumes, both by and about him, now is the time to do so. The man is gone but his teachings will live on. Your library has several books available including the one mentioned above. This particular volume is composed of essays, not translated previously, which express Dr. Schweitzer's deep concern for man's "humanity."

The American journal of T. H. White, "America At Last" is a record of the author's impressions of our country. The book is both amusing and amazing. You'll enjoy seeing your country through the eyes of an Englishman! Especially one so wise and witty as T. H. White.

Ivor Kraft's "When Teenagers Take Care of Children" is at the head of the "must read" for those engaged in the profession. The book, sponsored by the Children's Bureau and the Division of Accident Prevention of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare is an excellent authoritative guide for baby sitters. There are chapters on play, feeding, first aid, etc. Be sure you ask your baby sitter to read it.

Does Egypt interest you. If it does then take home Pierre Montet's "Eternal Egypt". This is a history of the civilization that ruled the Mediterranean world for centuries. The author describes the building of the Pyramids, the sculpting of the Sphinxes as well as prehistoric times. He describes the coronation of a Pharaoh, the royal palaces, the development of Egypt and the workers. It is a fascinating book for those who like to delve into the deep, dark past!

Another interesting book on the non-fiction shelf is "The Volga—Lifeline of Russia" by Elvajean Hall. This small, fascinating history-geography of Russa also includes songs, legends and anecdotes which add spice. This is not authoress express her political opinions.

Should you want to laugh a little, read Peter S. Beagle's sophisticated travelogue "I See By My Outfit". This cross-country tour-by-scooter begins in the Bronx and ends at Menlo Park, California. The experiences of the two travelers (the writer and his friend) sometimes hilariously funny . . . . and sometimes quite sad .. will keep you at your reading long after it should have been "lights out".

Animal lovers will appreciate "The Treasury of Dogs" by Arthur Frederick Jones and John Rendel, with photographs by Walter Chandoha. This is one of the best dog books ever published. The history of the canine world is contained in it and there are chapters on raising pups, obedience-training and guarding the dog's health. If you've ever owned a dog, or are thinking of acquiring one . . .you'll want to read this.

The fiction shelves are crowded, too, with the latest, the best and the most talked about of the new novels. One in particular, just this week it hit the best-seller lists, is "The Seat of Power" by James D. Horan. If you're the least bit politically minded you'll enjoy this. It is about a newspaper's investigation of city corruption. (Why it is and how it comes to be and the people who make it so!) The author has the ability to make it seem more fact than fiction. . . and there'll be many passages in it which will make you sit upright in your easy chair!

"The Looking Glass War" by Le Carre and "The Man With The Golden Gun" by Fleming, are two must-reads for the mystery story devotee. These have been mentioned in the column before. . . but are such excellent suspense tales, they both bear mentioning again!

The teaching staffs of all the schools are most welcome to come in and check the shelves from both a professional and a personal viewpoint. The board of Trustees and the staff extend a warm welcoming hand to new teachers and Junior college students.

Federal Service Entrance Exam May Now Be Taken

U. S. Civil Service commission today announced the opening of the 1966 Federal Service Entrance examination. This yearly exam is ured to recruit thousands of college caliber applicants for beginning careers in administrative, professional and investigative work. Starting salaries are from $5,000 to $6,050 a year.

According to A. H. Sonntag, director of the St. Louis region, there are good opportunities this year for persons who pass the exam. Placements will be made in federal agencies in Iowa, Kansas, Minne- Dakota and South Dakota. Hiring agencies include the Social Security administration, Internal Revenue service, Food and Drug administration and various defense agencies. Jobs are also available in Washington, D. C., and other states.

Sonntag further pointed out that over 200 kinds of jobs are filled through this one exam. He said it is, in effect, one application to many employers at the same time.

Home Economists Plan Objectives Of Organization

Graduate home economists, under the name of Northwestern Minnesota H.E.I.A., met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Beth Scholin in Thief River Falls. The program was deferred temporarily while the group discussed plans and objectives of the organization.

The local association is affiliated with the American Home Economics association and invites all graduate home economists in the area to attend the next meeting on November 9 at the home of Mrs. Marion Adams.

Attending the Tuesday meeting were Joan Norquist, Oklee; Catherine Spengeler, Jean Hellquist, Marion Adams, Beth Scholin, Jan Breiland, Melvine Dagg, Leah Peterson, Carol Borchert and Peggy Stahl of Thief River Falls.

Responsibility for Children Safety Rests on Driver

Every adult who transports his or the neighbor's children to school must keep uppermost in his mind that he has full responsibility for the safety of those children while they are in his car, according to Capt. Alan Noreen of the Thief River Falls Police Department.

That responsibility demands that the driver exercise the utmost care when chauffeuring children to and from school, he said.

First of all, it requires alertness every second of driving, and alertness requires that all children behave themselves in the car. The driver must make it clear to the children that there is to be no loudness or play in the car and no arms and heads poked out of windows.

The driver should be especially careful to make all starts and stops smooth ones.

If a station wagon is used, the rear window should be closed at all times. This will not only keep youngsters from tumbling out but will also protect them from any carbon monoxide that might seep into the car through the open window, he said.

When unloading children, the driver must make certain the children exit the car on the curb side only—never the street side. Children should also be instructed never to dart around the car into the street. Ideally, there should be available in the car seat belts for every passenger, particularly since children are the most vulnerable in case of collision.

Finally, the adult should show by example that he is careful in traffic and thereby teach the children the need for safe actions, Capt. Noreen said.

Wool Payment in Marshall County Totals $16,826

Incentive payments to 628 Marshall county growers under the 1964 national wool program now virtually completed, according to Marcel Dahl, chairman of the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

Such payments in the county, as of September 13, amounted to $16,826.99. Throughout the nation, 1964 payments under the National Wool Act through June 30, 1965, amounted to $20,124,395.

The national wool payment program, providing incentive payments on wool and lambs, was first authorized in 1954 as a means of encouraging the domestic production of wool. The payments represent the percentage necessary to bring the producer's sales returns up to an announced support leve. Lamb payments are made under the program to encourage the normal marketing of unshorn lambs and to prevent unusual shearing of lambs.

The chairman also reminded growers of the continuing need to keep complete records on their sales of wool and lambs and to report their purchases of unshorn lambs when filing applications for program payments. Where lambs have been owned by more than one producer, the program payment is prorated among the various owners. Deductions are made from the payment to any one producer equal to the amount of payment due a prior owner on the liveweight of his sale of unshorn lambs; the payment to each owner is based on the weight gain of the lambs during his ownership.

Lamb payments are made only on lambs which a producer has owned for 30 days or more and which had never been shorn at the time of sale. Likewise, wool payments are made only to a producer who has owned for at least from which the wool was shorn.

School Board To Attend Meeting Slated in Fertile

Minnesota School Boards association will again sponsor 24 area meetings this fall for school board members, superintendents of schools, legislators and other persons interested in the public schools of Minnesota. The Area 26 meeting scheduled Wednesday in Fertile will be attended by Thief River Falls School Superintendent Marshall Hankerson and members of the local school board, including Rufus Olson, Morris Owen, Robert Bredeson, Lloyd Howick, John Burtness, Dr. George Martin and D. H. Stewart.

Area meetings are designed as workshops to bring the membership of the association current on problems affecting public education in Minnesota. About 2,500 school board members and superintendents are expected to attend the 24 meetings.

W. A. Wettergren, executive secretary, and Willard Baker, administrative assistant of the association, will lead the discussions during the meetings. Each meeting will be presided over by a member of the board of directors of the association. Discussions will center around actions of the 1965 legislative session, and how its decisions will affect local school districts. Federal legislation will also be discussed.

AIRMAN

Airman Harold V. Austad, son of Mr. and Mrs. Iver Austad of Thief River Falls, has been selected for technical training at Chanute AFB, Ill., as a U. S. Air Force aircraft maintenance specialist. A graduate of Lincoln high school, he recently completed basic military training at Lackland, AFB, Tex.

Minnesota ADA Cited for Exhibit At State Fair

American Dairy Association, of Minnesota was cited September 15 as "Extraordinary Exhibitor" of the 1965 Minnesota State Fair. Presented to the state ADA's executive committee by fair president Fred S. Lammers of Stillwater, the award was based on the dairy industry's new "Beauty in Butter" sculpture exhibit at the fair.

Likenesses of all 11 regional finalists in the state Princess Kay of the Milky Way contest (also held in conjunction with the fair) were sculpted in 68-pound blocks of butter as a free show daily in the fair's dairy building. The exhibit attracted an estimated 100,000 persons.

"The dairy industry of Minnesota, through American Dairy association, again has shown the way to industrial exhibitors in the creation of an attention-arresting, comment-provoking display," Lammers told the dairy promotion group.

Lammers called the exhibit "an intriguing and unique combination of product, people, geography and fine art."

Lammers also informed the group that American Dairy Association of Minnesota was being nominated by the Minnesota state fiar for the Western Fairs association's special "Blue Ribbon Award" for exhibitors performing "unusual and necessary service to and for Fairs." He said it was the first such nomination by the fair in five years.

Bjornaraa Named Board Member of Minnesota Alumni

Dreng Bjornaraa, 1930 graduate of the University of Minnesota, is pictured as a member of the Minnesota Alumni Association executive committee in the September 1965 edition of the University of Minnesota Alumni News, publication of the association. Bjornaraa was editor of the Thief River Falls Times for five years prior to attending the University.

Bjornaraa has been midwest director of public relations for the United States Steel corporation, St. Paul, since 1948. From 1933 to 1948 he was in federal service, his last position being that of deputy regional director and Minnesota director of the War Manpower commission from 1942 to 1948.

He is currently a director of the Lutheran Brotherhood Life Insurance society and a member of the Fairview Hospital board of trustees, Minneapolis. He also served 12 years as a member of the St. Olaf College board of trustees, Northfield. He is a member of the Public Relations Society of America, St. Paul Rotary club, Twin Cities Personnel Managers association, Minnesota club, St. Paul Athletic club and the Midland Hills country club.

He is the author of a book, articles and pamphlets in the field of employment and youth counseling.

Dairy Princess Tells Of State Fair Contest

By Janice Swanson
Northwest Minnesota
Dairy Princess

What does it feel like to be a Princess Kay candidate? In the first place, we all felt very royally treated. Secondly, we felt very proud to represent the dairy industry. I felt especially proud to represent Region I since this is where the dairy princess contest originated in Minnesota.

The 11 candidates arrived in St. Paul at noon on August 25. Our afternoon included a session with the news media. Because of the interest in the Princess Kay contest, a great deal of good publicity is given to the dairy industry. That evening, Wednesday, we met the judges. At that time we gave short impromptu talks. The judging had begun.

The next days consisted of private interviews, informal panel discussions and testing of such things as reading ability, knowledge of the dairy industry and natural poise. By Friday evening the judges had reached their decision and everyone felt a little more relaxed. This was fortunate because Friday was the evening we had the privilege of attending a Twins baseball game. In addition to being a very exciting and enjoyable experience, we received publicity on the Twins-O-Gram that greeted us.

Interest seemed great everywhere we went and there were nws people to create vn mor intrest. We enjoyed a number of interviews on radio stations plus good coverage on television stations and the papers of the Minneapolis-St. Paul area.

The highlights of our stay came on August 28 when the new Princess Kay of the Milky Way was crowned on the grandstand stage at the state fair. The feeling of excitement and anticipation rose to the climax when the reigning Princess Kay, Karen Bracken, placed a crown on the new Princess Kay, Mary Ann Tiirud. Realizing that only one girl could be chosen, we all felt very happy and proude for Mary Ann. As Princess Kay, she will have a very important job that goes along with the title. I feel that the dairy princess promotion is one of the dairy industry's best.

Other important promotions at themselves. The clever ideas were good attention getters. Even in the cold rain people flocked to the "All the Milk You Can Drink for a Dime" stand where we served milk. People eagerly drank the milk and commented as to how good it was.

One of the most ingenious ideas was the butter sculpturing. People Schule carve the likeness of each of the regional dairy princesses. The crowds enjoyed the butter. On woman was heard to comment: "It's been a long time since we had real butter. It certainly tastes good, doesn't it?" I feel the dairy promotions served to remind everyone of the superiority of dairy products.

Altogether it was a wonderful experience. I felt I shared the amazement of the crowds as they stood watching the butter sculpture and perhaps understood more than they. I had had the experience of working with the dedicated wonderful people of the dairy industry. Through it I gained new insight and understanding of one of America's largest industries.

Bit and Bridle Saddle Club Has Soggy Campout

Bit and Bridle saddle club of Goodridge held its yearly campout Saturday evening. The campsite used most often by the club is located in the Goodridge area. Weather was cold and wet.

Following the evening meal, a short business meeting was held with club president Elvon Hamilton presiding. Main order of business was making arrangements for a Fall Roundup square dance to sponsored by the club with a tentative date set for October 30. Lynn Hanson and Mrs. Robert Prestebak were appointed to make the arrangements. Dennis Mugaas and Roger Rudd will be in charge of registering the guests and Mrs. Norma Hanson and Mrs. Elvon Hamilton will do the decorating.

The women were in charge of cooking the evening meal while the men built the campfire and cut wood.

It was reported that Lynn Hanson got breakfast underway by stirring up a batch of flapjacks, but when he discovered that he was without a turner he turned the task over to Mrs. Robert Prestebak. Anyone wanting to know how to handle this predicament, ask Mrs. Prestebak.

Members riding their horses to the camp were Robert and Tim Prestebak, Tim and Wayne Holte, Mike and Norma Hanson, Linda and Alan Swanson, Beth Radniecki, Dennis Mugaas and Roger Rudd. Lynn Hanson, Mrs. Robert Prestebak and Mrs. Elvon Hamilton brought camp equipment in by truck and car.

The next club meeting will be at the Lynn Hanson home in October.

Douglas Hedlund Heads Roseau 4H Leaders Council

Douglas Hedlund, junior leader from the Malung 4-H club, was elected president of the Roseau county 4-H Leaders council at the annual meeting September 9. Other officers elected were Mrs. Alex Gonghorowski, Valley Builders, Stafford Aces, secretary; and Mrs. James Magnuson, Judis, treasurer.

Elected to a three-year term on the executive committee was Mrs. Edgar Erickson of Ross. Other members of the committee are Paul Harms, Judis; and Sheldon Erickson of Badger.

A committee was appointed for the coming 4-H leaders banquet. Committee members are Thora Nelson, Wannaska, chairman; Susan Severson, Beaver; Elain Erickson, Falun; Beda Brandt, Malung; Vernon Rugland, Judis Jets; and Mike Loe and Lola Stotts, Wannaska.

Wheat Varieties Not Recommended Listed by USDA

List of undesirable varieties of wheat for discount under the 1966-crop wheat price-support program includes the same 38 wheat varieties that were discounted in 1965 plus one other variety, according to Marcel Dahl, chairman of the Marshall County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee. The additional variety in Gaines, is discounted when grown east of the Continental Divide.

Varieties considered undesirable because of inferior milling or baking qualities are: Blue Jacket, Cache, Chiefkan, Cimarron, Early Blackhull, Kanking, Kharkof MC 22, New Chief, Pawnee Sel. 33, Purkof, Redchief, Red Hull, Red-Jacket, Stafford, Wasatch, Yogo, C. Garser, Henry, Lathrop, Kenney, Premier, Progress, Russell, Spinkcota, Surgeon and Gaines.

Varieties listed are based on results of surveys conducted by USDA's agricultural research service with state agricultural experiment station personnel, agronomists, cereal chemists and others on state and federal staffs. Representatives of crop improvement associations support this action to help improve the overall quality of U. S. Wheat production.

The chairman explained that the undesirable varieties are determined and announced in order to discourage plantings of such varieties; notice is given at this time so that farmers may plan their 1966-crop year operations.

Farmers are urged to seed only those varieties recommended by state extension services on the basis of experiment station results and practical experience.

Under 1966-program regulations, as in the past, the producer will certify production of undesirable varieties based on his knowledge of the varieties he seeded and harvested. Because wheat varieties are difficult to determine from threshed samples, additional information in support of the certification may be needed in certain instances.

Playwriting Is Included in Art Show Competition

Entries are now being accepted in the playwriting competition which has been added as a new feature of the Town-Country Art show given annually on the University of Minnesota's St. Paul campus.

Amateur playwrights of high school age or over who are residents of Minnesota communities of 25,000 or less are eligible to submit one original recently-written one-act play, according to A. Russell Barton, art show coordinator. Performance time of the play must not exceed 35 minutes. Final entry date is November 1, 1965.

The playwriting competition is sponsored by the university's department of rhetoric and presented by the department of agricultural short courses. Two plays selected from the entries will be performed by the Punchinello Players in the Punchinello Playhouse on the St. Paul campus March 28-30 during the show.

Plays should be sent to A. Russell Barton, Coordinator, Minnesota Town-County Art Show, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minn. 55101. A self-addressed stamped envelope should accompany the entry.

Fine Arts Stamp Issued Last Week Available Here

A new five-cent stamp honoring John Singleton Copley and featuring a portion of one of his most outstanding paintings, "The Copley Family", was first placed on sale at Washington, D.C., on Friday, and is now available at local post offices.

This stamp, featuring the artist's daughter, Elizabeth Clarke Copley, is the fifth in the Fine Arts series. Full color reproduction of American art on stamps began in 1961 with "The Smoke Signal" by Frederic Remington. A year later Winslow Homer's well-known seascape "Breezing Up" was featured. An aquatint of Columbia Jays by John James Audubon was the 1963 issue and last year's stamp featured Charles M. Russell's "Jerked Down".

The Copley stamp measured .84 by 1.44 inches, arranged vertically. It was printed in tones of black, brown and olive and issued in panes of 50, with an initial printing of 115 million.

Gronouski Authorizes Worker Name Release

Postmaster General John A. Gronouski announced today that he was authorizing postmasters throughout the country to make public, upon request, the names of employees who worked in their offices as part of the 1965 summer hiring program. Gronouski said that because virtually all the summer employees had left the post office department payroll—almost all of them to return to school—the names could now be made public.

"We declined to make the names public while the students were on the payroll because a postal regulation prohibits us from doing so," the postmaster general said. "Now that their employment has been terminated, the regulation no longer applies." One youth was employed by the Thief River Falls post office, but his name was not given since he is still employed there.

Gronouski referred to Section 744.444 of the Postal Manual which states, "Lists of employees, including their designations, salaries or adresses shall not be furnished to any individual, commercial firm or other non-federal organization. Adresses, salary and financial information about individual employees shall not be furnished in response to public inquiries other than to verify information the employee himself has divulged for such reasons as establishing credit, hospitalization, etc."

The postal regulation which has been in existence for many years is designed to protect postal employees from commercial and political solicitation and harrassment. The post office department hired some 8,600 young people during the summer.

Postmasters were instructed to utilize the summer employees on an hour for hour replacement basis to help reduce the excessive amounts of overtime being worked by some career employees and to fill in for vacationing employees.

Postmaster General Gronouski said he was satisfied that the department's summer hiring program had achieved its goal and pointed out that a survey showed that 94.7 per cent of the summer employees planned to use their earnings to pay for their education.

Of the approximately 8,600 hired under the program, 61 per cent were referred by state employment service offices, other local service agencies or by local postmasters. Many of those recommended by postmasters had previously worked in post offices. Thirty-nine per cent were recommended by members of Congress of both parties.

"We have had a number of requests from members of the press and from congressmen for the names of our summer employees," Gronouski said. "Since these employees are now off our payroll and it would no longer be potentially harmful to them and because I have been advised that it would not violate our postal regulation to make available the names of former employees, postmasters are now authorized to provide the names on request."

ADVICE as to what the well-dressed man should be wearing these days was received with a few doubts Wednesday night during Moonlite Madness in Thief River Falls. Richard Bjorkman of Bjorkman's, attired in a stylish white, floor-length night shirt, was something less than what is normally considered a well-dressed clothing salesman. One thing does look normal in the above photo, however— Dick has his mouth open.

PTA Convention Set in St. Paul October 11 to 13

Forty-third annual convention of the Minnesota Congress of Parents and Teachers will be held October 11, 12 and 13 at Hotel St. Paul in St. Paul. Mrs. Charles M. Huffman, Hopkins, president, has invited delegates from 1,000 units throughout Minnesota to attend a three-day session.

On the first day delegates to the convention will take part in a "Workshop on Wheels". This program provides a practical "show and tell" technique of demonstrating and explaining four areas of PTA interest and concern.

Buses will take delegates to the Lake Owasso school for special classes; Minnesota Reception and Diagnostic center, Lino Lakes; St. Paul Arts and Science center; and Gillette hospital.

Action on proposed resolutions and legislation will be taken on Tuesday evening. Delegates will elect a new state president, vice president, secretary and historian, each to serve three-year terms.

District Co-op Meeting Set in City Next Monday

Representatives of cooperatives in this region will attend a District meeting of the Minnesota Association of Cooperatives (MAC) in Thief River Falls on Monday, September 27.

The meeting is scheduled for the Rex cafe and will begin at 8 p.m., according to Adolph Erickson, Grygla, MAC director for district seven. Co-op leaders from Kittson, Marshall, Pennington, Polk Red Lake and Roseau counties will take part in the meeting.

Speakers at the meeting will be Brynolf C. Peterson, Aitkin, MAC president, and Edward E. Slettom, St. Paul, MAC executive secretary, who will report on MAC activities and programs affecting cooperatives. Joanne Fallon, member Minnesota 4-H Club Federation, Plummer, will report on her trip to the American Institute of Cooperation, University of Missouri, which she attended as a guest of MAC August 8-11.

The Thief River Falls meeting is one of 15 district meetings leading up to the annual MAC meeting and youth conference which will be held November 1 and 2 at Hotel Pick-Nicollet, Minneapolis.

SBA Loans for August Hit Total Of $4,044,005

For the first time in its history the Minnesota Small Business administration regional office exceeded the $4 million mark for SBA loans approved in one month, according to Harry A. Sieben, regional directory, 127 loans amounting to $4,044,005 were approved in August.

Of this number 75 were regular business loans to small firms amounting to $3,177,100; two were local development loans for $106,400; and 50 were flood and tornado disaster loans totaling $760,505. It is anticipated that 313 new jobs will be created as a result of the loan approvals during the month.

Herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd. The amount of milk or butterfat produced is averaged out over all the cows. This gives the farmer a record of the earning power of the herd of the month.

If too many dry cows are included in the herd, the average for that month may be low even though the cows which are milking produce a lot of milk.

There were 26 herds on test with a total of 778 cows and an average of 30 cows per herd during June with the Pennington association. Eighty per cent of these were milking. Average amount of milk produced per cow was 998 pounds which tested 3.55 per cent fat. This amounted to 35.3 pounds of B. F. per cow.

No cows were listed this month which finished with over 500 pounds B. F. during the testing year, in a 365-day or less lactation.

Rites Held For R. A. Holmgren, Local G. N. Agent

Randolph A. Holmgren, 68, a resident of Thief River Falls for many years and the agent for the Great Northern Railroad company here, died Tuesday at the Veterans hospital in Minneapolis.

Funeral services for Randolph Holmgren were held Saturday at 2 p.m. in Trinity Lutheran church, Thief River Falls, with the Reverends Harold R. Peterson and Reuben A. Wangberg officiating. Interment was in the Greenwood cemetery. Green Funeral home was in charge of arrangements.

Randolph A. Holmgren was born Jan. 11, 1897 at Herman. At the age of six years, he came with his parents to Thief River Falls where he attended school. On Oct. 21, 1913, at the age of 15 years, he began working for the Great Northern Railroad company. He was employed at Thief River Falls and various other stations before entering the United States Army in 1918. Following his discharge in 1919, he returned to the employment of the Great Northern Railroad company working as agent at Holt until 1927 when he moved to Glyndon. He was active in community affairs both at Holt and Glyndon, having served as mayor in both villages.

In 1942 he moved from Glyndon to Moorhead where he was employed at the gard office at Fargo, N.D., until 1952 when he was transfered to Thief River Falls where he had since served as agent for the Great Northern Railroad company.

Mr. Holmgren was active in civic and fraternal affairs in this city. He was a member of the American Legion Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, International War Veterans Alliance, Elks, Eagles, Chamber of Commerce, Order of Railway Telegraphers and the Great Northern Veterans Association.

On June 17, 1922, he was united in marriage to Ingeborg Nelson at Thief River Falls.

Survivors include his wife, Ingeborg; one son, Arthur Holmgren of Huntsville, Ala.; two brothers, Floyd Holmgren of Eatontown, N. J., and Roy Holmgren of Thief River Falls, three grandsons and one step-grandson.

He was preceded in death by two daughters and one brother.

The body will lie in state at Sinding's Funeral chapel from 7 p.m. today (Monday) until Wednesday noon and at the church for one hour prior to the time of services.

Walter Stanina Rites To Be Held At Middle River

Funeral services for Walter Stanina, 49, of Middle River who died unexpectedly Friday at his farm home, will be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday at St. Joseph's Catholic church at Middle River. The Rev. John Stearn will officiate and burial will be in St. Bernard's Catholic cemetery at Thief River Falls. Recitation of the rosary will be at 8 p. m. today (Monday) at the Collins Funeral home at Middle River.

4-Hers To Observe Annual Club Week

"And my hands to better service. . .for my community" is a part of the 4-H pledge that some 55,000 4-H'ers in Minnesota practice through their 4-H club work. Throughout the year 4-H clubs in Minnesota stress citizenship through interest and participation in community activities, according to Paul Stelmaschuk, Pennington county agricultural agent.

During National 4-H Club Week, Setember 25—October 2, many clubs will review contributions they have made to their communities and set goals for greater service.

Among the objectives of National 4-H Club Week are increasing public understanding of 4-H aims and methods and expanding support for activities throughout the year. Through constructive use of leisure time, 4-H'ers are working with other groups to improve their communities. Given below are some of the service projects of 4-H clubs.

Pennington county has 110 members in the conservation project. These members plant trees and shrubs, build birdhouses, study animals, birds, plants and fish.

Pennington county 4-H'ers have won the state safety merit award for eight consecutive years, topping all other counties in northwesten Minnesota. They have worked for continuous improvement in safety in their community. Their activities included inspection and repair of bicycles, home and farm hazard hunts, purchases of first aid kits for each family car, attic and storeroom clean-up campaigns, building rope ladders for two-story buildings, placing trash cans in parks and yards and marking farm vehicles for road travel.

4-H'ers participated in cutting down vegetation at blind crossroads to improve visibility, marking dead-end roads with old reflectorized license plates, painting top and bottom basement steps white in member's homes to prevent falls, reflectorizing machinery and bicycles and encouraging fire drills in homes.

County clubs have also been honored on the state level for health activities requiring 4-H'ers to have annual physical and dental checkups and immunization shots. The clubs stressed nutritious diets, good posture and personal cleanliness.

Community service projects in health included making tray favors for patients in nursing homes and local hospitals, sending gifts to senior citizens, collecting clothing for the needy and conducting rat and mouse control campaigns.

With the idea of making their community a safer and more attractive place to live, four clubs have undertaken projects of beautifying the Pennington county fairgrounds and have placed trash cans in Centennial park.

William Groslie Given Discharge

William Groslie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Grosley and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Ole Engelstad of Thief River Falls, returned home recently after being discharged from the U. S. Army in Oakland, Calif. He has spent the past year and a half in Korea.

During his Army service, Groslie completed an electronics course at the Ft. Monmouth, N.J. Signal school and a 24-week course in Nike Aquisition and Radar and Computer Repair at Redstone Arsenal, Ala. He graduated with honors for academic proficiency, being highest in a class of 269. He is now employed with the IBM company in Fargo.

Advisory Group Of Legislature Conducts Meeting

Representative Richard W. Fitzsimons of Argyle attended the regular quarterly meeting of the Legislative Advisory committee in the office of Governor Karl Rolvaag on Friday.

The committee heard numerous requests for allocation of funds from a number of state departments. Among the various recommendations made by the committee, one item was of particular interest to the grain and sugar industry of the Red River Valley. The committee approved an expenditure of $10,000 to be allocated under the direction of Governor Rolvaag for a comprehensive study of rail freight rates of agricultural raw materials, as well as finished products, particularly flour.

The milling industry of the Midwest has been losing ground to its competitors in the East, South and West because of the disadvantage due to freight rates. Twelve midwestern states have agreed to finance this study with the idea that a good case can be made by the grain growers of the midwest for seeking lower freight rates for its finished agricultural products.

With each rural community making a determined effort to process more of its agricultural production in the area in which it is raised, this allocation and subsequent study could bring a much needed expension of agricultural processing in the midwest and in Minnesota, Rep. Fitzsimons said.

One other item of business that the committee approved was the payment of wolf and fox bounties that have been received by the state auditor since July 1. Many of these bounty applications were from Roseau, Kittson, Marshall and Pennington counties.

Gerald N. Nelson Sent to Okinawa

Army Pvt. Gerald N. Nelson, son of Mrs. Gladys A. Nelson, Rt. 3, Thief River Falls, was assigned to Headquarters, IX Corps on Okinawa, August 28.

Nelson, a clerk-typist, entered the Army last March and received basic training at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo. The 22-year-old soldier was graduated from Lincoln high school in 1960 and was employed by Rolland Brothers service station, St. Hilaire, before entering the Army.

Medical Mirror
FIXING THE RESPONSIBILITY OF STERILITY
Q. In the case of a barren marriage, is it medically possible to determine whether the wife or husband is to blame?
A. It is not too difficult to pinpoint the trouble in clearcut cases of sterility. However, in appraising the childless couple the doctor is often faced with insurmountable obstacles in identifying the "responsible" partner. Fertility is not an "all or none" affair. Some individuals are highly fertile, others are just borderline. When both the husband and wife are not quite "up to par" in all respects (as is often the case), who is to blame? Is the wife solely responsible for her inability to conceive, or is her husband at least partially responsible? Solomon himself would be hard pressed for an answer.
Answers appearing in these columns are of necessity brief and general and do not necessarily reflect the opinion of all physicians. Remember — the diagnosis and treatment of disease is the function of the patient's personal physician.

Sheep purchased locally at the county show will be featured in a promotion by Otto's Red Owl supermarket.

Director Named for Technical Institute

Stanley Sahlstrom, director of field services at St. Cloud State college, today was named director of the newly established University of Minnesota Technical Institute at Crookston. His appointment was approved by the University's Board of regents Friday, September 17.

Sahlstrom will direct the development of curricular and administrative affairs for the new collegiate-technical program which will open in the fall of 1966. The new institute will be located on the campus of the University's Northwest school and experiment station at Crookston. It will replace the school, a secondary level program established in 1905.

Initial offerings will include curriculums in agricultural technology, agricultural operations, agri-business, accounting, marketing and merchandising, and small business management. It will also include an advanced secretarial program. A liberal arts core will undergird the technical offerings.

A native of Onamia, Sahlstrom received his B.S., M. S. and Ph. D. degrees from the University of Minnesota. He has taught at Milaca and Marietta and since 1954 has been at St. Cloud State college. A member of many professional associations, Sahlstrom is at present chairman of the Minnesota Citizens Committee on Public Education. He is president of the St. Cloud Rotary club and active in many other community activities. In 1962 he served as an educational advisor to the government of Cyprus. A veteran of World War II, Sahlstrom is a major in the army reserve. He is married and has four children.

The new institute was authorized by the 1965 state legislature as an educational service to replace the Northwest School of Agriculture and also provide additional collegiate-technical education on a state-wide basis. The dormitories and instructional buildings now used by the school will accomodate paring for semi-professional employment in agriculture and industry.

Students seeking two-year collegiate programs with technical orientation at the new university institute will work toward the associate of science, associate of agriculture, associate in business administration or other appropriate degrees. The institute will provide training intermediate between a high school diploma and baccalaureate degree and will combine general and technical education at the collegiate level.

Badger Flax Day Planned Thursday

Final plans for Badger's 25th annual Flax Day celebration sponsored by the Badger Civic and Commerce club are nearing completion. While the prospect for flax exhibits appears dim unless the weather becomes favorable, the event will be held as planned with exhibits accepted all day Thursday at the old Gamble store building.

In addition to flax, timothy and sweet clover exhibits will be accepted, with prizes for seed classes totaling $105. Prizes in the homemaker's division total $175. A class for garden exhibits is also included.

Annual Flax Day parade is scheduled to begin at 11 a.m. and will be followed by a steam threshing demonstration by Marshall C. Wiskow of Roseau. Entries are reportedly still needed for the talent contest which will be a part of the evening program in lieu of a speaker. The C & C will recognize all Flax Day kings from previous years at the program.

Cash certificates amounting to $50, good for trade at any business place in Badger, will be given away at the evening program to persons who have registered at participating business places and whose names are drawn. Buttons promoting the event are also on sale by Badger merchants. Three persons buying buttons will win savings bonds totaling $100.

North Central Sets Record for Regional Traffic

North Central Airlines set a new regional airline passenger traffic record during August when it carried 166,512 passengers, it was reported today by Frank N. Buttomer, vice president-traffic and sales.

The number of passengers carried was a 22 per cent increase over August 1964 and passenger miles flown were 19 per cent above the same month last year.

Buttomer stated that North Central flew 192,757 freight ton-miles, which was 31 per cent over 1964. Air express was 39 per cent ahead of last August, as 98,048 ton miles were flown.

"North Central again maintained an excellent operating performance during August", Buttomer said. "Ninety-nine per cent of the company's 1,473,391 scheduled miles were completed, and 80 per cent of the 16,645 flight arrivals were on time.

New monthly records have been set by North Central for 37 consecutive months in passengers and 42 successive months for freight.

Since inaugurating service in 1948, the company has carried 11,115,000 passengers and flown 1,822,000,000 passenger miles without a single injury or fatality to passengers or crew members.

North Central serves 90 cities in 10 Midwest states and Canada over a 7,000-mile route system.

Injunction Given By Judge Against Milk Producers

activities of the plaintiff cooperative. That many others are interested in the outcome of this proceeding is clear.

"Whether out of sympathy for the defendants, or in concern for the 40-year cooperative that has throughout the country, numerous people attended the hearing; some even demonstrated on the streets. This they had a right to do, as there was no effort made whatsoever to influence the decision of the court.

"We can and do sympathize with the milk producer in his quest for etter prices. At the same time we recognize the great accomplishments of the Land O'Lakes cooperative.

"However, if there is a justiciale grievance on the part of the producer against the plaintiff, it should e resolved and as already stated that cannot e done at a hearing for a preliminary injunction. A trial on the merits is called for, and in the meantime a temporary injunction requiring that matters remain in status quo is manifestly in order."

Livestock Show Will Replace Junior Show

Nearly 750 Minnesota 4-H members will bring their prize market livestock to the new state 4-H Market Livestock show on the state fair grounds Monday, September 27. The three-day show, Sept. 27-29, replaces the junior livestock show held in South St. Paul for the past 46 years.

"The show will support the production of quality market livestock by 4-H'ers, in tune with today's market needs and consumer demands," stated Leonard Harkness, state 4-H club leader at the University of Minnesota, in commenting on the new event. The Minnesota Livestock Breeders' association will sponsor the state 4-H market livestock show.

In the live show, grand championship awards of $300 will be given for beef, $200 each for barrows and lambs. Donor of the awards will be the Minnesota Livestock Breeders' association. Equal awards in the newly instituted carcass contest will be given by packing companies of South St. Paul.

Cash awards provided by business firms will supplement the premiums paid by the Minnesota Livestock Breeders' association for breed champions, blue and red ribbon exhibitors in the live show and blue ribbon exhibitors in the carcass contest.

Breed championship awards have been set by the show's finance committee in the amounts of $100 for beef breeds, $50 each for hog and sheep breeds. The size of blue and red ribbon awards will depend on the total support received and the number of winners. Co-chairmen of the finance committee are Harold Macy, dean emeritus of the University of Minnesota's Institute of Agriculture, and W. L. Boss, vice president of the First National bank, St. Paul.

Judging of all species begins at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday, September 28. Following the judging, animals will be trucked to South St. Paul for sale on the open market by commission companies chosen by the 4-H'ers. The traditional auction of selected animals has been discontinued.

During the show 4-H members will study the marketing and processing of livestock as part of their educational program.

Monday evening, September 27, the 4-H'ers will be entertained at a banquet sponsored by the St. Paul Area Chamber of Commerce in the 4-H building on the state fair grounds. Business firms supporting the show will be represented at the banquet.

Following the judging on Tuesday evening, September 28, 4-H members will attend either the Guthrie Theatre or the Cinerama production. Concluding event of the show will be an educational program in South St. Paul Wednesday, September 29, culminating in an awards luncheon with South St. Paul businessmen.

Republican Fund Drive Will Open Here on Tuesday

Annual collectaion in the Neighbor-to-Neighbor fund campaign of the Republican party will begin Tuesday in Pennington county with a financial goal of $1,250, according to Mrs. R. F. Contos, county chairwoman. Approximately 50 volunteers will be calling on their neighbors to solicit "an investment in the 1966 Republican election campaign", Mrs. Contos said.

Each year Republican workers call on their neighbors, asking for a contribution to the Republican party. When the calls are completed, these volunteers turn in the money collected along with the contributors' cards to a central collection center.

"The great thing about the NTN fund drive is that it is democracy in action," Mrs. Contos said. "People who believe in democracy should back their convictions with their dollars." The county's annual goal is $1,900 with about $300 raised to date and $1,250 projected for the NTN campaign.

Knox PTA Will Meet on Monday

Ronald Pitzer, extension family life specialist from the University of Minnesota, will conduct a seminar at the initial meeting of the Knox Elementary school parent and Teacher association Monday at 8 p. m. in the school gymnasium. All members are encouraged to attend the meeting.

Give Information On Wheat Program For '66 Crop Year

Pennington ASCS county office this week mailed notices of 1966 farm wheat allotments to farmers in this county. In most cases, the farm allotments are smaller for 1966 than they were for 1965. The following explanation was offered by Chairman Winton Knutson of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

"Farm allotments are smaller because the national wheat acreage allotment is smaller. For 1965, the national allotment was 49.5 million acres. For 1966, it has been reduced to 47.8 million acres—down 1.7 million acres, or about 3.4 per cent. The law also provides for a small farm acreage increase as for the 1964 and 1965 crops. This would increase the national allotment about four million acres for a total national effective allotment of approximately 52 million acres.

"By law, the national acreage allotment is established at an amount which, based on expected yields, will produce a quantity of wheat equal to anticipated needs. The quantity of wheat needed for 1966 is about the same as was needed for 1965, but with a general increase in yields fewer acres are required to produce this amount."

The chairman said that the decision was made to send out the allotments at this time so farmers would have as much time as possible to plan their farming operations for next year.

"We recognize there will be a lot of questions about details of the wheat program," he said, "but they will have to wait until Congress enacts one. Congress is working on farm legislation now. Meanwhile, these are the official allotments for the 1966 program. Other information will be given to farmers just as soon as it is available."

Peterson Attends Hospital Ass'n. Meet in Brainerd

Norman Peterson, administrator of Northwestern hospital, attended the annual meeting of the Minnesota Hospital association Friday and Saturday at Madden's Resort Brainerd. Main speaker at the meeting was Philip H. Des Marais, deputy assistant secretary for legislation of the department of health, education and welfare, Washington, D.C., who discussed "The Impact of Medicare as Seen by the Federal Government."

Jack W. Rivall, president of the statewide hospital organization, reported that legislation was also viewed by other nationally known hospital people, including Arthur H. Bernstein, legal counsel for the American Hospital association, and Steven Sieverts of the Blue Cross association, Chicago. "Issues of Concern to Minnesota Medicine" was discussed by J. Minott Stickney, M.D., Rochester, president of the Minnesota State Medical association.

Paul A. Hofstad, president-elect of the association for the past year and administrator of Lake Region hospital, Fergus Falls, was installed as president at ceremonies Friday. About 400 hospital administrators and other hospital representatives attended the meeting.

Norway Orchestra To Play Concert At BSC Feb. 3

The 75-member Norwegian Festival orchestra will include Bemidji on its special 200th anniversary tour of the United States during the months of February and March, 1966. On February 3 the orchestra will appear in Bemidji at the state college physical education building.

A special feature of the concert will be Robert Riefling, Norway's foremost pianist, who has agreed to make this tour because of its exceptional nature. Riefling will play the Grieg piano concerto—a concerto indigenous to the Norwegian orchestra since Edvard Grieg himself was for many years its chief conductor and benefactor.

Aged May Apply For Benefits of Social Security

Anyone 65 or older not getting social security or railroad benefits may apply for hospital insurance benefits under social security now, says Clifford Kittelson, district manager. This includes persons who do not have social security numbers.

When he applies, he must also decide whether or not he wants the medical insurance benefit. This is voluntary. It will cost $3 a month starting July, 1966, for those who choose to apply for it, Kittelson said.

Each applicant should bring proof of his age. If he is still working and self-employed, he should furnish a copy of his 1964 federal income tax return.

People getting monthly benefits will get instructions in the mail about applying for medical insurance. They need not come in. Those over 65 getting any kind of payment from the county welfare board should not apply yet. They will get information later about how to apply.

Rev. Solberg To Serve Church In Long Beach, Cal.

Rev. John Solberg, pastor of Faith Lutheran Brethren church in Thief River Falls for the past two and one-half years, has accepted a call to a new Lutheran Brethren home mission church in Long Beach, Calif. He will deliver his final sermon at the local church Sunday at 11 a.m.

Rev. Solberg succeeded Rev. Kenneth Mikelson who moved to the African mission field. His successor will be Rev. Richard Rogness of Pasadena, Calif., who has been serving as the pastor of Immanuel Lutheran Brethren church. Rev Rogness and his wife have five children and will move to Thief River Falls in the first week of October.

VA Checks May Be Sent Directly To Veteran's Bank

Benefit checks from the Veterans administration may be sent directly to the beneficiary's bank for deposit to his account.

John R. Murphy, manager, VA center, St. Paul, said this arrangement is convenient for veterans who travel or those who have frequent changes of address. A complete explanation of the arrangement may be obtained by contacting the VA center.

Murphy said that contrary to former legal requirements, checks may now be forwarded to a beneficiary who has moved, provided the addressee has left a forwarding address with the post office.

Paul order and the Class II price would be the Minnesota-Wisconsin series of prices paid for manufactured milk. The Class I price would be subject to location differentials in reference to distance from the Twin Cities area.

Under the "marketwide pooling" for this order, payments due producers from all regulated handlers would be pooled and averaged and then paid out to producers at uniform prices per hundredweight. All producers for each market would receive the same price for their milk regardless of how it is used. Qualifying provisions have been defined for distributing plants and supply plants.

"It should be noted," the Land O'Lakes announcement says, "that currently over 50 per cent of all Grade A milk produced on farms in Minnesota is regulated under six different federal marketing orders. There are currently 74 federal milk marketing orders in effect in the United States."

In the letter to the Secretary of Agriculture, Land O'Lakes pointed out that a very careful study by the cooperative concluded that a federal milk marketing order was in the best interest of all farmers. It further asked an early investigation and hearing on the part of the department, stating that it would be reassuring to dairy farmers and would be an important step "in bringing order out of the chaos that presently characterizes that area."

Moum and Solsten Will Demonstrate At Music Display

Demonstration of band and orchestra instruments will be given Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Washington elementary school gymnasium with all parents of pupils in fifth grade or older invited and encouraged to attend. Conducting the demonstration will be John Moum and James Solsten, respective directors of the school band and orchestra.

The demonstration will give parents and students alike an opportunity to hear the different instruments used in the two musical groups. Moum will play the instruments used by the band and Solsten will play the instruments used by the orchestra. A variety of instruments will also be on display.

Advice will be given to the youngsters as to what instruments are best suited to their abilities. Suggestions will be based on the result of tests given recently.

"We invite parents to bring their sons and daughters and give them an opportunity to play in band or orchestra and have fun with music", the two directors said. They expressed a desire to have a full house for the demonstration.

COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS

September 21, 1965
OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS
PENNINGTON COUNTY, MINNESOTA
SEPTEMBER 9, 1965

Pursuant to adjournment the County Commissioners met in the Commissioners' Room in the Court House at 10:00 a.m., Sept. 9, 1965.

Members present: Hanson, Olson, Anderson, Lindberg and Tasa. All present.

Various delegations appeared relative to drainage matters. Gordon Olson and others appeared and conferred about County Ditch 68 as it relates to rebuilding of county road No. 16. After visits by delegations it was agreed to repair County Ditch 81 and a portion of County Ditch 70.

The minutes of the meetings of Aug. 2, 16 and 19 were read and approved as read.

After discussion and unanimous agreement, the Auditor was instructed to pay mileage to County employees at the rate of 10 cents per mile for those that have been paid 7½ cents in the past and to pay 7½ cents for those miles that have been paid 6 cents in the past. Effective with bills to be paid after Sept. 1.

A letter was read to the Board from Clifford Olson proprietor of Ele's Cafe with request for permission to sell 3.2 beer on Sundays 'Off sale'. The Board had reviewed the matter on a number of occasions after consideration the Auditor to respond to the request with a denial of the request.

At 1:30 p.m. the Board convened to hear Petition for set-Off of land from School District No. 562 St. Hilaire to School District No. 564 of Thief River Falls.

Seven persons appeared including all of the School Board of St. Hilaire school in opposition to the petition. No one appeared in behalf of the petitioners until the hearing was recessed and in light of the fact that the petitioners had been unable to present their side of the matter the hearing was adjourned to be heard at 11:00 a.m., Oct. 5, 1965. Adjournment approved pursuant to motion by Olson seconded by Anderson and declared carried.

Moved by Anderson seconded by Tasa that the Road Committe and the Bridges and Culvert Committee inspect roads and bridges and culverts at 8:30 a.m., September 28, 1965. Carried.

Letter from Marion England, Exec. Secy. of the State Soil Conservation Committee was read with approval of the Little Black River Watershed and indication that the project will now be placed in line for planning under Public Law 56 for development in the near future.

Pursuant to Law and upon motion by Hanson seconded by Anderson the following three persons were named as Viewers for County Ditch No. 77 of Pennington County:

Gust A. Iverson, Goodridge, Minn.; Elmer F. Erickson, Plummer, Minn. and Carl R. Mosbeck, Rt. 3, Thief River Falls, Minn. Viewers to be notified and to report as required by law. Motion carried.

Moved by Tasa seconded by Olson that pursuant to letter of recommendation from the Juvenile Judges who are in direct supervision of the Northwestern Probation and Parole Service, that an increase in the Salary of Joseph P. Books as Agent be approved in the amount of $250.00 per annum effective October 1, 1965. Carried.

Commissioner Olson introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

WHEREAS, The County Welfare Board has submitted a budget for Welfare purposes for the year 1966 and has requested a tax levy to provide funds to enable it to meet its responsibilities under Section 393.08, MSA; and

WHEREAS, Such budget and requested levies have been duly considered:

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the Board of County Commissioners approve such budget, including the following tax levy, with the provision that when taxes are collected and apportioned, the apportionment to each of the eight welfare funds shall be in the ratio that the levy for each bears to the total levy for welfare purposes.

Old Age Assistance	$ 2,037.37	.89%
Aid to Families with Dependent Children	34,694.26	15.06%
Aid to the Disabled	5,291.34	2.28%
Aid to the Blind	40.63	.01%
Poor (General Relief)	26,134.77	11.28%
Administration	46,290.36	20.00%
Medical Aid to the Aged	6,326.03	3.80%
Medical Aid to the Needy	108,382.50	46.79%
	$231,606.16	100.00%

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the County Auditor be hereby authorized and directed to spread a levy for welfare purposes in the amount of $231,606.16 on the tax roles of the County.

The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Hanson and declared carried.

The County Auditor submitted the budget and proposed tax levy for the year 1965, due and payable in the year 1966, as follows:

Revenue Fund	$123,712.53	24.20 mills
Road & Bridge Fund	102,230.42	20.00 mills
Welfare Fund	231,606.16	45.30 mills
Sanatorium Fund	9,000.00	1.78 mills
Sinking Fund	15,313.87	3.00 mills
School Transportation	none
County Fair	5,112.52	1.00 mill
	$486,995.19	95.28 mills

Moved by Tasa seconded by Anderson that the Board accept the budget and tax levy as indicated by the County Auditor and authorized and instructed the Auditor to spread said tax levy of the tax books of the County for the year 1965, payable in 1966, with the further provision that as part of the Road & Bridge levy there is hereby appropriated from the Road & Bridge Fund $10,000.00 to the City of Thief River Falls to be paid to the City from tax moneys collected in 1966 and to be used, by the City of Thief River Falls on State Aid Street projects. Motion unanimously carried.

Moved by Hanson seconded by Tasa that the Chairman and Auditor be authorized and instructed to enter into agreement with the County of Marshall relative to operation of the Oakland Park Nursing Home. Motion carried.

The following bills were read audited and allowed.

Autumn Is Good Season to Visit Minnesota Parks

What many Minnesota residents feel is the finest season of the year is just beginning in the state, according to conservation department.

Spectacular autumn colors are starting to appear in the north and will be spreading southward as the season progresses. State parks director, U. W. Hella, said this week standing displays of fall color are to be seen in the state's 65 parks.

Itasca state park north of Park Rapids and Gooseberry state park on Lake Superior's North Shore are two of the favorites with scenery viewers. Both parks will continue running water and toilet facilities while weather permits and will be open longer for those campers and other visitors able to enjoy the outdoors without these conveniences.

Other state parks noted for their outstanding fall colors are Scenic in Itasca county north of Grand Rapids, all the North Shore parks and Jay Cooke park near Duluth. Later in the season, the parks in southeastern Minnesota and other southern areas of the state will offer some fine fall viewing.

Hella said guided tours of groups through the underground iron mine at Tower-Soudan state park west of Ely will continue throughout the winter by appointment with the park manager.

Since the state park opened July 1, more than 16,200 persons have made the elevator trip down the 2,400 foot deep shaft to see how the mine was operated before production ceased two years ago.

Utility Companies Asked To Avoid Water Crossing

Wayne H. Olson, Minnesota commissioner of conservation, has asked all utility companies operating in the state to avoid crossing lakes, rivers and streams with transmission lines whenever possible. When crossing of public waters cannot be avoided, Olson asked that the lines be laid on the bed of lakes or streams where they will not impair the natural scenery in the area.

He said an exception would be where the transmission lines are to be placed adjacent to a bridge or existing utility or where it is not feasible to lay underwater cable. In all other cases, Olson asked that applications for permits to cross public waters provide for submarine construction.

He said Minnesota has been especially blessed with outstanding natural scenic resources and that the cooperation of the utility companies in taking this small step toward preservation of these aesthetic values would be appreciated.

LeMoine Scores 4 TD's In Prowler Win Friday

Led by their 200-pound fullback Monte LeMoine, who powerhoused across the line for four touchdowns, coach Bill Herzog's football Prowlers moved into the win column on Friday night by defeating the Red Lake Falls Eagles, 39, to 0, in a game played at Red Lake Falls.

On Friday afternoon, with the kickoff slated for 3 p.m. at East Grand Forks, the Prowlers will enter Northwest conference competition by playing coach Ron Thompson's Green Wave squad. In a conference game played on Friday afternoon at East Grand Forks, the defending champion Bemidji Lumberjacks scored a 26 to 6 victory over the Green Wave.

The Prowlers gained an early lead in Friday night's game at Red Lake Falls. The Prowlers, defending the east goal, accepted the kickoff, and on the fourth play from scrimmage, from the Eagles' 49-yard line, John Olson, taking a handoff from Tommy Cummings, circled left end and raced down to the south sideline to score a touchdown. And Monte LeMoine's successful placement kick added the point.

Midway in the period, after forcing the Eagles to kick, the Prowlers gained possession on the Red Lake Falls' 42-yard line. The Prowlers, with LeMoine blasting through the line, picked up three first downs to the Eagles' 6-yard line, and LeMoine then drove over for the touchdown. The try for the conversion point was blocked, and the Prowlers led by a 13 to 0 score.

The Prowlers added a pair of touchdowns in the second period, one coming on a 24-yard pass completion to Rod Carlson and the other on a one-yard plunge by LeMoine. The conversion points were added, with LeMoine placekicking one point, and Rod Carlson, from a placekick formation, running across for the other point.

The Eagles had one scoring threat in the second period when when a pass to Gary Kiefenheim who was in the clear beyond the Prowler secondary was muffed.

LeMoine scored his third touchdown of the game in the third period when, on a one-yard plunge, he capped a Prowler drive that began on the Eagles' 40-yard line. The placement kick for the point was blocked.

In the final minutes of the game coach Herzog sent numerous reserves into the game, and the Eagles succeeded in moving deep into Prowler territory having one drive halted on the 10-yard line.

For the game, the Prowlers had 18 first downs while Red Lake Falls were able to rack up but four first downs.

IN THE VIKING HUDDLE

By Coach Norm Van Brocklin

I am writing this column two days before we open against the Colts in Baltimore and so it might sound difficult to be talking about our upcoming game with the Detroit Lions, not knowing whether we are 1-0 or 0-1.

But with a 14-game season, a win or loss doesn't seem to mean that much, in fact, last year the Colts lost to us in the opener and then reeled off 11 straight wins and went on to be champions.

The Lions, who play us at the Met Sunday, have had the League's most respected defense over the past several years. Right now, they are in a period of slight readjustment as they are replacing some old timers in the secondary with younger players—but so long as Joe Schmidt is the middle linebacker and Alex Harris and Roger Brown are the defensive tackles, they are Tough, with a capital "T".

They have given the Vikings more fits than anybody in our four-year history, with our only win coming back in 1963, when we overcame an early Lion lead and won 34-31. Even then, they were on about our 10-yard line when the gun went off.

As long as we're talking defense let's consider our own. Much has been said of our high-powered offense and rightly so, but take a look at what our defense did in pre-season games: held Pittsburgh scoreless until the final five minutes, held Washington's strong offense to one touchdown, came up with six interceptions and three fumble recoveries to lead the 57-17 win over Dallas, and then kept the Giants away from the goal line until the final moments when the game was already won.

We gave up a lot of long passes last year, otherwise we were pretty solid defensively. What's responsible for the home-run ball? It isn't always the guy you see chasing the receiver.

It can be due to a poor pass too much time, and usually this is the case. Or a smart quarterback might catch you in a particular type of coverage and burn you, like Tarkenton likes to do by pitting Mason or Brown against a slower linebacker.

And even when its purely a case of a man getting beat, we have nine different coverages, and the man you see taking chase might not be the man responsible.

I hope you will take that into consideration when you see one of our men getting beat on a long pass.

HALFBACK Paul Klungness of Thief River Falls is expected to have a big season with the Dartmouth football team this year. The former Prowler athlete, a junior this year, is reported to be the "heir apparent" to the right halfback position. As a sophomore last year he tied for third in team scoring and averaged 5.5 yards per carry. A press release from Dartmouth says that Klungness has "remarkable speed, elusiveness and downfield moves."

54 State Forests Open to Hunting

Minnesota Conservation department's forestry division reminded hunters today that there are approximately three million acres of publicly-owned land with 54 state forests that are open to public hunting.

Recently the department's game and fish division announced the publication of a map showing the location of 575 state-owned wildlife management areas and public hunting grounds.

The state forests are not shown on this map but are shown on the official 1965 state highway map. The new state map is available from the department's information bureau in the Centennial building St. Paul. Also available is a list of state forest camp grounds where hunters may camp while on hunting trips.

State forestry director Clarence Prout said many trails in state forests have been seeded to clover in cooperation with the game and fish division to provide food for grouse.

He said that selective cutting of mature timber on the state lands has made forests very attractive to deer and that some forests, notably the Beltrami and Kabetogama, also offer good duck hunting.

Prout urged hunters to stop at forestry field offices and ranger stations for information on the location of camp grounds and good hunting areas within the state forests.

Seeding of Grain On Diverted Land Aids Pheasants

Minnesota Conservation Commissioner Wayne Olson today said a new program established by the U. S. Department of Agriculture to improve pheasant habitat on diverted farm lands was showing excellent results.

At the same time, Olson said that the 1965 farm bill now pending in Congress includes extensive new programs to encourage farmers to provide wildlife areas on their lands.

"Enactment of the bill will provide a great step forward in wildlife production and public hunting," he said. "We are looking forward to adoption of the bill and the opportunity to work with the farmers and the department of agriculture in carrying out the new programs," said Olson.

Olson said a recent survey by the conservation department's game and fish division showed that incentive payments to farmers to seed oats on diverted acres at a heavier than average rate and to leave such areas unmowed until the hatch was completed was resulting in a "significant increase in the amount of good quality cover".

One of the most encouraging aspects of the program, Olson said, was that participating farmers apparently foresaw the overall conservation benefits to be derived and applied some of the same principles to other areas of their land.

The program was aimed at improving the quality of wildlife habitat, expecially for pheasants, on acres taken out of crop production. State wildlife technicians had noted that previously most such acres were seeded too thinly, too late in the spring and cut too early in the summer to provide suitable habitat for ground nesting birds.

Olson said the help of the Minnesota Conservation federation proved invaluable in interesting the department of agriculture in giving the program a try. Response to the program among farmers has been excellent, he said.

Surveys showed that none of the wildlife plots had been destroyed before nesting, indicating 100 per cent compliance with the terms of the new program.

Kvikstad Tops Field At Snowball Tourney

The local club's Ron Kvikstad, shooting consistent golf, won the championship flight honors in the annual "Snowball Special" short-stop tournament played over the local course on Sunday. Kvikstad, recent winner of the Red River Valley tournament at Crookston, had rounds of 38, 38 and 37, for a 27-hole aggregate of 113 strokes.

Kvikstad's 113-stroke total was two strokes better than the total carded by Fosston's Jim Haugstul, who posted rounds of 38, 39 and 38, for a 115-stroke total.

In third place in the championship flight was Grand Forks' Craig Plante, who, after scoring a six-over-par 42 on his first round, came in with a 38 and 37 for a total of 117 strokes. Jim Solsten, of the local club, with scores of 39, 40 and 41, earned fourth place.

Favored by ideal weather conditions 75 golfers, arranged into nine flights, participated in the tournament.

Wardens Arrest 185 for Fishing Violations in Aug.

Fishing violations accounted for most of the arrests made by Minnesota game wardens during the month of August, the conservation department reported today. Out of a total of 203 arrests for the month, 185 were for infractions of the fishing laws. There were also nine arrests for littering public waters.

Game wardens arrested 70 persons for fishing with more than one line. There were 78 arrests for fishing without a license including 44 non-residents. Eleven arrests were made of persons who did not have their license with them when checked by wardens.

There were also six arrests made for fishing with set lines, four of whom were non-residents. Eight fishermen were found with over-the-limit catches. Game wardens arrested four persons for transporting loaded or uncased firearms in a motor vehicle.

State To Auction Confiscated Guns And Equipment

Nearly 400 confiscated firearms and assorted articles of fishing and trapping equipment will be sold at public auction by the Minnesota conservation department at the National Guard armory in St. Paul on Saturday, October 2.

The sale will start at 10 a.m. The armory is located at 600 Cedar street next to department headquarters in the Centennial building.

Included in the sale are about 195 firearms comprising .22 rifles deer rifles and shotguns. Many of the rifles have scopes. All unsafe firearms have been condemned and withdrawn from the sale, the department's announcement said.

Firearms and rods and reels are classed as excellent, good, fair or rough when offered for sale. The auctioneer will be David L. Levine.

In addition to firearms, the sale will include 80 rods and reels, 50 spears, winter fishing equipment, traps, landing nets, archery bows and numerous flash lights, spot lights and lanterns.

All sales will be made for cash. No checks or money orders will be accepted.

Side Line Observations

BY BILL DAHLQUIST

A few of those who speak for us in Congress keep reminding us that the Bobby Baker case has not received the thorough investigation it deserves. Senator John Williams of Delaware is one of several who are keeping the issue alive but they get no cooperation from the administration, which is understandable. Bobby Baker was small potatoes in this scandal. He was merely the errand boy, and the real villain is a man of great influence.

But the facts will out and eventually the public will be informed as to the details of this sorry mess. The longer it is delayed the worse it will be for those who were directly involved and who amassed millions by corrupt practices.

From the "Notable & Quotable" column of the Wall Street Journal we borrow these observations of Congressman Burratt O'Hara of Illinois — and a Democrat. The Congressman is 83 years old and is the only Spanish War Veteran now serving in Congress.

Said he, in opposing a bill—passed 364 to 4—establishing a Federal Boxing Commission:

"If we are to have a Federal commission to supervise boxing, then surely we should have a Federal commission the supervise wrestling and, the pattern having been set, it will be only a matter of time until there will be Federal commissions to run all the sports from baseball and football to tennis and ping-pong.

"I do not believe it is a healthy thing to place a policeman in every playground. I cannot bring myself to accept with complacency the idea of a Federal guardianship over the competitive athletic activities of American youth.

"If there is corruption in boxing, baseball, basketball, in any sport there are laws now on the books to punish the culprits, as has been shown time and time again....."

Land O'Lakes Creameries came to our community by invitation nearly forty years ago. It was in the late 'twenties. A poultry cooperative had gone through bankruptcy, adding to the many other troubles our agricultural community was subjected to at that time.

Land O'Lakes was appealed to and it responded with an offer to build a poultry plant here under certain conditions. The community would have to raise a substantial sum of money, and dollars were not easy to find in those days. But the community responded and Land O'Lakes established a branch at Thief River Falls.

That was the beginning of a marketing program that brought to Northwestern Minnesota an industry that encouraged the production of dairy and poultry products by providing excellent marketing facilities for the processing and sale of those products. In my book the longest step forward our community has made during the last half century was the decision of Land O'Lakes to build a poultry plant in Thief River Falls.

Now there are those who tell us that Land O'Lakes 'ain't done right by us.' We are told that Land O'Lakes should increase the price of milk so the producers would get a better return for their efforts.

Well, maybe the price of milk is too low, taking into consideration the big increases in production costs. I will not argue this point. Production costs are up. But Land O'Lakes cannot arbitrarily control prices. The market doesn't work that way. Prices are controlled by some pretty tough laws relating to supply and demand.

Our government in Washington can ignore these laws as long as it's credit lasts, but the government's credit is limited by the same basic rules and regulations that determine our credit as individuals. When our expenditures exceed our income we are headed for trouble.

I would suggest that those who believe prices can be controlled by some majic formula should get in touch with Orville Freeman, the big-city lawyer who is now our Secretary of Agriculture. He is one of those sharp fellows who knows all the answers, and if he doesn't know them, he is surrounded by glib fellows who do know all the answers.

If the dairymen were a majority group whose votes were important nationally, I am sure brother Orville would come up with some popular answers, but I am not sure they would be the right answers.

From my observation of some of the top men in the Land O'Lakes organization, I am sure that they are competent and are doing the best they can. Land O'Lakes, I believe, deserves the confidence of it's patrons.

President Johnson called for speedy resumption of shipping operations on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts which have been closed since June 15 by prohibitive shipping rates imposed by a strike. He did not ask that the issues involved in this tie-up of ships be settled at this time. He asked that the key issues be set aside for later determination. In this approach, presumably, he offended neither side on the controversial questions, and that, no doubt was good politics if it was not good leadership.

An Associated Press report from Washington, we read in the Winnipeg Tribune, states that the United States may already have lost out on wheat sales to the Soviet Union. The U. S. is not in a position to compete with other wheat exporters supplying the Russians because a government regulation requires that at least half of the wheat sold to Eastern European Communist countries must be shipped by U. S. Flag ships.

Higher labor costs make it impossible for American ships to compete with the ships of other countries. The Farmers' Union Grain Terminal of St. Paul says the government shipping regulation costs the U. S. $100 million a year in sales. It says these sales would help reduce the foreign trade balance of payment deficit.

Some farm groups and members of Congress have been urging President Johnson to rescind the U.S. flag requirements but labor groups want them retained. To the President the wishes of the labor groups are far more important than the wishes of the farmers and the general welfare of the nation as a whole.

Former President Dwight Eisenhower visited with friends at the national capitol recently. He is just as sure today as he was when he occupied the White House that inflation will follow an unbalanced budget. Richard L. Strout, writing for the Christian Science Monitor, made the following observation on the Eisenhower doctrine:

"This was the familiar Eisenhower doctrin with which he repudiates the so-called Kennedy-Johnson-Heller new economics. In a famous article in the Saturday Evening Post May 18, 1963,' Mr. Eisenhower denounced spending and before that, time after time reporters who traveled with him in 1952 and 1956 heard him attack unpaid debts, which he said would fall on "my grandchildren."

Hoard's Dairyman reports with understandable satisfaction that the American Medical Association in a book published recently, "gives milk and dairy products top billing in its foods and nutrition section." In brief the Medical Association states that "milk or some milk product is recommended every day for everyone—"

For many years milk, the most perfect food, and dairy products in general, have been blamed for many of mankind's physical shortcomings, and it is encouraging to know that the Medical Association is now calling a halt to such mischievous and unfair criticism and condemnation of a food of such high nutritional qualities.

Now then what is the dairy industry going to do to exploit this unexpected and favorable endorsement by the Medical Association. Most other progressive industries, alert to their opportunities, would take immediate steps to give widespread publicity to this favorable endorsement by an organization in which the people have confidence.

How about it, you cooperatives and processors of dairy products?

Senator Thruston B. Morton is a Republican, but he is also a Southerner, from the normally Democrat state of Kentucky. His bitter criticism of President Johnson's wasteful spending and his conduct of the war in Vietnam are therefore of special significance.

He has stated that the war in Vietnam may cost up to ten billion dollars next year but that the President has asked for an appropriation of only one and one-half billions for this purpose. And, he says, 'the people are told that they may need fear for none of the promises of the great society. They can have those and the expanding costs of an expanding war at the same time."

In this argument my guess is that Senator Morton comes a lot closer to having his feet on the ground than does the President.

Rainfall Total High This Month But No Frost Yet

With the month of September half complete, the total rainfall figure for the month so far stands at 3.58 inches. By comparison, the average precipitation total for the entire month of September is 2.61 inches. The steady rain of Tuesday accumulated to 1.10 inches by 6 p.m., with another .06 inch recorded this morning. Temperatures in recent days have remained chilly, with highs mostly in the 50's and lows in the lower 40's and upper 30's, but no killing frost has been recorded here as yet.

The weather picture is not expected to brighten much during the next couple of days. Considerable cloudiness today, tonight and tomorrow is forecast, with occasional rain spreading over the state tonight and continuing tomorrow. Cooler temperatures in the northwest tonight will spread over the state tomorrow. Highs today will range from 52 to 62; lows tonight from 38 to 48.

High and low temperature and precipitation readings recorded by North Central Airlines at the airport weather station are as follows: 61 and 39 on Monday; 56, 44 and 1.10 inches on Tuesday; and a low this morning of 41 with .06 inch of rain recorded.

MORRC Hearing On State Park Timber Cut Set

Minnesota Outdoor Recreation Resources commission will seek reactions to timber cutting and natural area policies in Itasca and the state's other parks at a public hearing at Douglas Lodge, in Itasca State Park, Saturday, September 25, at 9:30 a.m. Counties more directly affected by the timber cutting and natural area policies in state parks include Becker, Beltrami, Cass, Hubbard, Itasca, Koochiching, Mahnomen, Red Lake and Pennington.

"The hearing," according to Senator Henry M. Harren, Albany, MORRC chairman, "will be part of a study being made by the commission under charges given it by the 1965 legislature.

"This look at timber cutting and natural areas is the result of a petition by a group of local legislators who called for a commission to study timber cutting policies in Itasca State park. It was the decision of the legislature to turn he job over to MORRC and expand the study to all state parks."

Harren says views and statements will be sought from all interested organizations and individuals as an important ingredient of the study. "The only request is that those testifying have copies of their statements in writing for distribution to the Commission at the meeting."

"Purpose of the hearing, and the study, is to determine if existing policies to maintain state parks in a natural state is in the best interests of the people of our state or, if changes are needed.

"It is a question of the need to preserve natural areas and resources while at the same time to provide adequate income for counties and local units of government with a great percentage of lands off the tax roles as non-productive natural areas."

While timber cutting is permitted in state and national forests, under existing policies and laws, it is not allowed in natural areas of state parks except in removing diseased and town timber. Wind thrown timber is salvaged only when of sufficient quanity.

Counties and local units of government share in a portion of the income from forest timber sales. Normally no such income comes from timber sales in state parks.

Rep. Fitzsimons Attends Meeting At National Park

Rep. Richard Fitzsimons of Argyle attended the national conference of the National Forestry association and the National Association of Garden Clubs of America during their joint meeting at Jackson Lake Lodge in Grand Teton National Park September 5-8. Rep. Fitzsimons was one of the members of the Minnesota Natural Resources and Outdoor Recreation commission in attendence at the conference.

The conference theme was centered around the words "America the Beautiful" and all the meetings were designed to inform and provoke discussion as to how all agencies of government and individual citizens could assist in the job of helping make America more beautiful.

Much emphasis was placed on how valuable were the local garden clubs and conservation and sportsmen clubs along with all the various federal and state agencies. All of the conference speakers pointed out the continuing growth of leisure time in America and the pressure that greater numbers of people seeking outdoor recreation is putting on our limited resources.

In spite of much greater spending on the part of federal and state agencies, the conclusion was drawn that unless local groups of people like the garden clubs and the conservation clubs took the lead in planning and doing things the job would never get done.

Highlight of the conference was the appearance of Mrs. Lyndon Johnson who spoke at the Tuesday evening banquet. Mrs. Johnson called on all people, young and old alike, to take up the challenge of making a more beautiful America. She outlined in great detail many of the things she thought could be done on the national, state and local level. Mrs. Fitzsimons accompanied Rep. Fitzsimons on the trip to the conference.

Editorials . . .

"A violent revolution falls into the hands of narrow-minded fanatics and of tyrannical hypocrites at first. Afterward comes the turn of all the pretentious intellectual failures of the time. Such are the chiefs and the leaders. The scrupulous and the just, the noble, humane and devoted natures; the unselfish and the intelligent may begin a movement—but it passes away from them. They are not the leaders of a revolution. They are its victims." —Joseph Conrad

Solving Our Ills

In an eight-page report, the Committee for Economic Development has listed steps for a national policy on "Raising Low Incomes Through Improved Education". The committee, with offices in New York City, is comprised of representatives of a wide variety of industrial, commercial and economic firms in the nation.

In most cases we agree with the general theme of the report, but we take extreme exception to one statement which is made in passing without further clarification. One paragraph of the report states:

"Obstacles to the employment of people in their most productive occupations need to be reduced—including those resulting from racial discrimination, from union barriers against entry and from artificially maintained wage rates. Better protection needs to be provided for families that are deprived of an adequate income by the death, old age or illness of the family wage earner. SPECIAL MEASURES MUST BE TAKEN TO REDUCE THE LABOR FORCE ENGAGED IN AGRICULTURE. (Emphasis is our own). Continuing attention, in fiscal and monetary policy and in other fields, must be devoted to keeping down the general level of unemployment."

We might ask what benefit to the economy would accrue from reducing the labor force engaged in agriculture. No indication is given in the report; the statement is merely made and left hanging in mid-air.

Transfer of the rural population of the nation to the congested streets and dog-eat-dog competition of our metropolitan areas is no blessing in our nation. It is a national shame. The farmers who love God's rich earth and green fields resent being considered second class citizens, and well they should resent it. Agriculture has contributed immeasurably to the growth of our nation, and now it is being harrassed and critized from every conceivable angle.

This situation is unjustified and grossly unfair. The farmers and other residents of the rural areas of the United States deserve better treatment. Solve our ills by reducing the labor force engaged in agriculture? Ridiculous.

Where Are They?

Minnesota Republican party chairman George Thiss recently made a statement that calls for further clarification. Commenting on the Rolvaag rift in the DFL party in the state, Thiss stated, "They have to anticipate that the candidates will have to win on the basis of their merits—and the Republicans have the better candidates."

Where are they?

While it is true that the DFL is casting about for a method to rid itself of Governor Rolvaag's possible bid to seek reelection, the Republican party has failed to offer any real threat to the DFL position in the state. Several prominent Republicans have been mentioned in regard to the governorship, but these have been merely conjecture and speculation by some of the prominent news media in the state.

It has been reported that Congressman Clark MacGregor has been feeling the public's political pulse on recent forays into the state. If this is true, and it quite likely is true, the congressman has failed to indicate any real interest in the state's top executive position.

Another mentioned is Elmer Andersen, former governor, who Rolvaag edged on a recount ballot to ascend to the governorship. Neither Andersen nor the Republican party has confirmed his interest in trying for the post again.

If the Republicans have the better candidates, where are they?

Boosting Taxes

It makes no difference whether you are labeled a Republican or a Democrat, a liberal or a conservative, a rich man or a poor man, a college student or a drop-out, a poverty man or a welfare man, we all pay taxes—either direct or in the price of rent, food, commodities or services. The more we ask from government, the higher go the living costs.

Harry F. Byrd, the illustrious Democrat Senator from Virginia, has long been the watchdog of the federal treasury. He has sought to expose the folly of establishing bureaus without limitations. Once established, they grow and grow and the people pay in taxes.

The Senator cites one of the newer federal bureaus that has increased its expenditures over 300 per cent in the past 13 years —from some $2 billion to over $7 billion. Senator Byrd points out that if one of the proposed new bureaus expands proportionately, if it should be established, it would be a $225 billion department by fiscal 1978.

The people never get to vote on such a proposition. All the big spending measures are presented as something beneficial to the people. Cost is soft pedaled and new bureaus are born. From then on they are permanent and all the people can do is pay and pay and pay in taxes or in the cost of products or services of which taxes are a part of the price. The same policy follows from Congress down through state legislatures.

Whenever bureaucracy increases, the supposed beneficiaries, the people, get the bill. The only recourse they have is to say "No" when they vote and stop begging public fun
—Industrial News Review

The Rise in Crime

A member of 180,000 Minnesota families will either be the victim or will commit a major crime in 1965, according to a Minneapolis attorney who spoke recently in Bloomington. Doug Head, Minneapolis attorney and former state legislator, noted that one Minnesota family in five will be touched by crime in 1965.

Citing figures from the biennial report of the Minnesota Bureau of Criminal Apprehension, Head said, "The cost of crime and crime prevention to the people of Minnesota in 1965 will be more than $500 million—$143 for every man, woman and child in the state." It gives a person something to seriously consider.

Stating that the Minnesota crime rate is increasing at a rate 10 times as fast as the population increase, Head suggested the following five areas in which he believes increased effort would reduce the trend:

(1) Numbers of police should be increased, particularly in suburban areas which have the fastest rising crime rates;

(2) Communications should be improved to the point where all officers on duty can be reached or can call for aid in a matter of seconds;

(3) Police training should be improved and extended in areas of collection of evidence, laws of arrest, record keeping, interrogation and human relations;

(4) Police salaries should be raised "significantly" to attract and keep the best possible men on the force;

(5) A strong community relations program should be instituted to develop greater respect and admiration for police officers. The community must be made increasingly aware of the need to attract and keep the best personnel for these dangerous and demanding jobs.

Too often the public does not appreciate its law enforcement officials, being quick to criticize and reluctant to praise. These people expect a policeman—generally poorly paid for working wierd hours—to deal with the most undesirable elements in the community and with dangerous and unpredictable persons while remaining kind and courteous and avoiding use of force.

We believe that much of what Head says is true in our community, although there is much greater opportunity for commission of crime in the metropolitan areas and their suburbs. Treating juveniles who commit major crimes with the same basic procedures as adults are treated would also be desirable.

For one family in every five to be touched by a major crime brings the problem right close to home. This is not a problem which will solve itself if left alone. It needs some intensive work, and we believe that Head has the right approach.

REMEMBER THE "GOOD OLD DAYS"?

Picture Courtesy Minnesota Historical Society

Remember the old flat irons or sad irons heated on the wood stove? There was no steam and spray ironing in those days! Today the old flat iron is a collector's item, often relegated to the role of door stop, thanks to rural electricity as generated by Minnkota Power Cooperative and distributed by local rural electric cooperatives.

Council Allows Vote on Swimming Pool Bond

Voters of Thief River Falls will have opportunity at the November 2 city election to express their views on the question of construction of a community swimming pool as a result of final action taken by the city council at its regular meeting Tuesday night.

The council voted unanimously to place on the general election ballot the question of whether the city should issue general obligation bonds not to exceed $200,000 for construction of an outdoor swimming pool of the type planned by the swimming pool committee.

A second motion was passed stating that the council did not endorse the information brochure submitted by the swimming pool committee, and advising the committee that all reference to the council in the brochure should be deleted. The city fathers explained that the motion did not indicate disapproval of the brochure which will be printed and distributed by the committee, but that the council did not intend to take sides on the question.

The council granted four building permits having a total valuation of $92,390. They are as follows: Melville Simon, 816 N. Duluth, addition to garage, $800; Thief River Development, apartment unit on the 500 block on Kendall av. S., $90,000; Howard Hagen, 216 S. Kneale, addition to dwelling, $450; and Gordon Thrane, 837 S. Kendall, garage and breezeway, $1,140.

A bid amounting to $3,732.50 submitted by the Wagner E. Wold construction firm of International Falls for sewer and water extension 400 feet south of Nora street between Maple and Kneale avenues was accepted.

As is necessary every two years, the city passed a resolution entering into an agreement with the state whereby the state will pay 50 per cent of the actual snow removal cost at the airport, providing the cost does not exceed $500.

City Attorney Robert A. Wurst was authorized by the council to intervene on behalf of the city in the question of removal of Soo Line trains 9 and 10 from active service, which will be brought for hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission October 18 in St. Paul.

Resolutions to pay estimates on airport and street construction were passed at the session. Airport construction estimates are as follows: Komatz Construction, $62,072.35; Elding Electric, $2,678.10; and Stewart & Walker, $5,829.17. Street construction estimates include Black Top Surfacing, Inc., $157,192.85; Stewart & Walker, $22,240.68; and Kasson Sewer and Water, $45,748.90.

Miss Mary Jane Gall, who spent the summer months working at Estes Park, Colo., the gateway city to the Rocky Mountain national park, returned Tuesday to Mankato State college where she is enrolled for her second year. Before returning to college, she spent a week here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Gall.

Band, Orchestra Demonstration Is Set on Thursday

Band and orchestra instruments will be demonstrated Thursday at 8 p.m. by James Solsten and John Moum, respective orchestra and band directors in the local school system, at a demonstration to be held in the Washington elementary school gymnasium. All parents of students in fifth grade or older are encouraged to attend.

The demonstration is designed to give parents an opportunity to hear the different instruments used in the two organizations and find out which instruments have been recommended for their children on the basis of tests given in the school. A number of instruments will also be on display.

Jeanette Noper Heads FNA Group

Members of the local chapter of Future Nurses of American held their first meeting of the school year Wednesday at Lincoln high school. Officers elected were Jeanette Noper, president; Joyce Peterson, vice president and program chairman; and Luann Hersel, secretary and treasurer.

Elected to the program committee were Beverly Borgen, Judy Oski, Jeanette Noper and Joyce Peterson. Chapter advisor is Margaret Race.

Welfare Conclave Scheduled in Ada

"Welfare—A Community Asset" is the theme selected for the annual conference of Region III of the Minnesota Welfare association to be held October 6 in Ada. Morris Hursh, commissioner of Minnesota's Public Welfare department, will be the main speaker of the conference.

Counties included in Region III are Becker, Clay, Kittson, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau, according to Ronald D. Mooers, director, Pennington county welfare department.

In addition to Hursh's talk about the part county welfare plays in our lives, the group, also will discuss homemaking services and adoption. The adoption program will be a discussion of current adoption practices in both public and private adoption agencies.

Minnesota Welfare association has as its members both professional social workers and other interested non-professionals. The conference is open to the public. Every citizen interested in finding out more about welfare programs should attend.

With the current interest in welfare, the conference officers believe this meeting will be the biggest ever held in Region II. Anyone interested in attending should contact the welfare director at the court house in his county.

Five Men Enter Election Races

Five Thief River Falls men have thrown their hats into the ring in quest of positions in city government for the coming year. Arnold Nurverud has filed for election as alderman at large; Ambrose Wysoski for reelection as third ward alderman; Robert Carlson for reelection as first ward alderman; Dr. A. E. Jacobson for reelection as fourth ward alderman; and Mayor Orin J. Green for reelection as mayor. Deadline for filings is midnight on October 4. The election will be held November 2.

18 Cases Tried Monday in TRF Municipal Court

Eighteen highway patrol, police and game warden cases were brought for trial before Judge Stanley N. Mortenson in Thief River Falls municipal court on Monday. Inadvertently omitted from last week's court proceedings was the case of Ronald McCauley, Thief River Falls, allowing dog to run at large, $10 fine with $5 suspended.

Highway patrol cases included Duane Howard, Goodridge, speed, $15 bond forfeited; Donovan Dyrdal, rt. 5, failure to display flare, $20 bond forfeited; Robert Loeffler, Thief River Falls, speed, $15 fine; Melvin Scholin, rt. 5, Thief River Falls, speed $15 bond forfeited; and Raymond Wallace, rt. 2, Backus illegal brakes, $15 bond forfeited.

Charged by the city police were Richard A. Kelly, Thief River Falls, driving over center line, $25 fine with $10 suspended; Walter Leach Jr., Thief River Falls, failure to heed stop sign, $15 fine, Lois Gilbertson, Crookston, failure to heed school stop sign, $20 fine with $5 suspended; Robert McGlynn, rt. 4, Warren, failure to heed school stop sign, $20 fine with $5 suspended; Kenneth Armstrong rt. 1, Bovey, failure to heed red light, $15 bond forfeited;

Also Gay Spilde, Halma, driving without license, $30 fine; Karl Jasnock, Thief River Falls, permitting unlicensed driver to drive, $20 fine; Walter Dumler, Spencer, Wis., driving without license, $30 Thief River Falls, careless driving, $30 bond forfeited; Robert Kinsman, two charges of overtime parking (warrants issued), $10 bond forfeited on each charge; and one person charged with drunkenness.

Clarence J. Johnson and Merle Naeseth, both of Goodridge, were charged by the state game warden with taking a deer during the closed season. They pleaded not guilty in court on Monday, but on Tuesday changed their plea to guilty and were each fined $100.

Social Security Man Here Tuesday

Chuck Fahlberg of the Grand Forks district office of the Social Security administration will be in Thief River Falls at the city auditorium on Tuesday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Classes began Monday at 8 a.m. as the new junior college in Thief River Falls opened its doors to 159 students enrolled. Dean Charles White expressed pleasure at the number of students and stated that enrollment for the fall quarter will remain open through the rest of this week.

Latest check of the enrollment sheets indicates that the 159 students come from 38 communities. Thief River Falls has about 35 students enrolled. Other towns represented include Alvarado, Argyle, Badger, Baudette, Cottonwood, Crookston, East Grand Forks, Erskine, Greenbush, Goodridge, Hallock, Halstad, Humboldt, Karlstad, Lake Bronson, Lancaster, Mahnomen, McIntosh, Mentor, Middle River, Minneapolis, Moorhead, Newfolden, Oklee, Oslo, Plummer, Red Lake Falls, Roseau, St. Paul, Stephen, Strandquist, Viking, Warren, Warroad, Williams, Winger and Worthington.

Dean White credited the enrollment total—which he termed "much greater than we anticipated" to the work and encouragement of the local junior college committee and to the principals, superintendents and counselors in the area who supported junior college here.

"We had received nearly 200 applications for enrollment through the spring and summer," Dean White said. "Basing final enrollment estimates on the percentage of loss at other schools, we ordered books and supplies for between 120 and 130 students. Additional supplies have been ordered and are expected to be here this week.

"We are happy that those students who registered last spring did not give up and decided to attend here this fall. At present we have 26 class sections in the various courses offered. The high school administration has been very cooperative and has indicated that

Teachers' Night Tickets on Sale

Tickets for the welcome night program and buffet luncheon sponsored by the education committee of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce are now on sale, according to Dr. H. R. Achenbach, chairman of the sub-committee arranging the event. The event will welcome faculty and administration of all the city's schools.

Dr. Rodney A. Briggs, dean of the University of Minnesota, Morris, will speak at the program to be held at 8 p. m. in the Lincoln senior high school auditorium. The buffet luncheon will follow with the $1 ticket admitting both husband and wife to the program and luncheon.

Welfare Center Open on Monday

Seventh-day Adventist health and welfare center located on the second floor of the Thief River clinic building will be open Monday to distribute clothing to families in need. Anyone wishing to donate clothing may bring it to the south entrance of the building at that time.

Rainfall Again Hits Area After Sunny Weekend

The old haymaker was seen from the Thief River Falls area for the first time in two weeks on Saturday and Sunday, as fair skies provided a break from the cool, wet weather which has plagued the area through the month of September. More clouds rolled in on Sunday evening, however, and Tuesday afternoon's rain dropped .15 inch at the airport.

There has been no killing frost, although sprouting of swathed grain has become a problem. Extremely wet conditions have thrown a monkey wrench into area combining. Total rainfall thus far this month is 4.46 inches. By comparison, the average precipitation total for the entire month of September is 2.61 inches.

Considerable cloudiness is forecast today with showers spreading over the state but ending in the northwest late this afternoon. A cold front, the leading edge of a high-pressure area, will advance from the northwest today, causing skies to clear in most of the state by tomorrow. Little temperature change is predicted tonight, but it will be cooler tomorrow. Highs today will range from 52 to 62; lows tonight from 35 to 45.

Temperature and precipitation readings recorded during the past week at the airport are as follows: 58, 41 and .08 inch on Wednesday; 55, 43 and .30 inch on Thursday; 47, 38 and .41 on Friday; 55 and 38 on Saturday; 61 and 37 on Sunday; 65 and 37 on Monday; 61, 37 and .15 inch on of 37.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Coontos of Duluth arrived here Tuesday to visit at the home of their son, Rick, and his family. They will return to their home Thursday after helping their son celebrate his birthday.

Legion Post's Open House To Show Remodeling Work

REMODELED interior of the American Legion club rooms will be shown to the public at an open house to be held this weekend. Post and auxiliary activities are scheduled for Saturday beginning at 10 a.m. Free coffee and cookies will be served during the 1 to 4 p.m. open house on Sunday. The club has been extensively remodeled in Early American decor with a considerable amount of new furniture and fixtures added. This view shows a lounge area adjacent to the dance floor in the building's middle room.

Ecklund - Holmstrom Post 117 of the American Legion in Thief River Falls will hold a grand opening of its extensively remodeled clubrooms Saturday and Sunday. Activities Saturday will begin at 10 a. m. with a public open house set from 1 to 4 p. m. Sunday. Free coffee and cookies will be served during the Sunday hours.

Live music will be provided for dancing from 1 to 5:30 p.m. Saturday with a smorgasbord to be served from 5:30 to 7 p. m. Presentation ceremonies, with a number of past and present officials from district and department levels of the American Legion participating, will take place at 7:30 p. m. Dancing to the music of Jim and His J-Notes will begin at 9 p. m.

With Ranum Construction company as the general contractor, the club rooms have been renovated and decorated in Early American decor. The entrance has been moved to the south side of the building adjacent to the post's parking lot, the east section of the interior has been completely changed to provide a stock room, walk-in cooler, enlarged ladies' lounge and remodeled cocktail lounge area.

A large area of the club has been carpeted, new lighting is provided with rehostat controlled chandeliers, the ceiling has been lowered in part of the building, the heating system has been changed to provide more uniform heating and electronic filters for smoke removal have been installed.

While history of the post dates when the present building was purchased from the Hanson Motor company, Robert Bredeson was chairman of the building committee. In 1950 the parking lot area was purchased from the Robertson Lumber company.

The first property owned by the post, however, was acquired by a building comittee headed by M. R. Leverson in May of 1941. Leonard Hanson and Frank Tunberg were committee members. This property, consisting of two lots, was intended for use as a post home and was located east of Main avenue between First and Second streets at the present site of Wiener Motor company. The land was sold in 1919 for more than five times its original purchase price.

First remodeling of the building was done in 1949 when the Hanson Motor company building was initially purchased. In 1957 the building was remodeled again with extensive work being done on the kitchen, west meeting room and lounge area. In 1963 a steel building for storage was added to the southwest corner of the original building.

During its history the American Legion post and its auxiliary have been active in many endeavors. The post organized one of the early Boy Scout troops, junior baseball, conducted a huge annual auto and style show and later a carnival, worked with the Salvation Army and welfare agency for many relief projects, started a school safety patrol and participated in Boys State and Legionville. In 1925, when H. O. Chommie was post commander and Mrs. Leonard Hanson was auxiliary president, Thief River Falls hosted the state American Legion convention. The local post joined with Crookston, East Grand Forks and the Canadian Legion in Winnipeg to form the IWVA in 1937.

The auxiliary was organized in 1922 and has since been active in welfare work, formed a state champion drum and bugle corps, has recently had department champion vocal groups, sponsored Girls State and assisted the post in many ways. The 40 et 8 Voiture, an outgrowth of the Legion, has conducted a nurses' scholarship program and also aided Post 117

Swanson-Knutson Vows Spoken At Goodridge

Miss Sharon Lee Swanson of Goodridge and Royal Clinton Knutson of Grygla exchanged marriage vows Saturday, August 21, at 8 p.m. in the First Lutheran church at Goodridge. The Rev. Leland Steen officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar graced on either side by baskets of ferns. Presiding at the organ, a cousin of the bride, Mrs. Alan Bonander of Minneapolis played for the wedding march an air from "Water Music Suite" composed by Handel. Soloist, John Swanson, uncle of the bride sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest L. Swanson of Goodridge and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton M. Knutson of Grygla.

Escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a floor-length gown of chiffon over taffeta. The gown, designed and fashioned by the bride, featured a fitted bodice, gently scooped neckline, elbow length sleeves and a slim skirt styled with a modified tunic. Lace appliques enhanced the neckline, lower edge of the skirt and detachable train. A bouffant veil of tulle fell from a crown of lace and pearls and she carried a bouquet of three bronze mums, in gradual sizes, arranged in a cascade.

Rodney Knutson of Grygla attended his brother as best man. Groomsman was John Antos of Bemidji. A brother of the bride, Lowell Swanson of Goodridge, and Ernest Ashley of Bemidji served as ushers. The men of the wedding party wore white dinner jackets, dark trousers and bronze mum boutonnieres.

The mother of the bride was attired in a beige dress with matching jacket and brown accessories while the mother of the groom wore a beige brocade dress. Both mothers wore identical corsages of yellow roses.

Attending the wedding as honor guests were the grandmother of the bride, Mrs. John Swanson of Goodridge and the grandparents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. John Benitt of Holt and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Knutson of Bemidji.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was given in the Goodridge high school gymnasium by the parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Payne of Circle One of the First Lutheran church, Goodridge, served as hostess. Approximately 200 guests were in attendance.

The four-tiered wedding cake decorated with yellow roses and topped with a silver Christogram was baked and decorated by Anita Swanson, sister of the bride. Cutting and serving the cake were Mrs. Ed Geving of Goodridge and Mrs. Orvus Benitt of Holt, aunts of the bride and groom, respectively. Pouring were Mrs. Halvor Reise of Bemidji and Mrs. Harold Nelson of Grygla, aunts of the groom and Mrs. Clarence Noer of St. Paul and Mrs. Albert Kassa of Goodridge, aunts of the bride. Miss Rhonda Knutson, Grygla, sister of the groom, registered the guests while cousins of the bride, Jean Ann Jones of Dunkerton, Iowa and Eileen Anderson of Goodridge served the punch.

Waitresses were Mrs. Herb Sprague, Detroit Lakes; Mrs. Burnard Sturre, Goodridge; and Miss Annelle Johnson of St. James, all cousins of the bride together with Mrs. Elry Elroy Benitt and Mrs. Rueben Benitt both of Middle River and Mrs. Donald Larson of Thief River Falls, all aunts of the groom.

Gifts were arranged by Mrs. Bob Ofegaard and Mrs. Ernest Ashley, both of Bemidji and Mrs. James Wilson of Willmar, cousins of the bridal couple and Miss Marie Peterson, Minneapolis; Deane Kalberg, Ortonville and Edith Berg of Cumberland, Wis., college classmates.

Carrying gifts were Ida Anderson of Goodridge, Valerie Benitt of Holt, Joyce Jones of Dunkerton, Ia., and Gloria Benitt of Middle River, cousins of the bride and groom.

Guests attending were from Dunkerton, Ia., Cumberland, Wis., St. James, St. Paul, Fridley, Minneapolis, Willmar, Bemidji, Ada, Ortonville and surrounding towns.

For traveling to Bemidji, along the North Shore drive and into Canada, the bride wore a green knit dress and a corsage of mums.

The newly weds are at home at 407 East Fifth, Ada, where the bride, a graduate of Goodridge high school and Augsberg college is Home Extension agent of Norman county. The groom also a graduate of the Goodridge high school, attended Bemidji State college and is a member of the Ada elementary school faculty.

Zehlian Art Club Will Support Various Programs

Members of the Zehlian Art group of the Thief River Falls Federation of Women's club met Thursday, September 16, at the James Disse home. Mrs. Arthur Forsberg Jr., the Zehlian new president, conducted the business meeting.

Plans were formulated for the coming cyear. It was voted to continue the support of the Federation program in sending care packages and in supporting the scholarship program

Mrs. Rudy Sagmoen, secretary, reported to the group that she presented to the Thief River Falls city council the wishes of the Women's club in designating the old library building for use as a historical museum. She had also voiced the concern of the club about the deteriorating machinery within the city and city approaches.

The Zehlians also toured the new home of the Disses and noted the many ways in which Mrs. Disse had utilized her artistic ability.

Those attending were Mrs. Arthur Forsberg Jr., Mrs. Bill Holmes, Mrs. Harold Elofson, Mrs. Ray Kiland, Mrs. Harold Rasmussen, Mrs. Rudy Sagmoen and Mrs. Paul Wendt.

The Zehlians received the invitation to hold the next meeting, Oct. 7, at the home of Mrs. Ray Kiland.

Two Area Women Elected Officers

Two area women were elected officers of the 13th District Horticultural society at the fall workshop meeting held Saturday at Badger. They were Mrs. Florence Anderson of the Newfolden garden club as second vice-president and Mrs. John Thompson of the Viking town and Country club as historian.

Other officers elected were Mrs. O. N. Hildahl of the Roseau Ladyslipper club, president; Mrs. Oscar Torrin of the Badger Gro-Rite club, first vice-president; Mrs. Robert Gayaux, Roseau Green Thumb club, secretary and Mrs. Donavan Olson, Warroad Hill and Dale club as treasurer. In charge of the installation rites was Mrs. Selvin Bertilrud of the Roseau Four Seasons club and past president of the 13th District.

With the out-going president, Mrs. Oscar Torrin of Badger, in charge of the meeting, two garden clubs, the Hill and Dale club of Warroad and the Argyle garden club, were welcomed into the membership of the society. Approximately 60 members and guests were present to hear the guest speaker, Claude Alexander, manager of the Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge.

A silver tea followed the meeting.

Reception Sunday For New Pastor & Family

Reception will be held to welcome into the community the new pastor of the Community Methodist church and his family, the Rev. and Mrs. Merrill Harris and family, on Sunday at 8 p.m. in the Community Methodist church, Thief River Falls. The program to begin at 8:30 p.m. will be followed by a social hour. Everyone is cordially invited to come and meet the Rev. Harris and his family.

Falls Squares Sponsor Festival; Get Invitations

Gale Broman of Duluth was guest caller Saturday in the local city auditorium at the Fall Harvest Festival square dance arranged by the Falls Squares of Thief River Falls. Area dancers arrived to find Mr. Broman at the microphone partially surrounded by lazy-looking scarecrows, corn stalks and fall flowers in abundance. Dancing was kept at a lively pace all evening with round dances following each set of squares.

Bill Duke, president of the Falls Squares welcomed those in attendance and also introduced the American Legion auxiliary sextette who entertained the group by presenting three selections. Greeting the guests as they arrived were Mr. and Mrs. Denny Inman and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Duke. Lunch was served by members of the Falls Squares with Mr. and Mrs. Chris Saustad and Mr. and Mrs. Don Peterson pouring. Serving on the decoration committee were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Parkins and Mr. and Mrs. Orvel Stocks.

The next dance to be held by the Falls Squares will be held October 2, with Ed DeLap as caller.

Invitations have been received to attend evening square dances September 25, at the McIntosh school gymnasium with Jerome Potucek calling and at Greenbush with Ed DeLap as caller. Vaugh Parrish will call at Grand Rapids October 1. Area callers, including Ed DeLap of this city, will be calling the tips Sunday afternoon, October 3 at Virginia. All area dancers are invited to these dances.

Silverleaf FU To Hold Annual Meeting Sat.

Annual meeting of the Silverleaf Farmers Union local will be held Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Silverton hall. Lloyd Nelson will be present and will show slides of his trip to Washington. A door prize will be given and lunch will be served by the Edward Berard and Henry Panek families. Everyone is welcome to attend.

BIRTHDAYS

may come and go but it is not likely that A F. Berge will soon forget the one recognized by the local Rotary club Monday noon. With three high school trumpeters playing a fanfare and "Happy Birthday" tune, Berge was presented with a cake by Marlys Mossestad, Miss Thief River Falls, and a former leader of the Bridgeman Halfpints marching unit. The Rotary recognizes birthdays of its members during the past week at its weekly meetings, but Monday's spectacular was somewhat out of the ordinary.

Projects Important To 4-H Club Program

Minnesota 4-H'ers are "learning by doing" and learning for living through their 4-H projects, according to Paul Stelmaschuk, Pennington county agent.

"The project is one of the important aspects of the 4-H program. It is the piece of work or study the 4-H member chooses to suit his own likes, interests, needs and home situation."

Today's projects are geared for boys and girls in town as well as country, Stelmaschik said. The science aspect is being emphasized in many projects. Many of the projects are divided into beginner, junior and advanced phases.

An example of a project in which members gain some practical experience and know-how is foods. The foods project enrolls the highest number of 4-H'ers in Minnesota. More than 23,000 girls are learning to prepare creative foods, snacks, lunches, picnics and family meals.

Some 20,000 boys and girls are enrolled in the livestock projects, which include dairy, beef, sheep, swine, rabbit, poultry, pleasure horse care and training. Most popular of these projects is dairy. However, enrollment in the pleasure horse projects has increased sharply in the past year.

Learning to make their own clothing has a fascination for girls, as is indicated by the number of girls taking clothing projects—more than 17,000 in Minnesota. For many girls the climax in this project comes as they are selected for the county or state dress revue where they model outfits they have made.

Another choice for girls is home improvement-family living in which they concern themselves with various housekeeping tasks, refurnishing a room, making purchases and taking care of children. The past year some 10,000 4-H'ers were enrolled in this project.

A number of projects are especially tailored for boys with a liking for mechanics. Among these are automotive, electric, shop and tractor.

Outdoor projects are concerned with plant and soil science, conservation, entomology and forestry. Horticulture projects have recently been reorganized into fruit, flower gardening, indoor gardening, lawns and landscape design, vegetable gardening and potato growning phases.

Such projects as health, safety and junior leadership appeal to many young people. Junior leadership has special interests for older 4-H members who enjoy helping leaders in the club as well as younger members.

During National 4-H Week, September 25 to October 2, boys and girls between nine and 19 who are not 4-H members but who are interested in "learning by doing" are invited to join a neighborhood 4-H club. See your county extension office at the courthouse in Thief River Falls for information about the club nearest you.

Marshall ASCS Wheat Allotment Notices Mailed

Marshall county ASCS office this week started mailing notice of 1966 farm wheat allotments to farmers in Marshall county. In most cases, the farm allotments are smaller for 1966 than they were for 1965. An explanation was offered by chairman Marcel Dahl of the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

"Farm allotments are smaller because the national wheat acreage allotment is smaller. For 1965, the national allotment was 49.5 million acres. For 1966, it has been reduced to 47.8 million acres — down 1.7 million acres, or about 3.4 per cent. The law also provides for a small-farm acreage increase as for the 1964 and 1965 crops. This would increase the national allotment about four million acres for a total national effective allotment of approximately 42 million acres.

"By law, the national acreage allotment is established at an amount which, based on expected yields, will produce a quantity of wheat equal to anticipated needs. The quantity of wheat needed for 1966 is about the same as was needed for 1965, but with a general increase in yields fewer acres are required to produce this amount."

The chairman said that the decision was made to send out the allotments at this time so farmers would have as much time as possible to plan their farming operations for next year.

State Employment Service Offers Job Opportunities

Minnesota State Employment service today announced that a shortage of qualified farm workers and truck drivers exists in portions of the Red River Valley. Much of the area has experienced considerable rainfall during the past few weeks, resulting in a delay in the completion of the grain harvest. As a result a shortage has developed due to the doubling up of harvest operations with the start of potato and beet harvest in the near future.

In short supply are workers qualified as tractor and combine operators, truck drivers and roto-beater operators. Current on file in the Crookston office are openings for 24 farm hands at $1.25 per hour; two farm couples at $225 per month; 26 truck drivers at $18.00 per day; and 13 roto-beater operators at $15 to $18 per day.

R. B. Eldevik, manager, Thief River Falls local office, has reported 20 to 25 openings for the beet harvest. These jobs offer similar wages to the Crookston area. Individuals interested in truck driving should possess a chauffeurs license in most cases. Most area farmers prefer to have their drivers at least 18 years of age.

Farm work will resume soon should weather conditions permit. Beet harvest will be general in the area on October 4, although several growers will begin harvesting their beets around September 29.

This work may be of special interest to individuals who may have completed their farm operations, have not used their vacations so far this year. Individuals are urged to contact either the Crookston or the Thief River Falls local offices regarding these jobs. Individuals securing these jobs may earn up to $250 in a two to three-week period depending on the type of work the individual can perform.

NMEA Workshop Held Saturday At Bagley School

Eighth annual Northern Division MEA committee workshop was held at the Bagley school Saturday.

The Northern division covers the sixteen northwest counties of Minnesota. Those attending from Thief River Falls were Grace Hartje, Gladys Paulson, Francis Hamerlinck, Lawrence Brown, Edith Etter, Orall B. Johnson, Kenneth Swenson, Al Sollom, Gladys Hoge and Alma Ralstad. Attending from Goodridge were Patricia Wollery, Elaine Sleete and Gene Connor.

Participants in the workshop were informed and instructed as to their responsibilities for the coming year, including making each school system a better and more active school to serve the local community.

Nicholas Duff, state president of the MEA, addressed the group with the theme, "Power Where It Counts". Duff said, "It is not enough to be elected to the position of local association president or appointed as a chairman of one of the committees, it is the action and acomplishments from this job that count."

NEW QUARTERS were occupied last week by Larson Music company in the building which formerly housed the Poppler Furniture company. As shown in the above photo, the new location is much more spacious than the old, allowing customers a lot of space to roam around the store. Many did so during the grand opening last week, when prizes were offered to the lucky registrants. The new store contains a wide selection of guitars, pianos, organs, records, stereo sets, portable phonographs, band instruments and sheet music.

Services Held At Middle River For Walter Stanina

Frank Stanina, 49, a resident of the Thief Lake area who died unexpectedly at his home Friday evening, were held Tuesday at 10 a.m. in St. Joseph's Catholic church at Middle River. The Rev. John Sturms officiated and interment was in the St. Bernard's Catholic cemetery, Thief River Falls. Collins Funeral home, Middle River, was in charge of making arrangements.

Walter Frank Stanina, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Louis Stanina, was born July 29, 1916 at Minneapolis. As a child he came with his parents to Thief Lake township, Marshall county where he attended school and grew to manhood. On July 31, 1948 he was united in marriage to Miss Ann Krysinski at Greenbush. Since their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Stanina had made their home in the Thief Lake area.

Survivors include his wife, Ann; one son, Jeffrey Stanina at home; three daughters, Shirley and Marie both at home and Mrs. Haven (Sandra) Johnson of Devils Lake, N.D.;

Also one sister, Mrs. Albin (Julia) Chaplinski of Middle River, three brothers, Emil, Middle River; Frank, Pengilly; and Eddie of Osseo, and one granddaughter.

He was preceded in death by one sister.

Mrs. Tommerdahl Rites Held Here; Interred At Gary

Mrs. Harry (Mathilda and also known as Tillie) Tommerdahl, 80, of 306 Tindolph Avenue North and a resident of this city for the past 41 years, died Sunday at Northwestern hospital.

Funeral services for Mrs. Tommerdahl were held today (Wednesday) at 2 p.m. at Trinity Lutheran church. The Rev. Harold R. Petersen officiated and interment was in the cemetery at Gary. Sinding's Funeral chapel was in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Tommerdahl, the former Mathilda Norby was born Dec. 10, 1884 to the late Mr. and Mrs. Ole Norby at Gary where she was baptized, confirmed and received her elementary education. She continued living at Gary until her marriage on Feb. 3, 1908 to Harry Tommerdahl. Mr. and Mrs. Tommerdahl lived for four years at Ada and Gary before homesteading in 1912 in Erie township, Pennington county. Since 1921, they have resided in Thief River Falls.

Mrs. Tommerdahl was a member of the Trinity Lutheran church and its ladies aid.

Survivors include her husband, Harry; two sons, Ben Tommerdahl of Fremont, Calif., and Lloyd of St. Paul; three grandchildren, two great-grandchildren, one sister, Mrs. Olga Strom of Ada and a number of nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by one son, five brothers and two sisters.

Rites Held For Ellen Anderson At Middle River

Mrs. Ellen Ovida Anderson, 58, a lifetime resident of the Middle River community, died Saturday at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Kilen, near Gatzke. Mrs. Anderson had been in failing health for the past several months.

Funeral services for Mrs. Ellen Anderson were held Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the First Lutheran church at Middle River. The Rev. Duane Nelson officiated and interment was in the Spruce Valley cemetery. Arrangements were by the Collins Funeral home, Middle River.

Mrs. Anderson, the former Ellen Ovida Peterson, was born Aug. 13, 1907 in Spruce Valley township, near Middle River. She attended school, grew to womanhood and spent her entire life in the Middle River community.

She was preceded in death by one son, a daughter and two sisters.

Mrs. Art Lillevig, Once of This Area, Interred In N.D.

Mrs. Art Lillevig, 65, a resident of Sheyenne, N.D., and formerly of this area, died Wednesday at Mercy hospital in Devils Lake, N.D.

Funeral services for Mrs. Lillevig were held Saturday in First Lutheran church, Sheyenne, N.D., where interment was made in the Riverside cemetery.

Mrs. Lillevig, the former Anna Brandrud, was born Sept. 3, 1900 in Wyandotte township, Red Lake County, (in section that is now a part of Pennington county,) the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Brandrud. A graduate of Lincoln high school and the Teachers Training department of Thief River Falls, she taught school for several years in Pennington, Lake of the Woods and St. Louis Counties.

In 1924, she was united in marriage to Arthur Lillevig of Graceton. For the past several years, Mr. and Mrs. Lillevig have farmed near Sheyenne, N.D.

She is survived by her husband, Arthur, two sons, Willis Lillevig, of Washington, D.C., and Earl of Frankfort, Ky.;

Also four sisters, Mrs. Sarah Wilson and Mrs. Martha Swenson, both of rural Thief River Falls, Mrs. Tilda Nelson of this city and Mrs. Gunda Drukey of Manhatten Beach, Calif.; one brother, Peter Brandrud, and several nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by two sisters.

STEWARDSHIP will receive emphasis September 24 through October 14 at Zion Lutheran church in Thief River Falls where Rev. Leland Steen (above) is pastor. A series of study sessions will begin Sunday with Rev. Steen to speak at 9 and 10:30 a.m. on "The Economics of Eternity." Carl Stoltz, Minneapolis, a resident counselor of the stewardship staff of the American Lutheran church, will be the instructor initiating the special emphasis. He will be in Thief River Falls for three weeks to direct the program and "increase the spiritual vitality of each of the members . . . through a series of congregational meetings, Bible studies and home visitations." Rev. Steen noted that the entire program is oriented around a system of Bible study for all members of the congregation and said the entire program of the church has been cleared for the three weeks of the program.

5 Per Cent of Drivers Tested Fail Vision Test

Of the 12,830 persons who had free eye checks by Minnesota highway department driver license examiners at the state fair this year, 652 failed to meet the 20-40 standard corrected vision required for a Minnesota driver license.

The failures represent 5.1 per cent of the total tested. Last year 5.5 per cent of 10,311 who took the test failed to pass.

Of those who took the test this year, 7,531 were licensed drivers and of these only 2,898 had ever been required to take an examination for a driver license. Minnesota has required examination for a license since 1938.

Although the number of failures this year may seem low compared to the 12,830 who took the test, the number of persons with poor vision out of the 1,875,000 licensed drivers in the state is estimated to be large enough to pose a serious problem to traffic safety, says the Minnesota highway department.

Results of this year's tests emphasize the need for required periodic vision checks. The present law in Minnesota does not require drivers to have eye checks upon renewal, but this would be the best time to have it done, says the Minnesota highway department.

Meeting Here Tonight . . .

Federal and State Funds Available for Recreation

Federal and state funds are now available for recreational projects in northern Minnesota as a result of action by the 1965 Legislature.

Announcement was made by Representative Richard W. Fitzsimons, Argyle, who explained he and MORRC staff people will be meeting with county officials in his area this week to explain the state recreational grant program authorized as part of Minnesota's natural and recreation resource development program.

Marshall and Kittson county board of commissioners will meet with Rep. Fitzsimons and MORRC staff at Hallock on Thursday at 9 a.m. tonight at Thief River Falls the Pennington and Red Lake County officials will meet with Fitzsimons at the request of Representative Andrew Skaar to hear of the new state and federal programs.

Fitzsimons, who is chairman of the House Appropriations committee, also serves as chairman of the special studies committee of the Minnesota Outdoor Recreation Resources commission, the legislative unit that recommended the grants program for recreational planning and project development.

The legislature provided funds from the natural resources account to share one-half the county costs of preparing recreational plans and 50 per cent of the county cost for land acquisition and development of recreational facilities supported by federal assistance programs," Rep. Fitzsimons said.

The Argyle legislator noted the legislative action was consistent with the general philosophy adopted by the Minnesota lawmakers in 1963 in providing for accelerated resource development in our state.

"The law was very specific in calling on every unit of government, as well as private enterprise, to join in our natural resource development. Subsequent action in Washington, such as passage of the Land and Water Conservation Fund program, echoed this concept.

"As MORRC prepared its recommendations for the 1965 legislative session, it became obvious the success of the program to get all levels of government as active participants would be frustrated if counties with limited financing were unable to take advantage of available federal help. All federal grant programs, of course, require the expenditure of local funds.

"New federal and state legislation emphasizes the need for planning before funds are available for recreational projects. Federal funds from the HHFA program, commonly called 701, are available to pay two-thirds of the cost of preparing comprehensive county plans—that is, a blueprint for development based on a recognition of the specific future needs of a county.

"Under the grant program approved by the legislature, the state will pay 50 cents of each dollar spent by counties for planning, up to $10,000 a year. This means a planning program costing $18,000 now will cost counties only $3,000, providing recreational needs are considered in the plan."

Once a plan is prepared, according to Rep. Fitzsimons, many of the local recreational projects are eligible for federal grants and additional state aids.

"The legislature has provided monies to pay one-half the costs to the county for land acquisition and development of recreational projects called for in the plan. This is in addition to available federal funds.

"As an example, say the planning shows there is a need for a county or local park, costing $100,000. Federal grants would pay $50,000 of this cost. Under the state grant program another $25,000 would be available to help finance the project. The total cost of the local unit of government would be only one dollar of every four spent."

Fitzsimons is now setting up a series of meetings with county officials in his area to explain how applications for both state and federal aids might be handled.

Jaycees To Paint Numbers on Curbs

Thief River Falls Jaycees will embark tonight on a campaign to provide homeowners in the city with house numbers painted on the curb with flourescent paint. Final arrangements for the program were made Tuesday evening at the regular meeting of the local chapter in the Elks club rooms.

Tonight the Jaycees will conduct a door-to-door sales canvass in the area of the city west of the Red Lake river. On Thursday night the area east of the river will be covered. Orders will be taken and a fee of 50 cents per house collected on these two evenings. Actual painting of the curbs will be accomplished on Saturday and Sunday.

Money raised through the project will be used primarily for a chapter-sponsored scholarship for a student at the new junior college in this city.

James Dale reported at the meeting that advertising had been sold for seat cushions which have now been ordered. Cushions will be turned over to the junior class at Lincoln high school which will sell them on a commission basis for the Jaycees as a class fund-raising project. Money from this project will be applied toward construction of a steel building on the Pennington county fairgrounds which will be used by the Jaycees as a permanent site for the chapter's dunking stand and storage for its float and other material.

Al Torkelson reported that his Jaycee committee had collected a gross of $589 for swimming pool promotion in the city. Funds will be turned over to the local swimming pool committee to assist it in distributing information on the proposed swimming facility.

Richard Jurde noted that judging was being done in the Farm Boy to Chicago project of the chapter by which a deserving FFA or 4-H club boy is provided with an expense-paid trip to Chicago for the International Livestock Exposition. The local winner will leave Thief River Falls on November 29.

Plans were also made for a stag smoker to be held Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the Fireside room of Noper's motel. All young men between the ages of 21 and 35 are invited to attend and learn more about the program and purposes of the local, state and national Jaycees, according to Rick Contos, chapter president.

Resident Sees Moose 125 Feet rom Deep Freeze

Another moose on the loose was reported in Thief River Falls this morning. Tilman Peterson of 401 Knight av. S. reported seeing a large bull moose run through the alley between his home and the Ole Vraa residence, cross the George Westby yard and continue into Riverside park. Moose were seen in the city earlier this year and a deer was also killed by a car in the downtown area early this summer.

the college does not interfere with the normal high school program."

Offices and classrooms for the college are located on the top floor of the old Lincoln building. Due to the nature of college classes able space could accommodate 350 students, Dean White said.

A number of students have inquired about part-time work available in the community. Employers having occasion to hire part-time personnel are invited to call the college office and Dean White will screen applicants for the positions available.

The college has four full-time faculty members in addition to Dean White; a librarian, Mrs. May Isaacson; and a secretary, Miss Patricia Anderson. There are also eight part-time instructors, six of them from the local high school faculty. These are listed with a photo of the full-time faculty in today's issue of the Times.

Introducing the Faculty

James Dalager

James Dalager, mathematics and physics instructor, is a native of St. Hilaire. He graduated from Lincoln high school in 1946, received a BA degree in chemistry from Concordia college in Moorhead in 1950 and served two years in the army.

After teaching high school for four years in Minnesota and South Dakota, he received a Master of Natural Science degree from the University of South Dakota in Vermillion in 1959. For five years he taught at Camrose Lutheran college in Alberta, Canada and last year received a Master of Arts and Teaching degree from Brown university at Providence, R. I. He is married and has three children.

Robert M. Keiffer

Robert Keiffer, English instructor, is a native of Eldon, Mo., and received a BA degree from Westminster college at Fulton, Mo., in 1961. He holds an MA degree from the University of Kansas at Lawrence, completing most of his work toward the degree from 1961 to 1964. Last year he taught English composition at Ball State university at Muncie, Ind.

Gas Tax Refund Claims Due To

Farmers and persons using gasoline for nonhighway purposes were reminded by George O. Lethert, district director of Internal Revenue, that September 30 is the deadline date for filing claims for refund.

The claim to be filed covers gasoline used during the 12-month period ending June 30, 1965. Necessary Forms 2240 and instructions for filing may be secured at the nearest Internal Revenue office.

Most farm operators who have filed previously will receive a form in the mail, which should be completed and forwarded to the Internal Revenue Service center, Ogden, Utah.

Rebecca Ferber Aids In College Program

Rebecca Ferber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Ferber of Thief River Falls, participated in Augsburg college Welcome Week program for freshmen September 8-19. Miss Ferber was co-chairman in charge of transfer students.

Classes began for Augsburg's 97th academic year on Wednesday, September 15.

Asks Exchange of Mail Privileges In Foreign Lands

"If we can't stop the flow of unwanted and unsolicited communist propaganda from blanketing the United States through our postal service, the least we can do is force these nations to give us something in return," said Congressman Odin Langen recently. Langen's remarks came before the House of Representatives as he introduced a bill to guarantee reciprocal mailing privileges for the United States in foreign nations that peddle literature in America.

"The Supreme Court struck down the bill that would have restricted the flow of political propaganda into the U. S.," said Langen, "so we now find ourselves flooded with literature that American taxpayers subsidized through the deficit-ridden postal service. At the same time, these same foreign nations prohibit literature from the United States from flowing through their own postal systems.

"This bill would not affect first class or air mail service, but would stop the mailing of newspapers, periodicals and other printed matter from being distributed in this country unless our mail is allowed to flow unhampered in the nation in question.

"If our citizens are forced to receive propaganda on the so-called glories of communism the people of those nations should be allowed to receive the truth about democracy," he said.

Sergeant Belland Given Viet Nam Air Force Role

Staff Sergeant Mark E. Belland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Belland of Thief River Falls, has completed the rigorous U. S. Air Force survival and special training course conducted by the Air Training command at Stead AFB, Nev. An aircraft loadmaster, he received combat-type escape and evasion training to enable him to survive under adverse climatic conditions and hostile environments.

The sergeant, who is being assigned to Saigon, Viet Nam, becomes a member of the Pacific Air Forces which provides offensive-defensive airpower for the U. S. and its allies in the Pacific, Far East and Southeast Asia. He attended Lincoln high school.

State To Receive $92 Million in '67 Road Funds

Minnesota's share of the recently-announced $4 billion in federal aid for highway construction for fiscal year 1967 will amount to $92,572,268, according to state highway commissioner John R. Jamieson. This is considerably more than any of the adjoining four states will receive, due largely to the greater expenditures Minnesota must make on its 900-plus-mile Interstate highway system.

Unlike other forms of federal aid, this money is not received in advance, but is reimbursed to the state as each project progresses towards completion. In addition, authorization is allocated on a quarterly basis, with the first installment of $23,143,067 not expected before October 1.

Mavie To March For 4H Club Week

Mavie 4-H club has scheduled a march around a downtown block in Thief River Falls Friday beginning at 8 p.m. The group will meet at the city auditorium and proceed to march on Main and LaBree avenues and on Second and Third streets, carrying 4-H placards and singing 4-H songs.

The march is to be held in observance of National 4-H club week which begins Saturday. About 20 Mavie club members are expected to participate. In charge of the affair are Judy Oski, Paulette Philipp and Christine Szymanski.

Odd Fellows and Rebekahs To Meet

Odd Fellows and Rebekahs regular meetings will be held at the Odd Fellows hall Thursday at 8 p.m. The Lyon Rebekahs will serve a free turkey dinner at 6:30 p.m. for all paid up members. Nonmembers will be charged for the meal.

Fosston, 7, at Fertile, 19.
Conference schedule, Friday, Sept. 24.
Warren at Ada.
Mahnomen at Fosston.
Fertile at Red Lake Falls.
Twin Valley at Bagley.

Coach Howard Emerson's Warren Ponies, led by their high-scoring and versatile halfback Pete Gilbert, romped over the Twin Valley Tigers, 53 to 0, in a game played at Warren on Saturday night. The win was the second conference victory for the Ponies as previously they had tallied a 33 to 0 win over the Baley Flyers.

This week's feature game in the Pine-to-Prairie conference will find the Warren Ponies playing the defending champion Ada Vikings at Ada. Last season the Vikings had a conference record of seven wins and no losses, and in a pair of games this season coach Les Dreschel's Ada squad has scored wins over Hawley, 21 to 0, and Red Lake Falls, 32 to 6. The winner of Friday night's tilt at Ada will move into a favored role in the conference standings.

Touch Football League To Open Season Tonight

First games in the six-team touch football league organized under the Thief River Falls park and recreation commission will be played tonight at the Pennington county fairgrounds. Persons interested in joining the league are asked to contact James Foley, city director for parks and recreation.

At 6:30 p.m. the North Star Natural Gas team managed by William Fahey will play the Thorp Loan team managed by Ronald Dargus. At 7:45 p.m. the Viking team managed by Irwin Melvie will play the defending champion Noreen's team managed by Lloyd and Kenneth Noreen. Final game will be at 9 p.m. when the Montgomery Ward team managed by Jack Coombs and William Herzog will play the Outlaws managed by Dick Peterson.

Result of last week's game:
Bemidji, 26, at East Grand Forks, 6.
Conference schedule, Friday, Sept. 24
Thief River Falls at East Grand Forks, 3 p. m.
Roseau at Bemidji, 7:30 p. m.

The Bemidji Lumberjacks of coach Kenneth (Red) Wilson opened their campaign in defense of their Northwest conference title by scoring a 26 to 6 win over East Grand Forks in a game played at East Grand Forks on Friday afternoon.

In non-conference games on Friday, the Thief River Falls Prowlers, paced by a four-touchdown performance by fullback Monte LeMoine, defeated Red Lake Falls, 39 to 0, in a game played at Red Lake Falls. The Crookston Pirates edged out the Park Rapids Panthers, 7 to 6, in a game played at Crookston's Highland Park field. And coach Julian (Curly) Gasperlin's well-rated Sacred Heart team of East Grand Forks defeated the Roseau Rams, 27, to 13.

Two conference games are on this week's slate. The Prowlers will travel to East Grand Forks for an afternoon game against the Green Wave. And coach Ray Kavanagh's Roseau Rams will meet the Lumberjacks at Bemidji on Friday night. And on Saturday night, the Crookston Pirates will entertain the Sacred Heart Eagles at Crookston's Highland Park field, with the kickoff slated for 7:30 p. m.

Herzog To Direct PP and K Contest

William Herzog, head football coach at Lincoln senior high school in Thief River Falls, has been named competition director for the Punt, Pass and Kick contest sponsored here by Tunberg Motor company.

Herzog will be responsible for all arrangements for the competition in which boys age eight through 13 compete against boys their own age in punting, passing and place-kicking for distance and accuracy. Date of the contest will be announced at a later date.

Waterfowl Flight From Canada Will Be Near Normal

Total flight of waterfowl from the prairie region of western Canada this fall is expected to be about equal to that of 1964, with major reasons being exceptional production from later-nesting species such as widgeon, gadwall, shoveler and blue-wing teal, plus good production by mallards and pintails in Alberta, the province which remains the brightest spot in the prairie waterfowl picture.

This report sums up observations given in the September issue of the Ducks Unlimited publication, "Duckological", prepared by General Manager Angus Gavin.

The report details aerial survey results in each of the prairie provinces. Alberta survey showed waterfowl population increases over 1964 in north-central and northwest portions but a slight decrease in the Peace River region. High water in the Athabasca Delta region of eastern Alberta has greatly reduced the waterfowl population in that area.

In Saskatchewan, better duck habitat conditions in southern farming areas are holding large numbers of ducks and may account for the reduced duck populations observed in the north during aerial survey. Widgeon, shoveler and gadwall have shown especially good production, but the mallard and pintail outlook is disappointing. Northern surveys showed canvasbacks and redheads are at about the 1964 level, but lesser scaup recorded "a great and unaccountable decrease."

Waterfowl increased in the Lake Manitoba basin in Manitoba, aerial surveys revealed, but other concentration areas show significant decreases in population. Severe floods and poor habitat conditions caused most of the decreases in The Pas area, but areas with good conditions still recorded numbers below those of 1964.

Former Holt Girl Gets "U" Degree

Ione Larson Danner of Bloomington, daughter of Mrs. Walter Larson and the late Walter Larson of Holt, was awarded a Bachelor of Science degree in education from the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis Sunday. She is presently employed by the Bloomington school system.

Orville Hanson, Middle River, Is Award Recipient

Orville Hanson of Middle River is among six University of North Dakota students in the College of Engineering who are recipients of scholarships given by the North Dakota Foundation for Engineering and Science. Milton B. Larson, dean of the college, reported that the six students were each awarded $250 to apply to their college expenses.

The recipients were selected by a scholarship panel representing the three sponsoring organizations. Application, selection and awarding is done by the engineers and scientists themselves. Of the 10 awards which the foundation makes, UND students received six. Four more were divided among other North Dakota school.

The foundation is composed of three cooperating organizations, including the North Dakota chapter of the Associated General Contractors, the North Dakota Society of Professional Engineers and the North Dakota Academy of Science.

Side Line Observations

BY BILL DAHLQUIST

Crop prospects in the overall area are not as bright as they were a month ago. We needed rain but not the almost uninterrupted showers we have been getting now for several weeks. We were too hopeful.

Across the line in Canada the harvest has been more backward, and W. J. Parker, president of the Manitoba Pool Elevators, is quoted by the Winnipeg Tribune to the effect that Western Canadian wheat farmers could lose as much as $100 million if the present unfavorable conditions continue. Two-thirds of the wheat crop has yet to be threshed. The farmers are losing in two ways—in weight and grade, he said.

This has been a year of freakish weather with too much moisture at both the beginning and end of the growing season.

Richard L. Strout, reporting from Washington for the Christian Science Monitor, states that the cry, 'Congress go home'' is beginning to rise in the national Capitol. Strout reports:

"The cry may rise higher as appropriation bills follow initial legislation.

"Congress acts in a one-two manner: first it passes a law like the enlarged "war-on-poverty" or medicare. Later it brings in the appropriation bills putting a price tag on them. That stage is about reached.

'Time for Congress to rest'' says an editorial in the Scripps-Howard chain of newspapers.

"Congress goes on law-making binge" is the headline over a syndicated column by Richard Wilson.'

Silverless silver coins are now going into production and they will soon be in circulation. The 25-cent pieces are now being minted. The new half dollar will be in production by November 1 and the dimes by December 15. There will be a little silver in the half dollar as I understand it. And so we debase the currency again. How long will it be before we have iron bucks, and why not. Our currency no longer represents real value in itself.

"We mass-produce almost everything in this country—except character."

No mention was made of the company's own products or services. The ad had nothing to sell. But it did convey an appeal for better citizenship and a clearer understanding of our responsibilities to the nation. Here it is.

"It used to be that when you wanted something, you worked to earn it. Now you stage a riot to get it given to you at someone else's expense.

"If your father or grandfather lost his job, he took whatever work he could get, and he went (probably walked miles) to where there was work—any honest work—being done. Now hordes of relief "clients" refuse a job unless it is to their liking, and they demand the job be brought to them in their comunity.

"This nation was built by immigrants (beginning in the 1800's and earlier) who struggled here for opportunity, and would have scorned the false idea of "something for nothing". Now it seems to be an almost universal (and all too-often the only) ambition.

"It used to take a lifetime of gruelling work and scrimping for a family or a country to earn a little surplus, a taste of security. Now mobs of stupid "students" and whole "emerging nations" demand they be given it, out of your earnings and with no effort on their part.

"Minority groups all over the earth seem to think the world owes them everything they want. So vicious destructiveness makes necessary higher taxes to pay for more police to protect decent citizens; higher taxes for playgrounds and parks which hoodlums promptly make unsafe; higher taxes for schooling for gangs who don't seem to want or are unable to be educated. The minority groups whose rights no one seems to consider are the taxpayers and decent citizens—who may have been pampering evil too long."

Two interesting elections are now under way, two elections that we can watch with much interest and without becoming involved, I hope, in a partisan manner. Our friends across the line in Canada will go to the polls on November 8 to elect a new government or restore the old one to power. And in Germany Willie Brandt is seeking to replace the veteran Chancellor Ludwig Erhard.

Both of these elections are expected to be comparatively peaceful by our standards and it isn't likely that we will become involved in any of the arguments. We might learn a few things from both nations on how to settle our differences calmly and with a minimum of personal abuse.

Our war in Vietnam is now costing us an estimated $4 million a day. President Johnson has asked Congress for an additional $1.7 billion and it is estimated that before the skirmishing is over the total cost will add an additional $10 billion to defense spending. All of which prompted the following observations by the Wall Street Journal:

"It is not our purpose to question the need for increased outlays, although it is interesting to speculate in passing why the Defense Department, which has been spending around $50 billion a year for many years, is apparently short of so many items. What concerns us more at the moment, and we think ought to concern the nation, is the shortage of dollars in the U.S. Treasury.

"The Government has run exactly one small budget surplus in nearly a decade of fiscal years since 1957, all the rest being deficits. It was in the red for the fiscal year ended last June 30; it expected to be in the red in the current 1966 fiscal year even before plans were made for the intensified war effort."

According to the New York Herald Tribune, labor unions have grown so strong that they have a virtual stranglehold on every major sector of the economy. But it is hopeful that strikes have become too costly a method of settling labor disputes and for this reason will be used less and less as time goes on. It concludes:

"For the central fact about large-scale strikes today is that they cannot be directed against a pinpoint target, the employer; they necessarily are the economic equivalent of the indiscriminate bombing of population centers. The fact that their impact on innocent third parties has not exercised any very noticeable restraint on the leaders of organized labor suggests that the search for an alternative to the strike as a bargaining lever is going to have to be taken over by others."

In a year of discouraging crops in general it might not be out of order to point up the fact that the apple harvest in our comunity, relatively unimportant, is unusually abundant this year. Several samples that prove this abundance have been brought to my desk and, if I were fond of apples, my food cost would have shrunk materially this past week.

One platefull of three varieties was contributed by Lloyd Spray with the report that "the tree with the large apples has yielded 30 bushels this year, a whitney crabapple tree yielded between three and four bushels and "The other tree" with a fruit that resembles a winesap yielded about a half a bushel.

Another contributor, Florian Szymanski, brought in a three-foot branch loaded with crab apples of which by count there were more than 30 apples. The apple crop is unusually good this year.

"Beware of the man who campaigns on the grounds that he is of the masses and is ardently sympathetic to their needs. His vision is much too apt to embrace only votes, and to be too narrow to encompass solutions to vexing problems. We desperately need men who have, by their own efforts, risen superior to the restriction of environment and circumstance, to become outstanding in their particular field. And note carefully that such men are never ordinary but extraordinary." —Ralph T. Moore

The Spoils System

"To the victors belong the spoils" is the slogan which has been advanced by conquering armies through the centuries. It basically means that when you have gained a position of power that you are entitled to take what you can get without regard for those whom you have defeated.

The system also applies to the political wars, where the victorious party provides for itself at the expense of others. Sometimes this is called political patronage, but the means and the effect are the same as the old spoils system. All parties practice it when possible and complain about it when not possible.

Take, for instance, the situation which has recently been brought to light in the postal department. This department offered jobs for youths during the summer as part of the much-heralded "anti-poverty" program. It seems that a number of these jobs were filled by relatives of politicians and that many of these were hardly from families in dire financial straits.

Postmaster General John A. Gronouski at first refused to list the names of the recipients of these jobs, stating that such information is restricted by postal regulations. This was legally right, although the origin of the regulation and its total intent are not known.

Later, Gronouski changed his attitude slightly. He authorized postmasters to release the names of summer employees who had since left their jobs to return to school or elsewhere. This meant that anyone wanting to check the charges of nepotism (or call it political patronage or the spoils system) would have to check with each of the thousands of postmasters in the nation. Not wishing to pass up an opportunity, the Republican party has apparently done some checking.

Contrary to what DFL chairman George Farr said about the Minnesota congressmen not being involved, Mrs. Mark Bratanas, Republican state chairwoman, has other information.

"The release of post office appointment lists reveal that Rep. Alex G. Olson of the sixth congressional district found summer post office jobs for his nephew and the son of Kandiyohi county DFL chairman, George E. Hulstrand," Mrs. Bratanas said. "Olson's nephew has said his family isn't poor and Mr. Hulstrand is a highly successful attorney so neither youth can qualify for anti-poverty aid. Under those circumstances, the appointments must be political."

Mrs. Bratanas also referred to the appointment of Congressman John Blatnik's brother Frank as postmaster at Duluth—a five-figure job which is somewhat out of the poverty class.

This makes an interesting chapter in the story of politics and poverty. It is also an illustration of how the spoils system is still in use in today's complex society.

It Gets Complicated

The more a person learns about the milk price controversy which has been constantly in the news during the past few weeks, the more he finds out how little he really knows. When one begins to consider prices quoted, top and bottom scales, blend prices, converting hundredweight to quarts and gallons, transportation costs, butterfat percentages, retail costs, retail prices, supply and demand and numerous other factors, it gets complicated.

In fact, we begin to wonder how many people really know how they are paid for their production or what they pay for in a container of milk on the counter.

This area, and most rural areas, are liberally supplied with cooperatives organized to serve a particular purpose. The REA cooperatives sell electric power; other cooperatives sell petroleum supplies, machinery and related items; still other cooperatives market the produce of the farmer.

Creameries, elevators and shipping associations are among the cooperatives that market produce for the farmer. Their prices paid to the farmer member are determined by the price they can receive on the market, less the costs of marketing the product. If the venture is profitable—and most cooperatives in the area have shown annual profits—dividends are paid out of the profits made. This—in simplified form—is the basic economic situation for a cooperative.

This is one reason why it is difficult to understand the animosity which some dairy producers have shown toward Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc. They are—in all reality—slapping their own wrists by condemning activities of the cooperative. It is our belief that much of this results from misunderstanding.

While we sympathize with the farmer who is greatly hampered in attempting to get a profitable price for his product, we also realize that there are extenuating circumstances, particularly in the case of milk. and powdered. To be used in fluid form, it stored for any length of time unless dried and powered. To be used in fluid form, it must be collected, processed, packaged and placed on immediate sale.

We believe there is also confusion on price paid. Prices for one class of milk can be artificially set, price on another class lowered and a blend price held constant. Trucking charges also vary, as do prices paid in various areas. At Thief River Falls, for instance, most of the milk processed here must be marketed out of the area. We would imagine that about 10 fair-sized producers would be all that are needed to supply the city of Thief River Falls on a daily basis.

There is another point on price—comparing highest and lowest—that can be illustrated by a different example:

Two competitive barber shops in the good old days displayed their prices in the window. One offered haircuts for 25 cents and shaves for 10 cents. The other offered haircuts for 20 cents and shaves for 15 cents. A price-conscious man got his hair cut for 20 cents at one shop—saving a nickel—and a shave for 10 cents at the other shop—saving a nickel—for an apparent saving of 10 cents. Yet he paid 30 cents for the shave and haircut when he could have received both at either shop for 35 cents. His saving was less than he believed it should be.

It would be simple if the processor could raise the price to the farmer and to the retailer and the retailer could pass the increase along to the consumer—with the consumer using the same amount of milk as in the past. But again things get complicated. Milk sales are highly competitive, for milk not sold is useless. Offered a comparable product, the retailer and the consumer will naturally buy the product that sells for the lowest price.

Operating efficiency at the processor level is a key to keeping processing costs and wholesale price low. This is one phase in which Land O'Lakes excels. We don't think it deserves the criticism it has been given recently. In a marketing cooperative, the middleman is the producer himself.

A Running Start

With an enrollment far above first year expectations, the new junior college in Thief River Falls is off to a running start. Classes began Monday with an initial enrollment of 159 students, considerably in excess of the 100 figure which was orginially projected when the college was first taking enrollment applications.

It must also be noted that this enrollment was obtained largely without a recruitment campaign, and that a dean for the school was not appointed until a short time before classes were scheduled to begin. Dean Charles White had a huge job on his hands, but has come through the first shock wave in admirable fashion.

We must also note that this year's enrollment is for a freshman class only in a two-year program. We would not be greatly surprised if next year brings approximately twice the present enrollment. This year's freshmen will be in their second year next fall and a new freshman class will invade the school. Facilities for the school will then be operating at near capacity in the temporary quarters available to the school.

Value of the junior college to the area is additionally demonstrated in the number of adults enrolled for credit. Many of these were unable to go on to college upon high school graduation because of financial difficulties, but location of the college here affords them the opportunity to further their education while living at home and even holding employment in the area.

Response to the college program here should indicate to the next session of the Minnesota legislature that there is justification for establishing a campus in this community. Allocation of funds and construction of permanent buildings on a campus would give the school a separate identity and further encourage enrollment. At any rate, however, the college is off to a running start and the outcome of the race looks good.

Your Minnesota Hostess

Ladies interested in taking on what was formerly considered "men's work" might survey the career of Karen Austin, Azuza, California. She's a 37-year-old grandmother, a competent secretary—and a beer taster! In the seven years she has had this job at a California brewery, Karen claims she hasn't gained extra weight. But she has gained a fine sense of taste and, as she puts it, "You can't beat these working conditions!"

Standing for Beer

A Fleet Street, London newspaper correspondent reported, "The British stand up sometimes for a woman—but always for beer!" "Foreigners," he continued, "are fascinated by the strange British custom of drinking beer while standing up. Everywhere else in the world, outside a British pub, patrons sit down while they drink. It is all very earnest. But then, beer is an earnest drink."

Franks, Kraut and Caraway

As fresh Autumn breezes arrive, this supper dish is sure to please. Combine one can of drained sauerkraut with 1½ cups beer and 1 tsp. caraway seed. Cover, simmer 20 minutes, and serve with steamed frankfurters. Or put kraut, beer and caraway in a casserole, place franks on top and bake 20 minutes at 375 degrees . . . and send for my free cookbook.
